SERMONI.

The Seed of the Woman, and the Seed of the Serpent,

GENESIS iii. 15.

And I will put Enmity between thee and the Woman, and between thy Seed and her Seed; it shall bruise thy Head, and thou shalt bruise his Heel.

N reading to you these words, I may address you in the language of the holy angels to the shepherds, that were watching their flocks by night; "Behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy." For this is the first promife that was made of a Saviour to the apoftate race of Adam. We generally look for CHRIST only in the New Testament; but christianity, in one sense, is very near as old as the creation. It is wonderful to observe how gradually Gop revealed his Son to mankind. He began with the promife in the text, and this the elect lived upon, till the time of Abraham. To him, GOD made further discoveries of his eternal council concerning man's redemption. Afterwards, at fundry times, and in divers manners, GOD spoke to the fathers by the prophets, till at length the LORD JESUS himself was manifested in flesh, and came and tabernacled amongft us.

This first promife must certainly be but dark to our first parents, in comparison of that great light which we enjoy: And yet, dark as it was, we may affure ourselves they built upon it their hopes of everlasting falvation, and by that faith 'were faved.

How they came to fland in need of this promife, and what is the extent and meaning of it, I intend, GoD willing, to make the fubject-matter of your prefent meditation.

The fall of man is written in too legible characters not. to be underflood: Those that deny it, by their denying, prove it. The very heathens confessed, and bewailed it: They could see the flreams of corruption running through the whole race of mankind, but could not trace them to the fountain-head. Before GoD gave a revelation of his Son, man was a riddle to himself. And Moses unfolds more, in this one chapter (out of which the text is taken) than all mankind could have been capable of finding out of themfelves, though they had fludied to all eternity.

In the preceding chapter he had given us a full account. how GOD fpoke the world into being; and especially how he formed man of the dust of the earth, and breathed into him the breath of life, fo that he became a living foul. A council of the Trinity was called concerning the formation of this lovely creature. The refult of that council was, "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness. So God created man in his own image, in the image of GOD created he him." Mofes remarkably repeats these words, that we might take particular notice of our divine Original. Never was fo much expressed in fo few words : None but a man inspired would have done fo. But it is remarkable, that though Mofes mentions our being made in the image of GoD, yet he mentions it but twice, and that in a transfert manner; as though he would have faid, " man was made in honour, GoD made " him upright, ' in the image of GoD, male and female »" created he them.' But man fo foon fell, and became like " the beafts that perifh, nay, like the devil himfelf, that it is " fcarce worth mentioning."

How foon man fell after he was created, is not told us; and therefore, to fix any time, is to be wife above what is written. And, I think, they who fuppofe that man fell the fame day in which he was made, have no fufficient ground for their opinion. The many things which are crouded the gether in the former chapter, fuch as the formation of Adam's wife, his giving names to the beafts, and his being put into the garden which GoD had planted, I think require a longer fpace of time than a day to be transacted in. However, all agree in this, "man flood not long." How long, or how fhort a while, I will not take upon me to determine. It more concerns us to enquire, how he came to fall from his fledfaftinefs, and what was the rife and progrefs of the temptation which prevailed over him. The account given us in this ichapter concerning it, is very full; and it may do us much fervice, under GoD, to make fome remarks upon it.

"Now the ferpent (fays the facred historian) was more fubtile than any beaft of the field which the LORD GOD had made; and he faid unto the woman, Yea, hath GOD faid, ye fhall not eat of every tree of the garden?"

Though this was a real ferpent, yet he that spoke was no other than the devil; from hence, perhaps, called the old ferpent, because he took possible of the ferpent when he came to beguile our first parents. The devil envied the happines of man, who was made, as some think, to supply the place of the fallen angels. GOD made man upright, and with full power to stand if he would: He was just, therefore, in fuffering him to be tempted. If he fell, he had no one to blame except himself. But how must satan effect his fall? He cannot do it by his power, he attempts it therefore by policy: he takes possible of the field, which the LORD GOD had made; so that men who are full of subtility, but have no piety, are only machines for the devil to work upon, just as he pleafes.

"And he faid unto the woman." Here is an inftance of his fubtilty. He fays unto the woman, the weaker veficil, and when the was alone from her hufband, and therefore was more liable to be overcome; "Yea, hath GoD faid, ye thall not eat of every tree of the garden?" Thefe words are certainly fpoken in an fiver to fomething which the devil either faw or heard. In all probability, the woman was now near the tree of knowledge of good and evil; (for we fhall find A 3 her, by and by, plucking an apple from it) perhaps the might be looking at, and wondering what there was in that tree more than the others, that fhe and her hufband fhould be forbidden to tafte of it. Satan feeing this, and coveting to draw her into a parley with him, (for if the devil can perfuade us not to refift, but to commune with him, he hath gained a great point) he fays, "Yea, hath GOD faid, ye shall not eat of every tree in the garden ?" The first thing he does is to perfuade her, if possible, to entertain hard thoughts of GOD; this is his general way of dealing with GOD's children: "Yea, hath GOD faid, ye shall not eat of every tree of the " garden ? What ! hath GOD planted a garden, and placed " you in the midft of it, only to teaze and perplex you? hath " he planted a garden, and yet forbid you making use of any " of the fruits of it at all ?" It was impoffible for him to afk a more infnaring queftion, in order to gain his end : For Eve was here feemingly obliged to answer, and vindicate Gon's goodnefs. And therefore,-

Verfe 2, 3. The woman faid unto the ferpent, "We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden: But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midft of the garden, GoD hath faid, ye fhall not eat of it, neither fhall ye touch it, left ye die."

The former part of the answer was good, "We may eat " of the fruit of the trees of the garden, GOD has not forbid " us eating of every tree of the garden. No; we may eat " of the fruit of the trees in the garden (and, it fhould feem, "even of the tree of life, which was as a facrament to man " in a flate of innocence) there is only one tree in the midft " of the garden, of which GOD hath faid, ye shall not eat of " it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die." Here she begins to warp, and fin begins to conceive in her heart. Already the has contracted fome of the ferpent's poilon, by talking with him, which fhe ought not to have done at all. For the might eafily suppose, that it could be no good being, that could put such a question unto her, and infinuate such difhonourable thoughts of GOD. She should therefore have fled from him, and not flood to have parleyed with him at all. Immediately the ill effects of it appear, the begins to fosten the divine threatning. GOD had faid, " the day thou eateft thereof, thou shalt furely die;" or, dying thou shalt die. But Eve

Eve fays, "Ye fhall not eat of it, neither fhall ye touch it, left ye die." We may be affured we are fallen into, and begin to fall by temptation, when we begin to think GOD will not be as good as his word, in respect to the execution of his threatnings denounced against fin. Satan knew this, and therefore artfully

"Said unto the woman, (ver. 4.) Ye shall not furely die," in an infinuating manner, "Ye shall not furely die. Surely, GOD will not be so cruel as to damin you only for eating an apple, it cannot be." Alas! how many does Satan lead captive at his will, by flattering them, that they shall not furely die; that hell-torments will not be eternal; that GOD is all mercy; that he therefore will not punish a few years fin with an eternity of misery? But Eve found GOD as good as his word; and so will all they who go on in fin, under a falle hope that they shall not furely die.

We may also understand the words spoken positively, and * this is agreeable to what follows; You shall not furely die; * It is all a delusion, a mere bugbear, to keep you in a fervile * subjection."

For (ver. 5.) "God doth know, that in the day ye eat thereof, then fhall your eyes be opened, and ye fhall be as gods, knowing good and evil."

What child of GOD can expect to escape flander, when GOD himself was thus flandered even in paradise? Surely the understanding of Eve must have been, in some measure, blinded, or she would not have suffered the tempter to speak such perverse things. In what odious colours is GOD here represented! "GOD doth know, that in the day ye eat there-" of, ye shall be as gods," (equal with GOD.) So that the grand temptation was, that they should be hereaster under no controul, equal, if not superior, to GOD that made them, knowing good and evil. Eve could not tell what Satan meant by this; but, to be sure, the understood it of some great privilege which they were to enjoy. And thus Satan now points out a way which seems right to finners, but does not tell them the end of that way is death.

To give firength and force to this temptation, in all probability, Satan, or the ferpent, at this time plucked an apple from the tree, and ate it before Eve; by which Eve might be induced to think, that the fagacity and power of fpeech, which the ferpent had above the other beafts, muft be owing, in a great measure, to his eating that fruit; and, therefore, if he received fo much improvement, fhe might also expect a like benefit from it. All this, I think, is clear; for, otherwife, I do not fee with what propriety it could be faid, "When the woman faw that it was good for food." How could fhe know it was good for food, unless fhe had feen the ferpent feed upon it?

Satan now begins to get ground apace. Luft had conceived in Eve's heart; fhortly it will bring forth fin. Sin being conceived, brings forth death. Verfe 6. "And when the woman faw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleafant to the eyes, and a tree to be defired to make one wife, fhe took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave alfo, unto her hufband, and he did eat."

Our fenses are the landing ports of our fpiritual enemies. How needful is that refolution of holy Job, "I have made a covenant with mine eyes !" When Eve began to gaze on the forbidden fruit with her eyes, the foon began to long after it with her heart. When the faw that it was good for food, and pleafant to the eyes, (here was the luft of the flefh, and lust of the eye) but, above all, a tree to be defired to make one wife, wifer than GOD would have her be, nay, as wife as GOD himfelf; the took of the fruit thereof, and gave alfo unto her husband with her. and he did eat. As soon as ever she finned herself, she turned tempter to her husband. It is dreadful, when those, who should be help-meets for each other in the great work of their falvation, are only promoters of each other's damnation : but thus it is. If we ourselves are good, we shall excite others to goodness; if we do evil, we shall entice others to do evil also. There is a close connection between doing and teaching. How needful then is it for us all to take heed that we do not fin any way ourfelves, left we should become factors for the devil, and infnare, perhaps, our nearest and dearest relatives? " she gave also unto her hufband with her, and he did eat."

Alas! what a complication of crimes was there in this one fingle act of fin! Here is an utter difbelief of GoD's threatning; the utmost ingratitude to their Maker, who had fo lately lately planted this garden, and placed them in it, with fuch a glorious and comprehensive charter. And, the utmost neglect of their posterity, who they knew were to stand or fall with them. Here was the utmost pride of heart they wanted to be equal with GOD. Here's the utmost contempt put upon his threatning and his law: the devil is credited and obeyed before him, and all this only to fatisfy their fenfual appetite. Never was a crime of such a complicated nature committed by any here below: Nothing but the devil's apostafy and rebellion could equal it.

And what are the confequences of their difobedience? Are their eyes opened? Yes, their eyes are opened; but, alas! it is only to fee their own nakednefs. For we are told (ver. 7.) "That the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked." Naked of GOD, naked of every thing that was holy and good, and defitute of the divine image, which they before enjoyed. They might rightly now be termed Ichabod; for the glory of the LORD departed from them. O how low did thefe fons of the morning then fall ! out of GOD, into themfelves; from being partakers of the divine nature, into the nature of the devil and the beaff: Well, therefore, might they know that they were naked; not only in body, but in foul.

And how do they behave now they are naked? Do they flee to GOD for pardon? Do they feek to GOD for a robe to cover their nakednefs? No, they were now dead to GOD; and became earthly, fenfual, devilifh: therefore; inftead of applying to GOD for mercy, "they fewed or platted figleaves together, and made themfelves aprons," or things to gird about them. This is a lively reprefentation of all natural men: we fee that we are naked: we, in fome measure; confefs it; but, inftead of looking up to GOD for fuccour, we patch up a righteousnefs of our own (as our first-parents platted fig-leaves together) hoping to cover our nakednefs by that. But our righteousnefs will not fland the feverity of GOD's judgment: it will do us no more fervice than the figleaves did Adam and Eve, that is, none at all.

For (ver. 8.) " They heard the voice of the LORD GOD walking in the trees of the garden, in the cool of the day; and Adam and his wife (notwithstanding their fig-leaves)

hid themselves from the presence of the LORD GOD, among the trees of the garden."

They heard the voice of the LORD GOD, or the Word of the LORD GOD, even the LORD JESUS CHRIST, who is "the word that was with GOD, and the word that was GOD." They heard him walking in the trees of the garden, in the cool of the day. A feafon, perhaps, when Adam and Eve used to go, in an especial manner, and offer up an evening-facrifice of praise and thanksgiving. The cool of the day. Perhaps the fin was committed early in the morning, or at noon; but GOD would not come upon them immediately, he flaid till the cool of the day. And if we would effectually reprove others, we should not do it when they are warmed with passion, but wait till the cool of the day.

But what an alteration is here! Inflead of rejoicing at the voice of their beloved, inflead of meeting him with open arms and inlarged hearts, as before, they now hide themfelves in the trees of the garden. Alas, what a foolifh attempt was this? Surely they muft be naked, otherwife how could they think of hiding themfelves from God? Whither could they flee from his prefence? But, by their fall, they had contracted an enmity againft God: they now hated, and were afraid to converfe with God their Maker. And is not this our cafe by nature? Affuredly it is. We labour to cover our nakednefs with the fig-leaves of our own righteoufnefs: We hide ourfelves from God as long as we can, and will not come, and never fhould come, did not the Father prevent, draw, and fweetly conftrain us by his grace, as he here prevented Adam.

Verse 9, "And the LORD GOD called unto Adam, and faid unto him, Adam, where art thou?"

"The LORD GOD called unto Adam," (for otherwife Adam would never have called unto the LORD GOD) and faid, "Adam, where art thou? How is it that thou comeft "not to pay thy devotions as ufual?" Chriftians, remember the LORD keeps an account when you fail coming to worfhip. Whenever therefore you are tempted to withhold your attendance, let each of you fancy you heard the LORD GOD calling unto you, and faying, "O man, O woman, where art thou? It may be underftood in another and better fenfe; "Adam, "Adam, where art thou ?" What a condition is thy poor foul in? This is the first thing the LORD asks and convinces a finner of; when he prevents and calls him effectually by his grace; he also calls him by name; for unless GOD speaks to us in particular, and we know where we are; how poor, how miserable, how blind, how naked, we shall never value the redemption wrought out for us by the death and obedience of the dear LORD JESUS. "Adam, where art thou?"

Verfe 10. "And he faid, I heard thy voice in the garden; and I was afraid." See what cowards fin makes us. If we knew no fin, we fhould know no fear. "Becaufe I was naked, and I hid myfelf." Ver. 11. "And he faid, who told thee that thou waft naked? Haft thou eaten of the tree, whereof I (thy Maker and Law-giver) commanded thee, that thou fhouldft not eat?"

GOD knew very well that Adam was naked, and that he had eaten of the forbidden fruit. But GOD would know it from Adam's own mouth. Thus GOD knows all our neceffities before we afk, but yet infifts upon our afking for his grace, and confeffing our fins. For, by fuch acts, we aeknowledge our dependence upon GOD, take fhame to ourfelves, and thereby give glory to his great name.

Verse 12. "And the man faid, the woman which thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat."

Never was nature more lively delineated. See what pride Adam contracted by the fall ! How unwilling he is to lay the . blame upon, or take fhame to himfelf. This answer is full of infolence towards GOD, enmity against his wife, and difingenuity in respect to himself. For herein he tacitly reflects upon GOD. " The woman that thou gavest to be with me." As much as to fay, if they hadft not given me that woman, I had not eaten the forbidden fruit. Thus, when men fin, they lay the fault upon their passions; then blame and reflect upon . GOD for giving them those paffions. Their language is, " the appetites that thou gavest us, they deceived us; and " therefore we finned against thee." But, as GOD, notwithfanding, punished Adam for hearkning to the voice of his wife, fo he will punish those who hearken to the dictates of their corrupt inclinations : For GOD compels no man to fin. Adam

З

Adam might have withftood the folicitations of his wife, if he would. And fo, if we look up to GoD, we should find grace to help in the time of need. The devil and our own hearts tempt, but they cannot force us to confent, without the concurrence of our own wills. So that our damnation is of ourfelves, as it will evidently appear at the great day, notwithftanding all mens present impudent replies against Gop. As Adam speaks infolently in respect to GoD, so he speaks with enmity against his wife; the woman, or this woman, she gave me. He lays all the fault upon her, and fpeaks of her with much contempt. He does not fay, my wife, my dear wife; but, this woman. Sin difunites the most united hearts: it is the bane of holy fellowship. Those who have been companions in fin here, if they die without repentance, will both hate and condemn one another hereafter. All damned fouls are accufers of their brethren. Thus it is, in some degree, on this fide the grave. " The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, the gave me of the tree, and I did eat." What a difingenuous speech was here! He makes use of no less than fifteen words to excuse himself, and but one or two (in the original) to confess his fault, if it may be called a confession at all. "The woman which thou gavest to be with me, the gave me of the tree;" here are fitteen words; " and I did eat." With what reluctance do thefe last words come out? How foon are they uttered? " And I did eat." But thus it is with an unhumbled, unregenerate heart: It will be laying the fault upon the dearest friend in the world, nay, upon GOD himfelf, rather than take fhame to itfelf. This pride we are all fubject to by the fall; and, till our hearts are broken, and made contrite by the spirit of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, we shall be always charging GOD foolifhly. "Against thee, and thee only, have I finned, that thou mightest be justified in thy faying, and clear when thou art judged," is the language of none but those, who, like David, are willing to confess their faults, and are truly forry for their fins. This was not the cafe of Adam : his heart was not broken; and therefore he lays the fault of his difobedience upon his wife and GOD, and not upon himfelf; " The woman which thou gaveft to be with me, the gave me of the tree; and I did eat."

Verfe

Veise 12. "And the LORD GOD faid, What is this that thou haft done ?" What a wonderful concern does GOD exprefs in this expostulation ! "What a deluge of milery haft " thou brought upon thyfelf, thy hufband, and thy pofterity? "What is this that thou haft done? Difobeyed thy GOD, " obeyed the devil, and ruined thy hufband, for whom I "made thee to be an help-meet! What is this that thou haft "done?" God would here awaken her to a fense of her crime and danger, and therefore, as it were, thunders in her ears : for the law must be preached to felf-righteous finners. We must take care of healing before we fee finners wounded, left we should fay, Peace, peace, where there is no peace. Secure finners must hear the thunderings of mount Sinai, before we bring them to mount Sion. They who never preach up the law, it is to be feared, are unfkilful in delivering the. glad tidings of the gospel. Every minister should be a Baanerges, a fon of thunder, as well as a Barnabas, a fon of confolation. There was an earthquake and a whirlwind, before the small still voice came to Elijah : We must first shew people they are condemned, and then fhew them how they muft be faved. But how and when to preach the law, and when to apply the promifes of the gofpel, wildom is profitable to " And the LORD GOD faid unto the woman, What direct. is this that thou haft done ?"

13]

"And the woman faid, The ferpent beguiled me, and I did eat." She does not make use of so many words to excuse herself, as, her husband; but her heart is as unhumbled as his. What is this, fays GOD, that thou haft done? GOD here charges her with doing it. She dares not deny the fact, or fay, I have not done it; but the takes all the blame off herfelf, and lays it upon the ferpent; " The ferpent beguiled me, and I did eat." She does not fay, " LORD, I was to " blame for 'talking with the ferpent; LORD, I did wrong, " in not haftening to my hufband, when he put the first quef-"tion to me; LORD, I plead guilty, I only am to blame, O " let not my poor hufband fuffer for my wickedness !" This would have been the language of her heart, had fhe now been a true penitent. But both were now alike proud; therefore neither will lay the blame upon themfelves : " The ferpent beguiled me, and I did eat. The woman which thou gaveft to be with me, fhe gave me of the tree, and I did eat."

I have

L have been the more particular in remarking this part of their behaviour, becaufe it tends fo much to the magnifying of Free-grace, and plainly fnews us, that falvation cometh only from the LORD. Let us take a fhort view of the miferable circumstances our first parents were now in : They were legally and spiritually dead, children of wrath, and heirs of They had eaten the fruit, of which Gop had comhell. manded them, that they fhould not eat; and when arraigned before GoD, notwithstanding their crime was fo complicated, they could not be brought to confess it. What reason can be given, why fentence of death should not be pronounced against the prifoners at the bar? All must own they are worthy to die. Nay, how can GoD, confiftently with his justice, poffibly forgive them? He had threatened, that the day wherein they eat of the forbidden fruit, they fhould "furely die;" and, if he did not execute this threatening, the devil might then flander the Almighty indeed. And yet mercy cries, spare these finners, spare the work of thine own hands. Behold, then, wifdom contrives a fcheme how GoD may be just, and yet be merciful; be faithful to his threatening, punish the offence, and at the fame time spare the offender. An amazing scene of divine love here opens to our view, which had been from all eternity hid in the heart of GOD! Notwithstanding Adam and Eve were thus unhumbled, and did not fo much as put up one fingle petition for pardon, God immediately paffes fentence upon the ferpent, and reveals to them a Saviour.

Verse 14. "And the LORD GOD said unto the ferpent, because thou hast done this, thou art accursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life;" i. e. he should be in subjection, and his power should always be limited and restrained. "His enemies shall lick the very dust," fays the Pfalmist. (Ver. 15.) "And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy feed and her feed: it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel."

Before I proceed to the explanation of this verfe, I cannot but take notice of one great miftake which the author of the Whole Duty of Man is guilty of, in making this verfe contain a covenant between GOD and Adam, as though GOD now perfonally treated with Adam, as before the fall. For, talking of

of the fecond covenant in his preface, concerning caring for the foul, fays he, "This fecond covenant was made with "Adam, and us in him, prefently after the fall, and is briefly " contained in these words, Gen. iii. 15. where GOD declares, " ' The feed of the woman shall break the serpent's head;" " and this was made up, as the first was, of some mercies to " be afforded by GOD, and fome duties to be performed by "us." This is exceeding false divinity : for these words are not fooken to Adam; they are directed only to the ferpent. Adam and Eve flood by as criminals, and GOD could not treat with them, because they had broken his covenant. And it is fo far from being a covenant wherein " fome mercies are to " be afforded by GOD, and fome duties to be performed by us," that here is not a word looking that way; it is only a declaration of a free gift of falvation through JESUS CHRIST our LORD. GOD the Father and GOD the Son had entered into a covenant concerning the falvation of the elect from all eternity, wherein GOD the Father promised, That, if the Son would offer his foul a facrifice for fin, he fhould fee his feed. Now this is an open revelation of this fecret covenant, and therefore GOD speaks in the most positive terms, " It shall bruife thy head, and thou shalt bruife his heel." The first Adam, God had treated with before; he proved falfe: God therefore, to fecure the fecond covenant from being broken, puts it into the hands of the fecond Adam, the LORD from heaven. Adam, after the fall, ftood no longer as our representative; he and Eve were only private perfons, as we are, and were only to lay hold on the declaration of mercy contained in this promife by faith, (as they really did) and by that they were faved. I do not fay but we are to believe and obey, if we are everlastingly faved. Faith and obedience are conditions, if we only mean that they in order go before our falvation; but I deny that thefe are proposed by GOD to Adam, or that GOD treats with him in this promise, as he did before the fall under the covenant of works. For how could that be, when Adam and Eve were now prifoners at the bar, without ftrength to perform any conditions at all ? The truth is this : GOD, as a reward of CHRIST's fufferings, promiled to give the elect faith and repentance, in order to bring them to eternal life : and both these, and every thing elfe neceffary for their their everlaßing happiness, are infallibly secured to them in this promise; as Mr. Esson, an excellent Scots divine, clearly flows, in a block entitled, "A view of the covenant of "grace."

This is by no means an unneceffary diffinction; it is a matter of great importance : for want of knowing this, people have been to long mified. They have been taught that they must Do fo and io, as though they were under a covenant of works, and then for DOING this, they fhould be faved. Whereas, on the contrary, people should be taught, That the LORD JESUS was the fecond Alam, with whom the Father entered into covenant for fallen man; That they can now do nothing of or for themfelves, and fhould therefore come to GOD, befeeching him to give them taith, by which they fhall be enabled to lay hold on the righteoufnefs of CHRIST; and that faith they will then fhew forth by their works, out of love and gratitude to the ever-bleffed JESUS, their most gloriou- Redeemer, for what he has done for their fouls. This is a confiftent feriptural feheme : without holding this, we must run into one of those two bad extremes; I mean, Antinomianism on the one hand, or A minianism on the other: from both which may the good LORD deliver us ! 🐴

But to proceed: By the feed of the woman, we are here to underftand the LORD JESUS CHRIST, who, though very GOD of very GOD, 'was, for us men and our falvation, to have a a body prepared for him by the Holy Ghoft, and to be born of a woman who never knew man, and by his obedience and death make an atonement for man's tranfgreffion, and bring in an everlafting rightcoufnefs, work in them a new nature, and thereby bruife the ferpent's head, i. e. deftroy his power and dominion over them. By the ferpent's feed, we are to underftand the devil and all his children, who are permitted by GOD to tempt and fift his children. But, bleffed be GOD, he can reach no further than our heel.

It is not to be doubted but Adam and Eve underftood this promife in this fenfe; for it is plain, in the latter part of the chapter, facrifices were inflituted. From whence fhould those fkins come, but from beafts flain for facrifice, of which GOD made them coats? We find Abel, as well as Cain, offering facrifice in the next chapter : and the Apoftle tells us, he did it it by faith, no doubt in this promife. And Eve, when Cain was born, faid, "I have gotten a man from the LORD;" or, (as Mr. Henry observes, it may be rendered) "I have gotten a man,—the Lord,—the promised Messiah." Some further suppose, that Eve was the first believer; and therefore they tranflate it thus, "The feed, (not of the; but) of this woman :" which magnifies the grace of GOD so much the more, that fle; who was first in the transgression, should be the first partaker of redemption. Adam believed also, and was faved: for unto Adam and his wife did the LORD GOD make coats of skins, and cloathed them : which was a remarkable type of their being clothed with the righteousness of our LORD JESUS CHRIST.

This promife was literally fulfilled in the perfon of our LORD JESUS CHRIST. Satan bruifed his heel, when he tempted him for forty days together in the wilderness ; he bruiled his heel, when he raifed up ftrong perfecution against him during the time of his public ministry : he in an especial manner bruised his heel, when our LORD complained, that his foul was exceeding forrowful, even unto death, and he fweat great drops of blood falling upon the ground, in the garden : He bruised his heel, when he put it into the heart of Judas to betray him : and he bruised him yet most of all, when his emiffaries nailed him to an accurfed tree, and our LORD cried out, "My GOD, my GOD, why haft thou forfaken me?" Yet, in all this, the bleffed JEsus, the feed of the woman, bruifed Satan's accurfed head : for, in that he was tempted, he was able to fuccour those that are tempted. By his ftripes we are healed. The chaftifement of our peace was upon him. By dying, he deftroyed him that had the power of death, that is, the devil. He thereby spoiled principalities and powers, and made a fnew of them openly, triumphing over them upon the crofs.

This promise has been fulfilled in the elect of GoD; confidered collectively, as well before, as fince the coming of our LORD in the fleft: for they may be called; the feed of the woman. Marvel not, that all who will live godly in CHRIST JESUS, must fuffer perfecution. In this promise, there is an eternal enmity put between the feed of the woman, and the feed of the ferpent; fo that those that are born after the fleft, fannot but perfecute those that are born after the fpirit. This enmity fhewed itself, foon after this promife was revealed, in Cain's bruifing the heel of Abel : it continued in the church through all ages before CHRIST came in the flefh, as the history of the Bible, and the xith chapter of the Hebrews, plainly shew. It raged exceedingly after our LORD's ascenfion ; witness the AEIs of the Apostles, and the History of the Primitive Christians. It now rages, and will continue to rage and shew itself, in a greater or less degree, to the end of time. But let not this difmay us; for in all this, the feed of the woman is more than conqueror, and bruiles the ferpent's head. Thus the Israelites, the more they were oppressed, the more they increased. Thus it was with the Apostles; thus it was with their immediate followers. So that Tertullian compares the church in his time to a mowed field; the more frequently it is cut, the more it grows. The blood of the martyrs was always the feed of the church. And I have often fat down with wonder and delight, and admired how Gop has made the very schemes which his enemies contrived, in order to hinder, become the most effectual means to propagate his gospel. The devil has had so little success in perfecution, that if I did not know that he and his children, according to this verse, could not but persecute, I should think he would count it his firength to fit ftill. What did he get by perfecuting the martyrs in Queen Mary's time? Was not the grace of GOD exceedingly glorified in their support ? What did he get by perfecuting the good old Puritans? Did it not prove the peopling of New-England? Or, to come nearer our own times, what has he got by putting as out of the fynagogues ? Hath not the word of Gop, fince that, mightily prevailed ? My dear hearers, you must excuse me for enlarging on this head; GOD fills my foul generally, when I come to this topic. I can fay with Luther, " If it were not for per-" fecution, I fhould not understand the scripture." If Satan should be yet fuffered to bruife my heel further, and his fervants should thrust me into prison, I doubt not, but even that would only tend to the more effectual bruifing of his head. I remember a faying of the then Lord Chancellor to the pious Bradford : " Thou haft done more hurt, faid he, by thy ex-* hortations in private in prifon, than thou didft in preaching " before thou wast put in," or words to this effect. The promile of the text is my daily support; " I will put enmity between thy feed and her feed; it shall bruife thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel."

Further: this promife is also fulfilled, not only in the church in general, but in every individual believer in particular. In every believer there are two feeds, the feed of the woman, and the feed of the ferpent; the flefh lufting against the fpirit, and the fpirit against the flesh. It is with the believer, when quickened with grace in his heart, as it was with Rebekab, when the had conceived E fau and Jacob in her womb ; fhe felt a struggling, and began to be uneasy; " If it be so, fays fhe; why am I thus ?" Thus grace and nature ftruggle (if I may fo speak) in the womb of a believer's heart : but, as it was there faid, " The elder shall ferve the younger;" fo it is here,-grace in the end shall get the better of nature; the feed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head. Many of you that have believed in CHRIST, perhaps may find fome particular corruption yet ftrong, fo ftrong, that you are fometimes ready to cry out with David, " I fhall fall one day by the hand of Saul." But, fear not, the promife in the text infures the perfeverance and victory of believers over fin, Satan, death, and hell. What if indwelling corruption does yet remain, and the feed of the ferpent bruife your heel, in vexing and difturbing your righteous fouls ? Fear not, though faint, yet purfue : you shall yet bruife the serpent's head. CHRIST hath died for you; and yet a little while, and he will fend death to deftroy the very being of fin in you. Which brings me

To fhew the most extensive manner in which the promile of the text shall be fulfilled, viz. at the final judgment, when the LORD JESUS shall prefent the elect to his Father, without fpot or wrinkle, or any fuch thing, glorified both in body and foul.

Then shall the feed of the woman give the last and fatal blow, in bruifing the ferpent's head. Satan, the accufer of the brethren, and all his accurfed feed, shall then be cast out, and never fuffered to difturb the feed of the woman any more. Then shall the righteous shine as the fun in the kingdom of their Father, and fit with CHRIST on thrones in majefty on high.

Let us, therefore, not be weary of well-doing; for we shall reap an eternal harvest of comfort, if we faint not. Dare, dare, my dear brethren in CHRIST, to follow the Captain of your falvation, who was made perfect through fufferings. The feed feed of the woman shall bruife the serpent's head. Fear not men. Be not too much cast down at the deceitfulness of your hearts. Fear not devils; you shall get the victory even over them. The LORD JESUS has engaged to make you more than conquerors over all. Plead with your Saviour, plead : plead the promise in the text. Wressle, wressle with GoD in prayer. If it has been given you to believe, fear not if it should also be given you to fuffer. Be not any wise terrisied by your adversaries; the king of the church has them all in a chain : be kind to them, pray for them; but fear them not. The LORD will yet bring back his ark, though at present driven into the wilderness; and Satan like lightening shall fall from heaven.

Are there any enemies of GOD here? The promife of the text encourages me to bid you defiance : the feed of the woman, the ever-bleffed JESUS, fhall bruife the ferpent's head. What fignifies all your malice? You are only raging waves of the fea, foaming out your own fhame. For you, without repentance, is referved the blacknefs of darknefs for ever. The LORD JESUS fits in heaven, ruling over all, and caufing all things to work for his childrens good : he laughs you to fcorn : he hath you in the utmost derifion, and therefore fo will I. Who are you that perfecute the children of the everbleffed GOD? Though a poor ftripling, the LORD JESUS, the feed of the woman, will enable me to bruife your heads.

My brethren in CHRIST, I think I do not fpeak thus in my own ftrength, but in the ftrength of my Redeemer. I know in whom I have believed; I am perfuaded he will keep that fafe, which I have committed unto him. He is faithful who hath promifed, that the feed of the woman fhall bruife the ferpent's head. May we all experience a daily completion of this promife, both in the church and in our hearts, till we come to the church of the first-born, the fpirits of just men made perfect, in the prefence and actual fruition of the great GOD our heavenly Father !

To whom, with the Son, and the Holy Ghoft, be afcribed all honour, power, might, majefty, and dominion, now and for evermore. Amen.

SERMON II.

Walking with GOD.

Genesis v. 24.

And Enoch walked with God, and be was not, for GOD took bim.

