WHEN man came first out of the hands of the great Creator, clothed in body as well as in foul, with immortality and incorruption, there was no place for physic, or the art of healing. As he knew no fin, fo he knew no pain, no ficknefs, weaknefs, or bodily diforder. The habitation, wherein the angelic mind, the Divinæ Particula Auræ abode, although originally formed out of the dust of the earth, was liable to no decay. It had no feeds of corruption or diffolution within itfelf. And there was nothing without to injure it : heaven and earth and all the hofts of them were mild, benign and friendly to human nature. The entire creation was at peace with man, fo long as man was at peace with his Creator. So that well might the morning-flars fing together, and all the fons of GOD fhout for joy.

2. But fince man rebelled against the Sovereign of heaven and earth, how entirely is the fcene changed! The incorruptible frame hath put on corruption, the immortal has put on mortality. The feeds of weakness and pain, of fickness and death, are now lodged in our inmost substance; whence a thousand diforders continually spring, even without the aid of external violence. And how is the number of these increased by every thing round about about us? The heavens, the earth, and all things contained therein, confpire to punifh the rebels against their Creator. The fun and moon's fhed unwholesome influences from above; the earth exhales poisonous damps from beneath: the beass of the field, the birds of the air, the fisses of the fea, are in a state of hostility: the air itself, that furrounds us on every fide, is replete with the staffs of death: yea, the food we eat, daily staps the foundation of that life which cannot be fussioned without it. So has the Lord of all fecured the execution of his decree,—" Dust thou art, and unto dust thou shalt return."

g. But can there nothing be found to leffen those inconveniences, which cannot be wholly removed? to fosten the evils of life, and prevent in part the fickness and pain to which we are continually expofed? Without quefion there may. One grand preventative of pain and fickness of various kinds, feems iniimated by the grand Author of Nature in the very fentence that intails death upon us : " In the fweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return to the ground." The power of exercise, both to preferve and reftore health, is greater than can well be conceived : especially in those who add temperance thereto; who if they do not confine themselves altogether to eat either " Bread or the herb of the Field," (which God does not require them to do) yet fleadily observe both that kind and measure of food, which experience shews to be moft friendly to health and ftrength.

4. 'Tis

4. 'Tis probable, Physic as well as Religion, was in the first ages chiefly traditional : every father de livering down to his fons, what he had himfelf in like manner received, concerning the manner of healing both outward hurts and the difeafes incident to each climate, and the medicines which were of the greatest efficacy for the cure of each diforder. 'Tis certain, this is the method wherein the art of healing is preferved among the Americans to this day. Their difeafes indeed are exceeding few; nor do they often occur by reason of their continual exercife, and (till of late) universal temperance. But if any are fick, or bit by a ferpent, or torn by a wild beaft, the fathers immediately tell their children what remedy to apply. And 'tis rare, that the patient fuffers long; those medicines being quick, as well as generally, infallible.

5. Hence it was, perhaps, that the Ancients, not only of Greece and Rome, but even of barbarous nations, utually affigned phyfic a divine original. And indeed it was a natural thought, That HE who had taught it to the very beafts and birds, the Cretan Stag, the Explian Ibis, could not be wanting to teach man.

Sancti us his Animal, mentifque capacius altæ:

Yea, fomctimes even by those meaner creatures: for it was easy to infer, " If this will heal that creature, whole flefh is nearly of the fame texture with mine, then in a parallel cafe it will heal me." The

Λ 3

The trial was made: the cure was wrought: and Experience and Phylic grew up together.

6. And has not the Author of Nature taught us the use of many other medicines, by what is vulgarly termed Accident? Thus one walking fome years fince in a grove of pines, at a time when many in the neighbouring town were afflicted with a kind of new diftemper, little fores in the infide of the mouth, a drop of the natural gum fell from one of the trees on the book which he was reading. This he took up, and thoughtlesly applied to one of those fore places. Finding the pain immediately cease, he applied it to another, which was also prefently healed. The fame remedy he afterwards imparted to others, and it did not fail to heal any that applied it. And doubtless numberless remedies have been thus cafually difcovered in every age and nation.

7. Thus far phyfic was wholly founded on experiment. The European, as well as the American, faid to his neighbour, Are you fick? Drink the juice of this herb, and your ficknefs will be at an end. Are you in a burning heat? Leap into that river, and then fweat till you are well. Has the fnake bitten you? Chew and apply that root, and the poifon will not hurt you. Thus ancient men, having a little experience joined with common fenfe, and common humanity, cured both themfelves and their neighbours of moft of the diftempers, to which every nation was fubjeft.

8. But in procefs of time, men of a philosophical turn were not fatisfied with this. They began to enquire enquire how they might account for these things? How such Medicines wrought such effects? They examined the human body, and all its parts; the nature of the flesh, veins, arteries, nerves; the fkructure of the brain, heart, lungs, stomach, bowels; with the springs of the several kinds of animal functions. They explored the several kinds of animal and mineral, as well as vegetable substances. And hence the whole order of physic, which had obtained to that time, came gradually to be inverted. Men of learning began to set experience associated to the several the several the form theories of discases and their cure, and to substitute these in the place of experiments.

9. As theories increased, fimple medicines were more and more difregarded and difused: till in a course of years, the greater part of them were forgotten, at least in the politer nations. In the room of these, abundance of new ones were introduced by reasoning, speculative men: and those more and more difficult to be applied, as being more remote from common observation. Hence rules for the application of these, and medical books were immensively multiplied; till at length physic became an abstruss ficience, quite out of the seach of ordimary men.