VARIOUS are the pleas and arguments, which men of corrupt minds frequently urge against yielding obedience to the just and holy commands of God. But, perhaps, one of the most common objections that they make is this, that our LORD's commands are not practicable, because contrary to flesh and blood; and confequently, that he is "an hard master, reaping where he has not fown, and gathering where he has not ftrewed." These we find were the sentiments entertained by that wicked and flothful fervant mentioned in the xxvth of St. Matthew; and are undoubtedly the fame with many which are maintained in the prefent wicked and adulterous generation. The Holy Ghoft forefeeing this, hath taken care to infpire holy men of old, to record the examples of many holy men and women; who, even under the Old Testament dispensation, were enabled chearfully to take CHRIST's yoke upon them, and counted his fervice perfect freedom. The large catalogue of faints, confessions, and martyrs. drawn up in the xith chapter to the Hebrews, abundantly evidences the truth of this observation. What a great cloud of witneffes have we there prefented to our view ? All eminent for their faith, but some shining with a greater degree of lustre than do others. The proto-martyr Abel, leads the van. And next to him, we find Enoch mentioned, not only because he was next in order of time, but also on account of his exalted piety. He is fpoken of in the words of the text in a very extraordinary manner. We have here a thort a fhort but very full and glorious account, both of his behaviour in this world, and the triumphant manner of his entering into the next. The former is contained in these words, "And Enoch walked with GOD." The latter in thefe, " and "he was not: for GOD took him." He was not; i. e. He was not found, he was not taken away in the common manner, he did not see death; for Heb. xi. 5. GOD had translated him. Who this Enoch was, does not appear fo. plainly. To me, he feems to have been a perfon of public character. I suppose, like Noab, a preacher of righteousnels. And, if we may credit the Apostle Jude, he was a flaming preacher. For he quotes one of his prophecies, wherein he faith, " Behold, the LORD cometh with ten thousand of his faints, to execute judgment upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them, of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of all their hard fpeeches, which ungodly finners have fpoken against him." But whether a public or private perfon, he has a noble teftimony given him in the lively oracles. The author of the epistle to the Hebrews faith, that before his translation he had this teftimony, " that he pleafed GOD;" and his being tranflated, was a proof of it beyond all doubt. And I would obferve, that it was wonderful wildom in GOD to translate Enoch and Elijab under the Old Testament dispensation, that hereafter when it should be afferted, that the LORD JESUS was carried into heaven, it might not feem a thing altogether incredible to the Jews; fince they themfelves confessed, that two of their own prophets had been translated feveral hundred years before. But it is not my defign to detain you any longer, by enlarging, or making observations on Enoch's short, but comprehensive character. The thing I have in view. being to give a discourse, as the LORD shall enable, upon a weighty and a very important fubject; I mean, walking with GOD. "And Enoch walked with GOD." If fo much as this can be truly faid of you and me after our decease, we fhall not have any reason to complain, that we have lived in vain.

In handling my intended subject, I shall,

First, Endeavour to shew, what is implied in these words, walked with GoD.

Secondly,

Secondly, I shall prescribe fome means, upon the due obfervance of which, believers may keep up and maintain their walk with GOD. And,

Thirdly, Offer fome motives to ftir us up, if we never walked with GOD before, to come and walk with GOD now. The whole shall be closed with a word or two of application.

First, I am to fhew what is implied in these words, "walked with GOD;" or in other words, what we are to understand by walking with GOD.

And First, Walking with GOD, implies, that the prevailing power of the enmity of a perfon's heart, be taken away by the bleffed Spirit of GOD. Perhaps it may feem a hard faying to fome, but our own experience daily proves, what the fcripture in many places affert, that the carnal mind, the mind of the unconverted, natural man, nay, the mind of the regenerate, fo far as any part of him remains unrenewed, is enmity, not only an enemy, but " enmity itself against GoD ; " fo that it is not subject to the law of GOD, neither indeed " can it be." Indeed one may well wonder that any creature, especially that lovely creature man, made after his Maker's own image, should ever have any enmity, much less a prevailing enmity against that very GOD in whom he lives, and moves, and hath his being. But alas ! fo it is. Our first parents contracted it when they fell from GOD by eating the forbidden fruit, and the bitter and malignant contagion of it, hath descended to, and quite overspread their whole posterity. This enmity discovered itself, in Adam's endeavouring to hide himfelf in the trees of the garden. When he heard the voice of the LORD GOD, instead of running with an open heart, faying, Here am I; alas ! he now wanted no communion with GOD; and still more discovered his lately contracted enmity, by the excuse he made to the Most High. "The woman, " or this woman, thou gavest to be with me, the gave me of " the tree, and I did eat." By faying thus, he in effect lays all the fault upon GoD; as though he had faid, if thou hadft not given me this woman, I had not finned against thee, fo thou mays thank thyself for my transgreffion. In the same manner this enmity works in the hearts of Adam's children. They now and again find fomething rifing against Gon, and B 4 faying faving even unto Gop, what doeft thou? " It fcorns any "meaner competitor (fays the learned Doctor Owen in his. " excellent treatife on indwelling fin) than GOD himfelf." Its command is like that of the Affyrians in respect to Ahab, Shoot only at the King. And it firikes againft every thing that has the appearance of real piety, as the Allyrians that at Yehofaphat in Ahab's cloathes. But the opposition ceases when it finds that it is only an appearance, as the Allyrians left off thooting at Jehofaphat, when they perceived it was not Ahab they were fhooting at. This enmity discovered itself in accurfed Cain; he hated and flew his brother Abel, because Abel loved, and was peculiarly favoured by his Gop. And this fame ennity rules and prevails in every man that is paturally engendered of the offspring of Adam. Hence that averfencis to prayer and holy duties, which we find in children, and very often in grown perfons, who have notwithflanding been bleffed with a religious education. And all that open fin and wickednefs, which like a deluge has overflowed the world, are only to many fireams running from this dreadful, contagious fountain; I mean the enmity of man's desperately wicked and deceitful heart. He that cannot fet his feal to this, knows nothing yet, in a faving manner, of the holy scriptures, or of the power of Gon. And all that do know this, will readily acknowledge, that before a perfon can be faid to walk with GOD, the prevailing power of this heart-enmity must be destroyed. For persons do not use to walk and keep company together, who entertain an irreconcilable enmity and hatred against one another. Obferve me, I fay, the prevailing power of this enmity must be taken away. For the inbeing of it will never be totally removed, till we bow down our heads and give up the ghoft, The apofile Paul, no doubt, speaks of himself, and that too not when he was a pharisee, but a real christian; when he complains, " that when he would do good, evil was prefent with him;" not having dominion over him, but oppoling and refilting his good intentions and actions, " fo that " he could not do the things which he would," in that perfection which the new man defired. This is what he calls fin dwelling in him. " And this is that polynuz sapros, which, " (to use the words of the ninth article of our church,) " fome ⁶⁶ fome do expound the wildom, fome fenfuality, fome the ⁶⁷ affectation, fome the defire of the flefh, which doth remain, ⁶⁶ yea, in them that are regenerated." But as for its prevailing power, it is deftroyed in every foul that is truly born of GOD, and gradually more and more weakened as the believer grows in grace, and the fpirit of GOD gains a greater, and greater afcendancy in the heart.

But Secondly, Walking with GOD not only implies, that the prevailing power of the enmity of a man's heart be taken away, but also that a perfon is actually reconciled to GOD the Father, in and through the all-fufficient righteoufnefs and atonement of his dear Son. " Can two walk together, (fays " Solomon), unless they are agreed ?" JESUS is our peace, as well as our peace-maker. When we are justified by faith in CHRIST, then, but not till then, we have peace with GOD ; and confequently cannot be faid till then, to walk with him, Walking with a perfon, being a fign and token that we are friends to that perfons or at least, though we have been at variance, yet that now we are reconciled and become friends again. This is the great errand that gofpel ministers are fent out upon. To us is committed the ministry of reconciliation : As ambaffadors for God, we are to befeech finners, in CHRIST's flead, to be reconciled unto GOD; and when they comply with the gracious invitation, and are actually by faith brought into a flate of reconciliation with GOD, then, and not till then, may they be faid fo much as to begin to walk with Gon.

Further, Thirdly, Walking with GOD implies, a fettled, abiding communion and fellowship with GOD, or what in fcripture is called, "The Holy Ghost dwelling in us." This is what our LORD promifed when he told his disciples, that "the Holy Spirit should be in, and with them;" not to be like a wayfaring-man, to flay only for a night, but to refide and make his abode in their hearts. This I am apt to believe is what the Apostle John would have us understand, when he talks of a person abiding in him, in CHRIST, " and " walking as he himself also walked." And this is what is, particularly meant in the words of our text. "And Enoch " walked with GoD." i. e. He kept up and maintained a holy, settled, habitual, though undoubtedly not altogether uninterrupted uninterrupted communion and fellowship with GOD, in and through CHRIST JESUS. So that to sum up what has been faid on this part of the first general head, walking with GOD confiss especially in the fixed habitual bent of the will for GOD, in an habitual dependance upon his power and promise, in an habitual voluntary dedication of our all to his glory, in an habitual eying of his precept in all we do, and in an habitual complacence in his pleasure in all we fuffer.

Fourthly, Walking with Gop implies, our making progress or advances in the divine life. Walking, in the very first idea of the word, feems to suppose a progressive motion. A perfon that walks, though he move flowly, yet he goes forwards and does not continue in one place. And fo it is with those that walk with God. They go on, as the pfalmift fays, from firength to firength;" or, in the language of the Apostle Paul, " they pais from glory to glory, even by the Spirit of the LORD." Indeed in one fense, the divine life admits of neither increase nor decrease. When a foul is born of GOD, to all intents and purposes he is a child of GOD, and, though he fhould live to the age of Methulelah, yet he would then be only a child of GOD, after all. But in another sense, the divine life admits of decays and additions. Hence it is, that we find the people of GOD charged with backflidings, and lofing their first love. And hence it is, that we hear of babes, young men and fathers in CHRIST: and upon this account it is that the Apofile exhorts Timetby, " to let his progress be made known to all men." And what is here required of Timothy in particular; by St. Peter, is enjoined all chriftians in general, " But grow in grace, (fays he) and in the knowledge of our LORD and Saviour JESUS CHRIST." For the new creature increases in spiritual flature; and though a perfon can but be a new creature, yet there are fome that are more conformed to the divine image than others, and will, after death, be admitted to a greater degree of bleffednefs. For want of observing this distinction, even fome gracious fouls that have better hearts than heads, (as well as men of corrupt minds, reprobates concerning the faith) have unawares run into downright Antinomian principles, denying all growth of grace in a believer, or any marks of grace to be laid down in the fcriptures of truth. From fuch fuch principles, and more especially from practices naturally confequent on such principles, may the LORD of all Lord's deliver us !

From what then has been faid, we may now know what is implied in the words, "walked with GOD," viz. Our having the prevailing enmity of our hearts taken away by the power of the Spirit of GOD; our being actually reconciled and united to him by faith in JESUS CHRIST; our having and keeping up a fettled communion and fellowfhip with him; and our making a daily progrefs in this fellowfhip, fo as to be conformed to the divine image more and more.

How this is done, or, in other words, by what means believers keep up and maintain their walk with GOD, comes to be confidered under our fecond general head.

And, First, Believers keep up and maintain their walk with GOD, by reading of his holy word. " Search the fcriptures," fays our bleffed LORD, " for these are they that testify of me." And the royal pfalmist tells us, " that Gop's word was a light unto his feet, and a lanthorn unto his paths;" and he makes it one property of a good man, " that his delight is in the law of the LORD, and that he exercises himfelf therein day and night." "Give thyself to reading," (fays Paul to Timothy); "And this book of the law, (fays GOD to Yo/hua) shall not go out of thy mouth." For whatfoever was written in afore time, was written for our learning. And the word of GOD is profitable for reproof, correction, and instruction in righteoufness, and every way fufficient to make every true child of GOD thoroughly furnifhed to every good work. If we once get above our Bibles, and cease making the written word of GOD our fole rule, both as to faith and practice, we shall foon lie open to all manner of delusion, and be in great danger of making shipwreck of faith and a good confcience. Our bleffed LORD, though he had the Spirit of Gon without measure, yet always was governed by, and fought the devil with, " It is written." This the Apostle calls the "Sword of the Spirit." We may fay of it as David faid of Goliah's fword, "None like this." The fcriptures are called the lively oracles of GOD : not only because they are generally made use of to beget in us a new life, but also to keep up and increase it in the foul. The Apostle Peter, in his 2d epistle, prefers it even to feeing CHRIST

CHRIST transfigured upon the mount. For after he had faid, chap. i. 18. "That the voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with Him in the holy mount;" he adds, "We have also a more fure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light fhining in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day-ftar arife in your hearts:" i. e. Till we fhake off these bodies, and fee JESUS face to face. Till then, we muss fee and converse with him through the glass of his word. We muss make his testimonies our counsellors, and daily, with Mary, fit at JESUS feet, by faith hearing his word. We shall then by happy experience find, that they are spirit and life, meat indeed, and drink indeed to our souls.

Secondly, Believers keep up and maintain their walk with God by fecret prayer. The fpirit of grace is always accompanied with the spirit of supplication. It is the very breath of the new-creature, the fan of the divine life, whereby the spark of holy fire kindled in the foul by GOD, is not only kept in, but raifed into a flame. A neglect of fecret prayer has been frequently an inlet to many fpiritual difeafes, and has been attended with fatal confequences. Origen observed, " That the day he offered incense to an idol, he went out of " his closet without making use of secret prayer." It is one of the most noble parts of the believer's spiritual armour. * Praying always, fays the Apostle, with all manner of fup-" plication." "Watch and pray, fays our LORD, that ye enter not into temptation." And he spake a parable, that his disciples should pray, and not faint. Not that our LORD would have us always upon our knees, or in our closets, to the neglect of our other relative duties. But he means, that our fouls fhould be kept in a praying-frame, fo that we might be able to fay, as a good man in Scotland once faid to his friends on his death-bed, " Could these curtains, or could " thefe walls speak, they would tell you what sweet com-" munion I have had with my GOD here." O prayer, prayer ! It brings and keeps GOD and man together. It raifes man up to GOD, and brings GOD down to man, If you would therefore, O believers, keep up your walk with GoD; pray, pray without ceafing. Be much in fecret, fet prayer. And when you are about the common bulinels of life, be be much in ejaculatory prayer, and fend, from time to time, thort letters post to beaven upon the wings of faith. They will reach the very heart of GoD, and return to you again loaded with spiritual bleffings.

Thirdly, Holy and frequent meditation is another bleffed means of keeping up a believer's walk with God. " Prayer, " reading, temptation, and meditation," fays Luther, " make "a minister." And they also make, and perfect a christian. Meditation to the foul, is the fame as digestion to the body. Holy David found it fo, and therefore he was frequently employed in meditation, even in the night featon. We read also of Isaac's going out into the fields to meditate in the evening; or, as it is in the margin, to pray. For meditation is a kind of filent prayer, whereby the foul is frequently, as it were, carried out of itself to GOD, and in a degree made like unto those bleffed Spirits, who by a kind of immediate intuition always behold the face of our heavenly Father. None but those happy fouls that have been accustomed to this divine employ, can tell what a bleffed promoter of the divine life, meditation is. "Whilft I was musing, fays David, the fire kindled." And whilft the believer is musing on the works and word of GoD; especially that work of works, that wonder of wonders, that mystery of godlines, "God manifest in the flesh," the Lamb of God flain for the fins of the world : he frequently feels the fire of divine love kindle, fo that he is obliged to fpeak with his tongue, and tell of the loving-kindness of the LORD to his soul. Be frequent therefore in meditation, all ye that defire to keep up and maintain a close and uniform walk with the most-high GOD.

Fourthly, Believers keep up their walk with GOD, by watching and noting his providential dealings with them. If we believe the foriptures, we must believe what our LORD hath declared therein, "That the very hairs of his disciples heads are all numbered; and that, a sparrow does not fall to the ground, (either to pick up a grain of corn, or when shot by a sowler) without the knowledge of our heavenly Father." Every crois has a call in it, and every particular dispensation of divine providence, has some particular end to answer in those to whom it is sent. If it be of an afflictive nature.

nature, GoD does thereby fay, " My fon, keep thyfelf from idols :" if prosperous, he does it as it were by a small. still voice, fay, " My fon, give me thy heart." If believers, therefore, would keep up their walk with GOD, they must from time to time hear what the LORD has to fay concerning them in the voice of his providence. Thus we find Abraham's fervant, when he went to fetch a wife for his mafter Ifaac, eyed and watched the providence of GOD, and by that means found out the perfon that was defigned for his mafter's wife. "For " a little hint from Providence," fays pious Bishop Hall, " is " enough for faith to feed upon." And as I believe it will be one part of our happiness in heaven, to take a view of, and look back upon, the various links of the golden chain which drew us there; fo those that enjoy most of heaven below. I believe, will be most minute in remarking God's various dealings with them, in respect to his providential dispensations here on earth.

Fifthly, In order to walk closely with God, his children must not only watch the motions of GOD's providence without them, but the motions also of his bleffed Spirit in their hearts. "As many as are the fons of GOD, are led by the Spirit of GoD," and give up themselves to be guided by the Holy Ghoft, as a little child gives its hand to be led by a nurse or parent. It is no doubt in this fenfe, that we are to be converted, and become like little children. And though it is the quinteffence of enthusiasm, to pretend to be guided by the Spirit without the written word; yet it is every chriftian's bounden duty to be guided by the Spirit in conjunction with the written word of GoD. Watch, therefore, I pray you, O believers, the motions of God's bleffed Spirit in your fouls, and always try the fuggeftions or impressions that you may at any time feel, by the unerring rule of GOD's most holy word : and if they are not found to be agreeable to that, reject them as diabolical and delusive. By observing this caution, you will fteer a middle courfe between the two dangerous extremes many of this generation are in danger of running into; I mean, enthusiasm, on the one hand, and deism, and downright infidelity, on the other.

Sixthly, They that would maintain a holy walk with GOD, must walk with him in ordinances as well as providences, &c. It

It is, therefore, recorded of Zachary and Elizabeth, that " They walked in all GoD's ordinances as well as commandments, blamelefs." And all rightly informed chriftians, will look upon ordinances, not as beggarly elements, but as fo many conduit-pipes, whereby the infinitely condescending Johough conveys his grace to their fouls. They will look upon them as childrens bread, and as their highest privileges. Confequently they will be glad when they hear others fay, " Come, let us go up to the house of the LORD." They will delight to visit the place where GoD's honour dwelleth. and be very eager to embrace all opportunities to shew forth the LORD CHRIST's death till he come.

Seventbly and lafly, If you would walk with GoD, you will affociate and keep company with those that do walk with him. " My delight, fays holy David, is in them that do excel" in virtue. They were in his fight, the excellent ones of the earth. And the primitive christians, no doubt, kept up their vigour and first love, by continuing in fellowship one with another. The Apostle Paul knew this full well, and therefore exhorts the christians to fee to it, that they did not forfake the affembling of themselves together. For how can one be warm alone? And has not the wifeft of men told us, that, "as iron fharpeneth iron, fo doth the countenance of a man his friend ?" If we look, therefore, into church history, or make a just observation of our own times, I believe we shall find, that as the power of GOD prevails, christian societies, and fellowfhip meetings prevail proportionably. And as one decays, the other has infenfibly decayed and dwindled away at the fame time. So necessary is it for those that would walk with GOD, and keep up the life of religion, to meet together as they have opportunity, in order to provoke one another to love and good works.

Proceed we now to the Third general thing proposed, To offer fome motives to excite all to come and walk with GOD.

And First, Walking with GOD, is a very honourable thing. This generally is a prevailing motive to perfons of all ranks, to fir them up to any important undertaking. O that it may have its due weight and influence with you, in respect to the matter now before us ! I suppose you would all think it a very high high honour to be admitted into an earthly prince's privycouncil, to be trufted with his fecrets, and to have his ear at all times, and at all feafons. It feems Haman thought it for when he boafted, Eftb. v. II, that befides his being " advanced above the princes and fervants of the king; yea, moreover, Efther the Queen did let no man come in with the King unto the banquet that the had prepared, but myfelf; and to-morrow am I invited unto her also with the King." And when afterwards a queftion was put to this fame Haman, chap. vi. 6. "What shall be done unto the man whom the King delighteth to honour ?" he answered, ver. 8. " Let the royal apparel be brought which the king used to wear, and the horle that the king rideth upon, and the crown royal which is fet upon his head; and let this apparel and horfe be delivered to the hand of one of the king's most noble princes. that they may array the man withal whom the King delights to honour, and bring him on horseback through the street of the city, and proclaim before him, Thus shall it be done to the man whom the King delighteth to honour." This was all then, it feems, that an ambitious Haman could afk, and the most valuable thing that he thought Abafuerus, the greatest monarch upon earth, could give. But alas, what is this honour in comparison of that which the meaneft of those enjoy, that walk with GOD! Think ye it a fmall thing, Sirs, to have the fecret of the LORD of Lords with you, and to be called the friends of GOD? and fuch honour have all GOD's "The fecret of the LORD is with them that fear faints. him :" and "Henceforth, fays the bleffed JESUS, call I you no longer fervants, but friends; for the fervant knoweth not the will of his mafter." Whatever you may think of it, holy David was to fenfible of the honour attending a walk with GOD, that he declares, " He had rather be a door-keeper in his houfe, than to dwell even in the tents of ungodlinefs." O that all were like-minded with him !

But, Secondly, As it is an honourable, fo it is a pleafing thing to walk with GoD. The wifeft of men has told us, that "Wifdom's ways are ways of pleafantnefs, and all her paths peace." And I remember pious Mr. Henry, when he was juft about to expire, faid to a friend, "You have heard "many mens dying words, and thefe are mine : A life fpent "in in communion with God, is the pleafantest life in the " world." I am fure I can fet to my feal that this is true. Indeed, I have been lifted under JESUS's banner only for a few years; but I have enjoyed more folid pleasure in one moment's communion with my GOD, than I should or could have enjoyed in the ways of fin, though I had continued to have went on in them for thousands of years. And may I not appeal to all you that fear and walk with GOD, for the truth of this? Has not one day in the LORD's courts, been to you better than a thousand ? In keeping Gon's commandments, have you not found a prefent and very great reward? Has not his word been fweeter to you than the honey, or the honey-comb? O what have you felt, when, Facob-like, you have been wrestling with your GOD? Has not JESUS often met you when meditating in the fields, and been made known to you over and over again in breaking of bread? Has not the Holy Ghoft frequently fhed the divine love abroad in your hearts abundantly, and filled you with joy unspeakable, even joy that is full of glory? I know you will answer all these questions in the affirmative, and freely acknowledge the voke of CHRIST to be easy, and his burden light; or (to use the words of one of our collects) " That 44 his fervice is perfect freedom." And what need we then any further motive to excite us to walk with God?

But methinks I hear fome among you fay, " How can " these things be ? For, if walking with GOD, as you fay, is " fuch an honourable and pleafant thing, whence is it, that the " name of the people of this way is caft out as evil, and every " where fpoken against ? How comes it to pais that they are " frequently afflicted, tempted, deflitute, and tormented ? Is " this the honour, this the pleasure that you speak of?" I answer, Yes. Stop a while; be not over-hafty. Judge not according to appearance, but judge righteous judgment, and all will be well. It is true, we acknowledge the "people of " this way," as you, and Paul before you, when a perfecutor, called them, have their names caft out as evil, and are a fect every where spaken against. But by whom ? Even by the enemies of the most high GOD. And do you think it a difgrace to be spoken evil of by them ? Blessed be GOD, we have not fo learnt CHRIST. Our royal Master has pro-VOL. V. nounced nounced thole " bleffed, who are perfecuted, and have all manner of evil spoken against them falsy." He has commanded them " to rejoice and be exceeding glad." For it is the prilege of their discipleship, and that their reward will be great in heaven. He himfelf was thus treated. And can there be a greater honour put upon a creature, than to be conformed to the ever-bleffed Son of GoD? And further, it is equally true, that the people of this way are frequently. afflicted, tempted, deftitute, and tormented. But what of all this? Does this deftroy the pleasure of walking with Gop? No, in no wife; for those that walk with Gop, are enabled. through CHRIST strengthening them, to joy even in tribulation, and to rejoice when they fall into divers temptations. And I believe I may appeal to the experience of all true and clofe walkers with GOD, Whether or not their fuffering times, have not frequently been their fweeteft times, and that they enjoyed most of GOD, when most cast out, and despised by men ? This we find was the cafe of CHRIST's primitive fervants, when threatened by the Jewi/b fanhedrim, and commanded to preach no more in the name of [ESUS; they rejoiced, that they were accounted worthy to fuffer shame for the fake of JESUS. Paul and Silas fang praifes even in a dungeon; and the face of Stephen, that glorious proto-martyr of the christian church, shone like the face of an angel. And TESUS is the fame now, as he was then, and takes care fo to fweeten fufferings and afflictions with his love, that his difciciples find, by happy experience, that as afflictions abound, confolations do much more abound. And therefore these objections, instead of destroying, do only more enforce the motives before urged to excite you to walk with GOD.

But supposing the objections were just, and walkers with GOD were as despicable and unhappy as you would represent them to be; yet I have a third motive to offer, which, if weighed in the balance of the fanctuary, will over-weigh all objections, viz. That there is a heaven at the end of this walk. For, to use the words of pious Bishop Beveridge, " Though " the way be narrow, yet it is not long; and though the gate " be ftraight, yet it opens into everlasting life." Enoch found it fo. He walked with GOD on earth, and GOD took him to fit down with him for ever in the kingdom of heaven. Not that we are to expect to be taken away as he was : no; I suppoled bole we shall all die the common death of all men. But after death, the fpirits of those who have walked with GOD, shall return to Gop that gave them; and at the morning of the refurrection; foul and body shall be for ever with the LORD. Their bodies shall be fashioned like unto CHRIST's glorious body, and their fouls filled with all the fulness of GoD. They shall fit on thrones; they shall judge angels. They shall be enabled to suftain an exceeding and eternal weight of glory, even that glory which JESUS CHRIST enjoyed with the Father before the world began. O gloriam quantam et qualem, fays the leatned and pious Arndi, just before he bowed down his head, and gave up the ghost. The very thought of it is enough to make us " with to leap our feventy years," as good Dr. Watts expresses himself, and to make us break out into the earnest language of the royal Pfalmist, " My foul is athirst for GoD, yea for the living GOD. When shall I come to appear in the immediate prefence of my God ?" I wonder not that a fense of this, when under a more than ordinary irradiation and influx of divine life and love, caufes fome perfons even to faint away, and for a time lofe the power of their fenfes. A lefs fight than this, even a fight of Solomon's glory, made Sheba's queen aftonished ; and a still lesser fight than that, even a fight of Foseph's waggons, made holy Faceb to faint, and for a while, as it were, die away. Daniel, when admitted to a distant view of this excellent glory, fell down at the feet of the angel as one dead. And if a diftant view of this glory be fo excellent, what must the actual possession of it be? If the first fruits are fo glorious, how infinitely must the harvest exceed in glory ?

And now what fhall I, or indeed what can I well fay more, to excite you; even you that are yet ftrangers to CHRIST, to come and walk with GOD! If you love honour, pleafure, and a crown of glory, come, feek it where alone it can be found. Come, put ye on the LORD JESUS. Come, hafte ye away and walk with GOD, and make no longer provision for the flefh; to fulfil the luft thereof. Stop, ftop, O finner! turn ye, turn ye, O ye unconverted men! for the end of that way you are now walking in, however fight it may feem in your blinded eyes, will be death, even eternal defiruction both of body and foul. Make no long tarrying, I fay: at your peril; I charge you, ftep not one ftep further on in C 2 your present walk. For how knowest thou, O man, but the next flep thou takeft may be into hell? Death may feize thee, judgment find thee, and then the great gulph will be fixed between thee and endless glory, for ever and ever. O think of these things, all ve that are unwilling to come and walk with God. Lay them to heart. Shew yourfelves men. and in the firength of JESUS fay, Farewel luit of the flefh, I will no more walk with thee ! Farewel luft of the eye, and bride of life ! Farewel carnal acquaintance, and enemies of the crofs, I will no more walk and be intimate with you ! Welcome IESUS, welcome thy word, welcome thy ordinances. welcome thy Spirit, welcome thy people, I will henceforth walk with you. O that there may be in you fuch a mind ! Gon will set his almighty fiat to it, and seal it with the broad feal of heaven, even the fignet of his Holy Spirit. Yes, he will, though you have been walking with. and following after, the devices and defires of your defperately wicked hearts, ever fince you have been born. · [the high and lofty one," fays the great Jehovah, " that inhabiteth eternity, will dwell with the humble and contrite heart, even with the man that trembleth at my word." The blood, even the precious blood of JESUS CHRIST, if you come to the Father in and through him, shall cleanse you from all fin.

But the text leads me to fpeak to you that are faints, as well as to you that are open or unconverted finners. I need not tell you that walking with GOD is not only honourable. but pleafant and profitable alfo: for ye know it by happy experience, and will find it more and more fo every day. Only give me leave to flir up your pure minds by way of remembrance, and to befeech you by the mercies of GoD in CHRIST JESUS, to take heed to yourfelves, and walk clofer with your GOD, than you have in days past : for the nearer you walk with GoD, the more you will enjoy of Him whofe prefence is life, and be the better prepared for being placed at his right-hand, where are pleasures for evermore. Q do not follow JESUS afar off! O be not fo formal, fo dead and flupid in your attendance on holy ordinances ! Do not fo fhamefully forfake the affembling yourfelves together, or be fo niggardly, and fo indifferent about the things of GOD. Remember member what JESUS fays of the church of Laodicea, "Becaufe thou art neither-hot nor cold, I will fpew thee out of my mouth." Think of the love of JESUS, and let that love confirain you to keep near unto him; and though you die for him, do not deny him, do not keep at a diffance from him in any wife.

One word to my brethren in the ministry that are here prefent, and I have done. You fee, my brethren, my heart is full; I could almost fat it is too big to speak, and yet too big to be filent, without dropping a word to you. For does not the text speak in a particular manner to those who have the honour of being stiled the ambassadors of CHRIST, and flewards of the mysteries of GOD ? I observed at the beginning of this discourse, that Enoch in all probability was a public perfon, and a flaming preacher. Though he be dead, does he not yet speak to us, to quicken our zeal, and make us more active in the fervice of our glorious and ever-bleffed Mafter ? How did Enoch preach? How did Enoch walk with GOD. though he lived in a wicked and adulterous generation ? Let us then follow him, as he followed JESUS CHRIST, and ere long, where he is, there shall we be also. He is now entered into his reft : yet a little while, and we shall enter into ours, and that too much sooner than he did. He sojourned here below three hundred years; but bleffed be GOD, the days of man are now shortened, and in a few days our work will be over. The Judge is before the door: he that cometh will come, and will not tarry : his reward is with him. And we shall all (if we are zealous for the LORD of Hosts) ere long fhine as the ftars in the firmament, in the kingdom of our heavenly Father, for ever and ever. To Him, the bleffed JESUS, and eternal Spirit, be all honour and glory, now, and to all eternity. Amen, and Amen.

SERMON III.

GENESIS XXII. 12.

And be faid, Lay not thine Hand upon the Lad, neither do thou any thing unto him; for now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy Son, thine only Son from me.

THE great Apostle Paul, in one of his epistles, informs us, that " whatsoever was written aforetime was written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the holy fcripture might have hope." And as without faith it is impoffible to pleafe GOD, or be accepted in JESUS, the Son of his love; we may be affured, that whatever inftances of a more than common faith are recorded in the book of GOD, they were more immediately defigned by the holy Spirit for our learning and imitation, upon whom the ends of the world are come. For this reason, the author of the epiftle to the Hebrews, in the xith chapter, mentions fuch a noble catalogue of Old Testament faints and martyrs, " who fubdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, stopped the mouths of lions, &c. and are gone before us to inherit the promifes." A fufficient confutation, I think, of their error, who lightly efteem the Old Testament faints, and would not have them mentioned to chriftians, as perfons whole faith and patience we are called upon more immediately to follow. If this was true, the apoftle would never have produced fuch a cloud of witnesses out of the Old Testament, to excite the christians of the first, and consequently purest age of the cllurch, to continue. stedfast and unmoveable in the profession of their faith. Amidst this catalogue of faints, methinks the patriarch Abraham shines the brightess, and differs from the others, as one ftar differeth from another ftar in glory; for he fhone with fuch diffinguifhed luftre, that he was called the "friend of GoD," the "father of the faithful;" and thole who believe on CHRIST, are faid to be "fons and daughters of, and to " be bleffed with, faithful Abraham." Many trials of his faith did GoD fend this great and good man, after he had commanded him to get out from his country, and from his kindred, unto a land which he fhould fhew him; but the laft was the most fevere of all, I mean, that of offering up his only fon. This, by the divine affistance, I propose to make the fubject of your present meditation, and, by way of conclusion, to draw fome practical inferences, as GoD shall enable me, from this inftructive ftory.

The facred penman begins the narrative thus; verse r. "And it came to pass, after these things, GoD did tempt Abraham." After these things, that is, after he had underwent many severe trials before, after he was old, full of days, and might flatter himself perhaps that the troubles and toils of life were now finished; "after these things, GoD did tempt Abraham." Christians, you know not what trials you may meet with before you die: notwithstanding you may have fuffered, and been tried much already, yet, it may be, a greater measure is still behind, which you are to fill up. "Be not high-minded, but fear." Our last trials, in all probability, will be the greatest: and we can never fay our warfare is accomplished, or our trials finished, till we bow down our heads, and give up the ghost. "And it came to pass, after these things, that GoD did tempt Abraham."