10. Phyficians now began to be had in admiration, as perfons who were fomething more than human. And profit attended their employ, as well as honour; fo that they had now two weighty reafons for keep ing the bulk of mankind at a diftance, that they might not pry into the mysteries of the profession. To this end, they increased those difficulties by defign, which began in a manner by accident. They filled their writings with abundance of technical terms, utterly unintelligible to plain men. They affected to deliver their rules, and to reason upon them, in an abstrufe and philosophical manner. They represented the critical knowledge of Anatomy, Natural Philosophy (and what not? Some of them infifting on that of Aftronomy, and Aftrology too) as necessarily previous to the understanding the art of healing. Those who underflood only, how to reflore the fick to health, they branded with the name of Empirics. They introduced into practice abundance of compound medicines, confifting of fo many ingredients, that it was fcarce poffible for common people to know which it was that wrought the cure: abundance of exotics, neither the nature nor names of which their own countrymen understood: of chymicals, fuch as they neither had fkill, nor fortune, nor time to prepare : yea, and of dangerous ones, fuch as they could not use, without hazarding life, but by the advice of a physician. And thus both their honour and gain were fecured, a vaft majority of mankind being utterly cut off from helping either themfelves or their neighbours, or once daring to attempt it.

11. Yet there have not been wanting, from time to time, fome lovers of mankind, who have endeavoured voured (even contrary to their own interest) to reduce physic to its ancient standard : who have laboured to explode out of all the hypotheses, and fine fpun theories, and to make it a plain intelligible thing, as it was in the beginning: having no more mystery in it than this, " Such a medicine removes fuch a pain." These have demonstrably shewn, That neither the knowledge of Aftrology, Aftronomy, Natural Philolophy, nor even Anatomy itfelf, is absolutely necessary to the quick and effectual cure of most diseases incident to human bodies: nor yet any chymical, or exotic, or compound medicine, but a fingle plant or root duly applied. So that every man of common fense (unless in fome rare cafes) may prefcribe either to himfelf or his neighbour; and may be very fecure from doing harm, even where he can do no good.

12. Even in the laft age there was fomething of this kind done, particularly by the great and good Dr. Sydenham: and in the prefent, by his pupil Dr. Dover, who has pointed out fimple medicines for many difeafes. And fome fuch may be found in the writings of the learned and ingenious Dr. Cheyne: who doubtlefs would have communicated many more to the world, but for the melancholy reafon he gave one of his friends, that preft him with fome paffages in his works, which too much countenanced the modern practice, "O Sir, we muft do fomething to oblige the Faculty, or they will tear us in pieces."

13. Without

13. Without any regard to this, without any concern about the obliging or difobliging any man living, a mean hand has made here fome little atempt, towards a plain and eafy way of curing moft difeafes. I have only confulted herein, Experience, Common Senfe, and the common Intereft of Mankind. And fuppofing they can be cured this eafy way, who would defire to use any other? Who would not wish to have a Phyfician always in his house, and one that attends without fee or reward? To be able (unlefs in fome few complicated cafes) to preferibe to his family, as well as himfelf?

14. If it be faid, but what need is there of fuch attempt? I anfwer, the greatest that can possibly be conceived. Is it not needful in the highest degree, to refcue men from the jaws of destruction? From wasting their fortunes, as thousands have done, and continue to do daily? From pining away in fickness and pain, either through the ignorance or distoresty of Physicians? Yea, and many times throwing away their lives, after their health, time and fubstance?

Is it enquired, but are there not books enough already, on every part of the art of medicine? Yes, too many ten times over, confidering how little to the purpofe the far greater part of them fpeak. But befide this, they are too dear for poor men to buy, and too hard for plain men to underftand. Do you fay, "But there are enough of these collections of Receipts." Where? I have not feen feen one yet, either in our own or any other tongue, which contains only fafe, and cheap, and eafy medicines. In all that have yet fallen into my hand, I find many dear and many far-fetched medicines: befides many of fo dangerous a kind, as a prudent man would never meddle with. And against the greater part of those medicines there is a further objection : they confift of too many ingredients. The common method of compounding and de-compounding medicines, can never be reconciled to Common Senfe. Experience fhews, that one thing will cure most diforders, at least as well as twenty put together. Then why do you add the other nineteen? Only to fwell the Apothecary's bill : nay, possibly, on purpose to prolong the diftemper, that the Doctor and he may divide the fpoil.

But admitting there is fome quality in the medicine propoled which has need to be corrected; will not one thing correct it as well as twenty? It is probable, much better. And if not, there is a fufficiency of other medicines, which need no fuch correction.

How often, by thus compounding medicines of opposite qualities, is the virtue of both utterly deftroyed? Nay, how often do those joined together destroy life, which fingle, might have preferved it? This occasioned that caution of the great Boerhave, against mixing things without evident necessfity, and without full proof of the effect they will groduce when joined together, as well as of that they produced when asunder; seeing (as he observes) feveral feveral things, which feparately taken, are fafe and powerful medicines, when compounded, not only lofe their former powers, but commence a ftrong and deadly poifon.