"Gon did tempt Abraham." But can the scripture contradict itself? Does not the apostle James tell us, " that Gon tempts no man;" and Gon does tempt no man to evil, or on purpose to draw him into fin; for, when a man is thus tempted, he is drawn away of his own heart's luft, and enticed: But in another sense, Gon may be faid to tempt, I mean, to try his servants; and in this sense we are to understand that passage of Matthew, where we are told, that, " JESUS was led up by the Spirit (the good Spirit) into the wilderness, to be tempted of the devil." And our LORD, in that excellent form of prayer which he has been pleased to give us, does not require us to pray that we may not abso-C 4 lutely be led into temptation, but delivered from the evil of it; whence we may plainly infer, that GOD fees it fit fometimes to lead us into temptation, that is, to bring us into fuch circumftances as will try our faith and other chriftian graces. In this fenfe we are to underftand the expression before us; "GoD did tempt or try Abraham."

How GOD was pleated to reveal his will at this time to his faithful fervant, whether by the Shechingh, or divine appearance, or by a small still voice, as he spoke to Elijab, or by a whifper, like that of the Spirit to Philip, when he commanded him to go join himfelf to the eunuch's chariot, we are not told, nor is it material to enquire. It is enough that we are informed, GOD faid unto him, Abraham; and that Abraham knew. it was the voice of God: for he faid, " Behold, here I am." O what a holy familiarity (if I may fo fpeak) is there between GOD and those holy fouls that are united to him by faith in CHRIST JESUS! GOD fays, Abraham; and Abraham faid (it should seem without the least surprize) Behold, here I am. Being reconciled to GOD by the death and obedience of CHRIST, which he rejoiced in, and faw by faith afar off; he did not, like guilty Alam, feek the trees of the garden to hide himfelf from, but takes pleafure in converfing with Gon, and talketh with him, as a man talketh with his friend. O that CHRIST-less finners knew what it is to have fellowship with the Father and the Son ! They would envy the happiness of faints, and count it all joy to be termed enthulialts and fools for CHRIST's fake.

But what does GOD fay to Abraham? Verfe 2. " Take now thy fon, thine only fon Ifaac, whom thou loveft, and get thee into the land of Moriah, and offer him there for a burnt offering upon one of the mountains which I shall tell thee of."

Every word deferves our particular observation. Whatever he was to do, he must do it now, immediately, without conferring with flefh and blood. But what must he do? " Take now thy fon." Had GoD faid, take now a firstling, or choicest lamb or beast of thy flock, and offer it up for a burnt-offering, it would not have appeared fo ghaftly; but for GoD to fay, " take now thy fon, and offer him up for a burnt-offering," one would have imagined, was enough to ftagger the ftrongeft

Arongest faith. But this is not all: it must not only be a fon, but "thine only fon Ifaac, whom thou lovest." If it must be a fon, and not a beast, that must be offered, why will not Ifbmael do, the fon of the bond-woman? No, it must be his only fon, the heir of all, his Ifaac, by interpretation laughter, the fon of his old age, in whom his foul delighted, "whom thou lovest," fays GoD, in whose life his own was wrapped up: and this fon, this only fon, this Ifaac, the fon of his love, must be taken now, even now, without delay, and be offered up by his own father, for a burnt offering, upon one of the mountains of the which GoD would tell him.

Well might the apoftle, fpeaking of this man of GoD, fay, that " against hope he believed in hope, and, being frong in faith, gave glory to GoD :" For, had he not been bleffed with faith which man never before had, he must have refused to comply with this fevere command. For how many arguments might nature fuggest, to prove that fuch a command could never come from GoD, or to excuse himself from obering it? "What! (might the good man have faid) butcher " my own child ! it is contrary to the very law of nature : " much more to butcher my dear fon Ifaac, in whole feed "Gop himfelf has affured me of a numerous posterity. But " fuppofing I could give up my own affections, and be will-" ing to part with him, though I love him fo dearly, yet, if "I murder him, what will become of Gon's promife? Be-" fides, I am now like a city built upon a hill; I fhine as a " light in the world, in the midft of a crooked and perverse " generation : How then shall I caufe God's name to be blaffor phemed, how fhall I become a by-word among the heathen. " if they hear that I have committed a crime which they ab-" hor ! But, above all, what will Sarah my wife fay ? How " can I ever return to her again, after I have imbrued my " hands in my dear child's blood? O that GoD would pardon " me in this thing, or take my life in the place of my fon's!" Thus, I fay, Abraham might have argued, and that too feemingly with great reason, against complying with the divine command. But as before by faith he confidered not the deadnefs of Sarab's womb, when the was past age, but believed on him, who faid, " Sarah thy wife shall bear thee a fon indeed;"

fo now, being convinced that the fame GOD fpoke to and commanded him to offer up that fon, and knowing that GOD was able to raife him from the dead, without delay he obeys the heavenly call.

O that unbelievers would learn of faithful Abraham, and believe whatever is revealed from GoD, though they cannot fully comprehend it! Abraham knew GoD commanded him to offer up his fon, and therefore believed, notwithflanding carnal reafoning might fuggeft many objections. We have fufficient teftimony, that GoD has fpoken to us by his fon; why fhould we not alfo believe, though many things in the New Teflament are above our reafon? For, where reafon ends, faith begins. And, however infidels may ftile themfelves reafoners, of all men they are the moft unreafonable: For, is it not contrary to all reafon, to meafure an infinite by a finite underflanding, or think to find out the myfteries of godlinefs to perfection?

But to return to the patriarch Abraham: We observed before what plausible objections he might have made; but he answered not a single word: no, without replying against his Maker, we are told, verse 3. that "Abraham rose up early in the morning, and faddled his ass, and took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son, and clave the wood for the burnt-offering, and rose up and went unto the place of which God had told him."

From this verfe we may gather, that GoD fpoke to Abraham in a dream, or vision of the night: For it is faid, he rose up early. Perhaps it was near the fourth watch of the night, just before break of day, when GoD faid, Take now thy fon; and Abraham rises up early to do fo; as I doubt not but he used to rise early to offer up his morning-facrifice of praise and thanksgiving. It is often remarked of people in the Old Testament, that they rose early in the morning; and particularly of our LORD in the New, that he rose a great while before day to pray. The morning bestricnds devotion; and, if people cannot use for much felf-denial as to rise early to pray, I know not how they will be able to die at a stake (if called to it) for JESUS CHRIST.

The humility as well as the picty of the patriarch is observable : he faddled his own als (great men fhould be humble ;) and

and to fhew his fincerity, though he took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his fon, yet he keeps his defign as a fecret from them all: nay, he does not fo much as tell Sarah 'his wife: for he knew not but fhe might be a fnare unto him in this affair; and, as Rebekab afterwards, on another occafion, advised Jacob to flee, fo Sarah also might persuade Isaac to hide himfelf; or the young men, had they known of it. might have forced him away, as in after-ages the foldiers refcued Jonathan out of the hands of Saul. But Abraham fought no fuch evafion, and therefore, like an Ifraelite indeed, in whom there was no guile, he himfelf refolutely " clave the wood for the burnt-offering, role up and went unto the place of which GOD had told him." In the fecond verse GOD commanded him to offer up his fon upon one of the mountains which he would tell him of. He commanded him to offer his fon up, but would not then directly tell him the place where: this was to keep him dependent and watching unto prayer: for there is nothing like being kept waiting upon GOD; and, if we do, affuredly GOD will reveal himself unto us yet further in his own time. Let us practife what we know, follow providence fo far as we can fee already; and what we know not, what we fee not as yet, let us only be found in the way of duty, and the LORD will reveal even that unto us. Abraham knew not directly where he was to offer up his fon; but he rifes up and fets forward, and behold now GoD fhews him : " And he went to the place of which GoD had told him." Let us go and do likewife.

Verse 4. " Then on the third day Abraham listed up his eyes, and faw the place afar off."

So that the place, of which GoD had told him, was no lefs than three days journey diftant from the place where GoD firft appeared to him, and commanded him to take his fon. Was not this to try his faith, and to let him fee that what he did, was not meerly from a fudden pang of devotion, but a matter of choice and deliberation? But who can tell what the aged patriarch felt during thefe three days? Strong as he was in faith, I am perfuaded his bowels often yearned over his dear fon Ifacc. Methinks I fee the good old man walking with his dear child in his hand, and now and then looking upon him, loving him, and then turning afide to weep. And perhaps, haps, fometimes he flays a little behind to pour out his heart before Gon, for he had no mortal to tell his cafe to. Then. methinks, I fee him join his fon and fervants again, and talking to them of the things pertaining to the kingdom of Gop. as they walked by the way. At length, " on the third day, he lifts up his eyes, and faw the place afar off." And, to fhew that he was yet funcerely refolved to do whatfoever the LORD required of him, he even now will not discover his defign to his fervants, but " faid, verse s. to his young men," (as we should fay to our worldly thoughts, when about to tread the courts of the LORD's house) "Abide you here with the ass; and I and the lad will go up yonder and worfhip, and come again to you." This was a sufficient reason for their staying behind; and, it being their master's custom to go frequently to worfhip, they could have no fuspicion of what he was going about. And by Abraham's faying, that he and the lad would come again, I am apt to think he believed GOD would raife him from the dead, if fo be he permitted him to offer his child up for a burnt-offering. However that be, he is yet refolved to obey GoD to the uttermost; and therefore, Verse 6. " Abraham took the wood of the burnt-offering, and laid it upon Ifaac his fon; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife, and they went both of them together." Little did Ifaac think that he was to be offered on that very wood which he was carrying upon his fhoulders; and therefore Ilaac innocently, and with a holy freedom (for good men fhould not keep their children at too great a diftance) " fpake unto Abraham his father, and faid, My father; and he (with equal affection and holy condescention) faid, Here am I, my fon." And to fhew how careful Abraham had bee 1 (as all chriftian parents ought to be) to inftruct his Ifaac how to facrifice to GoD, like a youth trained up in the way wherein he should go; Ifaac faid, "Behold the fire and the wood : but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering ?" How beautiful is early piety ! how amiable, to hear young people afk queftions about facrificing to GoD in an acceptable way! Ifaac knew very well that a lamb was wanting, and that a lamb was neceffary for a proper facrifice : " Behold the fire and the wood; but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering?" Young men and maidens, learn of him.

Hitherto,

Hitherto, it is plain, Ifaac knew nothing of his father's defign: but I believe, by what his father faid in answer to his question, that now was the time Abraham revealed it unto him.

Ver. 8. " And Abraham faid, My fon, GOD will provide himfelf a Lamb for a burnt-offering." Some think, that Abraham by faith faw the LORD JESUS afar off, and here spake prophetically of that Lamb of GOD already flain in decree, and hereafter to be actually offered up for finners. This was a lamb of GOD's providing indeed (we dared not have thought of it) to fatisfy his own justice, and to render him just in justifying the ungodly. What is all our fire and wood, the best preparation and performances we can make or prefent, unlefs Gop had provided himfelf this Lamb for a burnt-offering? He could not away with them. The words will well bear this interpretation. But, whatever Abraham might intend, I cannot but think he here made an application, and acquainted his fon, of GOD's dealing with his foul; and at length, with tears in his eyes, and the utmost affection in his heart, cried out, " Thou art to be the lamb, my Son;" GOD has commanded me to provide thee for a burnt-offering, and to offer thee upon the mountain which we are now afcending. And, as it appears from a fublequent verse, Isaac, convinced that it was the divine will. made no refistance at all : For it is faid, " They went both of them together;" and again, when we are told, that Abraham bound Isaac, we do not hear of his complaining. or endeavouring to escape, which he might have done, being (as fome think) near thirty years of age, and, it is plain, capable of carrying wood enough for a burnt-offering. But he was partaker of the like precious faith with his aged father. and therefore is as willing to be offered, as Abraham is to offer him : And " fo they went both of them together."

Ver. 9. At length "they came to the place of which God had told Abraham. He built an altar there, and laid the wood in order, and bound Ifaac his fon, and laid him on the altar upon the wood."

And here let us pause a while, and by faith take a view of the place where the father has laid him. I doubt not but the bleffed angels hovered round the altar, and fang, "Glory be to GOD in the highest," for giving such faith to man. Come,

Come, all ye tender-hearted parents, who know what it is to look over a dying child : fancy that you faw the altar erected before you, and the wood laid in order, and the belove Ilage bound upon it : fancy that you faw the aged parent ftanding by weeping. (For, why may we not suppose that Abraham wept, fince JESUS himself wept at the grave of Lazarus?) O what pious, endearing expressions passed now alternately between the father and the fon ! Josephus records a pathetic speech made by each, whether genuine I know not: but methinks I fee the tears trickle down the Patriarch Abraham's cheeks; and out of the abundance of the heart, he cries, Adieu, adieu, my fon; the LORD gave thee to me, and the LORD calls thee away; bleffed be the name of the LORD: adieu, my Isaac, my only fon, whom I love as my own foul; adieu, adieu. I see Ifaac at the fame time meekly refigning himfelf into his heavenly Father's hands, and praying to the most High to strengthen his earthly parent to ftrike the ftroke. But why do I attempt to describe what either fon or father felt ? It is impoffible : we may indeed form fome faint idea of, but shall never fully comprehend it, till we come and fit down with them in the kingdom of heaven, and hear them tell the pleafing flory over again. Haften, O LORD, that bleffed time ! O let thy kingdom come !

And now, the fatal blow is going to be given. "And Abraham ftretched forth his hand, and took the knife to flay his fon." But do you not think he intended to turn away his head, when he gave the blow? Nay, why may we not fuppofe he fometimes drew his hand in, after it was ftretched out, willing to take another laft farewell of his beloved Ijaac, and defirous to defer it a little, though refolved at laft to ftrike home? Be that as it will, his arm is now ftretched out, the knife is in his hand, and he is about to put it to his dear fon's throat.

But fing, O heavens! and rejoice, O earth! Man's extremity is GoD's opportunity: for behold, juft as the knife, in all probability, was near his throat, ver. 11. " the angel of the LORD, (or rather the LORD of angels, JESUS CHRIST, the angel of the everlafting covenant) called unto him, (probably in a very audible manner) from heaven, and faid, Abraham, Abraham. to engage his attention; and perhaps the fuddenness of the call made him draw back his hand, just as he was going to strike his son.) And Abraham said, Here am I."

"And he faid, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now know I that thou feareft GoD, feeing thou haft not withheld thy fon, thine only fon from me."

Here then it was that Abraham received his fon I/aac from the dead in a figure. He was in effect offered upon the altar. and Gop looked upon him as offered and given unto him. Now it was that Abraham's faith, being tried, was found more precious than gold purified feven times in the fire. Now as a reward of grace, though not of debt, for this fignal act of obedience, by an oath, GOD gives and confirms the promife, " that in his feed all the nations of the earth fhould be bleffed," ver. 17, 18. With what comfort may we suppose the good old man and his fon went down from the mount. and returned unto the young men ! With what joy may we imagine he went home, and related all that had passed to Sarah ! And above all, with what triumph is he now exulting in the paradile of GOD, and adoring rich, free, diffinguifhing, electing, everlafting love, which alone made him to differ from the reft of mankind, and rendered him worthy of that title which he will have fo long as the fun and the moon endure, " The Father of the faithful !"

But let us now draw our eyes from the creature, and do what Abraham, if he was prefent, would direct to; I mean, fix them on the Creator, GOD bleffed for evermore.

I fee your hearts affected, I fee your eyes weep. (And indeed, who can refrain weeping at the relation of fuch a flory?) But, behold, I fhew you a myftery, hid under the facrifice of Abraham's only fon, which, unlefs your hearts are hardned, muft caufe you to weep tears of love, and that plentifully too. I would willingly hope you even prevent me here, and are ready to fay, "It is the love of GoD, in giving JESUS "CHRIST to die for our fins." Yes; that is it. And yet perhaps you find your hearts, at the mentioning of this, not fo much affected. Let this convince you, that we are all fallen creatures, and that we do not love GOD or CHRIST as we ought to do: for, if you admire Abraham offering up his his Ifaac, how much more ought you to extol, magnify and adore the love of GoD, who fo loved the world, as to give his only begotten Son CHRIST JESUS our LORD, " that wholoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life?" May we not well cry out, Now know we. O LORD, that thou haft loved us, fince thou haft not withheld thy Son, thine only Son from us? Abraham was Gon's creature (and GOD was Abraham's friend) and therefore under the highest obligation to furrender up his Ifaac. But O flupendious love ! whilst we were his enemies, Gop fene forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law, that he might become a curse for us. O the freeness, as well as the infinity, of the love of GOD our Father ! It is unfearchable: I am loft in contemplating it; it is past finding out. Think, O believers, think of the love of GoD, in giving TESUS CHRIST to be a propitiation for our fms. And when you hear how Abraham built an altar, and laid the wood in order, and bound Ilaac his fon, and laid him on the altar upon the wood; think how your heavenly Father bound JESUS CHRIST his only Son, and offered him upon the altar of his justice, and laid upon him the iniquities of us all. When you read of Abraham's firetching forth his hand to flay his Son, Think, O think, how GOD actually fuffered his Son to be flain, that we might live for evermore. Do you read of Ilaac carrying the wood upon his shoulders, upon which he was to be offered ? Let this lead you to mount Calvary (this very mount of Moriab where Isaac was offered, as some think) and take a view of the antitype JESUS CHRIST, the Son of Gon, bearing and ready to fink under the weight of that crofs, on which he was to hang for us. Do you admire Ifaac to freely confenting to die, though a creature, and therefore obliged to go when Goo called ? O do not forget to admire infinitely more the dear LORD [ESUS, that promifed feed, who willingly faid, " Lo, I come," though under no obligation fo to do, " to do thy will," to obey and die for men, "O God !" Did you weep just now, when I bid you , fancy you faw the altar, and the wood laid in order, and Isaac laid bound on the altar? Look by faith, behold the bleffed JESUS, our all-glorious Emmanuel, not bound, but nailed on an accurfed tree : fee how he hangs crowned with thorns, thorns, and had in derifion of all that are round about him : fee how the thorns pierce him, and how the blood in purple ftreams trickle down his facred temples ! Hark how the Gou of nature groans ! See how he bows his head, and at length humanity gives up the ghost ! Ifaac is 'faved, but JESUS, the GOD of Ilaac, dies: A ram is offered up in Ilaac's room, but JESUS has no substitute; JESUS must bleed, JESUS must die: Gop the Father provided this Lamb for himself from all eternity. He must be offered in time, or man must be damned for evermore. And now, where are your tears ? Shall I fay, refrain your voice from weeping ? No; rather let me exhort you to look to him whom you have pierced, and mourn, as a woman moutneth for her first-born : for we have been the betrayers, we have been the murderers of this LORD of glory a and shall we not bewail those fins, which brought the bleffed JESUS to the accurfed tree ? Having fo much done, fo much fuffered for us, to much forgiven, thall we not love much ? O! let us love Him with all our hearts, and minds, and ftrength, and glorify him in our fouls and bodies, for they are his. Which leads me to a fecond inference I fhall draw from the foregoing discourse.

From hence we may learn the nature of true, justifying faith. Whoever understands and preaches the truth, as it is in JESUS, must acknowledge, that falvation is GoD's free gift, and that we are faved, not by any or all the works of righteousness which we have done or can do: no; we can neither wholly nor in part justify ourselves in the fight of GOD. The LORD JESUS CHRIST is our righteousnels; and if we are accepted with God, it must be only in and through the perfonal righteoufnefs, the active and paffive obedience, of JESUS CHRIST his beloved Son. This righteousness must be imputed, or counted over to us, and applied by faith to our hearts, or elle we can in no wise be justified in GoD's fight: and that very moment a finner is enabled to lay hold on CHRIST's righteousness by faith, he is freely justified from all his fins, and shall never enter into condemnation, notwithstanding he was a fire-brand of hell before. Thus it was that Abraham was justified before he did any good work : he was enabled to believe on the LORD CHRIST; it was acsounted to him for righteousness that is, CHRIST's righte-VOL. V. ouines oufnels was made over to him, and to accounted his. This, this is golpel; this is the only way of finding acceptance with GOD : good works have nothing to do with our justification in his fight. We are justified by faith alone, as faith the article of our church; agreeable to which the apostle Poul fave, "By grace ye are faved, through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of GoD." Notwithstanding. good works have their proper place : they justify our faith, though not our perfons; they follow it, and evidence our justification in the fight of men. Hence it is that the apofile James aiks, was not Abraham justified by works ? (alluding no doubt to the ftory on which we have been difcourfing) that is, did he not prove he was in a justified flate, because his faith was productive of good works ? This declarative juffification in the fight of men, is what is directly to be underflood in the words of the text; "Now know I, fays GoD, that thou feareft me, fince thou haft not withheld thy Son, thine only Son from me." Not but that GoD knew it before; but this is spoken in condescension to our weak capacities, and plainly fnews, that his offering up his fon was accepted with GOD, as an evidence of the fincerity of his faith, and for this, was left on record to future ages. Hence then you may learn, whether you are bleffed with, and are fons and daughters of, faithful Abraham. You fay you believe ; . you talk of free grace and free justification : you do well; the devils also believe and tremble. But has the faith, which you pretend to, influenced your hearts, renewed your fouls, and, like Abraham's, worked by love? Are your affections, like his, fet on things above ? Are you heavenly-minded, and like him, do you confess yourfelves ftrangers and pilgrims on the earth ? In thort, has your faith enabled you to overcome the world, and strengthned you to give up your Ifaacs, your laughter, your most beloved lusts, friends, pleasures, and profits for GOD ? If fo, take the comfort of it; for justly may you fay, "We know affuredly, that we do fear and love "God, or rather are loved of him." But if you are only talking believers, have only a faith of the head, and never felt the power of it in your hearts, however you may bolfter yourfelves up, and fay, "We have Abraham for our father, " or CHRIST is our Saviour;" unless you get a faith of the heart,

heart, a faith working by love, you shall never fit with Abraham, Ifaac, Jacob, or JESUS CHRIST, in the kingdom of heaven.

But I must draw one more inference, and with that I shall conclude.

Learn, O faints ! from what has been faid, to fit loofe to all your worldly comforts; and fland ready prepared to part with every thing, when GOD shall require it at your hand. Some of you perhaps may have friends, who are to you as your own fouls; and others may have children, in whofe lives your own lives are bound up : all I believe have their Isaacs, their particular delights of fome kind or other. Labour, for CHRIST's fake, labour, ye fons and daughters of Abraham, to refign them daily in affection to GOD, that, when he shall require you really to facrifice them, you may not confer with flefh and blood, any more than the bleffed patriarch now before us. And as for you that have been in any measure tried like unto him, let his example encourage and comfort you. Remember, Abraham your father was tried to before you: think, O think of the happines he now enjoys, and how he is incefantly thanking GOD for tempting and trying him when here below. Look up often by the eye of faith, and fee him fitting with his dearly beloved Haac in the world of spirits. Remember, it will be but a little while, and you shall fit with them also, and tell one another what GOD has done for your fouls. There I hope to fit with you, and hear this ftory of his offering up his Son from his own mouth, and to praife the Lamb that fitteth upon the throne, for what he hath done for all our fouls, for ever and ever.

SERMON IV.

The great Duty of Family-Religion.

JOSHUA XXIV. 15.

As for me and my House, we will serve the LORD.

HESE words contain the holy refolution of pious L Joshua, who having in a most moving, affectionate discourse recounted to the Israelites what great things Gon had done for them, in the verfe immediately preceding the text, comes to draw a proper inference from what he had been delivering; and acquaints them, in the most preffing terms, that fince GOD had been fo exceeding gracious unto them, they could do no lefs, than out of gratitude for fuch uncommon favours and mercies, dedicate both themselves and families to his fervice. "Now therefore, fear the LORD, and ferve him in fincerity and truth, and put away the GoDs which your fathers ferved on the other fide of the flood." And by the fame engaging motive does the prophet Samuel afterwards enforce their obedience to the commandments of GOD, I Sam. xii. 24. "Only fear the LORD, and ferve him in truth, with all your heart; for confider how great things he hath done for you." But then, that they might not excuse themselves (as too many might be apt to do) by his giving them a bad example, or think he was laving heavy burdens upon them, whilst he himself touched them not with one of his fingers, he tells them in the text, that whatever regard they might pay to the doctrine he had been preaching, yet he (as all ministers ought to do) was refolved to live up to and practife it himfelf : " Chufe you therefore, whom you will ferve, whether the Gods which your fathers ferved, or the Gods of the Amorites, in whofe land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD."

A refo-

A refolution this, worthy of Joshua, and no lefs becoming, no lefs neceffary for every true fon of Joshua, that is intrufted with the care and government of a family in our day: and, if it was ever feasonable for ministers to preach up, or people to put in practice family-religion, it was never more fo than in the prefent age; fince it is greatly to be feared, that out of those many housholds that call themselves christians, there are but few that ferve GoD in their respective families as they ought.

It is true indeed, visit our churches, and you may perhaps fee fomething of the form of godlinefs still subsisting amongst us; but even that is fearcely to be met with in private houses. So that were the blessed angels to come, as in the patriarchal age, and observe our spiritual oeconomy at home, would they not be tempted to fay as Abraham to Abimilech, "" Surely, the fear of GOD is not in this place ?" Gen. xx. 11.

How such a general neglect of family-religion first began to overspread the christian world, is difficult to determine. As for the primitive christians, I am positive it was not fo with them: No, they had not so learned CHRIST, as fallely to imagine religion was to be confined folely to their affemblies for public worship; but, on the contrary, behaved with fuch piety and exemplary holiness in their private families, that St. Paul often styles their house a church: "Salute such a one, fays he, and the church which is in his house." And, I believe, we must for ever despair of seeing a primitive spirit of piety revived in the world, till we are so happy as to see a revival of primitive family religion; and perfons unanimously resolving with good old Jashua, in the words of the text, "As for me and my house, we will serve the LORD."

From which words, I shall beg leave to infift on these three things.

- I. Fir/A, That it is the duty of every governor of a family to take care, that not only he himfelf, but also that those committed to his charge, "ferve the LORD."
- II. Secondly, I shall endeavour to shew after what manner a governor and his houshold ought to serve the LORD. And,

III.

Digitized by Google

III. Thirdly, I shall offer some motives, in order to excite all governors, with their respective housholds, to serve the LORD in the manner that shall be recommended.

And First, I am to thew that it is the duty of every governor of a family to take care, that not only he himself, but also that those committed to his charge, should serve the LORD.

And this will appear, if we confider that every governor of a family ought to look upon himfelf as obliged to act in three capacities : as a prophet, to inftruct ; as a prieft, to pray for and with; as a king, to govern, direct, and provide for them. It is true indeed, the latter of these, their kingly office, they are not fo frequently deficient in, (nay in this they are generally too folicitous;) but as for the two former. their prieftly and prophetic office, like Gallio, they care for no fuch things. But however indifferent fome governors may be about it, they may be affured, that GOD will require a due discharge of these offices as their hands. For if, as the apostle argues, " He that does not provide for his own house," in temporal things, " has denied the faith, and is worfe than an infidel;" to what greater degree of apoftafy must he have arrived, who takes no thought to provide for the fpiritual welfare of his family !

But farther, perfons are generally very liberal of their invectives against the clergy, and think they justly blame the conduct of that minister who does not take heed to and watch over the flock, of which the Holy Ghost has made him overleer: but may not every governor of a family, be in a lower degree liable to the fame censure, who takes no thought for those fouls that are committed to his charge? For every house is as it were a little parish, every governor (as was before observed) a priest, every family a flock: and if any of them perish through the governor's neglect, their blood will God require at their hands.

Was a minister to diffegard teaching his people publicly, and from house to house, and to excuse himself by saying, that he had enough to do to work out his own falvation with fear and trembling, without concerning himself with that of others; would you not be apt to think such a minister, to be like the unjust judge, "One that meither feared GoD, nor regarded man?" And yet, odious as fuch a character would be, it is no worfe than that governor of a family deferves, who thinks himfelf obliged only to fave his own foul, without paying any regard to the fouls of his houfhold. For (as was above hinted) every house is as it were a parish, and every master is concerned to fecure, as much as in him lies, the spiritual prosperity of every one under his roos, as any minister whatever is obliged to look to the spiritual welfare of every individual perfon under his charge.

What precedents men who neglect their duty in this particular, can plead for fuch omiffion, I cannot tell. Doubtlefs not the example of holy Job, who was to far from imagining that he had no concern, as governor of a family, with any one's foul but his own, that the fcripture acquaints us, "When the days of his childrens feafting were gone about, that Job fent and fanctified them, and offered burnt-offerings, according to the number of them all; for Job faid, It may be that my fons have finned and curfed GOD in their hearts : thus did Job continually." Nor can they plead the practice of good old Joshua, whom, in the text, we find as much concerned for his houshold's welfare, as his own. Nor lastly, that of Cornelius, who feared GOD, not only himfelf, but with all his house : and were christians but of the same spirit of Job, Johna, and the Gentile centurion, they would act as Job, Johna, and Cornelius did.

But alas ! if this be the cafe, and all governors of families ought not only to ferve the LORD themfelves, but likewife to fee that their respective housholds do so too; what will then become of those who not only neglect ferving GoD themsfelves, but also make it their buliness to ridicule and scoff at any of their house that do? Who are not content with " not entering into the kingdom of heaven themfelves; but those also that are willing to enter in, they hinder." Surely fuch men are factors for the devil indeed. Surely their damnation flumbereth not: for although GoD, in his good providence, may fuffer fuch flumbling-blocks to be put in his childrens way, and fuffer their greatest enemies to be those of their own housholds, for a trial of their fincerity, and improvement of their faith ; yet we cannot but pronounce a woe against those masters D 4 maîters by whom fuch offences come. For if those that only take care of their own fouls, can fcarcely be faved, where will fuch monstrous profane and wicked governors appear?

But hoping there are but few of this unhappy ftamp, proceed we now to the Second thing proposed; To shew after what manner a governor and his houshold ought to serve the LORD.

1. And the first thing I shall mention, is, reading the word of GOD. This is a duty incumbent on every private perfon. "Search the scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life," is a precept given by our bleffed LORD indifferently to all: but much more so, ought every governor of a family to think it in a peculiar manner spoken to himself, because (as hath been already proved) he ought to look upon himself as a prophet, and therefore, agreeably to such a character, bound to instruct those under his charge in the knowledge of the word of GOD.

This we find was the order GOD gave to his peculiar people Ifrael: for thus speaks his representative Moses, Deut. vi. 6, 7. "These words," that is, the scripture words, "which I command thee this day, shall be in thy heart, and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children," that is, as it is generally explained, servants, as well as children, " and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thy house." From whence we may infer, that the only reason, why so many neglect to read the words of scripture diligently to their children is, because the words of scripture are not in their hearts : for if they were, out of the abundance of the heart their mouth would speak.

Befides, fervants as well as children, are, for the generality, very ignorant, and mere novices in the laws of GOD: and how fhall they know, unlefs fome one teach them ? And what more proper to teach them by, than the lively oracles of GOD, " which are able to make them wife unto falvation?" And who more proper to inftruct them by thefe lively oracles, than parents and mafters, who (as hath been more than once obferved) are as much concerned to feed them with fpiritual, as with bodily bread, day by day.

But

But if these things be fo, what a miserable condition are those unhappy governors in, who are so far from feeding those committed to their care with the fincere milk of the word, to the intent they may grow thereby, that they neither search the foriptures themselves, nor are careful to explain them to others? Such families must be, in a happy way indeed to do their Master's will, who take such prodigious pains to know it ! Would not one imagine that they had turned converts to the Church of Rome; that they thought ignorance to be the mother of devotion; and that those were to be condemned as heretics who read their Bibles? And yet how few families are there amongst us, who do not act after this unseemly manner ! But shall I praise them in this ? I praise them not: Brethren, this thing ought not fo to be.

2. País we on now to the fecond means whereby every governor and his houshold ought to ferve the LORD, familyprayer.

This is a duty, though as much neglected, yet as abfolutely neceffary as the former. Reading is a good preparative for prayer, as prayer is an excellent means to render reading effectual. And the reafon why every governor of a family thould join both these exercises together, is plain, because a governor of a family cannot perform his prieftly office (which we before observed he is in some degree invested with) without performing this duty of family prayer.

We find it therefore remarked, when mention is made of Cain and Abel's offering facrifices, that they brought them. But to whom did they bring them ? Why, in all probability, to their father Adam, who, as prieft of the family, was to offer facrifice in their names. And fo ought every fpiritual fon of the fecond Adam, who is entrufted with the care of an houfhold, to offer up the fpiritual facrifices of fupplications and thankfgivings, acceptable to GoD through JESUS CHRIST, in the prefence and name of all who wait upon, or cat meat at his table.

Thus we read our bleffed LORD behaved, when he tabernacled amongft us: for it is faid often, that he prayed with his twelve difciples, which was then his little family. And he himfelf has promifed a particular bleffing to joint fupplications: 45 Wherefoever two or three are gathered together in my

soame, there am I in the midft of them." And again, "If two or three are agreed touching any thing they shall ask, it shall be given them." Add to this, that we are commanded by the Apostle to " pray always, with all manner of supplication," which doubtles includes family prayer. And holy Jobua, when he fet up the good refolution in the text, that he and his houshold would ferve the LORD, certainly refolved to pray with his family, which is one of the best testimonies they could give of their ferving him.

Befides, there are no families but what have fome common bleffings, of which they have been all partakers, to give thanks for; fome common croffes and afflictions, which they are to pray against; fome common fins, which they are all to lament and bewail : but how this can be done, without joining together in one common act of humiliation, fapplication, and thankfgiving, is difficult to devife.

From all which confiderations put together, it is evident, that family prayer is a great and neceffary duty; and confequently, those governors that neglect it, are certainly without excuse. And it is much to be feared, if they live without family prayer, they live without GoD in the world.

And yet, such an hateful character as this is, it is to be feared, that was GOD to fend out an angel to defiroy us, as he did once to deftroy the Egyptian first-born, and withal give him a commission, as then, to spare no houses but where they faw the blood of the lintel, fprinkled on the door-post, fo now, to let no families escape, but those that called upon him in morning and evening prayer; few would remain unhurt by his avenging fword. Shall I term fuch families christians or heathens? Doubtless they deserve not the name of christians; and heathens will rife up in judgment against fuch profane families of this generation : for they had always their houfhold gods, whom they worfhipped, and whole affiftance they frequently inwoked. And a pretty pais those families furely are arrived at, who must be fent to school to pagans. But will not the LORD be avenged on fuch profane housholds as these ? Will he not pour out his fury upon those that call not upon his name ?

3. But it is time for me to haften to the third and laft means I shall recommend, whereby every governor ought with his houshold to serve the LORD, catechizing and instructing their children and fervants, and bringing them up in the nurture and admonition of the LORD.

That this, as well as the two former, is a duty incumben? on every governor of an houle, appears from that famous encomium or commendation GOD gives of Abraham : " I know that he will command his children and his houthold after him. the LORD, to do justice and judgment." to keep the way And indeed fcarce any thing is more frequently preffed upon us in holy writ, than this duty of catechifing. Thus, fays GOD in a paffage before cited, " Thou shalt teach these words diligently unto thy children." And parents are commanded in the New Testament, to " breed up their children in the nurture and admonition of the LORD." The holy Pfalmift acquaints us, that one great end why GOD did fuch great wonders for his people, was, " to the intent that when they grew up, they should shew their children, or servants. "the fame." And in Deut. vi. at the 20th and following verfes, Gon firicity commands his people to instruct their children in the true nature of the ceremonial worthip, when they fhould enquire about it, as he supposed they would do, in time to come. And if fervants and children were to be instructed in the nature of Jewish rites, much more ought they now to be initiated and grounded in the doctrines and first principles of the gospel of CHRIST : not only, because it is a revelation, which has brought life and immortality to a fuller 'and clearer light, but also, because many seducers are gone abroad into the world, who do their utmost endeavour to deftroy not only the superstructure, but likewise to sap the very foundation of our most holy religion.

Would then the prefent generation have their posterity be true lovers and honourers of GoD; masters and parents must take Solomon's good advice, and train up and catechife their respective housholds in the way wherein they should go.

I am aware but of one objection, that can, with any fhew of reason, be urged against what has been advanced; which is, that such a procedure as this will take up too much time, and hinder families too long from their worldly business. But it is much to be questioned, whether persons that flart such an objection, are not of the same hypocritical spirit as the traitor Judas, who had indignation against devout Mary, for for being to profule of her ointment, in anointing our bleffed LORD, and afked why it might not be fold for two hundred pence, and given to the poor. For has GOD given us fo much time to work for ourfelves, and thall we not allow fome fmall pittance of it, morning and evening, to be devoted to his more immediate worthip and fervice? Have not people read, that it is GOD who gives men power to get wealth, and therefore that the beft way to profper in the world, is to fecure his favour? And has not our bleffed LORD himfelf promifed, that if we feek first the kingdom of GOD and his righteoufnefs, all outward neceffaries thall be added unto us?

Abraham, no doubt, was a man of as great bufinels as luch objectors may be; but yet he would find time to command his houfhold to ferve the LORD. Nay, David was a king, and confequently had a great deal of bufinels upon his hands; yet notwithftanding, he profeffes that he would walk in his houfe with a perfect heart. And, to inftance but one more, holy Johua was a perfon certainly engaged very much in temporal affairs; and yet he folemnly declares before all Ifrael, that as for him and his houfhold, they would ferve the LORD. And did perfons but redeem their time, as Abraham, David, or Johua did, they would no longer complain, that family duties kept them too long from the bufinels of the world.

III. But my Third and Laft general head, under which I was to offer fome motives, in order to excite all governors, with their respective housholds, to serve the LORD in the manner before recommended, I hope, will serve instead of a thoufand arguments, to prove the weakness and folly of any such objection.

1. And the first motive I shall mention is the duty of gratistude, which you that are governors of families owe to Gon. Your lot, every one must confers, is cast in a fair ground: providence hath given you a goodly heritage, above many of your fellow-creatures; and therefore, out of a principle of gratitude, you ought to endeavour, as much as in you lies, to make every perfon of your respective housholds to call upon him as long as they live: not to mention, that the authority, with which GoD has invested you as parents and governors of families, is a talent committed to your trust, and which you are are bound to improve to your Mafter's honour. In other things we find governors and parents can exercife lordfhip over their children and fervants readily, and frequently enough can fay to one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; to a third, Do this, and he doeth it. And fhall this power be fo often employed in your own affairs, and never exerted in the things of GoD? Be aftonifhed, O heavens, at this !

Thus did not faithful Abraham; no, GOD fays, that he knew Abraham would command his fervants and children after him. Thus did not fo/hua: no, he was refolved not only to walk with GOD himfelf, but to improve his authority in making all about him do fo too: "As for me and my houfhold, we will ferve the LORD." Let us go and do likewife.

2. But Secondly, If gratitude to GoD will not, methinks love and pity to your children fhould move you, with your respective families, to ferve the LORD.

Moft people express a great fondness for their children: nay fo great, that very often their own lives are wrapped up in those of their offspring. "Can a woman forget her sucking child, that the should not have compassion on the fon of her womb?" fays GoD by his Prophet Isaiab. He speaks of it as a monstrous thing, and scarce credible; but the words immediately following, affirm it to be possible, "Yea, they may forget:" and experience also affures us they may. Father and mother may both forsake their children: for what greater degree of forgetfulness can they express towards them, than to neglect the improvement of their better part, and not bring them up in the knowledge and fear of GoD?

It is true indeed, parents feldom forget to provide for their childrens bodies, (though, it is to be feared, fome men are fo far funk beneath the beafts that perifh, as to neglect even that) but then how often do they forget, or rather, when do they remember, to fecure the falvation of their immortal fouls? But is this their way of expreffing their fondnels for the fruit of their bodies? Is this the beft teftimony they can give of their affection to the darling of their hearts? Then was Dalilab fond of Samfon, when the delivered him up into the hands of the Philiftines: then were those ruffians well affected to Daniel, when they threw him into a den of lions.

3. But Thirdly, If neither gratitude to GOD, nor love and pity to your children, will prevail on you; yet let a principle of common honefly and justice move you to fet up the holy refolution in the text.

This is a principle which all men would be thought to act upon. But certainly, if any may be truly cenfured for their injuffice, none can be more liable to fuch cenfure, than those who think themfelves injured if their fervants withdraw themfelves from their bodily work, and yet they in return take no care of their ineftimable fouls. For is it just that fervants fhould spead their time and strength in their master's fervice, and masters not at the same time give them what is just and equal for their fervice?

It is true, fome men may think they have done enough when they give unto their fervants food and raiment, and fay, "Did not I bargain with thee for fo much a year?" But if they give them no other reward than this, what do they lefs for their very beafts? But are not fervants better than they? Doubtlefs they are: and however mafters may put off their convictions for the prefent, they will find a time will come, when they fhall know they ought to have given them fome fpiritual as well as temporal wages; and the cry of those that have mowed down their fields, will enter into the cars of the the LORD of Sabaoth.

4. But Fourthly, If neither gratitude to GOD, pity to children, nor a principle of common justice to fervants, are fufficient to balance all objections; yet let that darling, that prevailing motive of felf-interest turn the fcale, and engage you with your respective housholds to ferve the LORD.

This weighs greatly with you in other matters: be then perfuaded to let it have a due and full influence on you in this: and if it has, if you have but faith as a grain of muftard-feed, how can you avoid believing, that promoting family-religion, will be the beft means to promote your own temporal, as well as eternal welfare? For "Godlinefs has the promife of the life that now is, as well as that which is to come."

Besides, you all, doubtles, wish for honest servants, and pious children; and to have them prove otherwise, would be as great a grief to you, as it was to Elisha to have a treacherous Gebazi, Gehazi, or David to be troubled with a rebellious Abfalom. But how can it be expected they fhould learn their duty, except those fet over them, take care to teach it to them? Is it not as reasonable to expect you should reap where you had not fown, or gather where you had not strawed?

Did chriftianity, indeed, give any countenance to children and fervants to difregard their parents and mafters according to the flefh, or represent their duty to them, as inconfiftent with their entire obedience to their father and mafter who is in heaven, there might then be fome pretence to neglect inftructing them in the principles of fuch a religion. But fince the precepts of this pure and undefiled religion, are all of them holy, juft, and good; and the more they are taught their duty to GoD, the better they will perform their duties to you; methinks, to neglect the improvement of their fouls, out of a dread of spending too much time in religious duties, is acting quite contrary to your own interest as well as duty.

5. Fiftbly and Lastly, If neither gratitude to GOD, love to vour children, common justice to your servants, nor even that most prevailing motive self-interest, will excite; yet let a confideration of the terrors of the LORD perfuade you to put in practice the pious resolution in the text. Remember, the time will come, and that perhaps very fhortly, when we muft all appear before the judgment-feat of CHRIST; where we must give a folemn and strict account how we have had our conversation, in our respective families in this world. How will you endure to fee your children and fervants (who ought to be your joy and crown of rejoicing in the day of our LORD JESUS CHRIST) coming out as fo many fwift witneffes against you; curfing the father that begot them, the womb that bare them, the paps which they have fucked, and the day they ever entered into your houses? Think you not, the damnation which men must endure for their own fins, will be fufficient, that they need load themselves with the additional guilt of being acceffary to the damnation of others also? O confider this, all ye that forget to ferve the LORD with your respective housholds, " left he pluck you away, and there be none to deliver you !"

But GoD forbid, brethren, that any fuch evil fhould befal you: no, rather will I hope, that you have been in fome 5 measure measure convinced by what has been faid of the great importance of family-religion; and therefore are ready to cryout in the words immediately following the text, "GoD forbid that we should forstake the LORD;" and again, ver. 21, "Nay, but we will (with our feveral housholds) ferve the LORD."

And that there may be always fuch a heart in you, let me exhort all governors of families, in the name of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, often to reflect on the ineftimable worth of their own fouls, and the infinite ranfom, even the precious blood of JESUS CHRIST, which has been paid down for them. Remember, I besech you to remember, that you are fallen creatures; that you are by nature loft and effranged from GOD: and that you can never be reftored to your primitive happiness, till by being born again of the Holy Ghoft, you arrive at your primitive state of purity, have the image of God reftamped upon your fouls, and are thereby made meet to be partakers of the inheritance with the faints in light. Do. I fav. but ferioufly and frequently reflect on, and act as perfons that believe fuch important truths, and you will no more negleet your family's spiritual welfare than your own. No, the love of GOD, which will then be fhed abroad in your hearts, will conftrain you to do your utmost to preserve them : and the deep fense of GoD's free grace in CHRIST JESUS, (which you will then have) in calling you, will excite you to do your utmost to fave others, especially those of your own houshold. And though, after all your pious endeavours, fome may continue unreformed ; yet you will have this comfortable reflection to make, that you did what you could to make your families religious : and therefore may reft affured of fitting down in the kingdom of heaven, with Abraham, Joshua, and Cornelius, and all the godly housholders, who in their feveral generations fhone forth as fo many lights in their respective housholds upon earth. Amen.

CHRIST the best Husband: Or an earnest Invitation to Young Women to come and see CHRIST.

Preached to a Society of Young Women, in Fetter-Lane.

PSALM XIV. 10, 11.

Hearken, O Daughter, and confider, and incline thine Ear: Forget alfo thine own People, and thy Father's House: So shall the King greatly desire thy Beauty; for he is thy Lord, and worship thou him.

THIS pfalm is called the fong of loves, the most pure and fpiritual, the most dear and delightful loves; namely, those which are between CHRIST the beloved, and his church, which is his spouse; wherein is set forth, first, the LORD JESUS CHRIST in regard of his majesty, power, and divinity, his truth, meekness and equity: And then the spouse is set forth, in regard of her ornaments, companions, attendants and posterity; and both in regard of their comelines and beauty. 'After the description of CHRIST, an invitation to his espoufals, is given the children of men, called by the name of daughter; and therefore, particularly applicable unto you, my dear fisters, as being the daughters of men, yet not se as excluding the fons of men.

I shall now, therefore, confider the words, as spoken to you in particular, and containing this doctrine;

That the LORD JESUS CHRIST doth invite the daughters of men to be his fpoufe; and is exceeding defirous of their beauty; who, forgetting their people and father's houfe, de Vol. V. E hearkens hearken, confider and incline to his invitation, and join themfelves to him in this relation.

· [66]

I shall shew,

I. How CHRIST doth espouse himself unto the children, but, more especially, unto the daughters of men.

The LORD JESUS CHRIST, doth efpouse himself unto the children of men, in this world, but the public folemnization of the marriage, is referved until the last day; when his spouse shall be brought forth to him, in white robes, and a raiment of perfect righteousnels, more rich and curious, my dear sisters, than any of your needle-work; and the marriage feast will be kept in his Father's house, in heaven, where they shall be received into the nearest and closest embraces of his lower. The marriage knot is tied here, in which are included four things:

First, Mutual Choice, Secondly, Mutual Affection. Thirdly, Mutual Union. Fourthly, Mutual Obligation.

First, My dear fifters, there is a mutual choice, which is not only in CHRIST, as Mediator, but also by CHRIST as the eternal Son of GOD, yea, GOD himself; notwithstanding all that the polite Arians and Socinians fay to the contrary. The LORD JESUS CHRIST, my dear fifters, doth chuse you merely by his free grace; it is freely of his own mercy, that he brings you into the marriage covenant: You, who have fo grievously offended him, yet, the LORD JESUS CHRIST hath chosen you; you did not, you would not have chosen him; but when once, my dear fifters, he hath chosen you, then, and not till then, you make choice of him for your Lord and Husband.

The LORD JESUS CHRIST when he first comes to you, finds you full of fin and pollution; you are deformed, defiled, enflaved, poor, miferable and wretched, very despicable and loathsome, by reason of fin; and he maketh choice of you, not because of your holines, nor of your beauty, nor of your being qualified for them; no, the LORD JESUS CHRIST puts those qualifications upon you, as may make you meet for his embrace; and you are drawn to make choice of this LORD JESUS CHRIST because he first chose you.

Secondly,

Secondly, In this efpoufal of your's, my dear fifters, there is a mutual affection; this doth accompany the choice. Your hearts are drawn out after CHRIST; your fouls pant and long for him; you cannot be at reft until you are engaged to this JESUS: You are ready to cry out continually, none but CHRIST, none but CHRIST: this is the language of your hearts, if you are truly fenfible of your need of him. The more acquaintance you have of this LORD JESUS, the mote pleafed you are with your choice, and the more your affections are drawn towards him. And where can you place your affections better than upon that JESUS who fhed his blood for your fakes? Surely he deferves both your loves and affections: Go on, go on, my dear fifters, that your affections may grow ftronger and ftronger.

Thirdly, There is not only mutual choice, and mutual affection, but likewife mutual Union: And here doth the marriage lie chiefly, in this union; CHRIST and fouls are contracted, and the knot is tied fo faft, that neither men on earth, how great foever they be, nor devils in hell, though they fhould combine all their wrath and rage together, ftill they cannot diffolve, they cannot untie it; no, my dear fifters, it is indiffolvable, for the union is, by the fpirit, on CHRIST's part, and by faith on your's: By the fpirit, CHRIST doth lay hold on you; and by faith, you do lay hold on him; and thus the match is made; CHRIST becomes your's, his perfon, portion, and all his benefits are your's; and you become CHRIST's, your perfons, your hearts, and all that you have is refigned up unto him; and O that they may be fo more and more.

Fourthly, There is a mutual Obligation between CHRIST and his fpoule. CHRIST obliges himfelf to love you here; he will not, indeed he never will leave you, he will protect you from the malice of the Pharifees of this generation, he will provide for you in all difficulties; he will live with you here, and at laft he will take you to himfelf, to live with him for ever. And you are engaged to him to be loving, loyal, faithful, obedient; and you are to flick clofe to him as long as you live; and then you will find yourfelves to be married to the beft advantage, both for foul and body, for time and for eternity.

II. CHRIST doth invite all of you to be his fpouse.

And it is on this account that he fends forth his ministers to preach. It is this, that makes me thus come among you; that you would accept of this invitation, to which, in the name of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, I do call and intreat you to take him, on his own terms. He calls all of you, my fifters, whether elder or younger, whether married or unmarried, of higher degree, or of the meanest quality, the poorest fervants, yea, the rabble of this world, as the world calls you, who are willing to be espoused unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST. I fay, the poor are as welcome to be CHRIST's spoule as those that are rich. He regardeth not the rich more than the poor: he chofe a mean virgin, espoufed to a carpenter, to be his mother; and he chuseth and calleth all such to be his spouse; then be not discouraged at your being despised in the world ; for if you are but loved by CHRIST, and espoused to him, it will be an over-fufficiency for all the trouble that you have met with here.

III. Those who would be espoused unto CHRIST, must hearken, consider, and incline to his invitation, and forget even their father's house.

Such as would be espoused unto CHRIST must hearken. "Hearken, O daughter." Many amongst you, my sisters, stop their ears against the calls of the gospel; they shut their ears like the deaf adder, which will not hearken unto the voice of the charmer, though he charm never so wifely. You will not hearken unto the invitations of CHRIST; you can hearken unto the vanities of the world, and be delighted with the espousals of the world, but never think, or are delighted with the espousals of CHRIST.

It was by the ear, that the temptation of fin was received by the first man, when he departed from GOD; and by the ear, the invitation to be CHRIST's spoule must be received, before the heart will be opened to receive JESUS CHRIST in this conjugal relation.

If you would, my dear fifters, be espoused to CHRIST, you must confider CHRIST's invitation. It is not a flight or bare hearing of CHRIST's invitation, which will be of any service to you, or make up the match between CHRIST and your fouls; no, you must receive CHRIST in the heart; you must confider the thing itself, the advantages of it, the difference between CHRIST's invitations and the devil's temptations, or any of the world's proffers.

Those who would be espoused to CHRIST, must be inclined to accept of CHRIST's invitation. "Hearken, O daughter, confider and incline thine ear." This is to incline your hearts: You must consent with you wills; there must be a compliance to the motion of CHRIST, and you must have defires after CHRIST, and then your hearts will fay, 'LORD, let us be thy spouse, and be thou our beloved.'

You must likewise forget your father's house. "Hearken, O daughter, and confider, and forget thy father's house." You are not here to caft off all affections unto natural relations; but you must forget all relations, so as to be ready to forego all their favour, when it ftandeth in competition with that of the LORD JESUS CHRIST; and do not let your carnal friends and relations hinder you from closing with, and espoufing the LORD JESUS. I earnestly beseech you to fuffer the loss of any thing, rather than to lose his favours; you must indeed forget your own people, that is, you must forget all your evil customs which you have learned in your father's house, and forfake all your vain conversation, your reading of plays, novels, or romances; and you must keep from learning to fing the fongs of the drunkard; for CHRIST, if you are his spouse, hath redeemed you.

Such of you, my dear fifters, as are efpoufed to the LORD JESUS CHRIST are very beautiful. I do not mean in respect of your bodies; you may have less of external comeliness than others, in respect of your bodies, but as to your fouls you will exceed in beauty, not fo much in the eyes of man, as in the eyes of GOD; fuch have the most beautiful image of GOD ftamped upon them; none in the world, befide them, have the least fpark of spiritual beauty. Such as are not married to CHRIST, are unregenerated, they are not born again, nor brought from fin unto GOD, which must be done before you be espouled to CHRIST.

clefts of the rock, in the fecret places of the flairs, let me fee thy countenance, let me hear thy voice, for fweet is thy voice, and thy countenance is comely." He calleth his fpoufe his love, being the dear object of his love; and he admireth her loveliness; he repeats it twice in one verse, " Behold thou art fair, my love, behold thou art fair." Thus you fee he defcribes their beauty. And then, my fifters, we have a wonderful expression of CHRIST to his spoule, " Thou hast ravished my heart, my fister, my spouse, thou hast ravished my heart with one of thine eyes, with one chain of thy neck." Thus you fee how pleafed the LORD JESUS CHRIST is with his fpouse; and will not you, therefore, be espoused unto the LORD JESUS? I offer JESUS CHRIST to all of you; if you have been never fo notorious for fin, if you have been as great a harlot as Mary Magdalen was, when once you are efpoused to CHRIST, you shall be forgiven. Therefore be not discouraged, at whatever flights and contempts the world may pais upon you, but come and join yourfelves to the LORD JESUS CHRIST, and all your fins shall be washed away in his blood; and when once you are espoused to JESUS, you are disjoined from fin, you are born again. You are now, as it were, espoused unto fin; fin is your husband, and you are too fond of it, but when once you are married to CHRIST, when you are born again, then you may be faid to die unto fin; but till then, fin liveth in your affections; therefore, my fifters, give fin its death-wound in your hearts; you have been called by the word time after time, and it has had no effect upon you; but when you are espoufed unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST, then you will be brought to him by his Spirit : You will then lay hold on him by faith, his Spirit will draw you unto himfelf; he will make you to be willing in the day of his power; he will give you faith in him. Faith is the hand of the foul which layeth hold on CHRIST; therefore, do not reft contented till you have this grace of faith wrought in you with power; do not be contented till you have received the LORD JESUS CHRIST.

Embrace CHRIST in the arms of your deareft love; then you love the LORD JESUS CHRIST with fincerity, when you love and efteem him before father, mother, or all the delights and pleafures of this life; but if you do delight in any thing that that this world can produce, more than in the LORD JESUS CHRIST, you have no true love to him.

If you are espoused to CHRIST, you have acquaintance and converse with him; you will endeavour to promote his intereft, and advance his name in the world; when others are going to the polite and fashionable diversions of life, you will be labouring to bring honour to the LORD JESUS CHRIST; you will commend your beloved above all other beloveds, and endeavour to bring others into love to him. Can you, my dear fisters, who are now affembled to worship God, shew fuch evidence of your espoulals unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST? O! how joyful, how comfortable an effate is this! Surely this is a marriage worth feeking after; this is the only defirable marriage, and the LORD JESUS CHRIST is the only lover that is worth seeking after.

Now, my dear fifters, I shall speak a few words to those of you who have not yet espoused yourselves to the LORD JESUS. It is a great fin, and furely you highly affront the LORD that bought you. It is likewife your folly to refuse and neglect the gracious proffers of being the fpouse of CHRIST; hereby you forfeit all that love which he would beftow upon you; hereby you chuse rags before robes, dross before gold, pebbles before jewels, guilt before a pardon, wounds before healing, defilement before cleanfing, deformity before comeliness, trouble before peace, flavery before liberty, the fervice of the devil before the fervice of CHRIST. Hereby you chuse dishonour before a crown, death before life, hell before heaven, eternal mifery and torment before everlafting joy and glory. And need there a farther evidence of your folly and madness, in refufing and neglecting CHRIST to be your spoule.

My dear fifters, I should exceed the limits of your time, should I particularize all the advantages which you would obtain by being espoused to the LORD JESUS. This is your wildom; they are foolifh virgins who refuse; but you are the wife virgins who have accepted of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, and have disposed of yourselves to him; you have made the wifest choice; and however the blind world may deem you fools, and defpife you as being methodically mad, yet you are wife in the effeem of GoD, and will, one day, appear to in the effeem of them that now defpife you. It is your glory that that you are efpoused unto the LORD JESUS; and therefore glory in your espousal; glory not in yourselves, but in the LORD who hath thus freely and graciously bestowed these favours upon you. It is your fastery to be espoused unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST, he will protect and defend you even from fin and fatan, and eternal ruin; and therefore thus far you are fase; he hath a regard for you in times of danger from men, and these times of danger seem to be hastening; it is now arising as a black cloud no bigger than a man's hand, and by and by it will overspread the heavens, and when it is full it will burst; but if you are espoused to CHRIST, you are fase.

Now, my dear fifters, I fhall conclude with an earneft exhortation to high and low, rich and poor, one with another, to be espoused unto CHRIST.

Let me speak unto you, young women, who are not yet espoused unto CHRIST, in an especial manner. It may be to fatisfy your curiosity, has brought many of you here; though, perhaps, this may be the time when you shall be brought home to embrace the LORD JESUS, and be espoused to him. And O, that I may persuade you, by his Spirit, to espouse yourselves unto the LORD of life.

And if you are but brought to close with the LORD JESUS CHRIST, I shall attain my end, and then both you and I shall rejoice that I preached this fermon to you.

Come virgins, will you give me leave to be a fuitor unto you, not in my own name, but in the name of the LORD? O! that I may prevail with you for your affections, and perfuade you to give them unto CHRIST! May I be inftrumental of bringing your fouls to CHRIST! May I be inftrumental to join you and CHRIST together this day!

Be not coy, as fome of you poffibly are in other loves; modefty and the virgin blufh may very well become you, when propofals of another kind are made unto you; but here coynefs is folly, and backwardnefs to accept of this motion, is fhame: you have ten thoufand times more reafon to blufh at the refulal of CHRIST for your beloved, than at the acceptance; when otherwife the devil and fin would ravifh your virgin affections. Never had you a better motion made to you; never was fuch a match proffered to you as this, of being matched and efpoufed unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST.

Con

Confider who the LORD JESUS is, whom you are invited to espouse yourselves unto; he is the best husband; there is none comparable to JESUS CHRIST.

Do you defire one that is great? He is of the higheft dignity, he is the glory of heaven, the darling of eternity, admired by angels, dreaded by devils, and adored by faints. For you to be espoused to so great a king, what honour will you have by this espousal?

Do you defire one that is rich? None is comparable to CHRIST, the fulnefs of the earth belongs to him. If you be efpoufed to CHRIST, you shall share in his unfearchable riches; you shall receive of his fulnefs, even grace for grace here, and you shall hereafter be admitted to glory, and shall live with this JESUS to all eternity.

Do you defire one that is wife? There is none comparable to CHRIST for wifdom. His knowledge is infinite, and his wifdom is correspondent thereto. And if you are espoufed to CHRIST, he will guide and counfel you, and make you wife unto falvation.

Do you defire one that is potent, who may defend you againft your enemies, and all the infults and reproaches of the Pharifees of this generation? There is none that can equal CHRIST in power; for the LORD JESUS CHRIST hath all power.

Do you defire one that is good? There is none like unto CHRIST in this regard; others may have fome goodnefs, but it is imperfect; CHRIST's goodnefs is compleat and perfect, he is full of goodnefs, and in him dwelleth no evil.

Do you defire one that is beautiful? His eyes are most sparkling, his looks and glances of love are ravishing, his similes are most delightful and refreshing unto the soul: CHRIST is the most lovely person of all others in the world.

Do you defire one that can love you? None can love you like CHRIST: His love, my dear fifters, is incomprehenfible; his love paffeth all other loves: The love of the LORD JESUS is first, without beginning; his love is free without any motive; his love is great without any measure; his love is constant without any change, and his love is everlafting.

It was the love of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, my dear fifters, which brought him down from heaven; and which veiled veiled his divinity in a human foul and body; for he is Gon over all bleffed for ever: It was love that made him fubject to hunger, thirst and forrow; he was humbled, even unto death for you; for you who are espoused to him, he underwent the painful, fhameful and ignominious death of the crofs : and can you, my fifters, hear this, and not be concerned to think that the bleffed JESUS underwent all this for fuch finful creatures as you and I are? And when out of love he had finished the redemption on earth, as to what was needful for fatisfaction; it was his love that carried him back to heaven, where he was before, that he might make application of what he had purchased, that there he might make interceffion for those whom he had redeemed, and prepare a place for them, even glorious manfions with himfelf, in the houfe not made with hands, which is eternal in the heavens. It is out of love that he fendeth such tokens to his people from heaven to earth, which he conveyeth through his ordinances, by his Spirit unto them. Surely then none is fo deferving as the LORD JESUS CHRIST for you to espouse yourfelves unto: if you be espoused unto CHRIST he is your's, all that 'he is, all that he hath; you shall have his heart, and share in the choiceft expressions of his dearest love.

The LORD JESUS CHRIST, my dear fifters, doth befeech you to be his fpoufe. We ministers have a commission, from the LORD JESUS CHRIST to invite you, in his name, unto this very thing; and CHRIST's invitations are real; general; frequent; earneft; free.

CHRIST's invitations of you, to be his fpoufe, are real; and as the thing is real, fo you, my dear fifters, are really invited unto it. The LORD doth not mock and diffemble with you, as fome pretending lovers, who diffemble love unto virgins, until they have gained their affections, and then falfely and bafely relinquish them, never really intending either to espoufe, or marry them: but the LORD doth really intend the thing, in his invitations of you; he never cast off any whose confent and affections he had gained. Again, CHRIST's invitations of you, my dear fifters, are general. All of you are invited, none of you are excluded; all forts of finners are invited; the most vile and abominable finners, the most notorious tranfgreffors are invited to be CHRIST's fpouse, fpouse, and shall be as welcome as any unto the embraces of his love.

CHRIST's invitations of you are frequent: JESUS CHRIST calls on you frequently; he hath waited on you time after time, one year after another; and he doth now invite you, by me this day, to come unto Him. Do not flight this invitation, but receive it with joy and thankfulnefs. Come, I befeech you, to this JESUS, who thus invites you to be his fpoufe. Again, CHRIST's invitations to be his fpouse are earnest; he doth call upon you, and not only call, but call earnestly too; yea, he useth many arguments with you: he will press you to come unto him; he is loth to take any denial from you; he knocks, and knocks hard at the door of your hearts for entertainment; and furely you will not deny the LORD of life and glory who died for you, and gave himself for you: O my dear fisters, let this be the evening of your espousals to the LORD JESUS CHRIST.

He invites you freely to be his fpouse, for all his invitations are free; he doth not expect a portion with you, as worldly lovers do; He wants nothing of you: nay, you must have nothing, if you be espoused unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST. If you be poor, miscrable, blind, naked, JESUS CHRIST will supply all these defects of his own free mercy; he will fill and supply you with all things out of his treasury; he will make you meet for himself; he will prepare you to live with him for ever.

Confider, if you be once espoused unto CHRIST, if once joined in this relation, you shall never be separated from him; neither men nor devils shall be able to separate you: none, none, shall disjoin you; and when death doth break all other bonds, it shall not break the conjugal bond between you and CHRIST, but bring you unto the most full and everlassing possession of your beloved.

And what do you now fay, young women ? fhall I have a grant for my mafter, or be fent away with a repulse and refusal; no, I cannot carry such a message to my master; I hope better things of you, my fisters, and things which accompany falvation: methinks by this time ye should begin to have a mind unto JESUS CHRIST; you look as if you did defire; defire; you hearken as if you would confent. What do you fay? Shall the match be made up this evening between CHRIST and your fouls? O that I may be inftrumental in joining your hands, or rather your hearts together: O that I may be inftrumental to tie that knot, which never can be unloofed.

Some marry in hafte, and repent at leifure; but if you were once espoused unto JESUS CHRIST, you would never repent; nothing would grieve you, but that you were not joined to him sooner; and you would not be disjoined again for all the world.

Shall this be the day of your espoulals? Some of you have flayed a long time; and will you defer any longer? If you will not now, perhaps you may never have another opportunity; this may be the last time of asking; and therefore it is dangerous to refuse: fome of you are very young, too young for other espousals; but none of you, my dear fisters, are too young to be espoused unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST: in other espousals, you must have the consent of your parents; but in this you are at your own disposal; you may give, and ought to match yourselves to CHRIST, whether parents do consent or not.

But if any of you should ask, what you must do that you may be espoused unto CHRIST ? You must be fensible of your need of being espoused to him; and untill you are fenfible of your need of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, you cannot be espoused to him: You must have defires after this TESUS, and feek unto him for an interest in him; you must cry nightly unto him to espouse you to himself: put off the filthine's of fin and all its defilements; and then, my fifters, put on the white raiment, and clean garments, which CHRIST hath provided for you, the robes of his righteousnes; in these garments you shall be beautiful; and in these garments you shall be accepted : you must have the wedding garment on; you must put off all your own good works, for they will be but a means to keep you from CHRIST; no, you must come as not having your own righteousness, which is of the law, but you must have the righteousness of CHRIST. Therefore, come unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST, and he will give it to you; he will not fend you away without it. Receive Receive him upon his own terms, and he is your's for ever: O devote yourfelves to him, foul and body, and all, to be his for ever; and CHRIST will be your's, and then happy, happy you, that ever you were born ! But if any of you die before this elpoufal unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST, then woe, woc, unto you, that ever you had a being in life; but if you go to CHRIST you fhall be elpoufed unto the LORD JESUS: though your fins have been never fo great, yea, the blood of CHRIST will cleanfe you from them; the marriage covenant between CHRIST and your fouls will diffolve all your fins; you will then be weary of your old ways, for all things will become new in your fouls.

Now, my dear Sifters, I fhall conclude by just speaking a word or two to those of you, who are already espoused unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST.

O admire, admire the rich and free grace, which hath brought you to this relation : Is not this an inftance of the greateft of love, that you fhould be the fpoule of the LORD JESUS CHRIST ? You that had no beauty, you that had no comelinefs, that was full of fin, that He fhould embrace fuch as you and I are; that we fhould be taken into the embrace of this LORD JESUS. O infinite condefcending kindnefs ! O amazing love ! Reverence, reverence, I befeech you, this LORD JESUS CHRIST.