15. As to the manner of using the medicines here fet down, I should advise, As soon as you know your distemper, (which is very eafy, unlefs in a complication of diforders, and then you would do well to apply to a Phylician that fears God :) Firft use the first of the remedies for that disease which occurs in the enfuing collection; (unlefs fome other of them be easier to be had, and then it may do just as well.) Secondly, After a competent time. if it takes no effect, use the second, the third, and fo on. I have purposely fet down (in most cafes) feveral remedies for each diforder; not only becaufe all are not equally eafy to be procured at all times, and in all places: but likewife becaufe the medicine which cures one man, will not always cure another of the fame diftemper. Nor will it cure the fame man at all times. Therefore it was neccifary to have a variety. However, I have fubjoined the letter (I) to those medicines which fome think to be Infallible .-... Thirdly, Observe all the time the greatest exactnels in your regimen, or manner of living. Abstain from all mixed, all high-feasoned food. Use plain diet, easy of digestion; and this as sparingly as you can, consistent with eafe and ftrength. Drink only water, if it agrees with your ftomach; if not, good clear, fmall bear. Use as much exercise daily in the open air, as you can without wearinefs. Sup at Six or Seven

Seven, on the lightest food: go to bed early, and rife betimes. To perfevere with steadines in this course, is often more than half the cure. Above all, add to the rest, (for it is not labour loss) that old unfashionable Medicine, Prayer. And have faith in God who "killeth and maketh alive, who bringeth down to the grave, and bringeth up."

16. For the fake of those who desire, through the bleffing of God, to retain the health which they have recovered, I have added a few plain, easy Rules, chiefly transcribed from Dr. Cheyne.

I. 1. The air we breathe is of great confequence to our health. Thole who have been long abroad in Easterly or Northerly winds, should drink fome thin and warm Liquor going to bed, or a draught of toast and water.

2. Tender people fhould have those who lie with them, or are much about them, found, fweet, and healthy.

3. Every one that would preferve health, fhould be as clean and fweet as poffible in their houfes, clothes and furniture.

II. 1. The great rule of cating and drinking, is, To fuit the quality and quantity of the food to the Arength of our digeftion; to take always fuch a fort and fuch a measure of food, as fits light and eafy on the ftomach.

2. All pickled, or imoaked, or falted-food, and all high-leafoned is unwholefome.

3. Nothing

( xiv )

3. Nothing conduces more to health, than abstinence and plain food, with due labour.

4. For fludious perfons, about eight ounces of animal food, and twelve of vegetable in twentyfour hours is fufficient.

5. Water is the wholefomeft of all drinks; quickens the appetite, and ftrengthens the digeftion moft.

6. Strong, and more efpecially fpiritous liquors, are a certain, though flow, poifon.

7. Experience fnews, there is very feldom any danger in leaving them off all at once.

8. Strong liquors do not prevent the mifchiefs of a furfeit, nor carry it off fo fafely as water.

9. Malt liquors (except clear, fmall beer, or fmall ale, of due age) are exceeding hurtful to tender perfons.

10. Coffee and tea are extremely hurtful to perfons who have weak nerves.

III. 1. Tender perfons fhould eat very light fuppers; and that two or three hours before going to bed.

2. They ought conftantly to go to bed about nine, and rife at four or five.

IV. 1. A due degree to exercife is indifpenfably necessary to health and long life.

2. Walking is the beft exercise for those who are able to bear it; riding for those who are not. The open air, when the weather is fair, contributes much to the benefit of exercise.

3. We

3. We may firengthen any weak part of the body by conftant exercise. Thus the lungs may be firengthened by loud speaking, or walking up an easy ascent; the digestion and the nerves, by riding; the arms and hams, by firongly rubbing them daily.

4. The fludious ought to have flated times for exercise, at least two or three hours a-day: the one half of this before dinner, the other before going to bed.

5. They should frequently shave, and frequently wash their feet.

6. Those who read or write much, faould learn to do it ftanding; otherwise it will impair their health.

7. The fewer clothes any one uses, by day or night, the hardier he will be.

8. Exercife, first, should be always on an empty fhomach; fecondly, should never be continued to wearines; thirdly, after it, we should take care to cool by degrees: otherwife we shall catch cold. 9. The sheft brush is a most useful exercise, especially to ftrengthen any part that is weak.

10. Cold-bathing is of great advantage to health: It prevents abundance of difeafes. It promotes perfpiration, helps the circulation of the blood, and prevents the danger of catching cold. Tender people fhould pour water upon the head before they go in, and walk in fwiftly. To jump in with the head foremost, is too great a flock to nature,

V. 1. Coffive-

V. 1. Costiveness cannot long consist with health. Therfore care should be taken to remove it at the beginning: and when it is removed, to prevent its return, by fost, cool, open diet.

2. Obstructed perspiration (vulgarly called catching cold) is one great fource of difeases. Whenever there appears the least sign of this, let it be removed by gentle sweats.

VI. 1. The paffions have a greater influence on health, than most people are aware of.

2. All violent and fudden paffions dispose to, or actually throw people into acute diseases.

3. The flow and lafting paffions, fuch as grief and hopelefs love, bring on chronical difeafes.

4. Till the paffion, which cauled the disease, is calmed, medicine is applied in vain.

5. The love of God, as it is the fovereign remedy of all miferies, fo in particular it effectually prevents all the bodily diforders the paffions introduce, by keeping the paffions themfelves within due bounds. And by the unspeakable joy and perfect calm, ferenity, and tranquility it gives the mind, it becomes the most powerful of all the means of health and long life.

POSTSCRIPT.

POSTSCRIPT.