He is your LORD, and you muft reverence him, love and be faithful unto him, be fubject to him, and careful to pleafe him in every thing; endeavour to keep up a daily communion with him; look, long and prepare for CHRIST's fecond appearance, when the nuptials between you fhall be folemnized, and you live with him in manfions of everlafting joys, where you fhall love and live with this king of glory for ever and ever.

I know not how to conclude; methinks I could fpeak to you till midnight, if it would bring you unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST, and make you be espoused to him, for indeed, that will be the espousal which will turn to the greatest advantage, as you will find by experience, if you will but make the trial; and that you may do so, my prayers and my constant endeavours shall be used.

I will,

J will, my dear fifters, fpend and be fpent for you, and by the affiftance of GoD, will perfevere in this that I have begun; and as many of you may have opportunity fome evening in the week, without breaking in on the bufinefs of life; I fhall therefore, my fifters, either be here, or where you fhall be publicly acquainted with : I will not mind being reproached or defpifed : the men of this world may use what language they please; they may fay I am a Methodist. Indeed, my fifters, I am resolved, by the grace of GoD, to use all methods I can, to pluck you from Satan, that you may be as brands plucked from the burning fire : this shall be my method, which I hope will be the means of effectually faving your precious and immortal fouls.

And if I am the inftrument of this, I fhall rejoice, yea, and I will rejoice in fpight of what men, or devils, can fay or do to the contrary: and may the LORD JESUS CHRIST direct, and affift me at all times, to act what will be most for his glory, and the welfare of your fouls: and may you all fay a hearty Amen thereto.

"Now the LORD JESUS CHRIST, who is GOD over all, "bleffed for ever, affift and watch over you, keep you from all evil and fin here, and prefent you before his "Father faultlefs at the great day of account ! To this "LORD JESUS CHRIST, the Father, and the bleffed "Spirit, three perfons and but one eternal and invifible "GOD, be afcribed all honour, power, glory, might, "majefty and dominion, now, henceforth, and for ever "more. Amen, Amen."

"The grace of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, the love of "GOD, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost be with "you all, to comfort under, and deliver you from tri-"bulation; to preferve you to your respective places of abode; and when there, to keep you in his fear, that you may live to his glory; that to live may be CHRIST's, and to die be your eternal gain; fo that. you may live with him through eternal ages, and fing "Hallelujahs to him for ever. Amen."

SERMON

SERMONVI.

Britain's Mercies, and Britain's Duty.

Preached at Philadelphia, on Sunday, August 24, 1746. and occasioned by the Suppression of the late unnatural Rebellion.

PSALM CV. 45.

That they might observe his Statutes and keep his Laws.

FEN, brethren, and fathers, and all ye to whom I am about to preach the kingdom of GoD, I suppose you need not be informed, that being indifpenfibly obliged to be absent on your late thanksgiving-day, I could not shew my obedience to the governor's proclamation, as my own inclination led me, or as might justly be expected from, and demanded of . me. But as the occasion of that day's thanksgiving is yet, and I truft ever will be, fresh in our memory, I cannot think that a difcourse on that subject can even now be altogether unseafonable. I take it for granted, further, that you need not be informed, that among the various motives which are generally urged to enforce obedience to the divine commands. that of love is the most powerful and cogent. The terrors of the law may affright and awe, but love diffolves and melts the "The love of CHRIST," fays the great apostle of heart. the Gentiles, " constraineth us." Nay, love is fo abfolutely neceffary for those that name the name of CHRIST, that without it, their obedience cannot truly be fliled evangelical, or be acceptable in the fight of God. "Although, (fays the apoftle) I beftow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burnt, and have not charity," (i. e. unlefs unfeigned love to GoD, and to mankind for his great great name's fake, be the principle of fuch actions, howfoever it may benefit others) it profiteth me nothing." This is the conftant language of the lively oracles of Gop. And, from them it is equally plain, that nothing has a greater tendency to beget and excite fuch an obediential love in us. than a ferious and frequent confideration of the manifold mercies we receive time after time from the hands of our heavenly Father. The royal plalmift, who had the honour of being fliled, " the man after GoD's own heart," had an abundant ' experience of this. Hence it is, that whilft he is mufing on the divine goodness, the fire of divine love kindles in his foul; and, out of the abundance of his heart, his mouth fpeaketh fuch grateful and extatic language as this. "What fhall I render unto the LORD for all his mercies? Blefs the LORD, O my foul, and all that is within me, blefs his holy name." And why? "who forgiveth all thine iniquities, who healeth all thy difeafes, who redeemeth thy life from destruction, who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies." And when the fame holy man of GOD had a mind to ftir up the people of the Jews to fet about a national reformation, as the most weighty and prevailing argument he could make use of for that purpose, he lays before them, as it were, in a draught, many national mercies, and diffinguishing deliverances, which have been conferred upon and wrought out for them, by the most high GOD. The pfalm to which the words of our text belong, is a pregnant proof of this; it being a kind of epitome or compendium of the whole Fewish history : at least it contains an enumeration of many fignal and extraordinary bleffings the Ifraelites had received from GoD, and also the improvement they were in duty bound to make of them, " Observe his statutes and keep his laws."

To run through all the particulars of the pfalm, or draw a parallel (which might with great eafe and juffice be done) between GoD's dealings with us and the Ifraelites of old : To enumerate all the national mercies beftowed upon, and remarkable deliverances wrought out for the kingdoms of Great-Britain and Ireland, from the infant flate of William the Norman to their prefent manhood, and more than Augufian maturity, under the aufpicious reign of our rightful Sovereign King

King George the fecond; howfoever pleafing and profitable it might be at any other time, would, at this juncture, prove, if not an irkfome, yet an unreafonable undertaking.

The occasion of the late folemnity, I mean the suppression of a most horrid and unnatural rebellion, will afford more. than sufficient matter for a discourse of this nature, and furnish us with abundant motives to love and obey that glorious Jehovah, who give h falvation unto kings, and delivers his people from the hurtful fword.

Need I make an apology, before this auditory, if, in order to fee the greatness of our late deliverance, I should remind you of the many unspeakable bleffings which we have for a course of years enjoyed, during the reign of his present Majesty, and the gentle, mild administration under which we live? Without juftly incurring the centure of giving flattering titles, I believe all who have eyes to fee, and ears to hear, and are but a little acquainted with our public affairs, must acknowledge, that we have one of the best of Kings. It is now above nineteen years fince he began to reign over us. And yet, was he feated on a royal throne, and were all his fubjects placed before him, was he to address them as Samuel once addreffed the Ifraelites, "Behold here I am, old and grey-headed, witness against me before the LORD, whole ox have I taken? Or whole als have I taken? Or whom have I defrauded ? Whom have I oppressed ?" They must, if they would do him justice, make the same answer as was given to Samuel, " Thou haft not defrauded us, nor oppressed us." What Tertullus, by way of flattery, faid to Felix, may with the ftricteft juffice be applied to our fovereign, "By thee we enjoy great quietness, and very worthy deeds have been done unto our nation by thy providence." He has been indeed Pater Patria, a father to our country, and though old and grey-headed, has jeoparded his precious life for us in the high places of the field. Nor has he lefs deferved the great and glorious title, which the LORD promifes, that kings should fustain in the latter days, I mean, " a nursing father of the church." For not only the Church of England, as by law eftablished, but all denominations of christians whatsoever, have enjoyed their religious as well as civil liberties. As there has been no authorized oppreffion in the flate, fo there VOL. V. has

has been no publicly allowed perfecution in the church. We breathe indeed in free air ? as free (if not freer) both as to temporals and spirituals, as any nation under heaven. Nor is the profuect likely to terminate in his majefty's death, which I pray God to defer. Our princeffes are disposed of to protestant powers. And we have great reason to be affured, that the present heir apparent, and his confort, are like minded with their royal father. And I cannot help thinking, that it is a peculiar bleffing vouchfafed us by the King of kings, that his prefent Majefty has been continued to long among us. For now, his immediate fucceffor (though his prefent fituation obliges him, as it were, to lie dormant) has great and glorious opportunities, which we have reason to think he daily improves, of observing and weighing the national affairs, confidering the various fteps and turns of government, and confequently of laying in a large fund of experience, to make him a wife and great prince, if ever GOD fhould call him to Happy art thou, O England! fway the British sceptre. Happy art thou, O America, who on every fide art thus highly favoured !

But, alas ! how foon would this happy fcene have fhifted, and a melancholy gloomy prospect have fucceeded in its room. had the rebels gained their point, and a popifh abjured pretender been forced upon the British throne ! For, supposing his birth not to be fpurious, (as we have great reason to think it really was) what could we expect from one, descended from a father, who, when Duke of York, put all Scotland into confusion; and afterwards, when crowned King of England, for his arbritrary and tyrannical government, both in church and ftate, was juftly obliged to abdicate the throne, by the affertors of British liberty? Or, supposing the horrid plot, first hatched in hell, and afterwards nurfed at Rome, had taken place; fuppofing, I fay, the old Pretender should have obtained the triple crown, and have transferred his pretended title (as it is reported he has done) to his eldeft fon, what was all this for, but that, by being advanced to the popedom, he might rule both fon and fubjects with lefs controul, and by their united interest, keep the three kingdoms of England, Scotland, and Ireland, in greater vaffallage to the fee of Rome? Ever fince this unnatural rebellion broke out, I have looked upon upon the young Pretender as the phaeton of the prefent age. He is ambitioufly and prefumptuoufly aiming to feat himfelf in the throne of our rightful fovereign King George, which he is no more capable of keeping, than Phaeton was to guide the chariot of the fun; and had he fucceeded in his attempt, like him, would only have fet the world on fire. It is true, to do him justice, he has deserved well of the Church of Rome, and, in all probability; will hereafter be canonized amongft the noble order of their fictitious faints. But, with what an iton tod we might expect to have been bruised, had his troops been victorious, may eafily be gathered from those cruel orders faid to be found in the pockets of fome of his officers, "Give no quarters to the Elector's troops." Add to this, that there was great reason to suspect, that, upon the first news of the success of the rebels, a general massacre was intended. So that if the LORD had not been on our fide, Great Britain, not to fay America, would, in a few weeks or months, have been an Aceldama, a field of blood.

Besides, was a Popi/b Pretender to rule over us, instead of being reprefented by a free parliament, and governed by laws made by their confent, as we now are; we fhould shortly have had only the shadow of one; and it may be, no parliament at all. This is the native product of a Popifb government, and what the unhappy family, from which this young adventurer pretends he descended, has always aimed at. Arbitrary principles he has fucked in with his mother's milk, and if he had been to honeft, instead of that immature motto upon his Aandard, Tandem triumphans, only to have put, Stet pro ratione Voluntas, he had given us a fhort, but true portrait of the nature of his intended, but bleffed be GOD, now defeated reign. And why fhould I mention, that the finking of the national debt, or rending away the funded property of the people, and the diffolution of the prefent happy union between the two kingdoms, would have been the immediate confequences of his fuccefs, as he himfelf declares in his fecond manifesto, dated from Holy-rood House? These are evils, and great ones too; but then they are only evils of a temporary They chiefly concern the body, and must necessarily nature. terminate in the grave.

But,

Bute alas I what an inundation of spiritual mischiefs, would foon have overflowed the Church, and what unspeakable danger should we and our posterity have been reduced to in respect to our better parts, our precious and immortal fouls ? How foon would whole fwarms of monks, dominicans and friars, like to many locusts, have overfpread and plagued the nation; with what winged speed would foreign titular bishops have posted over, in order to take possession of their respective sees? How quickly would our universities have been filled with youths who have been fent abroad by their Popif parents, in order to drink in all the superfitions of the church of Rome? What a fpeedy period would have been put to focieties of all kinds, for promoting chriftian knowkdze, and propagating the golpel in foreign parts ? How foon would our pulpits have every where been filled with these old antichriftian doctrines, free-will, meriting by works, transubstantiation, purgatory, works of supererogation, paffiveobedience, non-refistance, and all the other abominations of the whore of Babylon? How foon would our protestant charity schools in England, Scotland and Ireland, have been pulled down, our Bibles forcibly taken from us, and ignorance every where fet up as the mother of devotion ? How foon should we have been deprived of that invaluable bleffing. liberty of confcience, and been obliged to commence (what they falfely call), catholicks, or fubmit to all the tortures which a bigoted zeal, guided by the most cruel principles, could poffibly invent ? How foon would that mother of harlots have made herfelf once more drunk with the blood of the faints? And the whole tribe even of free-thinkers themfelves, been brought to this dilemma, either to die martyrs for, (although I never yet heard of one that did fo) or, contrary to all their most avowed principles, renounce their great Diana, unaffisted, unenlightened reason ? But I' must. have done, left while I am speaking against antichrist, I should unawares fall myself, and lead my hearers into an antichriftian spirit. True and undefiled religion will regulate our zeal, and teach us to treat even the man of fin with no harfher language than that which the angel gave to his grand employer Satan, " The LORD rebuke thee."

Glory

Glory be to GoD's great name! the LORD has rebuked him; and that too at a time when we had little reason to expect fuch a bleffing at GOD's hands. My dear hearers, neither the present frame of my heart, nor the occasion of your late folemn meeting, lead me to give you a detail of our public vices. Though, alas ! they are fo many, fo notorious, and withal of fuch a crimfon-dye, that a gofpel minister would not be altogether inexcusable, was he, even on such a joyful occasion, to lift up his voice like a trumpet, to shew the British nation their transgression, and the people of America their fin. However, though I would not caft a difmal shade upon the pleafing picture the caufe of our late rejoicings fet before us; yet thus much may, and ought to be faid, that as GOD has not dealt to bountifully with any people as with us, fo no nation under heaven has dealt more ungratefully with Him. We have been like Capernaum, lifted up to heaven in privileges, and for the abuse of them, like her, have deferved to be thrust down into hell. How well soever it may be with us, in respect to our civil and ecclesiastical conftitution, yet in regard to our morals, Ifaiab's description of the Fewils polity is too applicable, " The whole head is fick, the whole heart is faint; from the crown of the head to the fole of our feet, we are full of wounds and bruifes, and putrifying fores." We have, Je/burun-like, waxed fat and kicked. We have played the harlot against GoD, both in regard to principles and practices. "Our gold is become dim, and our fine gold changed." We have crucified the Son of GOD afresh, and put him to an open shame. Nay, CHRIST has been wounded in the house of his friends. And every thing long ago feemed to threaten an immediate florm. But, O the long-fuffering and goodness of GoD to us-ward ! When all things feemed ripe for destruction, and matters were come to fuch a crifis, that GOD's praying people began to think, that though Noab, Daniel and Job, were living, they would only deliver their own fouls; yet then in the midft of judgment the Moft High remembered mercy, and when a popifh enemy was breaking in upon us like a flood, the LORD himfelf graciously lifted up a standard.

This to me does not feem to be one of the most unfavourable circumstances which have attended this mighty deliverance; nor do I think you will look upon it as a circumstance altogether unworthy your observation. Had this cockatrice indeed been crushed in the egg, and the young Pretender driven back upon his first arrival, it would undoubtedly have been a great bleffing. But not fo great as that for which you lately affembled to give GOD thanks : for then his Majefty would not have had to good an opportunity of knowing his enemies, or trying his friends. The British subjects would in a manner have loft the faireft occasion that ever offered to express their loyalty and gratitude to the rightful fovereign. France would not have been fo greatly humbled; nor fuch an effectual stop have been put, as we trust there now is, to any such further Popis plot, to rob us of all that is near and dear to us. "" Out of the eater therefore hath come forth meat, and out of the ftrong hath come forth fweetnefs." The Pretender's eldest fon is fuffered not only to land in the North-West Highlands in Scotland, but in a little while he becomes a great band. This for a time is not believed, but treated as a thing altogether incredible. The friends of the government in those parts, not for want of loyalty, but of fufficient authority to take up arms, could not refift him. He is permitted to pais on with his terrible banditti, and, like the compt that was lately feen, fpreads his baleful influences all around him. He is likewife permitted to gain a fhort-liv'd triumph by a victory over a body of our troops at Preston-Pans, and to take a temporary possession of the metropolis of Scotland. Of this he makes his boaft, and informs the public, that " Providence had hitherto favoured him with wonderful fuc-" cefs, led him in the way to victory, and to the capital of the " antient kingdom, though he came without foreign aid." Nay, he is further permitted to prefs into the very heart of England. But now the Almighty interpoles. Hitherto he was to go, and no further. Here were his malicious defigns to be staid. His troops of a sudden are driven back. Away they post to the Highlands, and there they are suffered not only to increase, but also to collect themselves into a large body, that having, as it were, what Caligula once wished Rome had, but one neck, they might be cut off with one blow.

The time, manner, and inftrument of this victory, deferves our notice. It was on a general fast-day, when the clergy and good people of Scotland were lamenting the difloyalty of their perfidious countrymen, and, like Moles, lifting up their hands, that Amalek might not prevail. The victory was total and decifive. Little blood was spilt on the fide of the Royalists. And, to crown all, Duke William, his Majesty's voungeft fon, has the honour of first driving back, and then defeating the rebel-army. A prince, who in his infancy and youth, gave early proofs of an uncommon bravery and noblenefs of mind; a prince, whole courage has increased with his years. Who returned wounded from the battle of Dettingen, behaved with furprizing bravery at Fontenoy, and now, by a conduct and magnanimity becoming the high office he fustains, like his glorious predeceffor the Prince of Orange, has delivered three kingdoms from the dread of popifh cruelty, and arbitrary power. What renders it still more remarkable is, The day on which his Highness gained this victory, was the day after his birth-day, when he was entering on the 26th year of his age; and when Sullivan, one of the Pretender's privy-council, like another Abitophel, advised the rebels to give our foldiers battle, prefuming they were furfeited and over-charged with their yesterday's rejoicings, and confequently unfit to make any great stand against them. But. glory be to GOD, who catches the wife in their own craftinefs! his counfel, like Abitophel's, proves abortive. Both General and foldiers were prepared to meet them. "God taught their hands to war, and their fingers to fight," and brought the Duke, after a deferved flaughter of some thoufands of the rebels, with most of his brave foldiers, victorious from the field.

If we then take a diffinct view of this notable transaction, and trace it in all the particular circumftances that have attended it, I believe we must with one heart and voice confess, that if it be a mercy for a flate to be delivered from a worfe than a Catiline's confpiracy, or a church to be refcued from a hotter than a Dioclefian perfecution; if it be a mercy to be delivered from a religion that turns plough-fhares into fwords, and pruning-hooks into fpears, and makes it meritorious to fhed protestant blood; if it be a mercy to have all our pre-F 4.

fent invaluable privileges, both in church and flate, fecured to us more than ever; if it be a mercy to have these great things done for us, at a season, when for our crying fins, both church and flate juftly deserved to be overturned; and if it be a mercy to have all this brought about for us, under GOD, by one of the blood-royal, a prince acting with an experience far above his years; if any, or all of these are mercies, then have you lately commemorated one of the greatest mercies that ever the glorious GOD vouchsafed to the British nation.

And fhall we not rejoice and give thanks? Should we refule, would not the flones cry out against us? Rejoice then we may and ought : but, O let our rejoicing be in the LORD, and run in a'religious channel. This, we find, has been the practice of GOD's people in all ages. When he was pleafed, with a mighty hand, and out-firetched arm, to lead the Ifraclites through the Red-Sea, as on dry ground, " Then fang Mofes and the children of Ifrael; and Miriam the prophetels, the fifter of Aaron, took a timbrel in her hand, and all the women went out after her. And Miriam aufwered them, Sing ye to the LORD; for he hath triumphed glorioufly." When GOD fubdued Jabin, the King of Canaan, before the children of Ifrael, " then fang Deborah and Barak on that day, faying, " Praife ye the LORD for the avenging of Ifrael." When the ark was brought back out of the hands of the Philistines, David, though a king, danced before it. And, to mention but one instance more, which may ferve as a general directory to us on this and fuch-like occasions : whenthe great Head of the church had refcued his people from the . general maffacre intended to be executed upon them by a cruel and ambitious Haman, " Mordecai fent letters unto all the Jews that were in all the provinces of the King Abafuerus, both nigh and far, to establish among them, that they should keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day of the fame yearly, as the days wherein the Fews refted from their enemies, and the month which was turned unto them from forrow unto joy, and from mourning into a good day : that they fhould make them days of feating and joy, and of fending portions one to another, and gifts to the poor." And why fhould we not go and do likewife ?

And

And fhall we not also, on such an occasion, express our gratitude to, and make honourable mention of, those worthies who have fignalized themselves, and been ready to facrifice both lives and fortunes at this critical juncture?

This would be to act the part of those ungrateful Ifraelites. who are branded in the book of GoD, for not shewing kindnefs to the houfe of " Jerub-Baal, namely Gideon, according to all the goodness which he shewed unto I/rael." Even Pharaob could prefer a deferving Joseph, Ahasuerus a Mordecai. and Nebuchadnezzar a Daniel, when made inftruments of fignal fervice to themfelves and people. " My heart, fays Deborah. is towards (i. e. I have a particular veneration and regard for) the Governors of Ifrael that offered themselves willingly. And bleffed above women shall Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite be; for the put her hand to the nail, and her righthand to the workman's hammer, and with the hammer the fmote Sifera, the fmote off his head, when the had pierced, and stricken through his temples." And shall we not fay, " Bleffed above men let his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland be; for through his inftrumentality, the great and glorious JEHOVAH hath brought mighty things to pais?" Should not our hearts be towards the worthy Archbishop of York, the Royal Hunters, and those other English heroes who offered themselves fo willingly? Let the names of Blakeney, Bland, and Rea, and all those who waxed valiant in fight on this important occasion, live for ever in the Britifb annals, And let the name of that great, that incomparable brave foldier of the King, and a good foldiet of JESUS CHRIST. Colonel Gardiner, (excuse me if I here drop a tear : he was my intimate friend) let his name, I fay, be had in everlafting remembrance.

But, after all, is there not an infinitely greater debt of gratitude and praife due from us, on this occafion, to Him that is bigher than the higheft, even the King of kings and Lord of Lords, the bleffed and only Potentate? Is it not his arm, his ftrong and mighty arm, (what inftruments foever may have been made ufe of) that hath brought us this falvation? And may I not therefore addrefs you, in the exulting language of the beginning of this pfalm, from which we have taken our text? "O give thanks unto the LORD, call upon his name, make known his deeds among the people. Sing unto him :

But shall we put off our good and gracious benefactor with mere lip-fervice? GOD forbid. Your worthy Governor has honoured GOD in his late excellent proclamation, and GOD will honour him. But shall our thanks terminate with the day? No, in no wife. Our text reminds us of a more noble factifice, and points out to us the great end the Almighty JE-HOVAH proposes, in bestowing such fignal favours upon a people, "That they should observe his statutes, and keep his laws."

This is the return we are all taught to pray, that we may make to the Moft High GoD, the Father of mercies, in the daily office of our church, " That our hearts may be un-" feignedly thankful, and that we may flew forth his praife, " not only with our lips, but in our lives, by giving up our-" felves to his fervice, and by walking before him in holinefs " and righteoufnefs all our days." O that thefe words were the real language of all that ufe them ! O that there were in us fuch a mind ! How foon would our enemies then flee before us ? And GoD, even our own GOD, would yet give us more abundant bleffings !

And why fhould not we " observe God's statutes, and keep his laws?" Dare we fay, that any of his commands are grievous? Is not CHRIST's yoke, to a renewed foul, as far as renewed, easy; and his burden comparatively light? May I not appeal to the most refined reasoner, whether the religion of JESUS CHRIST be not a focial religion ? Whether the Moral Law, as explained by the LORD JESUS in the gospel, has not a natural tendency to promote the prefent good and happinels of a whole commonwealth, supposing they were obedient to them, as well as the happiness of every individual? From whence come wars and fighting amongft us ? From what fountain do all those evils, which the present and past ages have groaned under, flow, but from a neglect of the laws and flatutes of our great and all-wife law-giver JESUS of Nazareth? Tell me, ye men of letters, whether Lycurgus or Solon, Pythagoras or Plato, Aristotle, Seneca, Cicero, or all the antient lawgivers and heathen moralists, put them all together; gether, ever published a system of ethics, any way worthy to be compared with the glorious fystem laid down in that much despifed book, (to use Sir Richard Steel's expression) emphatically called, the Scriptures ? Is not the divine image and fuperscription written upon every precept of the gospel ? they not thine with a native intrinsic luftre? And, though many things in them are above, yet, is there any thing contrary to the firicteft laws of right reason ? Is not JESUS CHRIST, in scripture, stiled the Word, the Logos, the Reafon ? And is not his fervice a reasonable service ? What if there be mysteries in his religion ? Are they not without all controversy great and glorious? Are they not mysteries of godlinefs, and worthy of that GOD who reveals them ? Nay, is it not the greatest mystery, that men, who pretend to reason, and call themselves philosophers, who search into the arcana natura, and confequently find a mystery in every blade of grass, should yet be so irrational as to decry all mysteries in religion ? Where is the fcribe ? where is the wife ? where is the disputer against the christian revelation? Does not every thing without and within us, confpire to prove its divine original? And would not felf-interest, if there was no other motive, excite us to observe GoD's statutes, and keep his laws ?

Befides, confidered as a protestant people, do we not lie under the greatest obligations of any nation under heaven, to pay a chearful, unanimous, universal, persevering obedience to the divine commands.

The wonderful and furprifing manner of GoD's bringing about a reformation, in the reign of King Henry the Eighth; his carrying it on in the bleffed reign of King Edward the Sixth; his delivering us out of the bloody hands of Queen Mary, and deftroying the Spanish invincible armada, under her immediate proteftant fucceffor Queen Elizabeth; his difcovery of the popifh plot under King James; the glorious revolution by King William; and, to come nearer to our own times, his driving away four thoufand five hundred Spaniards, from a weak (though important) frontier colony, when they had, in a manner, actually taken possible fortrefies of our enemies, contrary to all human probability, but the other day, into our our hands: these, I fay, with the vistory which you have lately been commemorating, are such national mercies, not to mention any more, as will render us utterly inexcusable, if they do not produce a national reformation, and incite us all, with one heart, to keep GoD's statutes, and observe his laws.

Need I remind you further, in order to excite in you a greater diligence to comply with the intent of the text, that though the florm, in a great measure, is abated by his Royal Highnefs's late fucces, yet we dare not fay, it is altogether blown over ?

The clouds may again return after the rain; and the few furviving rebels (which I pray GOD avert) may yet be fuffered to make head against us. We are still engaged in a bloody, and, in all probability, a tedious war, with two of the most inveterate enemies to the interests of Great-Britain. And, though I cannot help thinking, that their prefent intentions are fo iniquitous, their conduct fo perfidious, and their schemes fo directly derogatory to the honour of the Most High GoD, that he will certainly humble them in the end, yet, as all things in this life happen alike to all, they may for a time, be dreadful instruments of scourging us. If not, GoD has o her arrows in his quiver to fmite us with, befides the French King, his Catholick Majefty, or an abjured Pretender. Not only the fword, but plague, pestilence, and famine, are under the divine command. Who knows but he may fay to them all, " País through these lands ?" A fatal murrain has lately fwept away abundance of cattle at home and abroad. A like epidemical difeafe may have a commission to feize our perfons as well as our beafts. Thus GOD dealt with the Egyptians : who dare fay, he will not deal fo with us ? Has he not already given fome fymptoms of it? What great numbers upon the continent have been lately taken off by the bloody-flux, fmall-pox, and yellow-fever? Who can tell what further judgments are yet in ftore ? However, this is certain, the rod is yet hanging over us : and I believe it will be granted on all fides, that if fuch various dispensations of mercy and judgment do not teach the inhabitants of any land to learn righteousness, they will only ripen them for a greater ruin. Give me leave, therefore, to difmifs you at this time with that folemn awful warning and exhortation, with with which the venerable Samuel, on a public occafion, took leave of the people of Ifrael: "Only fear the LORD, and ferve him in truth, with all your heart: for confider how great things he hath done for you. But if ye fhall ftill do wickedly, [I will not fay as the Prophet did, You fhall be confumed; but] ye know not but you may provoke the LORD Almighty to confume both you and your king." Which GOD of his infinite mercy prevent, for the fake of JESUS CHRIST: to whom, with the Father, and the Holy Ghoft, three perfons, but one GOD, be all honour and glory, now and for evermore. Amen, Amen.

SERMON VII.

Thankfulness for Mercies received, a necessary Duty.

A Farewel Sermon, preached on board the Wbitaker, at Anchor near Savannab, in Georgia, Sunday, May 17, 1738.

PSALM, CVII. 30, 31.

Then are they glad, because they are at rest, and so be bringeth them unto the baven where they would be.

O that men would therefore praife the LORD for his goodnefs, and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men!

N UMBERLESS marks does man bear in his foul, that he is fallen and effranged from GOD; but nothing gives a greater proof thereof, than that backwardnefs, which every one finds within himfelf, to the duty of praife and thankfgiving.

When GOD placed the first man in paradile, his foul no doubt was so filled with a fense of the riches of the divine love, that he was continually employing that breath of life, which the Almighty had not long before breathed into him, in bleffing and magnifying that all-bountiful, all gracious GoD, in whom he lived, moved, and had his being.

And the brighteft idea we can form of the angelical hierarchy above, and the fpirits of juft men made perfect, is, that they are continually ftanding round the throne of GoD, and cease not day and night, faying, "Worthy art thou, O Lambthat that wast flain, to receive power and riches, and wisdom, and ftrength, and honour, and glory, and bleffing." Rev. v. 12.

That then, which was man's perfection when time first began, and will be his employment when death is fwallowed up in victory, and time shall be no more, without controvers, is part of our perfection, and ought to be our frequent exercise on earth : and I doubt not but those bleffed spirits, who are sent forth to minister to them who shall be heirs of salvation, often stand associated when they encamp around us, to find our hearts so rarely enlarged, and out mouths so seldom opened, to shew forth the loving-kindness of the LORD, or to speak of all his praise.

Matter for praife and adoration, can never be wanting to creatures redeemed by the blood of the Son of GoD; and who have fuch continual fcenes of his infinite goodnefs prefented to their view, that were their fouls duly affected with a fenfe of his univerfal love, they could not but be continually calling on heaven and earth, men and angels, to join with them in praifing and bleffing that " high and lofty one, who inhabiteth eternity, who maketh his fun to fhine on the evil and on the good," and daily pours down his bleffings on the whole race of mankind.

But few are arrived to fuch a degree of charity or love, as to rejoice with those that do rejoice, and to be as thankful for others mercies, as their own. This part of christian perfection, though begun on earth, will be conformated only in heaven; where our hearts will glow with fuch fervent love towards GOD and one another, that every fresh degree of glory communicated to our neighbour, will also communicate to us a fresh topic of thankfulness and joy.

That which has the greatest tendency to excite the generality of fallen men to praise and thanksgiving, is a sense of GoD's private mercies, and particular benefits bestowed upon ourselves. For as these come nearer our own hearts, so they must be more affecting; and as they are peculiar proofs, whereby we may know, that GOD does in a more especial manner favour us above others, so they cannot but sensibly touch us; and if our hearts are not quite frozen, like coals of a refiner's fire, they must melt us down into thanksfulness and love. It was a consideration of the diffinguishing favours GOD

GOD had fhewn to his chosen people I/rael, and the frequent and remarkable deliverances wrought by him in behalf of " those who go down to the fea in fhips, and occupy their bufines in great waters," that made the holy Plalmiss break out fo frequently as he does in this plalm, into this moving, pathetical exclamation, " O that men would therefore praise the LORD for his goodness, and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men !"

His expressing himself in so fervent a manner, implies both the importance and neglect of the duty. As when Moses on another occasion cried out, "O that they were wife, that they understood this, that they would practically confider their latter end !" Deut. xxxii. 29.

I fay, importance and neglect of the duty; for out of thole many thoulands that receive bleffings from the LORD, how few give thanks in remembrance of his holinefs? The account given us of the ungrateful lepers, is but too lively æ reprefentation of the ingratitude of mankind in general; who like them, when under any humbling providence, can cry, " JESUS, Mafter, have mercy on us!" Luke xvii. 13. but when healed of their ficknefs, or delivered from their diffrefs, fcarce one in ten can be found " returning to give thanks to GOD."

And yet as common as this fin of ingratitude is, there is nothing we ought more earneftly to pray againft. For what is more abfolutely condemned in holy (cripture than ingratitude? Or what more peremptorily required than the contrary temper? Thus fays the Apoftle, "Rejoice evermore; in every thing give thanks," I Thef. v. 16, 18.. "Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and fupplication, with thankfgiving, let your requefts be made known unto God," Phil. iv. 6.

On the contrary, the Apoftle mentions it as one of the bigheft crimes of the Gentiles, that they were not thankful. ⁵⁶ Neither were they thankful," Rom. i. 21. as also in another place, he numbers the " unthankful," 2 Tim. iii. 2. amongst those unholy, prophane perfons, who are to have their portion in the lake of fire and brimftone.

As for our fins, GOD puts them behind his back ; but his mercies he will have acknowledged, " There is virtue gone out of me," fays JESUS CHRIST, Luke viii. 46. and the wos man who was cured of her bloody iffue, must confess it. And we generally find, when GOD fent any remarkable punishment upon a particular person, he reminded him of the favours he had received, as fo many aggravations of his ingratitude. Thus when GoD was about to vifit Eli's house, he thus expostulates with him by his prophet : " Did I plainly appear unto the house of thy fathers, when they were in Egypt, in Pharash's house ? And did I chuse him out of all the tribes . of Israel, to be my priest, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incense, and to wear an ephod before me! Wherefore kick ye at my facrifice, and at mine offering, which I have commanded in my habitation, and honourest thy fons above me. to make yourfelves fat with the chiefeft of all the offerings of Ifrael my people? Wherefore the LORD GOD of Ifrael faith, I faid indeed, that thy house, and the house of thy father, should walk before me for ever; but now the LORD faith, Be it far from me, for them that honour me will I honour, and they that defpife me shall be lightly effeemed." 1 Sam. ii. 27, 28, 29, 30.

It was this and fuch like inftances of GoD's feverity against the unthankful, that inclined me to chuse the words of the text, as the most proper subject I could discourse on at this time.

Four months, my good friends, we have now been upon the fea in this fhip, and " have occupied our bufinefs in the great waters." At GOD Almighty's word, we have feen " the flormy wind arife, which hath lifted up the waves thereof. We have been carried up to the heaven, and down again to the deep, and fome of our fouls melted away becaufe of the trouble; but I truft we cryed earneftly unto the LORD, and he delivered us out of our diffrefs. For he made the florm to ceafe; fo that the waves thereof were fill. And now we are glad, becaufe we are at reft, for GOD hath brought us to the haven where we would be. O that you would therefore praife the LORD for his goodnefs, and declare the wonders that he hath done for us, the unworthieft of the forms of men."

Thus Moles, thus Johna behaved. For when they were about to take their leaves of the children of Ifrael, they re-Vol. V. Of counted counted to them what great things GOD had done for them; as the beft arguments and motives they could urge to engage them to obedience. And how can I copy after better examples? What fitter, what more noble motives, to holinefs and purity of living, can I lay before you, than they did?

Indeed, I cannot fay, that we have feen the " pillar of a cloud by day, or a pillar of fire by night," going visibly before us to guide our course; but this I can fay, that the fame God who was in that pillar of a cloud, and pillar of fire, which departed not from the Ifraelites, and who has made the fun to rule the day, and the moon to rule the night, has, by his good providence, directed us in our right way, or else the pilot had steered us in vain.

Neither can I fay, That we have feen the " fun fland flill," as the children of Ifrael did in the days of Jofhua. But furely GOD, during part of our voyage, has caufed it to withhold fome of that htat, which it ufually fends forth in these warmer climates, or elfe it had not failed, but fome of you must have perished in the fickness that has been, and does yet continue among us.

We have not feen the waters fland purpofely on an heap, that we might pass through, neither have we been pursued by Pharaab and his hoft, and delivered out of their hands; but we have been led through the fea as through a wilderness, and were once remarkably preferved from being run down by another ship; which had God permitted, the waters, in all probability, would immediately have overwhelmed us, and like Pharaab and his hoft, we should have such, as stones, into the sea.

We may, indeed, atheift like, afcribe all thefe things to natural caufes, and fay, "Our own fkill and forefight has brought us hither in fafety." But as certainly as JESUS CHRIST, the angel of the covenant, in the days of his fleft, walked upon the water, and faid to his finking difciples, "Be not afraid, it is I," fo furely has the fame everlafting I AM, "who decketh himfelf with light as with a garment, who fpreadeth out the heavens like a curtain, who clafpeth the winds in his fift, who holdeth the waters in the hollow of his hands," and guided the wife men by a ftar in the eaft; fo furely, I fay, has he fpoken, and at his command the winds have have blown us where we are now arrived. For his providence ruleth all things; "Wind and ftorms obey his word:" he faith to it at one time, Go, and it goeth ; at another, Come, and it cometh; and at a third time, Blow this way, and it " bloweth.

It is he, my brethren, and not we ourfelves, that has of late fent us fuch profperous gales, and made us to ride, as it were, on the wings of the wind, into the haven where we would be.

" O that you would therefore praife the LORD for his goodnefs," and by your lives declare, that you are truly thankful for the wonders he had fhewn to us, who are lefs than the least of the fons of men.

I fay, declare it by your lives. For to give him thanks, barely with your lips, while your hearts are far from him, is but a mock facrifice, nay, an abomination unto the LORD.

This was the end, the royal Pfalmift fays, GoD had in view, when he shewed such wonders, from time to time, to. the people of Ifrael, " That they might keep his flatutes, and observe his laws," Pfalm cv. 44. and this, my good friends, is the end GoD would have accomplished in us, and the only return he defires us to make him, for all the benefits he hath conferred upon us.

O then, let me beseech you, give to GoD your hearts, your whole hearts; and fuffer yourfelves to be drawn by the cords of infinite love, to honour and obey him.

Affure yourfelves you can never ferve a better master; for his fervice is perfect freedom; his yoke, when worn a little while, is exceeding eafy, his burden light; and in keeping his commandments there is great reward; love, peace, joy in the Holy Ghoft here, and a crown of glory that fadeth not away, hereafter.

You may, indeed, let other lords have dominion over you, and Satan may promife to give you all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them, if you will fall down and worthip him; but he is a liar, and was fo from the beginning; he has not fo much to give you, as you may tread on with the fole of your foot; or could he give you the whole world, vet, that could not make you happy without GoD. It is God alone, my brethren, whofe we are, in whofe name I now now speak, and who has of late shewed us such mercies in the deep, that can give folid lasting happiness to your fouls; and he for this reason only defires your hearts, because without him you must be miserable.

Suffer me not then to go away without my errand; as it is the laft time I fhall fpeak to you, let me not fpeak in vain; but let a fense of the divine goodness lead you to repentance.

Even Saul, that abandoned wretch, when David fhewed him his fkirt, which he had cut off, when he might have alfo taken his life, was fo melted down with his kindnefs, that he lifted up his voice and wept. And we must have hearts harder than Saul's, nay, harder than the nether milftone, if a fenfe of GoD's late loving kindneffes, notwithstanding he might fo often have deftroyed us, does not even compel us to lay down our arms against him, and become his faithful fervants and foldiers unto our lives end.

If they have not, this effect upon us, we fhall, of all men, be most milerable; for GOD is just, as well as merciful; and the more bleffings we have received here, the greater damnation, if we do not improve them, shall we incur hereaster.

But GoD forbid that any of those fhould ever fuffer the vengeance of eternal fire, amongst whom, I have, for these four months, been preaching the gospel of CHRIST; but yet thus must it be, if you do not improve the divine mercies: and instead of your being my crown of rejoicing in the day of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, I must appear as a fwist witness against you.

But, brethren, I am perfuaded better things of you, and things that accompany falvation, though I thus speak.

Bleffed be GOD, fome marks of a partial reformation at leaft, have been vifible amongft all you that are foldiers. And my weak, though fincere endeavours, to build you up in the knowledge and fear of GOD, have not been altogether in vain in the LORD.

Swearing, I hope is, in a great measure, abated with you; and GoD, I truft, has bleffed his late visitations, by making them the means of awakening your confciences, to a more folicitous enquiry about the things which belong to your everlafting peace.

Fulfil

Fulfil you then my joy, by continuing thus minded, and labour to go on to perfection. For I shall have no greater pleasure than to see, or hear, that you walk in the truth, Confider, my good friends, you are now, as it were, entering on a new world, where you will be furrounded with multitudes of heathens; and if you take not heed to "have your conversation honeft amongst them," and to "walk worthy of the holy vocation wherewith you are called," you will act the hellish part of Herod's foldiers over again; and cause CHRIST's religion, as they did his person, to be had in derision of those that are round about you.

Confider further, what peculiar privileges you have enjoyed, above many others that are entering on the fame land. They have had, as it were, a famine of the word, but you bave rather been in danger of being furfeited with your fpiritual manna. And, therefore, as more inftructions have been given you, fo from you, men will most justly expect the greater improvement in goodness.

Indeed, I cannot fay, I have difcharged my duty towards you as I ought. No, I am fenfible of many faults in my minifterial office, and for which I have not failed, nor, I hope, ever fhall fail, to humble myfelf in fecret before God. However, this I can fay, that except a few days that have been fpent neceffarily on other perfons, whom God immediately called me to write and minifter unto, and the two laft weeks wherein I have been confined by ficknefs; all the while I have been aboard, I have been either actually engaged in, or preparing myfelf for inftructing you. And though you are now to be committed to the care of another (whofe labours I heartily befeech God to blefs amongft you) yet I truft I fhall, at all feafons, if need be, willingly fpend, and be fpent, for the good of your fouls, though the more abundantly I love you, the lefs I fhould be loved.

As for your military affairs, I have nothing to do with them. Fear GOD, and you must honour the King. Nor am I well acquainted with the nature of that land which you are now come over to protect; only this I may venture to affirm in the general, that you must neceffarily expect upon your arrival at a new colony, to meet with many difficulties. But your very profession teaches you to endure hardship; "be not, G 3 therefore, therefore, faint-hearted, but quit yourselves like men, and be ftrong," Numb. xiv. Be not like those cowardly perfons, who were affrighted at the report of the falle fpies, that came and faid, that there were people tall as the Anakims to be grappled with, but be ye like unto Caleb and Joshua, all heart; and fay, we will act valiantly, for we fhall be more than conquerors over all difficulties through JESUS CHRIST that loved Above all things, my brethren, take heed, and beware of US. murmuring, like the perverse Israelites, against those that are fet over you; and " learn, whatfoever flate you shall be in, therewith to be content," Phil. iv. 11.

As I have spoken to you, I hope your wives also will suffer the word of exhortation,

Your behaviour on shipboard, especially the first part of the voyage, I chufe to throw a cloak over; for to use the mildest terms, it was not fuch as became the gospel of our LORD IESUS CHRIST. However, of late, bleffed be GOD, you have taken more heed to your ways, and fome of you have walked all the while, as became "women professing godliness." Let those accept my hearty thanks, and permit me to intreat you all in general, as you are all now married, to remember the folemn vow you made at your entrance into the marriage state, and see that you be subject to your own husbands, in every lawful thing: Beg of GoD to keep the door of your lips, that you offend not with your tongues; and walk in love, that your prayers be not hindered. You that have children, let it be your chief concern to breed them up in the nurture and admonition of the LORD. And live all of you fo holy and unblameable, that you may not fo much as be fuspected to be unchaste; and as some of you have imitated Mary Magdalen in her fin, strive to imitate her also in her repentance.

As for you, failors, what shall I fay? How shall I address myfelf to you? How fhall I do that which I fo much long to do; touch your hearts? Gratitude obliges me to wifh thus well to you. For you have often taught me many instructive lesions, and reminded me to put up many prayers to Gon for you, that you might receive your fpiritual fight.

When I have feen you preparing for a florm, and reefing your fails to guard against it; how have I withed that you and I were as careful to avoid that from of God's wrath, which which will certainly, without repentance, quickly overtake us? When I have observed you catch at every fair gale, how have I fecretly cried, O that we were as careful to know the things that belong to our peace, before they are for ever hid from our eves ! And when I have taken notice, how fleadily you eved your compass in order to fleer aright, how have I wished, that we as fleadily eyed the word of GOD, which alone can preferve us from " making fhipwreck of faith, and a good confcience ?" In fhort, there is fcarce any thing you do, which has not been a leffon of inftruction to me; and, therefore, it would be ungrateful in me, did I not take this opportunity of exhorting you in the name of our LORD JESUS CHRIST. to be as wife in the things which concern your foul, as I have observed you to be in the affairs belonging to your fhip.

I am fenfible, that the fea is reckoned but an ill school to learn CHRIST in : and to fee a devout failor, is effeemed as uncommon a thing, as to fee a Saul amongst the prophets. But whence this wondering? Whence this looking upon a godly failor, as a man to be wondered at, as a speckled bird in the creation ? I am fure, for the little time I have come in and out amongst you, and as far as I can judge from the little experience I have had of things, I fcarce know any way of life, that is capable of greater improvements than yours.

The continual danger you are in of being overwhelmed by the great waters; the many opportunities you have of beholding God's wonders in the deep; the happy retirement you enjoy from worldly temptations; and the daily occasions that are offered you, to endure hardfhips, are fuch noble means of promoting the fpiritual life, that were your hearts bent towards GoD, you would account it your happinefs. that his providence has called you, to " go down to the fea in fhips, and to occupy your bufinefs in the great waters."

The royal Plalmist knew this, and, therefore, in the words of the text, calls more especially on men of your employ, to " praise the LORD for his goodness, and declare the wonders he doth for the children of men."

And O that you would be wife in time, and hearken to his voice to-day, " whilst it is called to-day !" For ye yourselves know know how little is to be done on a fick bed. Gon has, in an especial manner, of late, invited you to repentance : two of your crew he has taken off by death, and most of you he has mercifully vifited with a grievous fickness. The terrors of the LORD have been upon you, and when burnt with a fcorching fever, fome of you have cried out, " What fhall we do to be faved ?" Remember then the refolutions you made, when you thought GOD was about to take away your fouls; and fee that according to your promifes, you fhew forth your thankfulnefs, not only with your lips, but in your lives. For though GCD may bear long, he will not forbear always; and if these fignal mercies and judgments do not lead you to repentance, affure yourfelves there will at last come a fiery tempest, from the presence of the LORD, which will sweep away you, and all other adversaries of GoD.

I am positive, neither you nor the foldiers have wanted, nor will want any manner of encouragement to piety and holinefs of living, from those two perfons who have here the government over you; for they have been fuch helps to me in my ininistry, and have fo readily concurred in every thing for your good, that they may justly demand a public acknowledgment of thanks both from you and me.

Permit me, my honoured friends, in the name of both claffes of your people, to return you hearty thanks for the care and tenderness you have expressed for the welfare of their better parts.

As for the private favours you have fnewn to my perfon, I hope to deep a fence of them is imprinted on my heart, that I fhall plead them before GOD in prayer, as long as I live.

But I have still stronger obligations to intercede in your behalf. For GOD, ever adored be his free grace in CHRIST JESUS! has fet his feal to my ministry in your hearts. Some diftant pangs of the new-birth I have observed to come upon you; and GOD forbid that I should in against the LORD, by ceasing to pray, that the good work begun in your fouls, may be carried on till the day of our LORD JESUS CHRIST.

The time of our departure from each other is now at hand, and you are going out into a world of temptations. But though absent in body, let us be present with each other in spirit; and GOD, I truft, will enable you to be fingularly good, to be ready ready to be accounted fools for CHRIST's fake; and then we fhall meet never to part again in the kingdom of our Father which is in heaven.

To you, my companions and familiar friends, who came over with me to fojourn in a ftrange land, do I in the next place address myself. For you I especially fear, as well as for myfelf : becaufe as we take fweet counfel together oftner than others, and as you are let into a more intimate friendship with me in private life, the eyes of all men will be upon you to note even the minutest milcarriage; and, therefore, it highly concerns you to " walk circumspecily towards those that are without," I hope, that nothing but a fingle eye to GoD's glory and the falvation of your own fouls, brought you from your native country. Remember then the end of your coming hither, and you can never do amis. Be patterns of industry, as well as of piety, to those who shall be around you: and above all things let us have fuch fervent charity amongft ourfelves, that it may be faid of us, as of the primitive chriftians, " See how the christians love one another."

And now I have been speaking to others particularly, I have one general request to make to all, and that with reference to myself.

You have heard, my dear friends, how I have been exhorting every one of you to fhew forth your thankfulnels for the divine goodnels, not only with your lips, but in your lives: But " phyfician heal thyfelf," may juftly be retorted on me. For (without any falle pretences to humility) I find my own heart fo little inclined to this duty of thankfgiving for the benefits I have received, that I had need fear fharing Hezekiah's fate, who because he was lifted up by, and not thankful enough for, the great things GOD had done for him, was given up a prey to the pride of his own heart.

I need, therefore, and beg your most importunate petitions at the throne of grace, that no such evil may befal me; that the more GOD exalts me, the more I may debase myself; and that after I have preached to others, I myself may not be cast away.

And now, brethren, into God's hands I commend your fpirits, who, I truft, through his infinite mercies in CHRIST IESUS,

JESUS, will preferve you blamelefs, till his fecond coming to judge the world.

Excuse my detaining you to long; perhaps it is the laft time I shall speak to you : my heart is full, and out of the abundance of it, I could continue my discourse until midnight. " But I must away to your new world ; may God give you new hearts, and enable you to put in practice what you have heard from time to time, to be your duty, and I need not wifh you any thing better. For then GOD will fo blefs you, that " you will build you cities to dwell in; then will you fow your lands and plant vineyards, which will yield you fruits of increale," P/al. cvii. 36, 37. " Then your oxen shall be strong to labour, there shall be no leading into captivity, and no complaining in your ftreets; then shall your fons grow up as the young plants, and your daughters be as the polifhed corners of the temple: then shall your garners be full and plenteous with all manner of store, and your sheep bring forth thoufands, and ten thousands in your ftreets," Plal. cxliv. In fhort, then shall the LORD be your GOD; and as furely as he has now brought us to this haven, where we would be, fo furely, after we have past through the storms and tempests of this troublefome world, will he bring us to the haven of eternal reft, where we shall have nothing to do, but to praise him for ever for his goodnefs, and declare, in never-ceafing longs of praise, the wonders he has done for us, and all the other fons of men.

"To which bleffed reft, GOD of his infinite mercy bring "us all, through JESUS CHRIST our LORD! to whom "with the Father and Holy Ghoft be all honour and "glory, might, majefty, and dominion, now, henceforth, "and for evermore. Amen."

SERMONVIII.

The Necessity and Benefits of Religious Society.

ECCLES. iv. 9, 10, 11, 12.

Two are better than One, because they have a good Reward for their Labour.

For if they fall, the One will lift up his Fellow: But woe be to him that is alone when he falleth; for he hath not another to help him up.

Again, if Two lie together, then they have heat; but how can One be warm alone?

And if One prevail against bim, Two shall withstand bim; and a threefold Cord is not quickly broken.

A MONG the many reasons affignable for the fad decay of true christianity, perhaps the neglecting to affemble ourfelves together, in religious facieties, may not be one of the leaft. That I may therefore do my endeavour towards promoting fo excellent a means of piety, I have felected a paffage of fcripture drawn from the experience of the wifelt of men, which being a little enlarged on and illustrated, will fully answer my prefent defign; being to shew, in the best manner I can, the necessfity and benefits of fociety in general, and of religious fociety in particular.

" Two are better than one, &c."

From which words I shall take occasion to prove,

First, The truth of the wife man's affertion, "Two are better than one," and that in reference to fociety in general, and religious fociety in particular.

Secondly, To affign fome reasons why two are better than one, especially as to the last particular. 1. Because men can raise up one another when they chance to flip: "For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow." 2. Because they can impart heat to each other: "Again, if two lie together, then they have heat; but how can one be warm alone?" 3. Because they can secure each other from those that do oppose them: "And if one prevail against him, two shall withstand him; and a threefold cord is not quickly broken." From hence, Thirdly, I shall take occasion to shew the duty incumbent on every member of a religious fociety.

And Fourthly, I fhall draw an inference or two from what may be faid; and then conclude with a word or two of exhortation.

First, I am to prove the truth of the wife man's affertion, that "two are better than one," and that in reference to fociety in general, and religious focieties in particular.

And how can this be done better, than by fhewing that it is abfolutely neceffary for the welfare both of the bodies and fouls of men? Indeed, if we look upon man as he came out of the hands of his Makor, we imagine him to be perfect, entire, lacking nothing. But GOD, whole thoughts are not as our thoughts, faw fomething ftill wanting to make Adam happy. And what was that? Why, an help meet for him. For thus fpeaketh the fcripture: "And the LORD GOD faid, It is not good that the man fhould be alone, I will make an help meet for him."

Observe, Gon said, "It is not good," thereby implying that the creation would have been imperfect, in some fort, unless an help was sound out meet for Adam. And if this was the case of man before the sail; if an help was meet for him in a state of perfection; surely since the sail, when we come naked and helpless out of our mother's womb, when our wants increase with our years, and we can fearcely subsist a day without the mutual affistance of each other, well may we say, "It is not good for man to be alone."

Society then, we see, is absolutely necessary in respect to our bodily and personal wants. If we carry our view farther, and and confider mankind as divided into different cities, countries, and nations, the neceffity of it will appear yet more evident. For how can communities be kept up, or commerce carried on, without fociety? Certainly not at all, fince providence feems wifely to have affigned a particular product to almost each particular country, on purpose, as it were, to oblige us to be focial; and hath so admirably mingled the parts of the whole body of mankind together, " that the eye cannot fay to the hand, I have no need of thee; nor again, the hand to the foot, I have no need of thee."

Many other inftances might bengiven of the necessity of fociety, in reference to our bodily, perfonal, and national wants. But what are all these when weighed in the balance of the fanctuary, in comparison of the infinite greater need of it, with respect to the foul? It was chiefly in regard to this better part, no doubt, that GOD faid, " It is not good for the man to be alone." For, let us suppose Adam to be as happy as may be, placed as the Lord of the creation in the paradife of GoD, and fpending all his hours in adoring and praising the bleffed Author of his being; yet as his foul was the very copy of the divine nature, whofe peculiar property it is to be communicative, without the divine all-fufficiency he could not be compleatly happy, because he was alone and incommunicative, nor even content in paradife, for want of a partner in his joys. God knew this, and therefore faid, " It is not good that the man shall be alone, I will make a help meet for him." And though this proved a fatal means of his falling; yet that was not owing to any natural confequence of fociety; but partly to that curfed apostate, who craftily lies in wait to deceive; partly to Adam's own folly, in rather chufing to be miferable with one he loved, than truft in GoD to raife him up another fpoule.

If we reflect indeed on that familiar intercourfe, our first parent could carry on with heaven, in a state of innocence, we shall be apt to think he had as little need of fociety, as to his foul, as before we supposed him to have, in respect to his body. But yet, as GOD and the holy angels were so far above him on the one hand, and the beasts so far beneath him on the other, there was nothing like having one to converse with, who was " bone of his bone, and shefth of his stefth."

Man,

- Man. then, could not be fully happy, we fee, even in paradife, without a companion of his own species, much less now he is driven out. For, let us view him a little in his natural eftate now, fince the fall, as " having his understanding darkened, his mind alienated from the life of GoD;" as no more able to fee his way wherein he fhould go, than a blind man to deferibe the fun : that notwithstanding this, he must receive his fight ere he can fee GoD : and that if he never fees him. he never can be happy. Let us view him in this light (or rather this darkness) and deny the necessity of fociety if we can. A divine revelation we find is absolutely necessary, we being by nature as unable to know, as we are to do our duty. And how thall we learn except one teach us? But was GoD to do this himfelf, how fhould we, but with Moles, exceedingly quake and fear? Nor would the ministry of angels in this affair, be without too much terror. It is necessary, therefore (at least God's dealing with us hath shewed it to be fo) that we should be drawn with the cords of a man. And that a divine revelation being granted, we fhould use one another's affistance, under GoD, to instruct each other in the knowledge, and to exhort one another to the practice of those things which belong to our everlafting peace. This is undoubtedly the great end of fociety intended by GoD fince the fall, and a ftrong argument it is, why "two are better than one," and why we fhould " not forfake the affembling ourfelves together."

But farther, let us confider ourfelves as chriftians, as having this natural veil, in fome measure, taken off from our eyes by the affistance of GoD's holy Spirit, and so enabled to see what he requires of us. Let us suppose ourfelves in some degree to have tasted the good word of life, and to have felt the powers of the world to come, influencing and moulding our fouls into a religious frame: to be fully and heartily convinced that we are foldiers lifted under the banner of CHRIST, and to have proclaimed open war at our baptism, against the world, the flesh, and the devil; and have, perhaps, frequently renewed out obligations so to do, by partaking of the LORD's supper: that we are furrounded with millions of foes without, and infeffed with a legion of enemies within: that we are commanded to fhine as lights in the world, in the midft of a crooked crooked and perverse generation: that we are travelling to a long eternity, and need all imaginable helps to shew, and encourage us in our way thither. Let us, I fay, reflect on all this, and then how shall each of us cry out, brethren, what a necessfary thing it is to meet together in religious societies?

The primitive chriftians were fully fenfible of this, and therefore we find them continually keeping up communion with each other : for what fays the scripture ? They continued ftedfaftly in the apoftle's doctrine and fellowship, Acis ii. 42. Peter and John were no fooner difmiffed by the great council, than they hafte away to their companions. "And being fet at liberty they came to their own, and told them all these things which the high prieft had faid unto them," Alls iv. 23. Paul. as foon as converted, " tarried three days with the difciples that were at Damascus," Acts ix. 19. And Peter afterwards, when released from prison, immediately goes to the house of Mary, where there were "great multitudes affembled, praying," Acts xii. 12. And it is reported of the chriftians in after-ages, that they uled to affemble together before day-light, to fing a pfalm to CHRIST as GOD. So precious was the Communion of Saints in those days.

If it be asked, what advantages we shall reap from such a procedure now? I answer, much every way. "Two are better than one, because they have a good reward for their labour: for if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow; but wore be to him that is alone when he falleth, for he hath not another to help him up. Again, if two lie together, then they have heat; but how can one be warm alone? And if one prevail against him, two shall withstand him; and a threefold cord is not quickly broken."

Which directly leads me to my Second general head, under which I was to affign fome reafons why "two are better than one," efpecially in Religious Society.

r. As man in his prefent condition cannot always fland upright, but by reason of the frailty of his nature cannot but fall; one eminent reason why two are better than one, or, in other words, one great advantage of religious society is, ⁴⁴ That when they fall, the one will lift up his fellow.

And

And an excellent reason this, indeed ! For alas ! when we reflect how prone we are to be drawn into error in our judgments, and into vice in our practice; and how unable, at least how very unwilling, to efpy or correct our own mifcarriages; when we confider how apt the world is to flatter us in our faults, and how few there are fo kind as to tell us the truth; what an ineftimable privilege must it be to have a fet of true, judicious, hearty friends about us, continually watching over our fouls, to inform us where we have fallen, and to warn us that we fall not again for the future. Surely it is fuch a privilege, that (to use the words of an eminent chriftian) we fhall never know the value thereof, till we come to glory.

But this is not all; for fuppoling that we could always ftand upright, yet wholoever reflects on the difficulties of religion in general, and his own propenfity to lukewarmnels and indifference in particular, will find that he muft be zealous as well as fteady, if ever he expects to enter the kingdom of heaven. Here, then, the wife man points out to us another excellent reafon why two are better than one. "Again, if two lye together, then they have heat; but how can one be warm alone?" Which was the next thing to be confidered.

2. A fecond reason why two are better than one, is because they can impart heat to each other.

It is an obfervation no lefs true than common, that kindled coals, if placed afunder, foon go out, but if heaped together, quicken and enliven each other, and afford a lafting heat. The fame will hold good in the cafe now before us. If chriffians kindled by the grace of GOD, unite, they will quicken and enliven each other; but if they feparate and keep afunder, no marvel if they foon grow cool or tepid. If two or three meet together in CHRIST's name, they will have heat: but how can one be warm alone ?

Observe, "How can one be warm alone?" The wise man's expressing himself by way of question, implies an impossibility, at least a very great difficulty, to be warm in religion without company, where it may be had. Behold here, then, another excellent benefit flowing from religious society;

it will keep us zealous, as well as fleady, in the ways of godlines.

But to illustrate this a little farther by a comparison or two. Let us look upon ourfelves (as was above hinted) as foldiers lifted under CHRIST's banner; as going out with "ten thousand, to meet one that cometh against us with twenty thoufand;" as perfons that are to "wreftle not only with flefti and blood, but against principalities, against powers, and spiritual wickedneffes in high places." And then tell me, all ve that fear GoD, if it be not an invaluable privilege to have a company of fellow foldiers continually about us, animating and exhorting each other to fland our ground, to keep our ranks, and manfully to follow the captain of our falvation, though it be through a fea of blood ?

Let us confider ourfelves in another view before mentioned; as perfons travelling to a long eternity; as refcued by the free grace of GOD, in fome measure, from our natural Egyptian bondage, and marching under the conduct of our fpiritual Joshua, through the wilderness of this world, to the land of our heavenly Canaan. Let us farther reflect how apt we are to startle at every difficulty ; to cry, " There are lions ! There are lions in the way! There are the fons of Anak" to be grappled with, ere we can posses the promised land : How prone we are, with Lot's wife, to look withfully back on our fpiritual Sodom, or, with the foolifh Ifraelites, to long again for the flefh-pots of Egypt; and to return to our formet natural state of bondage and stavery. Confider this, my brethren, and fee what a bleffed privilege it will be to have a fet of Ifraelites indeed about us, always reminding us of the folly of any fuch cowardly defign, and of the intolerable mifery we shall run into, if we fall in the leaft fhort of the promifed land.

More might be faid on this particular, did not the limits of a difcourse of this nature oblige me to haften,

3. To give a third reafon, mentioned by the wife man in the text, why two are better than one; because they can fecure each other from enemies without. " And if one prevail against him, yet two shall withstand him : and a threefold -cord is not quickly broken."

Hitherto we have confidered the advantages of religious focieties, as a great prefervative against falling (at least dan-VOL. V. н geroully geroufly falling) into fin and lukewarmnefs, and that too from our own corruptions. But what fays the wife fon of Sirach ? " My fon, when thou goeft to ferve the LORD, prepare thy foul for temptation :" and that not only from inward, but outward foes; particularly from those two grand adversaries, the world and the devil : for no fooner will thine eye be bent heavenward, but the former will be immediately diverting it another way, telling thee thou needeft not be fingular in order to be religious; that you may be a christian without going fomuch out of the common road.

Nor will the devil be wanting in his artful infinuations, or impious fuggeftions, to divert or terrify thee from preffing forwards, " that thou mayft lay hold on the crown of life." And if he cannot prevail this way, he will try another; and, in order to make his temptation the more undifcerned, but withal more fuccefsful, he will employ, perhaps, fome of thy neareft relatives, or most powerful friends, (as he fet Peter on our bleffed Master) who will always be bidding thee to spare thyfelf; telling thee thou needeft not take so much pains; that it is not so difficult a matter to get to heaven as some people would make of it, nor the way so narrow as others imagine it to be.

But see here the advantage of religious company; for suppofing thou findeft thyself thus furrounded on every fide, and unable to withftand fuch horrid (though feemingly friendly) counfels, hafte away to thy companions, and they will teach thee a truer and better leffon; they will tell thee, that thou must be fingular if thou wilt be religious; and that it is as impossible for a christian, as for a city fet upon a hill, to be hidden : that if thou wilt be an almost christian (and as good be none at all) thou mayest live in the same idle, indifferent manner as thou feest most other people do : but if thou wilt be not only almost, but altogether a christian, they will inform thee thou must go a great deal farther : that thou must not only faintly feek, but " earnestly strive to enter in at the strait gate :" that there is but one way now to heaven as formerly, even through the narrow paffage of a found conversion : and that in order to bring about this mighty work, thou must undergo a conftant, but necessary discipline of fasting, watching, and prayer. And therefore, the only reafon why those friends friends give thee such advice, is, because they are not willing to take fo much pains themfelves; or, as our Saviour told Peter on a like occasion, because they "favour not the things that be of GoD, but the things that be of men."

This then, is another excellent bleffing arifing from religious fociety, that friends can hereby fecure each other from those who oppose them. The devil is fully sensible of this, and therefore he has always done his utmost to suppress, and put a ftop to the communion of faints. This was his grand artifice at the first planting of the gospel; to perfecute the professors of it, in order to separate them. Which, though Gop, as he always will, over-ruled for the better; yet, it hews, what an enmity he has against christians assembling themselves together. Nor has he yet left off his old stratazen; it being his usual way to entice us by ourfelves, in order to tempt us; where, by being destitute of one another's help, he hopes to lead us captive at his will.

But, on the contrary, knowing his own interest is strengthened by fociety, he would first perfuade us to neglect the communion of faints, and then bid us "ftand in the way " of finners," hoping thereby to put us into the feat of the fcornful. Judas and Peter are melancholy inftances of this, The former had no fooner left his company at supper, but he went out and betrayed his mafter : and the difmal downfal of the latter, when he would venture himfelf amongst a company of enemies, plainly fnews us what the devil will endeavour to do, when he gets us by ourfelves. Had Peter kept his own company, he might have kept his integrity ; but a fingle cord, alas ! how quickly was it broken ? Our bleffed Saviour knew this full well, and therefore it is very observable, that he always fent out his disciples "two by two."

And now, after to many advantages to be reaped from religious fociety, may we not very justly cry out with the wife man in my text, "Woe be to him that is alone; for when he falleth, he hath not another to lift him up ?" When he is cold, he hath not a friend to warm him; when he is affaulted, he hath not a fecond to help him to withstand his enemy.

III. I now come to my third general head, under which was to be shewn the several duties incumbent on every H 2 member [116] member of a religious fociety, as fuch, which are three. 1. Mutual reproof; 2. Mutual exhortation; 3. Mutual affifting and defending each other.

1. Mutual reproof. " Two are better than one; for when they fall, the one will lift up his fellow."

Now, reproof may be taken either in a more extensive fense, and then it fignifies our raising a brother by the gentleft means, when he falls into fin and error; or in a more restrained fignification, as reaching no farther than those miscarriages, which unavoidably happen in the most holy men living.

The wife man, in the text, fuppoles all of us fubject to both: "For when they fall (thereby implying that each of us may fall) the one will lift up his fellow." From whence we may infer, that "when any brother is overtaken with a fault, he that is fpiritual (that is, regenerate, and knows the corruption and weaknefs of human nature) ought to reftore fuch a one in the fpirit of meeknefs." And why he fhould do fo, the apoftle fubjoins a reafon "confidering thyfelf, left thou alfo be tempted ;" i. e. confidering thy own frailty, left thou alfo fall by the like temptation.