1. IT was a great furprife to the Editor of the following Collection, that there was fo fwift and large a demand for it; that three imprefiions were called for in four or five years; and that it was not only re-publifhed by the Bookfellers of a neighbouring nation; but alfo inferted by parts in their public papers, and fopropagated through the whole kingdom. This encouraged him carefully to revife the whole, and to publifh it again, with feveral alterations, which it is hoped may make it of greater ufe to thofe who love common fenfe and common honefty.

2. Those alterations are still in purfuance of my first defign, to fet down cheap, fafe, and easy medicines; easy to be known, easy to be procured, and easy to be applied by plain, unlettered men. Accordingly, I have omitted a confiderable number, which though cheap and fafe, were not fo common or well known; and have added at least an equal number, to which that objection cannot be made : which are not only of small price, and extremely fafe, but likewise easily to be found, if not in every house or yard, yet in every town, and almost every village throughout the kingdom,

3. It is becaufe they are not fafe, but extremely dangerous, that I have omitted (together with Antimony) the four Herculean medicines, Opium*, the Bark*, Steel*, and most of the preparations of Quickfilver. Herculean indeed! Far too ftrong for common men to grapple with. How many fatal effects have these produced, even in the hands of no ordinary Physicians! With regard to four of these, the inftances are glaring and undeniable. And whereas Quickfilver, the fifth, is in its native form as innocent as bread or water: has not the art been discovered, so to prepare it, as to make it the most deadly of all poisons? These, Physicians have justly termed edged Tools. But they have not yet taught them to wound at a distance: and honess men are under no necessity of touching them, or coming within their reach.

4. Inftead of thefe, I have once more ventured to recommend to men of plain, unbiaffed reafon, fuch remedies as air, water, milk, whey, honey, treacle, falt, vinegar, and common English herbs, with a few foreign medicines, almost equally cheap, fafe and common. And this I have done on that principle, whereby I defire to be governed in all my actions, "What foever ye would that men fhould do unto you, the fame do unto them."

5. At the request of many perfons, I have likewife added plain definitions of most diftempers; not indeed accurate or philosophical definitions, but such as are suited to men of ordinary capacities, and as may just enable them, in common simple cases, to diftinguish one difease from another. In uncommon or complicated difeases, where life is more immediately in danger, I again advise every man without delay to apply to a Physician that fears God.

London, Nov. 10, 1760. D<sup>URING</sup> the obfervation and experience of more than five years, which have paffed fince the laft imprefion of this Tract, I have had many opportunities of trying the virtues of the enfuing Remedies. And I have now added the word Tried to those which I have found to be of the greatest efficacy. I believe many others to be of equal virtue: but it has not lain in my way to make the trial.

In this course of time I have likewise had occasion to collect several other Remedies, tried either by myself or others, which are inferted under their proper heads. Some of these I have found to be of uncommon virtue, equal to any of those which were before published: and one, I must aver, from personal knowledge, grounded on a thousand experiments, to be far superior to all the other medicines I have known; I mean Electricity. I cannot but intreat all those who are well-wishers to mankind, to make full proof of this. Certainly it comes the nearest an universal medicine, of any yet known in the world.

One grand advantage which most of these medicines have above those commonly used is this: you may be fure of having them good in their kind; pure, genuine, unsophisticate. But who can be fure of this, when the medicines he uses are compounded by an Apothecary? Perhaps he has not the drug prescribed by the Physician, and so puts in its place what will do as well." Perhaps he has it; but it is ftale and perifhed : yet "you would not have him throw it away. Indeed he cannot afford it." Perhaps he cannot afford to make up the medicine as the Difpenfatory directs, and fell it at the common price. So he puts in cheaper ingredients: and you take neither you nor the Phyfician knows what! How many inconveniencies muft this occafion ! How many conflitutions are ruined hereby! How many valuable lives are loft! Whereas all thefe inconveniencies may be prevented, by a little care and common fenfe, in the ufe of thofe plain, fimple Remedies, which are here collected.

Otley, April 20, 1780. CINCE the last Correction of this Tract, near twenty years ago, abundance of Objections have been made to feveral parts of it. Thefe I have confidered with all the attention which I was master of: and in confequence hereof, have now omitted many Articles, and altered many others. I have likewife added a confiderable number of Medicines, feveral of which have been but lately discovered: and feveral (although they had been long in use) I had never tried before. But I still advise, " in complicated cases, or where life is in immediate danger, let every one apply without delay, to a Phyfician that fears God." From one who does not, be his fame ever fo great, I should expect a curfe rather than a bleffing.

- 1. W OMEN of a weak or relaxed habit fhould use folid. Food, avoiding great Quantities of Tea, and other weak, and watery Liquors. They should go foon to bed, and rife early; and take frequent Exercise, but avoid being over-fatigued.
- a. If of a full Habit, they ought to use a space Diet, and chiefly of the vegetable Kind, avoiding strong Liquors, and every thing that may tend to heat the Body, or increase the Quantity of Blood.
- In the first Case, take daily half a Pint of Decoction of Lignam Guaidcum; boiling an Ounce of it in a Quart of Water for five Minutes.
- In the latter Cafe, give half a Drachm of powdered Nitre, in a Cup of Water-Gruel, every five or fix Hours: in both Cafes the thould fleep on a hard Mattrefs with her head low, and be kept cool and quiet.

2. For an Ague.*

g. Go into the Cold-Bath just before the cold Fit.
An Ague is, An Intermitting Fever, each Fit of which is preceded by a cold Shivering, and goes off in a Sweat.

🕼 Nothing

- Br Nothing tends more to prolong an Ague, than indulging a lazy indolent Disposition. The Patient ought therefore between the Fits to take as much Exercife as he can bear ; and to use a light Diet, and for common drink, Lemonade is the most proper.
  - When all other Means fail, give blue Vitriol, from one Grain to two Grains, in the absence of the Fit; and repeat it three or four times in twentyfour hours :
- A. Or, take a Handful of Groundfell, fhred it fmall, put it into a Paper-Bag, four Inches square, pricking that fide which is to be next the Skin full of Holes. Cover this with a thin Linen. and wear it on the Pit of the Stomach, renewing it two Hours before the Fit: Tried.
- 5. Or, apply to the Stomach, a large Onion flit: 5. Or, melt two-penny worth of Frankintenfe, fpread it on Linen, grate a Nutmeg upon it, cover it with Linen, and hang this Bag on the Pit of the Stomach.-I have never yet known it fail :
- 7. Or, boil Yarrow in new Milk, till it is tender enough to fpread as a Plaister. An Hour before the cold Fit, apply this to the Wrists, and let it be on till the hot Fit is over. If another Fit comes, use a fresh Plaister.-This often cures a Quartan:
- 8. Or, drink a Quart of cold Water, just before the cold Fit. Then go to bed and fweat:
- 9. Or, make fix middling Bills of Cobwebs. Take one a little before the cold Fit: two a little before the next Fit; (fuppole the next Day:) the other three, if need be, a little before the third Fit. This feldom fails :---Or, put a Tea-spoonful of Salt of Tartar into a large Glafs of Spring Water, and drink it by little and little. Repeat the fame Dole the next two Days, before the time of the Fit :
- *10. Or, two small Tea spoonfuls of Sal Prunella, an hour before the Fit.-It commonly cures in thrice taking:

11, Or,

- 11. Or, a large Spoonful of powdered Camomile Flowers:
- •12. Or, a Tea-spoonful of Spirits of Hartshorn, in a Glass of Water.
- 13. Or, eat a small Lemon, Rind and all:
- 14. In the hot Fit, if violent, take eight or ten Drops of Laudanum : if coftive, in Hierapicra.
- 15. Dr. Lind fays, an Ague is certainly cured, by taking from ten to twenty Drops of Laudanum, with two Drachms of Syrup of Poppies in any warm Liquid, half an Hour after the Heat begins.
- It is proper to take a gentle Vomit, and fometimes
- a Purge, before you use any of these Medicines. If a Vomit is taken two Hours before the Fit is expected.
- it generally prevents that Fit, and fometimes cures an Ague: especially in Children.—It is alfo proper to repeat the Medicine (whatever it be) about a Week after, in order to prevent a Relapfe. Do not take any Purge foon after.—The daily use of the Flesh-Brush, and frequent cold Bathing are of great use to prevent Relaps.
- 16. Children have been cured by wearing a Waistcoat, in which Bark was quilted.

3. A Tertian Ague.*

- 17. Is often cured by taking a Purge one Day; and the next, bleeding in the beginning of the Fit:
- a8. Or, take a Tea-spoonful of Salt of Tartar in Spring-Water. This often cures double Tertians, triple Quartans, and long lasting Fevers: especially if Sona be premised twice or thrice:

20. Or, use the Cold-Bath. (Unless you are of an advanced Age, or extremely weak.) But when you use this, on any Account whatever, it is proper,

- 1. To bleed or purge, before you begin :
- 2. To go in cool; to immerge at once, but not head-foremoft; to flay in only two or three Minutes, or lefs, at first:
- 3. Never to bathe on a full Stomach :

the Fit. If possible, continue it till the Fit begins. This alone will frequently cure :-----Tried.

- 25. Or, apply to the Wrifts a Plaister of Turpentine: Or, of bruised Pepper, mixt with Treacle:
- 26. Or, apply Oil of Turpentine to the fmall of the Back, before the Fit.
- *27. For a Tertian or Quartan, vomit with ten Grains of Ipecacuanha an Hour before the cold Fit begins. Then go to Bed, and continue a large Sweat by Lemonade, (that is, Lemon, Sugar, and Water) for fix or eight Hours. This ufually cures in three or four times. If it does not, use the Cold-Bath between the Fits.
- 28. Or, take twenty grains of powdered Saffron before the Fit, in a Glafs of White Wine.

6. St. Anthony's Fire.*

- *29. Take a Glais of Tar-Water warm, in Bed, every Hour, washing the Part with the fame.
- *30. Or, take a Decoftion of Elder Leaves, as a Sweat: applying to the Part a Cloth dipt in Lime-Water, mixed with a little camphorated Spirits of Wine.
- Sime-Water is made thus.—Infuse a Pound of good quick Lime in fix Quarts of Spring-Water for twenty four Hours. Decant and keep it for Use.

• St. Anthony's Fire is a Fever attended with a red and painful Swelling, full of Pimples, which afterwards turn into fmall Bijlers, on the Face or fome other part of the Body. The fooner the Eruption is, the lefs danger. Let your Diet be only Water-Gruel, or Barley-Broth, with roafted Apples.