We are all frail unftable creatures; and it is merely owing to the free grace and good providence of GoD that we run not into the fame excels of riot with other men. Every offending brother, therefore, claims our pity rather than our refentment; and each member fhould firive to be the most forward, as well as most gentle, in restoring him to his former flate.

But fuppoling a perfon not to be overtaken, but to fall wilfully into a crime; yet who art thou that denieft forgivenefs to thy offending brother? "Let him that flandeth take heed left he fall." Take ye, brethren, the holy apofiles as eminent examples for you to learn by, how you ought to behave in this matter. Confider how quickly they joined the right hand of fellowfhip with Peter, who had fo wilfully denied his mafter : for we find John and him together but two days after, John xx. 2. And ver. 19, we find him affembled with the reft. So foon did they forgive, fo foon affociate ciate with their finful, yet relenting brother. " Let us go and do likewife."

But there is another kind of reproof incumbent on every member of a religious society; namely, a gentle rebuke for fome mifcarriage or other, which though not actually finful, yet may become the occasion of fin. This indeed feems a more eafy, but perhaps will be found a more difficult point than the former : for when a perfon has really finned, he cannot but own his brethrens reproof to be just; whereas, when It was only for fome little mifconduct, the pride that is in our natures will scarce suffer us to brook it. But however ungrateful this pill may be to our brother, yet if we have any concern for his welfare, it must be administered by some friendly hand or other. By all means then let it be applied : only, like a skilful physician, gild over the ungrateful pill. and endeavour, if poffible, to deceive thy brother into health and foundnefs. " Let all bitternefs, and wrath, and malice, and evil-fpeaking, be put away" from it. Let the patient know, his recovery is the only thing aimed at, and that thou delighteft not causelefly to grieve thy brother ; then thou'canft not want fuccefs.

2. Mutual exbortation is the fecond duty refulting from the words of the text. "Again, if two lye together, then they have heat."

· Observe, the wise man supposes it as impossible for religious perfons to meet together, and not to be the warmer for each other's company, as for two perfons to lye in the fame bed, and yet freeze with cold. But now, how is it poffible to communicate heat to each other, without mutually flirring up the gift of GOD which is in us, by brotherly exhortation ? Let every member then of a religious fociety write that zealous apostle's advice on the tables of his heart; "See that ye exhort, and provoke one another to love, and to good works; and fo much the more, as you fee the day of the LORD approaching." Believe me, brethren, we have need of exhortation to roufe up our fleepy fouls, to fet us upon our watch against the temptations of the world, the flesh, and the devil; to excite us to renounce ourfelves, to take up our croffes, and follow our bleffed mafter, and the glorious company of faints and martyrs, " who through faith have fought the H 3

the good fight, and are gone before us to inherit the promifes.²⁶ A third part, therefore, of the time wherein a religious fociety meets, feems neceffary to be fpent in this important duty : for what avails it to have our underftandings enlightened by pious reading, unlefs our wills are at the fame time inclined, and inflamed by mutual exhortation, to put it in practice? Add alfo, that this is the beft way both to receive, and impart light, and the only means to preferve and increafe that warmth and heat which each perfon firft brought with him; GoD fo ordering this, as all other fpiritual gifts, that "to him that hath, i. e. improves and communicates what he hath, fhall be given; but from him that hath not, or does not improve the heat he hath, fhall be taken away even that which he feemed to have." So needful, fo effentially neceffary, is exhortation to the good of fociety.

3. Thirdly, The text points out another duty incumbent on every member of a religious fociety, to defend each other from those that do oppose them. "And if one prevail against him, yet two shall withstand him; and a threefold cord is not quickly broken."

Here the wife man takes it for granted, that offences will come, nay, and that they may prevail too. And this is no more than our bleffed mafter has long fince told us. Not, indeed, that there is any thing in chriftianity itfelf that has the leaft tendency to give rife to, or promote fuch offences: No₃ on the contrary, it breathes nothing but unity and love.

But fo it is, that ever fince the fatal fentence pronounced by GOD, after our first parents fall, "I will put enmity between thy feed and her feed;" he that is born after the flesh, the unregenerate unconverted finner, has in all ages "perfecuted him that is born after the spirit:" and fo it always will be. Accordingly we find an early proof given of this in the instance of Cain and Abel; of Ishmael and Islae; and of Faceb and Eslau. And, indeed, the whole Bible contains little else but an history of the great and continued opposition between the children of this world, and the children of Gon. The first christians were remarkable examples of this; and though those troublesome times, blessed be GoD, are now over, yet the apostle has laid it down as a general rule, and all who are fincere experimentally prove the truth of it; that " they that will live godly in CHRIST JESUS, muft (to the end of the world, in some degree or other) suffer persecution." That therefore this may not make us defert our bleffed master's cause, every member should unite their forces, in order to fland against it. And for the better effecting this, each would do well, from time to time, to communicate his experiences, grievances, and temptations, and beg his companions (first asking Gop's affistance, without which all is nothing) to administer reproof, exhortation, or comfort, as his cafe requires : fo that " if one cannot prevail against it, yet two fhall withstand it; and a threefold (much less a many-fold) cord will not be quickly broken."

IV. But it is time for me to proceed to the fourth general thing proposed, to draw an inference or two from what has been faid.

1. And first, if "two are better than one," and the advantages of religious fociety are fo many and fo great; then it is the duty of every true christian to set on foot, establish and promote, as much as in him lyes, focieties of this nature. And I believe we may venture to affirm, that if ever a fpirit of true christianity is revived in the world, it must be brought about by some such means as this. Motives, surely, cannot be wanting, to flir us up to this commendable and neceffary undertaking : for, granting all hitherto advanced to be of no force, yet methinks the fingle confideration, that great part of our happines in heaven will confist in the Communion of Saints; or that the interest as well as piety of those who differ from us, is ftrengthened and fupported by nothing more than their frequent meetings; either of these confiderations, I fay, one would think, should induce us to do our utmost to copy after their good example, and settle a lasting and pious communion of the faints on earth. Add to this, that we find the kingdom of darkness established daily by such like means; and fhall not the kingdom of CHRIST be fet in opposition against it? Shall the children of Belial affemble and ftrengthen each other in wickednefs; and fhall not the children of GOD unite, and ftrengthen themfelves in piety? Shall focieties on focieties be countenanced for midnight revellings, yellings, and the promoting of vice, and fcarcely one be found intended for the propagation of virtue? Be aftonifhed, O heavens at this !

2. But this leads me to a fecond inference; namely, to warn perfons of the great danger those are in, who either by their fubscriptions, prefence, or approbation, promote focieties of a quite opposite nature to religion.

And here I would not be understood, to mean only those public meetings which are defigned manifestly for nothing elfe but revellings and banquetings, for chambering and wantonness, and at which a modest heathen would blush to be present; but also those seemingly innocent entertainments and meetings, which the politer part of the world are fo very fond of, and spend so much time in : but which, notwithflanding, keep as many perfons from a fense of true religion. as doth intemperance, debauchery, or any other crime whatever. Indeed, whilft we are in this world, we must have proper relaxations, to fit us both for the bufiness of our profeffion, and religion. But then, for perfons who call themfelves christians, that have folemnly vowed at their baptifm. to renounce the vanities of this finful world; that are commanded in scripture " to abstain from all appearance of evil, and to have their conversation in heaven :" for fuch perfons as these to support meetings, which (to say no worse of them) are vain and triffing, and have a natural tendency to draw off our minds from GOD, is absurd, ridiculous, and finful. Surely two are not better than one in this cafe : No; it is to be wifhed there was not one to be found concerned in it. The sooner we forsake the assembling ourselves together in such a manner, the better; and no matter how quickly the cord that holds fuch focieties (was it a thoufand-fold) is broken.

But you, brethren, have not fo learned CHRIST: but, on the contrary, like true disciples of your Lord and Master, have by the bleffing of Gon (as this evening's folemnity abundantly testifies) happily formed yourselves into such focieties, which, if duly attended on, and improved, cannot but firengthen you in your christian warfare, and "make you fruitful in every good word and work."

What remains for me, but, as was proposed, in the last place, to close what has been faid, in a word or two, by way of of exhortation, and to rech you, in the name of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, to get in the way you have begun; and by a conftant conference on your respective focieties, to discounted vice, encourage virtue, and build each other up in the ledge and fear of God.

Only permit me to flir up your pure minds, by way of remembrance," and exhort you, " if there be any confolation in CHRIST, any fellowship of the spirit," again and again to confider, that as all christians in general, so all members of religious societies in particular, are in an especial manner, as houses built upon an hill; and that therefore it highly concerns you to walk circumspectly towards those that are without, and to take heed to yourselves, that your conversation, in common life, be as becometh such an open and peculiar profession of the gospel of CHRIST: knowing that the eyes of all men are upon you, narrowly to inspect every circumstance of your behaviour: and that every notorious wilful miscarriage of any single member will, in some measure, redound to the scandal and dishonour of your whole fraternity.

Labour, therefore, my beloved brethren, to let your practice correspond to your profession: and think not that it will, be fufficient for you to plead at the last day, LORD have we not assessed ourselves together in thy name, and enlivened each other, by finging plasms, and hymns, and fpiritual fongs? For verily, I fay unto you, notwithstanding this, our bleffed LORD will bid you depart from him; nay, you shall receive a greater damnation, if, in the midft of these great pretensions, you are found to be workers of iniquity.

But GoD forbid that any fuch evil fhould befal you; that there fhould be ever a Judas, a traitor, amongft fuch diftinguifhed followers of our common mafter. No, on the contrary, the excellency of your rules, the regularity of your meetings, and more especially your pious zeal in affembling in fuch a public and folemn manner fo frequently in the year, periuade me to think, that you are willing, not barely to feem, but to be in reality, chriftians; and hope to be found at the last day, what you would be esteemed now, holy, fincere disciples of a crucified Redeemer.

Oh,

Oh, may you always continue thus minded! and make it your daily, conftant endeavour, both by precept and example, to turn all your converfe with, more efpecially thole of your own focieties, into the fame most bleffed spirit and temper. Thus will you adorn the gospel of our LORD JESUS CHRIST in all things: Thus will you anticipate the happiness of a future state; and by attending on, and improving the communion of faints on earth, be made meet to join the communion and fellowship of the spirits of just men made perfect, of the holy angels, nay, of the ever-bleffed and eternal GoD in heaven.

Which GOD of his infinite mercy grant through JESUS CHRIST OUR LORD; to whom with the Father and the Holy Ghoft, three perfons and one GOD, be afcribed, as is most due, all honour and praife, might, majefty and dominion, now and for ever. Amen.

SERMON IX.

The Folly and Danger of being not righteous enough.

Eccles. vii. 16.

Be not righteous overmuch, neither make thyself over-wife : why shoulds thou destroy thyself?

TOTHING is more frequent, than while people are living in a course of fin, and after the fashion and manner of the world, there is no notice taken of them; neither are their ways displeasing to their companions and carnal relations: but if they fet their faces Zion-ward, and begin to feel the power of GoD on their hearts; then they are furrounded with temptations from their friends, who thus act the devil's part. The enemies, the greatest enemies a young convert meets with, my dear brethren, are those of his own house. They that will be godly, must fuffer perfecution; fo it was in CHRIST's time, and fo it was in the Apoftles time too; for our LORD came not to fend peace, but a Our relations would not have us fit in the fcorner's fword. chair; they would not have us be prodigals, confuming our fubstance upon harlots; neither would they have us rakes or libertines, but they would have us be contented with an almost chriftianity. To keep up our reputation by going to church, and adhering to the outward forms of religion, faying our prayers, reading the word of GOD, and taking the facraments ; this, they imagine, is all that is neceffary for to be christians indeed; and when we go one step farther than this, their mouths are open against us, as Peter's was to CHRIST:  Spare thyfelf, do thyfelf no harm,"

And

And of this nature are the words of the text. They are not the words of Solomon himfelf, but the words of an infidel speaking to him, whom he introduces in feveral parts of this book; for Solomon had been shewing the misfortunes which attended the truly good, as in the verse before our text.

Upon this the infidel fays, "Be not righteous over-much, neither be thou over-wife: why fhouldst thou deftroy thyfelf?" i. e. Why fhouldst thou bring these misfortunes upon thyfelf, by being over-strict? Be not righteous over-much; eat, drink, and be merry, live as the world lives, and then you will avoid those misfortunes which may attend you, by being righteous over-much.

This text has another meaning; but take it which way you will, my brethren, it was fpoken by an unbeliever; therefore it was no credit for the perfon who lately preached upon this text, to take it for granted, that these were the words of Solomon: the words of an infidel was not a proper text to a christian congregation. But as David came out against Goliab, not armed as the champion was, with fword and spear, but with a fling and store, and then cut off his head with his own sword; so I come out against these letterlearned men, in the strength of the LORD JESUS CHRIST; and, my dear brethren, I trust he will direct me to use my fling, so that our enemies may not gainfay us; and by the sword of GoD's word, cut off the heads of our Redeemer's enemies.

But though they are not the words of Solomon, yet we will take them in the fame manner the late writer did; and, from the words, fhall,

First, Shew you what it is, not to be righteous over-much, that we may not defiroy ourselves.

Secondly, I fhall let you fee what it is to be righteous overmuch. And then,

Thirdly, Conclude with an exhortation to all of you, high and low, rich and poor, one with another, to come to the LORD JESUS CHRIST.

First, The first thing proposed, is to shew you what it is not to be righteous over-much. And here,

It

It is by no means to be righteous over-much, to affirm we must have the same Spirit of GOD as the first Apostles had, and must feel that Spirit upon our hearts.

By receiving the Spirit of GOD, is not to be underflood, that we are to be infpired to thew outward figns and wonders. to raife dead bodies, to cure leprous persons, or to give fight to the blind : these miracles were only of use in the first ages of the church ; and therefore christians (nominal christians, for we have little elfe but the name) may have all the gifts of the Spirit, and yet none of the graces of it : Thou, O man, mayeft be enabled by faith to remove mountains; thou, by the power of GOD, mayeft caft out devils; thou, by that power, mayeft speak with the tongues of men and angelse yea, thou mayeft, by that power, hold up thy finger and from the fun in the firmament; and if all these are unfanctified by the Spirit of GOD, they would be of no fervice to thee, but . would hurry thee to hell with the greater folemnity. Saul received the fpirit of prophefying, and had another heart, yet Saul was probably a cast-away. We must receive the Spirit of God in its fanctifying graces upon our fouls; for CHRIST fays, "Unlefs a man be born again, he cannot fee the kingdom of GoD." We are all by nature born in fin, and at as great a diftance from GOD, as the devils themselves. I have told you often, and now tell you again, that you are by nature a motley mixture of the beaft and devil, and we cannot recover ourselves from the flate wherein we have fallen, therefore must be renewed by the Holy Ghost: By the Holy Ghost. I mean, the third Perfon of the ever-bleffed Trinity, co-equal, co-effential, co-eternal, and confubftantial with the Father and the Son; and therefore, when we are baprized, it is into the nature of the Father, into the nature of the Son. and into the nature of the Holy Ghoft : and we are not true christians, till we are fanctified by the Spirit of GOD.

Though our modern preachers do not actually deny the Spirit of GoD, yet they fay, "Christians must not feel him;" which is in effect to deny him. When Nicodemus came to CHRIST, and the LORD JESUS was inftructing him, concerning the new birth, fays he to our LORD, "How can these things be?" Nicodemus, though a master of Ifrael, acts just as our learned Rabbi's do now. The answer that CHRIST gave gave him should kep the mouths of our letter-learned pharifees: " The wind bloweth where it lifteth, and we hear the found thereof, but cannot tell whence it cometh, nor whither it goeth." Now till the Spirit of GOD is felt on our fouls as the wind on our bodies, indeed, my dear brethren, you have no interest in him : religion confists not in external performance, is must be in the heart, or elfe it is only a name, which cannot profit us, a name to live whils we are dead.

A late preacher upon this text, feems to laugh at us, for talking of the Spirit in a feasible manner, and talks to us as the Jean did to CHRIST: They faid, "How can this man give us his flefh to eat?" So he afks, "What fign or proof do we give of it?" We do not imagine, that GOD muft appear to us, and give it us: no; but there may be, and is, a frequent receiving, when no feeing of it; and it is as plainly is first in the foul, as any imprefision is, or can be, upon the body. To what a damnable condition fhould we bring poor finners, if they could not be fensible of the Spirit of GOD; namely, a reprobate mind and paft feeling?

" What proof do they give ?" fays the writer. What fign would they have? Do they expect us to raife the dead, to give fight to the blind, to cure lepers, to make the lame to walk, and the deaf to hear ? If these are what they expect, I fpeak with humility, GoD, by us, heth done greater things than these: many, who were dead in fin, are railed to ferip. ture-life : thate, who were leprous by nature, are cleanfed by the Spirit of Gon; thofe, who were lame in duty, now run in Gon's commands; those, who were deaf, their ears areunflopped to hear his discipline, and hearken to his advice : and the poor have the gofpel preached to them. No wonder people talk at this rate, when they can tell us, " That the Spirit of GODy is a good confeience, confequent thereupon." My dear brethren, Seneca, Cieero, Plate, or any of the heather philosophers, would have given as good a definition as this ; It means no more, than reflecting that we have done well. This, this is only Deifm refined : Deifts laugh at us, when we pretend to be against their actions, and yet these men use no other reason for our differing from them, that what is agreeable to Deifts principles.

This

This writer tells us, " It is against common-sense to talk of the feeling of the Spirit of GoD." Common-sense, my brothren, was never allowed to be a judge; yea, it is above its comprehension, neither are, nor can the ways of GOD be known by common-sense. We should never have known the things of GoD at all by our common senses: no; it is the revelation of GoD which is to be our judge; it is that we appeal to, and not to our weak and shallow conceptions of things. Thus we may see, it is by no means to be righteous over-much, to affirm we must have the Spirit of GoD as the Apostles had. Nor,

Secondly, Is it to be righteous over-much to frequent religious affemblies.

The preacher, upon this text, aims at putting alide all the religious focieties that are in the kingdom : Indeed, he fave, "You may go to church as often as opportunity ferves, and " on Sundays; fay your prayers, read the word of GOD; and, " in his opinion, every thing elfe had better be let alone: " and as for the Spirit of GOD upon your fouls, you are to " look upon it as useless and unnecessary." If this, my brethren, is the doctrine we have now preached, chriftianity is at a low ebb indeed : but GoD forbid you should thus learn JESUS CHRIST. Do you not forbear the frequenting of religious affemblies; for as nothing helps to build up the devil's kingdom more than the focieties of wicked men, nothing would be more for pulling of it down, than the people of GOD meeting to firengthen each others hands; and as the devil has fo many friends, will none of you he friends to the bleffed JESUS? Yes, I hope many of you will be of the LORD's fide, and build each other up in christian love and fellowship. This is what the primitive christians delighted in; and shall not we follow to excellent an example ? My brethren, till chriftian conversation is more agreeable to us, we cannot expect to fee the gospel of CHRIST run and be glorified. Thus it is by no means to be righteous over-much, to frequent religious assemblies. Nor,

Thirdly, Is it to be righteous over-much, to abkain from the diversions and entertainments of the age.

We are commanded to " abitain from the appearance of evil," and that " whatfoever we do, whether we cat or drink,

we shall do all to the glory of GoD." The writer upon this -text tells us, " That it will be accounted unlawful to fmell to a role :" no, my dear brethren, you may fmell to a pink and role too if you pleafe, but take care to avoid the appearance of fin. They talk of innocent diversions and recreations; for my part, I know of no diversion, but that of doing good : if vou can find any diversion which is not contrary to your baptifmal vow, of renouncing the pomps and vanities of this wicked world; if you can find any diversion which tends to the glory of Gon; if you can find any diversion, which you would be willing to be found at by the LORD JESUS CHRIST, -I give you free licence to go to them and welcome; but if, on the contrary, they are found to keep finners from coming to the LORD JESUS CHRIST; if they are a means to harden the heart, and fuch as you would not willingly be found in when you come to die, then, my dear brethren, keep from them : -for, indeed, the diversions of this age are contrary to christianity. Many of you may think I have gone too far, but I Thall go a great deal farther yet : I will attack the devil in this ftrongeft holds, and bear my teflimony against our fa-Thionable and polite entertainments. What fatisfaction can it be, what pleafure is there in spending feveral hours at cards? Strange ! that even people who are grown old, can spend whole nights in this diversion : perhaps many of you will cry out, "What harm is there in it?" My dear brethren, whatloever is not of faith, or for the glory of GOD, is a fin : Now does cards tend to promote this? Is it not mispending your precious time, which should be employed in working out your falvation with fear and trembling ? Do play-houfes, borle-racing, balls and allemblies, tend to promote the glory of GOD ? Would you be willing to have your foul demanded of you, while you are at one of those places ? Many of these are, (I must speak, I cannot forbear to speak against these entertainments; come what will, I will declare against them) many, I fay, of these are kept up by public authority : the play-houses are supported by a public fund, and our newspapers are full of horfe-races all through the kingdom : thefe things are finful; indeed they are exceeding finful. What good can come from a horfe-race; from abufing GOD Almighty's creatures, and putting them to that use he never defigued defigned for them: the play-houfes, are they not nurferies of debauchery in the age? and the fupporters and patrons of them, are encouragers and promoters of all the evil that is done by them; they are the bane of the age, and will be the deftruction of those who frequent them. Is it not high time for the true ministers of JESUS CHRIST, who have been partakers of the heavenly gift, to lift up their voices as a trumpet, and cry aloud against these diversions of the age? Are they not earthly, fensual, devilish? If you have tasted of the love of GoD, and have felt his power upon your fouls, you would no more go to a play, than you would run your head into a furnace.

And what occasions these places to be fo much frequented, is the clergy's making no fcruple to be at thefe polite places : they frequent play-houses, they go to horse-races, they go to balls and affemblies, they frequent taverns, and follow all the entertainments that the age affords; and yet these are the perfons who should advise their hearers to refrain from them; but instead thereof, they encourage them by their example. Perfons are too apt to rely upon, and believe their pastors, rather than the scriptures; they think that there is no crime in going to plays or horfe-races, to balls and affemblies; for if there were, they think those perfons, who are their ministers, would not frequent them : but, my dear brethren, observe they always go difguifed, the ministers are afraid of being feen in their gowns and caffocks; the reason thereof is plain, their confciences inform them, that it is not an example fit for the ministers of the gospel to set; thus, they are the means of giving that offence to the people of GOD, which I would not for ten thousand worlds : they lay a flumbling-block in the way of their weak brethren, which they will not remove, though it is a stumbling-block of offence. "Woe unto the world because of offences, but we unto that man by whom the offence cometh." The polite gentlemen of the age, fpend their time in following these diversions, because the love of GOD is not in their hearts; they are void of CHRIST, and deftitute of the Spirit of GOD; and not being acquainted with the delight there is in GOD and his ways, being strangers to these things, they run to the devil for diversions, and are pleafed and delighted with the filly ones he fhews them.

VOL. V.

I

My.

My dear brethren, I speak of these things, these innocent diversions, as the polite part of the world calls them, by experience; perhaps none, for my age, hath read or feen more plays than I have : I took delight in, and was pleased with It is true, I went to church frequently, received the them. facrament, and was diligent in the use of the forms of religion. but I was all this while ignorant of the power of GOD on my heart, and unacquainted with the work of grace; but when GOD was pleafed to thine with power upon my foul, I could no longer be contented to feed on hufks, or what the fwine did eat; the Bible then was my food; there, and there only I took delight : and till you feel this fame power, you will not abstain from the earthly delights of this age, you will take no comfort in God's ways, nor receive any comfort from him : for you are void of the love of GOD, having only the form of godlines, while you are denying the power of it; you are nominal christians, when you have not the power of christianity.

The polite gentlemen fay, "Are we to be always upon our knees? Would you have us be always at prayer, and reading or hearing the word of Gop?"

My dear brethren, the fashionable ones, who take delight in hunting, are not tired of being continually on horseback after their hounds; and when once you are renewed by the Spirit of GoD, it will be a continual pleasure to be walking with, and talking of GoD, and telling what great things JESUS CHRIST hath done for your souls; and till you can find as much pleasure in conversing with GoD, as these men do of their hounds, you have no share in him; but when you have tasted how good the LORD is, you will shew forth his praise; out of the abundance of your heart your mouth will speak.

This brings me to the fecond thing proposed, which is an extream that very feldom happens:

Secondly, To thew what it is to be righteous over-much, And here,

First, When we confine the Spirit of GOD to this or that particular church; and are not willing to converse with any but those of the same communion; this is to be righteous over-much with a witnefs : and fo it is, to confine our communion within church-walls, and to think that JESUS could not preach in a field as well as on confecrated-ground; this . is judaifm, this is bigotry: this is like Peter, who would not go to preach the gospel to the Gentiles, till he had a vision from GOD: and when his conduct was blamed by the disciples. he could not fatisfy them till he had acquainted them with the vision he had seen. And, therefore, we may justly infer, the Spirit of GoD is the center of unity; and wherever I fee the image of my Master, I never enquire of them their opinions; I ask them not what they are, fo they love JESUS CHRIST in fincerity and truth, but embrace them as my brother, my fifter, and my fpouse: and this is the spirit of christianity. Many perfons, who are bigots to this or that opinion, when one of a different way of thinking hath come where they were, have left the room or place on the account : this is the spirit of the devil; and if it was possible that these persons could be admitted into heaven with fuch tempers, that very place would be hell to them. Christianity will never flourish, till we are all of one heart and of one mind; and this would be the only means of feeing the golpel of JESUS to flourish, more than ever it will by perfecuting those who differ from us.

This may be efteemed as enthufialm and madnels, and as a defign to undermine the effablished church : No; GOD is my judge, I fhould rejoice to fee all the world adhere to her articles; I should rejoice to see the ministers of the Church of England, preach up those very articles they have subscribed to; but those ministers who do preach up the articles, are esteemed as madmen, enthusiasts, schifmatics, and underminers of the established church : and though they fay these things of me, bleffed be GOD, they are without foundation. My dear brethren, I am a friend to her articles, I am a friend to her homilies, I am a friend to her liturgy; and, if they did not thruft me out of their churches, I would read them every day; but I do not confine the Spirit of GOD there; for I fay it again, I love all that love the LORD JESUS CHRIST, and effeem him. my brother, my friend, my fpoule; aye, my very foul is knit to that perfon. The fpirit of perfecution will never, indeed it will never make any to love JESUS CHRIST. The pharifees make this to be madnels, fo much as to mention perfecu-• tion tion in a christian country; but there is as much the fpirit of perfecution now in the world, as ever there was; their will is as great, but bleffed be GOD, they want the power; otherwise, how foon would they fend me to prison, make my feet fast in the flocks, yea, would think they did GOD fervice in killing me, and would rejoice to take away my life.

This is not the Spirit of CHRIST, my dear brethren; I had not come to have thus preached; I had not come into the highways and hedges; I had not exposed myself to the ill treatment of these letter-learned men, but for the sake of your fouls ; indeed, I had no other reason, but your falvation ; and for that (I fpeak the truth in CHRIST, I lie not) I would be content to go to prison; yea, I would rejoice to die for you, fo I could but be a means to bring fome of you to IESUS : I could not bear to fee fo many in the highway to deftruction, and not fhew them their danger : I could not bear, my brethren, to fee you more willing to learn, than the teachers are to inftruct you : and if any of them were to come and preach to you, I should not envy them, I should not call them enthufiasts or madmen; I should rejoice to hear they had ten thousand times more success than I have met with; I would give them the right-hand of fellowship; I would advise them to go on; I would with them good luck in the name of the LORD, and fay as CHRIST did, when the disciples informed him of fome caffing out devils in his name, and were for rebuking of them, " Forbid them not, for they that are not against us are for us;" or as St. Paul fays, "Some preach CHRIST of envy, and fome of good-will; notwithstanding, fo CHRIST is but preached, I rejoice; yea, and will rejoice." The golpel of JESUS, is a golpel of peace. Thus you may fee, that to be righteous over-much, is to be uncharitable, cenforious, and to perfecute perfons for differing from us in religion.

Secondly, Perfons are righteous over-much, when they fpend fo much time in religious affemblies, as to neglect their families. There is no licence given by the bleffed JESUS, for idlenefs; for in the very infancy of the world, idlenefs was not allowed of. In paradife, Adam and Eve dreffed the garden, Cain was a tiller of the ground, and Abel was a keeper of theep; and there is a proverb amongst the Jews, "That he who who brings his fon up without a bufinefs, brings him up to be a thief :" and therefore our Saviour was a carpenter ; " Is not this the carpenter's fon," faid the Jews : and St. Paul. though brought up at the feet of Gamaliel, was a tent-maker. Labour, my brethren, is imposed on all mankind as part of the divine curfe; and you are called to be useful in the fociety to which you belong : take care first for the kingdom of GOD, and all things necessary shall be added. To labour for the meat that perisheth, is your duty; only take care, that you do not neglect getting the meat for the foul : that is of the greatest confequence, for this plain reason, the things of this life are temporal, but those of the next are eternal. I would have rich men to work as well as poor : it is owing to their idlenefs. that the devil hurries them to his diversions; they can be in their beds all the morning, and fpend the afternoon and evening in dreffing, visiting, and at balls, plays, or affemblies, when they fhould be working out their falvation with fear and trembling. Such a life as this, occafions a fpiritual numbnels in the foul ; and if JESUS CHRIST was not to ftop those who thus spend their time, they would be hurried into eternity, without once thinking of their immortal fouls. But JESUS CHRIST has compation upon many of them, and while they are in their blood, he bids them " live," And shough I preach this doctrine to you, yet I do not bid you be idle; no, they that do not work fhould not eat. You have two callings, a general one, and a special one: as we are to regard the one in respect of our bodies, fo we are to regard the other on account of our fouls. Take heed, my brethren, I befeech you, take heed, left you labour fo for the meat that perisheth, as to forget that meat which endureth for ever. Seek the things of GOD first; look well to obtain oil in your lamps, grace in your hearts. I am not perfuading you to take no care about the things of the world, but only not to be encumbered with them, fo as to neglect your duty towards Gon, and a proper concern for your fouls. It is meet, it is right, it is your bounden duty, to mind the callings wherein God hath placed you ; and you may be faid to be righteous overmuch not to regard them. This brings me,

Thirdly,

Thirdly, To give you another fign of being righteous overmuch; and that is, when we fast and use corporal austerities, so as to unfit us for the service of God.

This, my brethren, you may think there is no occasion at all to caution you against, and indeed there is not a great noceffity for it; however, many perfons, upon their first being awakened to a fense of their fin, are tempted to use austerities to that excess which is finful. It is our duty to fast, it is our duty to fast often, and it is what we are directed to by JESUS CHRIST himself; but then we are to take care to do it in a proper manner: to bring our bodies under for the fervice of GOD, is that which we are commanded by our LORD JESUS CHRIST.

The late preacher upon this text, runs into great extremes, and charges us with faying and acting things, of which we never thought; but I do not regard what he faid of me: I do not mind his bitter invectives sgainst my ministry; I do not mind his defoifing my youth, and calling me novice and enthulish; I forgive him from my very heart : but when he reflects on my Mafter; when he fpeaks against my Redeemer; when JESUS CHRIST is spoken against, I must speak, (I must speak indeed, or I should burft :) when he gives liberty to perfons to take a chearful glafs, and alledges CHRIST for an example, as in the marriage-feast, faying, " CHRIST turned water into " wine, when it is plain there had been more drank than was " necessary before;" what is this, but to charge CHRIST with encouraging drunkennois? It is true, the Governor fays, " Every man in the beginning fets forth good wine, and when men have well drank, that which is worfe; but thou haft kept the good wine until now :" but it does not at all follow, that it was not necessary, or that there had been a fufficient quantity before : I would not fpeak thus flightingly of one of my Mafter's miracles, for the whole world. Aod we may observe, that as CHRIST chiefly visited poor peoples they might not have wherewithal to buy a fufficient quanbity of wine; or having more guests than were expected, the wine was expended fooner than they thought ; then the Mother of JESUS tells him, " They have no wine;" he answers, "Woman, what have I to do with thee? My hour is not yet come." After this he commanded them to fill the water-

pots with water, and they filled them to the brim, and this water he turned into wine : now it does not at all follow, that there was more drank than was necessary; neither would the LORD J'ESUS CHRIST have continued in the house if there had. But we have an excellent lefton to learn from this miracle : by the water-pots being empty, we may understand, the heart of man being by nature destitute of his grace, his speaking and commanding to fill them, fhews, that when CHRIST speaks, the heart that was empty of grace before, shall be filled; and the water-pots being filled to the brim, fhews, that CHRIST will fill believers hearts brim full of the Holy Ghoft : and from the Governor's observing, that the laft wine was the best, learn, that a believer's best comforts, shall be the last and greatest, for they shall come with the greatest power upon the foul, and continue longest there : this, this my dear brethren, is the leffon we may learn from this miracle.