С

31. Or,

- 31. Or, take two or three gentle Purges.—No acute Fever bears repeated Purges better than this, especially when it affects the Head: mean time boil a Handful of Sage, two Handfuls of Elder Leaves (or Bark) and an Ounce of Alum in two Quarts of Forge Water, to a Pint. Wash with this every Night.—See Extract from Dr. Tiffot, page 104.
- 32. If the Pulfe be low, and the Spirits funk, nourifhing Broths and a little Negus may be given to advantage:
- 33. Or, let three Drachms of Nitre be diffolved in as much Elder-Flower Tea, as the Patient candrink in twenty-four Hours. If the difeafe attacks the Head, bleeding is neceffary.
- Dreffing the Inflammation with greafy Ointments, Salves, &c. is very improper.
- 34. Bathing the Feet and Legs in warm Water is ferviceable, and often relieves the Patient much. —In Scotland the common People cover the Part with a linen Cloth covered with Meal.

7. The Apoplexy.+

- 35. To prevent, use the Cold Bath, and drink only Water.
- *36. In the Fit, put a Handful of Salt into a Pint of cold Water, and if poffible, pour it down the Throat of the Patient. He will quickly come to himfelf. So will one who feems dead by a fall. But fend for a good Phyfician immediately.
- *37. If the Fit be foon after a Meal, do not bleed, but vomit.
- *38. Rub the Head, Feet, and Hands ftrongly, and let two ftrong Men carry the Patient upright, backward and forward about the Room.

+ An Apoplexy is, a total lofs of all Senfe, and voluntary Motion, commonly attended with a ftrong Pulfe, hard Breathing and Snorting.

- 39. A Seton in the Neck, with low Diet, has often prevented a Relapfe.—See Extract from Dr. Tiffot, page 53.
- There is a wide difference between the Sanguineous, and Serous Apoplexy: the latter is often followed by a Palfy.—The former is diffinguifhed by the Countenance appearing florid; the Face fwelled or puffed up; and the Blood-Veffels, efpecially about the Neck and Temples, are turgid; the Pulfe beats ftrong; the Eyes are prominent and fixed; and the Breathing is difficult, and performed with a Snorting. This invades more fuddenly than the Serous Apoplexy. Ufe large Bleedings, from the Arm, or Neck; bathe the Feet in warm Water; Cupping on the back of the Head, with deep Scarification. The Garters fhould be tied very tight to leffen the motion of the Blood from the lower Extremities.
  - A Scruple of Nitre may be given in Water, every three or four Hours.
  - When the Patient is fo far recovered as to be able to fwallow, let him take a ftrong Purge; but if this cannot be effected, a Glyster should be thrown up with plenty of fresh Butter, and a large Spoonful of common Salt in it.
  - In the Serous Apoplexy, the Pulle is not fo ftrong, the Countenance is lefs florid, and not attended with fo great a Difficulty of breathing. Here Bleeding is not fo neceffary, but a Vomit of three Grains of Emetic Tartar may be given, and afterwards a Purge as before, and the Powder of white Hellebore blown up the Nofe, &c.
  - (T This Apoplexy is generally preceded by an unufual Heavinefs, Giddinefs, and Drowfinefs.

- 48. For prefent Relief, vomit with a Quart or more of warm Water. The more you drink of it the better.
- I Do this whenever you find any motion to vomit ; and take care always to keep your Body open.

10. A Dry or Convultive Afthma.

- 49. Juice of Radifless relieves much: fo does a Cup of ftrong Coffee: or, Garlich, either raw, or preferved, or in Syrup:
- 50. Or, drink a Pint of new Milk Morning and. Evening.—This has cured an inveterate Afthma.
- *51. Or, beat fine Saffron fmall, and take eight or ten Grains every Night.—Tried.
- *52. Take from three to five Grains of Ipecaenanha every Morning; or from five to ten Grains every other Evening. Do this, if need be, for a Month or fix Weeks. Five Grains ufually vomit. In a violent Fit, take a Scruple inflantly.
- 53. In any Afthma, the best Drink is Apple-Water s that is, boiling Water poured on fliced Apples.
- 54. The Food fhould be light and eafy of digeflion. Ripe Fruits baked, boiled, or roafted, are very proper; but firong Liquors of all kinds, especially Beer or Ale are hurtful. If any Supper is taken, it fhould be very light.

55. All

- 55. All Diforders of the Breaft are much relieved by keeping the Feet warm, and promoting perfpiration. Exercife is allo of verygreatimportance; fo that the Patient fhould take as much every Day, as his firength will bear. Iffues are found, in general, to be of great fervice.
- 56. Dr. Smyth, in his FORMULE, recommends Muftard-Whey as common Drink, in the moift Afthma; and a Decoction of the Madder-Root, to promote fpitting.
- The Decoction is made thus.—Boil an Ounce of Madder, and two Drachms of Mace, in three Pints of Water, to two Pints, then ftrain it, and take a Tea-cupful three or four times a Day. But the most efficacious Medicine is the Quickfilver and Aqua Sulphurata, (as ART. 45.)—N. B. Where the latter cannot be got, ten Drops of Oil of Vitriol, in a large glafs of fpring-water, will answer the fame end.—I have known many Perfons greatly relieved, and fome cured, by taking as much Jallap every Morning as would lie on a Sixpence.

105. A Fever.

(In the beginning of any Fever, if the Stomach is -uneafy, vomit; if the Bowels, purge: if the Pulfe be hard, full or strong, bleed.)

- 332. Drink a Pint or two of cold Water lying down in Bed: I never knew it do hurt:
- 933. Or, a large Glafs of Tar-Water warm, every Hour:
- 834. Or, thin Water-Grael fweetened with Honey with one or two Drachms of Nitre in each Quart
- 335. IF The best of all Julaps in a Fever is this: Toast a large thin flice of Bread, without burning; put it hot into a Fint of cold Water; then fet it on the Fire till it is pretty hot. In a dry Heat it may be given cold; in a moist Heat, warm; the more largely the better: Tried.
- 336. Or, for a Change, use Pippin or Wood-Sorrel Tea: Or, Pippin-Whey: Or, Wood-Sorrel Whey.
- 337. (To prevent catching any infectious Fever, do not breathe near the Face of the fick Perfon, neither fwallow your Spittle while in the Room, Infection feizes the Stomach first.)
- 338. Or, ftamp, a Handful of Leaves of Woodbind; put fair Water to it, and use it cold as a Clyfter. It often cures in an Hour.
- 339. Or, fmear the Wrifts, five or fix Inches long with warm Treacle, and cover it with brown Paper.—See Dr. Tiffot.
- 340. Or, apply Treacle Plaifters to the Head and the Soles of the Feet, changing them every twelve Hours:

g41. Or, use Doctor Boerhaave's Fever-powder, viz. Eight Ounces of Nitre, a quarter of an Ounce of Camphire, half a quarter of an Ounce of Saffron, and eight Grains of Cochineal. These are to be powdered, mixt together, and kept dry in a Bottle. Ten Grains taken on going to Bed abate feverish Heat, and procure Rest. Ten Grains are to be taken every three or four Hours for a continued Fever.

106. A high Fever.

- 342. Attended with a Delirium and a Vigilia, has been cured by plunging into cold Water; which is a fafe and fure Remedy in the beginning of any Fever.
- 343. Such a Delirium is often cured by applying to the top of the Head, a Treacle Plaister: Tried.

107. An intermitting Fever.

- 344. Drink warm Lemonade in the beginning of every Fit: it cures in a few Days: Tried.
- 345. Or, take a Tea-spoonful of Oil of Sulphur in a Cup of Balm-Tea, once or twice a Day.

108. A Fever with Pains in the Limbs.

111. A Worm Fever.

350. Boil a Handful of Rue and Wormwood in Water; foment the Belly with the Decoction, and apply the boiled Herbs as a Poultice; repeat the Application Night and Morning. This frequently brings away Worms from Children, who will take no internal Medicine; and is likewife ferviceable, if the Fever be of the putrid Kind.

112. A Fistula.

- 351. Wash Muscle-shells clean; burn them to Powdos: fift them fine: mix them with Hogs-Lard; spread it on clean Wash-Leather, and apply it.
- This cured one that was thought to be at the point of Death.—___N. B. This cures the Piles.
- 352. Or, grind an Ounce of Mercury Sublimate, in a Glass Mortar, with a Glass Pestle, as fine as possible. Put it into a Glass Bottle, and pour on it two Quarts of pure Spring-Water. Cork it clofe, and for fix Days thake it well every Hour. Then let it fettle for twenty-four Hours. Pour it off clear; filter it in a Glass Funnel; and keep it for Ufe clofe ftopt. Put half a Spoonful of this Water in a Phial, and add two Spoonfuls of pure Spring-Water: fhake them well together. and drink it fasting. It works both by Vomit . and by Stool, but very fafely. Keep yourfelf very warm, and walk as much as you can. The first time neither eat nor drink till two Hours after it has done working. Take this every other Day. In forty Days this will also cure any Cancer, any old Sore, or King's Evil, broken or unbroken.-After the first or fecond Vomit, you may use Water-Gruel, as in other Vomits.
- Very Weak Perfons fhould not use this. But I have known it used fafely and fuccessfully.
- 353. Or, have a Veffel fo contrived, that you may fit with the Part in cold Water, a quarter of an will generally ceafe. Sometimes a flight Flooding comes on fome Weeks before Labour; and here, if the Patient be kept cool, her Diet light, and fmall Dofes of Nitre often repeated, (an Ounce divided into thirty Parts, and one given every four Hours,) fhe will frequently go her full time and do well: but if it should become exceffive, Delivery should be effected as foon as may be.

If a Flooding fhould come on after Delivery, the Patient should be laid with her head low, kept cool, and be in all respects treated, as for an exceffive flux of the Menfes. Linen Cloths, which have been wrung out of Vinegar and Water, fhould be applied to the Belly, the Loins, and the Thighs. These must be changed as they grow dry; and may be difcontinued as foon as the Flooding abates. Sometimes the following Mixture will do great things, viz. Pennyroyal-Water, fimple Cinnamon-Water, and Sirup of Poppies, of each two Ounces; acid Elixir of Vitriol one Drachm. Mix, and take two Table-Ipoonfuls every Hour. But large Dofes of Nitre given often (a Scruple every Hour,) is generally the most efficacious. But when all other Things feem to have no Effect, cold Water dashed upon the Patient's Belly, will ftop the Flooding immediately.

116. A Flux.

- 359. Receive the Smoke of Turpentine caft on burning Coals. This cures also the Bloody-rlux, and the Falling of the Fundament.
- 360. Or, put a large brown Toaft into three Quarts of Water, with a Drachm of Cochineal powdered, and a Drachm of Salt of Wormwood. Drink it all in as fhort a time as you conveniently can.

- 502. When the Nerves perform their office too languidly, a GOOD AIR is the first Requisite. The Patient also should rife early, and as soon as the Dew is off the Ground, walk : let his Breakfast be Mother of Thyme Tea, gathered in June, using half as much as we do of common Tea. When the Nerves are too fenfible, let the Perfon breathe a proper Air. Let him eat Veal, Chickens, or Mutton. Vegetables should be eat sparingly; the most innocent is the French Bean; and the best Root, the Turnip. Wine should be avoided carefully: fo fhould all Sauces. Sometimes he may breakfast upon a quarter of an Ounce of the Powder of Valerian Root infused in hot Water, to which he may add Cream and Sugar. Tea is mot proper. When the Perfon finds an uncommon Oppteffion, let him take a large Spoonful of the Tincture of Valerian Root.
  - This TinEure flould be made thus:—Cut to Pieces fix Ounces of wild Valerian-Root, gathered in June, and frefh dried. Bruife it by a few flrokes in a Mortar, that the Pieces may be fplit, but it flould not be beat into Powder: put this into a Quart of flrong white Wine: cork the Bottle and let it fland three Weeks, flaking it every Day; then prefs it out and filtre the TinEure through Paper.
  - N. B. The true, wild Valerian has no bad fmell: if it has, Cats have urined upon it, which they will do, if they can come at it.
- 503. But I am firmly perfuaded, there is no Remedy in Nature, for Nervous Diforders of every kind, comparable to the proper and constant ule of the Electrical Machine.

173. Violent Bleeding Piles.

336. Lightly boil Juice of Nettles, with a little Sugar: take two Ounces. It feldom needs repeating.

174. The Plague (to prevent.)

637. Eat Marigold Flowers daily, as a Sallad, with Oil and Vinegar :

538. Or,

- 538. Or, infufe Rue, Sage, Mint, Rofemary, Wormwood, of each a Handful, in two Quarts of the fharpeft Vinegar, over warm Embers for eight Days. Then ftrain it through a Flannel, and add half an Ounce of Camphire, diffolved in three Ounces of rectified Spirits of Wine. With this wash the Loins, Face, and Mouth, and fnuff a little up the Nofe when you go abroad. Smell to a Spunge dipt therein, when you approach infected Perfons or Places.
- N. B. This is the famous Marfeilles Vinegar.

175. The Plague (to cure.)

539. Cold Water alone, drank largely, has cured it: 540. Or, an Ounce or two of the Juice of Marigolds:

- 541.. Or, after bleeding fifty or fixty Ounces, drink very largely of Water fharpened with Spirit of Vitriol:
- 542. Or, a Draught of Brine as foon as feized: fweat in Bed; take no other Drink for fome Hours:

Or, use Lemon- Juice largely in every thing.

- The fhedding of the Teeth is wifely intended, and brought about in a fingular manner. Their Hardnefs will not admit of Diffension like other Parts of the Body. Hence after an enlargement of the Jaw-bone, the original Teeth are no longer able to fill up the Cavities of it. They must fland unsupported by each other, and leave spaces between them. Under the first Teeth therefore is placed a new Set, which by constantly pressing upon their roots, rob them of their Nourithment, and finally push them out of their Sockets.

Turlington's Balfam.

- Take of Balfam of Peru, Balfam of Tolu, Angelica-Root, and Calamus-Root, of each half an Ounce: Gum Storax in Tears, and Dragon's-Blood, of each one Ounce; Gum Benjamin, an Ounce and a half; Hepatic Aloes, and Frankincenfe, of each two Drachms: let the Roots be fliced thin, and the Gums bruifed; and put all the Ingredients into a Quart of Spirits of Wine; fet the Bottle by the Fire in a moderate heat for eight or ten Days, then ftrain it for Ufe.
- This is indeed a moft excellent Medicine, for Man, or Beaft, and for any fresh Wound. I know none like it.

Dr. James's Powders.

Inftead of giving half a Crown a Packet, for thefe Powders, you may at any Druggift's, get Dr. Hardwick's Fever-Powder, for a Shilling an Ounce, which, (if it be not the fame,) will anfwer just the fame End,

But in all Cafes where the Nerves are obfructed, (fuch as are those marked thus*) you should go to Bed immediately after, and sweat.

'Tis often neceffary to use the Hot Bath a few Days before you use the Cold.

Wife Parents should dip their Children in cold Water every Morning, till they are three quarters old : and afterwards their Hands and Feet.

Washing the Head every Morning in cold Water, prevents Rheums, and cures Coughs, old Head-Achs, and fore Eyes.

WATER DRINKING generally prevents

Apoplexies, Afthmas, Convultions, Gout, Hyfteric Fits, Madnefs, Palfies, Stone, Trembling.

To this Children flould be used from their Cradles.

The beft Water to drink, efpecially for those who are much troubled with the Wind, is Rain-Water. After it has fettled, draw it off clear into another Vessel, and it will keep fweet for a long Time.

Drawing Sparks removes thole Tumours on the Eye-Lids, called Barley-Corns, by exciting local Inflammation, and promoting Suppuration.

Nor have I yet known one fingle Inflance, wherein it has done Harm; fo that I cannot but doubt the Veracity of those who have affirmed the contrary. Dr. De Haen positively affirms, "it can do no Hurt in any Case:" that is, unless the Shock be immoderately strong.

Fafting-Spittle outwardly applied every Morning, has fometimes relieved, and fometimes cured