But one great inconfistency I cannot avoid taking notice of in this late learned preacher. In the beginning of his fermon, he charges us with " laying heavy burthens upon people, " which they are not able to bear;" in the latter part he charges us with being Antinomians, whole tenets are, " So " you fay you believe in the LORD JESUS CHRIST, you may " live the life of devils." Now, he charges us with being too firit, and by and by with being too loofe. Which fide, my brethren, will you take ? Thus you fee, when perfons forfake CHRIST, they make ftrange miftakes; for there can be no greater opposition of fentiments than this letter-learned writer has made : as opposite as light and darkness, good and evil, fweet and bitter. And, on this account, to find out these lettered-learned gentlemens notions of the new-birth, I put a paragraph in my Journal; and, bleffed be God, I have. obtained my defires, and have plainly perceived, that the perfons who have lately written concerning the new-birth, know no more of it than a blind man does of colours, nor can they have any more notion of it, (by all their learning, falfely fo called) than the blind man, who was to give an account what the fun was, and, after a confiderable time allowed for fludy. he faid, " It was like the found of a trumpet." And till they are taught of God, they will be unacquainted with the new-I4 birth :

birth : therefore, if you have a mind to know what the devil has to fay againft us, read Dr. Trapp's fermons.

It is with grief I fpeak thefe things, and were not the welfare of your fouls, and my Redeemer's honour at stake, I would not now open my mouth, yea I would willingly die (GoD is my judge) for the perfon who wrote fuch bitter things against me, so it would be a means of faving his soul. If he had only spoken against me, I would not have answered him ; but, on his making my Redeemer a pattern of vice, if I was not to speak, the very flones would cry out; therefore, the honour of my Redeemer, and love to you, constrains me to speak. It is of necessity that I speak, when the divinity of JESUS CHRIST is spoken against, it is the duty of ministers to cry aloud, and spare not. I cannot forbear, come what will; for I know not what kind of divinity we have now among us : we must have a righteousnels of our own, and do our best endeayours, and then CHRIST will make up the deficiency; that is, you must be your own Saviour, in part. This is not the doctrine of the gospel; this is not the doctrine of JESUS: no; CHRIST is all in all; JESUS CHRIST must be your whole wildom; JESUS CHRIST must be your whole righteousnes, TESUS CHRIST must be your whole fanctification; or JESUS. CHRIST will never be your eternal redemption and fanctification. Inward holinefs is looked on, by fome, as the effect of enthulialm and madnels; and preachers of the necessity of the new-birth, are esteemed as persons fit for Bedlam. Our polite and fashionable doctrine, is, " That there is a fitness in man,  and that GOD, feeing you a good creature, bestows upon " you his grace." GOD forbid, my dear brethren, you fhould thus learn IESUS CHRIST !

This is not the doctrine I preach to you: I fay, falvation is the free gift of GOD. It is GOD's free grace, I preach unto you, not of works, left any one fhould boaft. JESUS CHRIST juftifies the ungodly; JESUS CHRIST paffed by, and faw you polluted with your blood, and bid you live. It is not of works, it is of faith : we are not juftified for our faith, for faith is the inftrument, but by your faith, the active as well as the paffive obedience of CHRIST, muft be applied to you. JESUS CHRIST hath fulfilled the law, he hath made it honourable; JESUS CHRIST hath made fatisfaction to his Father's Father's juftice, full fatisfaction; and it is as compleat as it is full, and GOD will not demand it again. JESUS CHRIST is the way; JESUS CHRIST is the truth; and JESUS CHRIST is the life. The righteoufnefs of JESUS CHRIST, my brethren, muft be imputed to you, or you can never have any intereft in the blood of JESUS; your own works are but as filthy rags, for you are juftified before GOD, without any refpect to your works paft, prefent, or to come. This doctrine is denyed by the learned rabbi's; but if they deny thefe truths of the gofpel, they muft not be offended, though a child dare fpeak to a doctor; and, in vindication of the caufe of JESUS CHRIST, a child, a boy, by the Spirit of GOD, can fpeak to the learned clergy of this age.

If I had a voice fo great, and could fpeak fo loud, as that the whole world could hear me, I would cry, "Be not righteous over-much," by bringing your righteoufnefs to CHRIST, and by being righteous in your own eyes. Man must be abased, that GOD may be exalted.

The imputed righteoulnels of JESUS CHRIST is a comfortable doctrine to all real christians; and you finners, who ask what you must do to be faved ? how uncomfortable would it be, to tell you by good works, when, perhaps, you have never done one good work in all your life : this would be driving you to defpair, indeed : no; "Believe in the LORD JESUS CHRIST, and you shall be faved :" therefore none of you need go away despairing. Come to the LORD JESUS by faith. and he shall receive you. You have no righteousness of your. own to depend on. If you are faved, it is by the righteoufnefs of CHRIST, through his atonement, his making a facrifice for fin : his righteousnels must be imputed to you, otherwife vou cannot be faved. There is no difference between you, by nature, and the greatest malefactor that ever was executed at Tyburn : the difference made, is all owing to the free, the rich, the undeferved grace of GOD; this has made the difference. It is true, talking at this rate, will offend the pharifees, who do not like this levelling doctrine, (as they call it); but if ever you are brought to JESUS CHRIST by faith, you will experience the truth of it. Come by faith to JESUS CHRIST; do not come, pharisee-like, telling God what you have done, how often you have gone to church. how how often you have received the facrament, falted, praved, or the like: no; come to CHRIST as poor, loft, undone. damned finners; come to him in this manner, and he will accept of you : do not be rich in fpirit, proud and exalted, for there is no bleffing attends fuch ; but be ye poor in foirit. for theirs is the kingdom of GOD; they shall be made members of his mystical body here, and shall be so of the church triumphant hereafter. Acknowledge yourselves as nothing at all, and when you have done all, fay, "You are unprofitable fervants." There is no faivation but by JESUS CHRIST ; there is no other name given under heaven amongft men, whereby we may be faved, but that of the LORD JESUS. GOD, out of CHRIST, is a confuming fire; therefore ftrive for an interest in his Son the LORD JESUS CHRIST; take him on the terms offered to you in the golpel; accept of him in God's own way, lay hold on him by faith.

Do not think you are chriftians; do not flatter yourfelves with being righteous enough, and good enough, because you lead moral decent lives, do no one any harm, go to church, and attend upon the outward means of grace; no, my brethren, you may do this, and a great deal more, and yet be' very far from having a faving, experimental knowledge of JESUS CHRIST.

Beg of CHRIST to ftrike home upon your hearts, that you may feel the power of religion. Indeed, you muft feel the power of GOD here, or the wrath of GOD hereafter. Thefe are truths of the utmost confequence; therefore, do not go contradicting, do not go blass to run away. Blessed be Gon, you are not fuch cowards to run away for a little rain. I hope good things of you; I hope you have felt the power of GOD; and if GOD should bring any of you to himfelf through this foolishness of preaching, you will have no reason to complain it was done by a youth, by a child: no; if I could be made an inftrument to bring you to GOD, they may call me novice, enthusiast, or what they please, I should rejoice; yea, and I would rejoice.

O that fome finner might be brought to JESUS CHRIST! Do not fay I preach defpair : I defpair of no one, when I confider GoD had mercy on fuch a wretch as I, who was running in a full career to hell : I was kafting thither, but JESUS CHRIST CHRIST paffed by and stopped me; JESUS CHRIST passed by me while I was in my blood, when I was polluted with fifth; be passed by me, and bid me live. Thus I am a monument of GoD's free grace; and therefore, my brethren, I despair of none of you, when I consider, I say, what a wretch I was. I am not speaking now out of a false humility, a pretended fanctity, as the pharifees call it: no, the truth in CHRIST I speak, and therefore, men and devils do your worst; I have a gracious Master will protect me; it is his work I am engaged in, and JESUS CHRIST will carry me above their rage.

Those who are come here this night out of curiosity to hear what the babbler fays; those who come to spend an idle hour to find something for an evening-conversation at a coffeehouse; or you who have stopped in your coaches as you passed by, remember that you have had JESUS CHRIST offered to you; I offer JESUS CHRIST to every one of you: perhaps you may not regard it because it is in a field. But JESUS CHRIST is wherever his people meet in funcerity and truth to worship him: he is not confined to church walls: he has met us here; many, very many of you know he has; and therefore you may believe on him with greater confidence.

Can you bear to think of a bleeding, pasting, dying JESUS, offering himfelf up for finners, and you will not accept of him? Do not fay, you are poor, and therefore are afhamed to go to church, for GOD has fent the golpel out unto you. Do not harden your hearts : oppose not the will of JESUS.

O that I could speak to your hearts, that my words would centre there. My heart is full of love to you. I would speak, till I could speak no more, fo I could but bring you to CHRIST. I may never meet you all, perhaps, any more. The cloud of GoD's providence seems to be moving. GoD calls me by his providence away from you, for a while. GoD knows whether we shall ever see each other in the flesh. At the day of judgment we shall all meet again. I earnessly defire your prayers. Pray that I may not only begin, Jehu-like, in the spirit, but that I may continue in it. Pray that I may not fall away, that I may not decline suffering for you, if I should he.called to it. Be earnessly to others, I may not be a cast-away. Put up your prayers for me, I beseech you. Go not to the throne of grace, without carrying me upon your heart; for you know not what influence your prayers may have. As for you, my dear brethren, GoD knows my heart, I continually bear you on my mind, when I go in and out before the LORD; and it is my earnest defire, you may not perifh for lack of knowledge, but that he would fend out more ministers to water what his own right-hand hath planted. May the Antient of Days come forth upon his white horfe. and may all opposition fall to the ground. As we have begun to bruife the ferpent's head, we must expect he will bruife our heel. The devil will not let his kingdom fall without raging horribly. He will not fuffer the ministers of CHRIST to go on, without bringing his power to ftop them. But fear not, my dear brethren, David, though a ftripling, encountered the great Goliab; and if we pray, GOD will give us ftrength against all our spiritual enemies. Shew your faith by your works. Give the world the lye. Press forward. Do not ftop, do not linger in your journey, but ftrive for the mark fet before you. Fight the good fight of faith, and GOD will give you fpiritual mercies. I hope we shall all meet at the right-hand of GOD. Strive, strive to enter in at the strait gate, that we may be borne to Abraham's bolom, where fin and forrow shall cease. No scoffer will be there, but we shall fee JESUS, who died for us; and not only fee him, but live with him for ever.

Which GoD, of his infinite mercy, &c.

SERMON

SERMON X

- A Prefervative against unsettled Notions, and want of Principles, in regard to Righteousness and Christian Perfection.
- Being a more particular Answer to Doctor Trapp's Four Sermons upon the fame Text.

To all the True Members of Christ's Holy Church.

Dear Fellow Christians,

HE great, and indeed the only motive which prompted me to publish this fermon, was the defire of providing for your fecurity from error, at a time when the deviators from, and falle pretenders to truth, are fo numerous, that the most difcerning find it a matter of the greatest difficulty to avoid being led aftray by one or by other into downright falfhood. There is no running divisions upon truth; like a mathematical point, it will neither admit of fubtraction nor addition : And as it is indivisible in its nature, there is no fplitting the difference, where truth is concerned. Irreligion and enthusiasm are diametrical opposites, and true piety between both, like the center of an infinite line, is at an equal infinite diffance from the one and the other, and therefore can never admit of a coalition with either. The one erring by defect, the other by excess. But whether we err by defect, or excess, is of little importance, if we are equally wide of the mark, as we certainly are in either cafe. For whatever is lefs than truth, cannot be truth; and whatever is more than true must be false.

Wherefore,

Wherefore, as the whole of this great nation feems now more than ever in danger of being hurried into one or the other of these equally pernicious extremes, irreligion or fanaticifm, I thought myfelf more than ordinarily obliged to rouze your, perhaps, drowfy vigilance, by warning you of the nearness of your peril; cautioning you from leaning towards either fide, though but to peep at the flippery precipice; and flepping between you and error, before it comes nigh enough to grapple with you. The happy medium of true christian piety. in which it has pleafed the mercy of GOD to establish you, is built on a firm rock; " and the gates of hell fhall never prevail against it." While then you stand steadily upright in the fulnels of the faith, falthood and fin thall labour in vain to approach you; whereas, the leaft familiarity with error, will make you giddy, and if once you ftagger in principles, your ruin is almost inevitable.

But now I have cautioned you of the danger you are in from the enemies who threaten your fubverfish, I hope your own watchfulnefs will be fufficient to guard you from any furprife. And from their own affaults you have nothing to fear, fince while you perfift in the firm refolution, through GoD's grace, to keep them out, irreligion and enthufiafm, fallhood and yice, impiety and falle piety, will combine in vain to force an entwance into your hearts.

Take then, my dearly belowed fellow-members of CHRIST's myffical body, take the friendly caution I give you in good part, and endeavour to profit by it: attend wholly to the faving truths I here deliver to you, and be perfuaded, that they are uttered by one who has your eternal falvation as much at hears as his own.

⁶⁶ And thou, O LORD JESUS CHRIST, fountain of all truth, ⁶⁶ whence all wildom flows, open the understandings of: ⁶⁷ thy people to the light of thy true faith, and touch their ⁶⁶ hearts with thy grace, that they may both be able to see, ⁶⁶ and willing to perform what thou requireft of them, ⁶⁶ Drive away from us overy cloud of error and perversity; ⁶⁶ guard us alike from irreligion and false pretensions to ⁶⁶ piety; and lead us on perpetually towards that perfec-⁶⁶ tion to which thou hast taught us to aspire; that keep-⁶⁶ ing us here in a constant imitation of thee, and peace-⁶⁶ ful

"full union with each other, thou mayest at length bring us to that everlafting glory, which thou hast promifed to all fuch as shall endeavour to be perfect, even as the Father who is in beaven is perfect, who with thee and the Holy Ghost lives and reigns one GOD, world without end! Amen, Amen.

ECCLES. vii. 16.

Be not rightcous over-much, neither make thyself overwife: Why should of the definery thyself?

DIGHTEOUS over-much! may one fay; Is there any danger of that? Is it even poffible? Can we be too good ? If we give any credit to the express word of GOD, we cannot be too good, we cannot be righteous over-much. The injunction given by GOD to Abraham is very ftrong : " Walk before me, and be thou perfect." The fame he again lays upon all I/rael, in the eighteenth of Deuteronomy : " Thou fhalt be perfect, and without blemifh, with the LORD thy Gop." And left any fhould think to excufe themfelves from this obligation, by faying, it ceafed when the old law was abolifhed, our bleffed Saviour ratified and explained it : "Be ve, therefore, perfect, even as your Father who is in heaven is perfect." So that until our perfection furpasses that of our heavenly Father, we can never be too good nor righteous over-much; and as it is impossible we should ever surpass, or even come up to him in the perfection of goodnels and righteoufnefs, it follows in course that we never can be good or righteous in excels. Neverthele's Doctor Trapp has found out that we may be righteous over-much, and has taken no fmall pains, with much agitation of spirit, to prove that it is a great folly and weaknels, nay, a great fin. "O LORD ! rebuke thou his spirit, and grant that this false doctrine may not be published to his confusion in the day of judgment !"

But if what this hafty, this deluded man advances had been true, could there be any occasion, however, of warning against it in these times, " when the danger (as he himself to his con-" fusion

"fulion owns) is on the contrary extreme; when all manner of vice and wickedness abounds to a degree almost unheard of?" I answer for the present, that "there must be herefies amongst you, that they who are approved may be made manifest."

However, this earthly-minded minister of a new gospel, has taken a text which seems to favour his naughty purpose, of weaning the well-disposed little ones of CHRIST from that perfect purity of heart and spirit, which is necessary to all such as mean to live to our LORD JESUS. 'O LORD, what shall become of thy flock, when their shepherds betray them into the hands of the ravenous wolf! when a minister of thy word perverts it to overthrow thy kingdom, and to destroy scripture with foripture!

Solamon, in the perfon of a defponding, ignorant, indolent liver, fays to the man of righteoufnefs: "Be not righteous overmuch, neither make thyfelf overwife: Why fhouldeft thou deftroy thyfelf?" But muft my angry, over-fighted brother Trapp, therefore, perfonate a character fo unbecoming his function, merely to overthrow the express injunction of the LORD to us; which obliges us never to give over purfuing and thirfting after the perfect righteoufnefs of CHRIST, until we reft in him? Father, forgive him, for he knows not what he fays!

What advantage might not fatan gain over the elect, if the false conftruction, put upon this text by that unseeing teacher, should prevail! Yet though he blushes not to affist fatan to bruise our hecl, I shall endeavour to bruise the heads of both; by shewing,

I. First, The genuine sense of the text in question.

II. The character of the perfons, who are to be supposed fpeaking here: And

III. The character of the perfons spoken to.

From whence will naturally refult these cupsequences.

First, That the Doctor was großy (LORD grant be was not maliciously) mistaken in his explanatory fermon on this text, as well as in the application of it.

Digitized by Google

Secondly,

Secondly, That he is a teacher and approver of worldly maxims.

Thirdly. That he is of course an enemy to perfect righteoufnefs in men, through CHRIST JESUS, and, therefore, no friend to CHRIST: And, therefore, that no one ought to be deluded by the falle doctrine he advances, to beguile the innocent, and deceive, if poffible, even the elect.

I. To come at the true fense of the text in question, it will be neceffary to look back, to the preceding verfe, where the wife man, reflecting on the vanities of his youth, puts on for a moment his former character. " All things, have I feen in the days of my vanity : (and among the reft) there is a juft man that perisheth in his righteousness, and there is a wicked man who prolongeth his life in his wickednefs." Now it is very plain, that he is not here talking of a man, who is righteous over-much, in the Doctor's manner of understanding the words, that is, " faulty, and criminal by excess." For on one fide he commends him for being a just man, and full of righteousness, and yet on the other tells us, that his righteoufnels is the shortening of his life. Whereas, had he looked upon his perifhing in righteoufnefs to be an over-righteoufnefs. he would never have called him a just man. Neither by a wicked man, can he mean a man given up to the utmost excess of wickedness, fince he tells us, that he prolongeth his life in (or by) his wickedness. Who does not know, that the excess of almost every kind of vice, is of itself a shortener of life. Sa that the whole opposition and contrast lies between a good man, and a bad man. A good man whole goodnels fhortens his life, a bad man whole iniquity lengthens his life, or at leaft is not exceffive enough to thorten the thread of it. Solomon, abforbed in these reflections, speaks here by way of profopopeia, not the fense of Solomon, the experienced, the learned, the wife; but of the former Solomon, a vain young fellow, full of felf-love, and the ftrong defires of life. In the quality of fuch a one then, he looks with the fame eye upon the righteous man, who perifhes in his righteoufnels, as he would on a wicked one, who should perish in his wickedness. For it is neither the righteoufness of the one, nor the wickedness of the other, that offends him, but the fuperlative degrees of both; Vol. V. ĸ which which tending equally to fhorten life, he looks upon them as equally oppofite to the felf-love he fondles within him. And, therefore, he deems an excefs of debauchery as great an enemy to the lafting enjoyment of the pleafures of life, as an extraordinary righteoufnefs would be. Well then might he fay to the latter, in this character, "Be not over-much wicked, neither be thou foolifh; why fhouldft thou die before thy time?" And to the former: "Be not righteous over-much, neither make thyfelf over-wife: Why fhouldft thou deftroy thyfelf?"

What wonder then, that a youth of fprightliness and fense, but led away by felf-love to be fond of the pleafures and enjoyments of life, when attained without hurry, and possefied without rifk; what wonder, I fay, that fuch a youth fhould conceive an equal diflike to the fuperlative degrees of virtue and vice, and, therefore, advise such of his companions as give into the excels of debauchery, to refrain from it : as it must infallibly tend to clog their understandings, stupify their fenfes, and entail upon their conflitutions a train of infirmities, which cannot but debilitate their natural vigour, and shorten their days? "Be not over-much wicked, neither be thou foolifh: Why shouldst thou die before thy time ?" What wonder, that the fame felf-love fhould prompt him to diffuade fuch of his friends or acquaintance, as he wifnes to have for companions, and countenancers of his worldly-minded pursuits, from purfuing righteousnels and wildom to a degree that must destroy in them all tafte of earthly pleasures, and may poffibly impair their conftitutions, and forward their end ? " Be not righteous over-much, neither make thyfelf overwife: Why shouldst thou deftroy thyfelf ?"

This is the fenfe in which Solomon (placing himfelf in the ftate of vanity of his youth) fpeaks to the one, and the other : to the righteous, and to the ungodly. This is the true, genuine fenfe of the letter; and every other fenfe put upon it, is falfe and groundlefs, and wrefted rather to pervert than explain the truth of the text. O chriftian fimplicity, whither art thou fled? Why will not the clergy fpeak truth? And why must this falfe prophet fuffer thy people, O LORD, to believe a lye? they have held the truth in unrighteousness. Raife up, I befeech thee, O LORD, fome true pastors, who may acquaint them them with the nature and neceffity of perfect righteousnels, and lead them to that love of christian perfection which the angry-minded, pleasure-taking Doctor Trapp, labours to divert them from, by teaching, that " all christians must have to do " with fome vanities."

Is not the meaning of this text plain to the weakeft capaeity ? I have here given it to you, as I have it from the mouth of the royal preacher himfelf. I have made use of no " philofophy and vain deceit after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after CHRIST," to impose a fleshly sense upon you, for the sense of the word of God. No; I have given you a natural exposition, obvious from the very words themfelves. Hence you may fee, my fellow-ftrugglers in righteousnels, how grolly our angry adverlary is mistaken in his explanation of this text. LORD !' open his eyes, and touch his heart; and convert him, and all those erring minifters, who have feen vain and foolifh things for thy people, and have not difcovered their iniquity, to turn away thy captivity. For they have erred through wine, and through ftrong drink are out of the way: The priest and the prophet have erred through ftrong drink, they are swallowed up of wine. they are out of the way through firong drink, they err in vision, they stumble in judgment.

It is plain from the words of the text, that the royal Preacher was speaking in the perfon of a vain worldling, when he faid, "Be not righteous over-much;" whereby he meant to exhort the truly righteous not to be difmayed, terrified, or difturbed from their conftant pursuit of greater and greater perfection of righteousnels, until they reft in CHRIST; notwithftanding the derifion, flefhly perfuafion, ill-treatment and perfecution of worldly men: Who, one day, repenting and groaning for anguish of spirit, shall say within themselves, "These were they whom we had fometime in derifion, and a proverb of reproach. We fools, accounted their lives madnels; and their end to be without honour. How are they numbered among the children of GoD, and their lot is among the faints !"

How blind then is the application (not to fay perverfe) which this felf-wife clergyman makes from the text, to fuch as, following the advice of the apostle, (Coloff. iii. 2.) " fet K 2 " their

 their affection on things above, not on things on the earth. Must hastines in anger get the better of sense and truth ? Must the people be mifled because the pastor cannot, or will not fee? Or must the injunction of CHRIST, "Be perfect, even as your Father, who is in heaven, is perfect," give place to the maxim of the heathen Tully: The greatest reproach to a philosopher, is to confute his doctrine by his practice; if this be the cafe, alas, what a deplorable, unspeakably deplorable condition is that of fome chriftians ! Wherefore, " thus faith the LORD concerning the prophets who make his people to err. that bite with their teeth and cry peace; and he that putteth not into their mouths, they even prepare war against him : therefore night shall be unto you, that ye shall not have a vision, and it shall be dark unto you, that ye shall not divine. and the fun shall go down over the prophets, and the day shall be dark over them.

But I will leave these lovers of darkness, and turn to you, O beloved, elect of GoD! I beseech you, by the bowels of CHRIST, suffer not yourselves to be deceived by their flattering, fin-soothing speeches. "Be not of that rebellious people, lying children, children who will not hear the law of the LORD: who say to the seers, see not; and to the prophets, prophely not unto us right things, speak unto us smooth things, prophely deceits." Follow not those, who flatter you in the vanities they practise themselves. O may you never be of the number of those, in the person of whom Solomon here says, "Be not righteous over-much:" for their character is the character of the beaft.

II. The character of the perfons, who are to be fuppofed fpeaking here in the text, is in a word the fame with the character of thole whom Solomon here perfonates: who, as is already fhewn, are a vain fet of men, neither righteous enough to have an habitual defire of improving virtue to its perfection, nor quite fo flagitious as to give into felf-deftroying vices: in a word, they are felf-lovers, the fole end of whole purfuits, whether indifferent, bad, or laudable in themfelves, is felf-enjoyment. Infomuch that they look upon virtue and vice, righteoufnefs and wickednefs, with the fame eye, and their fondnefs or averfion for both is alike, as their different different degrees appear to be the means to enhance and prolong the enjoyment of pleafure, or to leffen and fhorten those pleafures. Thus any virtue, while it is kept within fuch bounds as may render it fubfervient to the pleafurable degrees of vice, will meet with no opposition from them; on the contraty, they will even commend it. But the moment it becomes a réstraint to vice in moderation (if I may be allowed to make use of terms adequate to their system) from that moment it gives offence, and they put in their caveat, "Be not righteous over-much." In like manner, vice, while confined to certain limits, which rather improve than obstruct pleasures, is with them a defirable good; but no sooner does it launch out into any depth, sufficient to drown and diminish the relifh of those pleasures, than they declare open war against it; "Be not over-much wicked." And the reason they affign for their opposition in both cases, is the fame: " why thouldft thou deftroy thyfelf ? Why fhouldft thou die before thy time?" Such is the prudence of the world, the flefh, and the devil. Such the maxims of these refined libertines, fo much the more dangerous as they are lefs obvious; fo much the more infinuating, as they are removed from certain extravagancies capable of fhocking every man who has the leaft fenfe and delicacy. O LORD, how true is it, that the fons of darkness are wifer in their generation than the fons of light !

You are not then, beloved in the LORD, to imagine that your greatest opposition, in struggling for perfect righteousnels, is to come from profligates, from men whole enormous vices create horror even to themselves: no, your most dangerous, most formidable enemies, are the kind of men I have painted to you, who render vice relishable with a mixture of apparent virtue, and cloath wickedness in the apparel of righteousness : " Beware of them, for they come to you in the cloathing of fheep, but inwardly are ravenous wolves."

This perverse generation will enfnare you into ungodlinefs, by feeming oppositions to vice, and allow you to swallow the feemings of virtue and righteousness like an emetic, only to puke forth the reality of them. They paint black, white, and the white they convert into black. Not content with feeming what they are not, they labour to make you, what they

they are. Righteousness and wickedness they interweave in an artful tiffue, capable of deceiving the very elect, and difficult for the most difcerning among them to unravel; as almsgiving and avarice, pride and humility, temperance and luxmy, are dextroufly blended together; while as mutual curbs to each other, they combine to ftem the tide of impediments to worldly enjoyment, which might flow from extraordinary degrees on either fide. Thus " Almsgiving (you are told) is very excellent," and you believe the proposition, without knowing the particular fense it is spoken in, which is, that alms-giving is an excellent curb upon avarice, by preferving a rich man from fuch a superlative love of money as deprives him of the felf-enjoyment of it. And upon the ftrength of this belief, the worldly-minded man, who labours to deceive you, gains credit enough with you to establish this maxim, that all superlative degrees of alms-giving, are great fins, and that a man mult never fell all he has and give it to the poor, because some may have families of their own, and ought to make fufficient provision for them, according to that proverb, "Charity begins at home;" when no one, at least fcarce any one, is wife enough to know, when he has a fufficiency. O LORD, which are we to believe, these worldlings, or thee ? If thou doft deceive us, why doft thou threaten us with punifhments, if we do not heed thee ? And if the world is deceitful, shall we not flee from it to cleave to thee ?

" Pride is a great fin" even with these worldlings, inafmuch as the external exceffes of it, may obstruct the way to many ambitious terminations of view, and its internal agitations are the destruction of that peace, to which even felflove aspires; besides, the frequent extravagancy of its motions may not only be prejudicial to health, but a shortner of life. And, therefore, no wonder they should object against it, " Be not over much wicked : why shouldst thou die before thy time?" For this reason, they look upon a little mixture of humility to be not only commendable, but even necessary to curb the extravagant fallies of an over-bearing pride. But then a superlative degree of humility, that is, humility free from the least tincture of pride or vanity, which is the fame with them, as " an over-Arained humility, is a fault as well " as folly ;" because, forfooth, it is an expediment to the felfenjoyment enjoyment of the world and its pleafures; " All chriftians " must have to do with fome vanities, or elfe they must needs " go out of the world indeed; for the world itfelf is all over " vanity." 'Tis nothing, therefore, furprifing, my brethren, to see a man of this cast of mind making a vain oftentation of his little fuperficial acquaintance, with the antient Greeks and Romans. What is this but acting conformably to his own principle, that " all christians must have to do with fome vanities ?" And shall we wonder to hear such a one prefer their writings, to those of an apostle; or be aftonished to see him wound the apoftle with raillery, through your fides, for withing to know nothing but JESUS CHRIST, and him crucified ? No, with him it is confiftency to laugh and reprove you out of the perfection of righteousnels, which, however he may play with terms, is with him the fame as being righteous over-much; but with you it would be inconfistency, who ought to know no difference between being righteous, and living in a perpetual, habitual defire of being fuperlatively fo. It is no more then, than you ought to expect to hear fuch advocates for the world cry out to you, "Be not righteous over-much; why should you destroy yourselves?" But, O LORD, furtly this is not the fame voice which tells us, that unless we humble ourselves like unto children, we shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven, and that he is greatest there, who humbles himfelf the most like a child ! But what will not men advance who are drunk with paffion, and intoxicated with felf-love?

" The vice of intemperance in eating, and drinking, is " plain to every body," they own. And, therefore, they give it up as an excefs which cannot but tend to the impairing of health, and fhortening of life: nay, it drowns the very relifh of pleafure in actual eating and drinking. Hence will every refined debauchee exclaim against it with Dr. Trapp : "Be not over much wicked : why fhouldft thou deftroy thyfelf?" Little fobriety, fay they, is requisite to give a zeft to luxury and worldly pleasures. But too much of it is too much, " to "eat nothing but bread and herbs, and drink nothing but " water, unless there be a particular reason for it (fuch per-" haps as Doctor Cheyne may affign) is folly at beft, (that is, "even though it be done for CHRIST's fake) therefore " nø

"no virtue:" "Be not then righteous over-much, why shouldst thou destroy thyself?" And if you should answer these carnally-minded men with the words of the apostle, Rom. viii. "We are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh : For if we live after the fleft, we shall die : but if we, through the fpirit, do mortify the deeds of the flefh, we fhall live." If you answer them thus, they will tell you, " this is teach-" ing for doctrines the commandments of men." And it will be to as little purpose to answer them, with what St. Paul fays elsewhere (Rom. xiv. 17.), " The kingdom of Gon is not meat and drink, but righteoufnefs, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghoft:" They will not blufh to tell you, that "our bleffed Saviour came eating and drinking, nay " worked a miracle to make wine (at an entertainment) when " it is plain there had been more drank than was necessary." To fuch lengths does the love of the world hurry thefe felffond, merry-making worldlings ! Tell them of felf-denial, they will not hear you, it is an encroachment upon the pleafures of life, and may fhorten it of a few days, which you are never fure of poffeffing; it is being " righteous over-much ; why shoulds thou destroy thyself ?" TESUS, you will say, tells us (John xii. 25.) "He that loveth his life fhall lofe it, and he that hateth his life in this world, shall keep it unto life eternal." But this and the like, they will inform you, " are hyperbolical phrases." Now what fignifies minding IESUS. when he fpeaks hyperbolically, that is, fpeaks more than is frictly true. Yet, O LORD JESUS, grant us to mind thee, whatever these worldlings may fay; remind us, that if any man will come after thee, he must deny himself, and take up his crofs, and follow thee ! O how enlarging is it to the foul, to take up the crofs of CHRIST and follow him !

But you are charged, ye beloved lovers of perfect righteoufnefs; with extravagances. You allow of " no fort of " recreation or diversion; nothing but an universal mortifite cation and felf-denial; no pleasure but from religion only:" you teach te that the bodily appetites must not be in the least te degree gratified, any farther than is absolutely neceffary to te keep body and foul together, and mankind in being: No te allowances are to be made for melancholy misfortunes, or thuman infirmity: grief must be cured only by prayer;" (a horrid horrid grievance this, to fuch as think prayer burdenfome at best) "To divert it by worldly amusements is carnal." A heavy charge this: but left it fhould feem to only to those carnal perfons, who are relolved to give way to their carnal appetites; what you look upon as advisable only, these perverters of truth infinuate to be looked upon by you as indifpenfable duties. And left prevarication should fail, downright falfhoods must be placed to your account, " fo that to " tafte an agreeable fruit, or imell to a role, must be unlaw-" ful with you," however you difown it. But O, my beloved christiane, be not discouraged from the pursuit of perfect righteousness by these or such vile misrepresentations. For " bleffed are ye when men shall revile you, and shall fay all manner of evil against you fallely for the fake of CHRIST Rejoice, and be exceeding glad : For great is your lèsus. reward in heaven : for fo perfecuted they the prophets who were before you."

Thus far, then, may fuffice to fhew clearly with what dangerous views the worldly-minded men, whom Solomon perfonates in the text before us, lay fiege to your fouls in fair What I have faid, is enough to convince you, fpeeches. that their character is that of the beaft, whom St. John, in the Revelations, " faw coming up from the fea (that is, the flagitious world) with feven heads." And what shall we fay of a man, a clergyman, who teaches, and is an advocate for their perverse doctrines? May we not, nay, must we not. for the glory of GoD, and your good, inform you, that he is a "Teacher and approver of worldly maxims." May I not, may, must I not, give you this caution with the royal preacher : "When he speaketh fair, believe him not, for there are feven abominations in his heart ?" But how different is the character I have given you, from the character of the perfons to whom the text under confideration is fooken : that is, the character of all fuch, as, like you, are refolved never to reft, 'till they reft in CHRIST JESUS. To thew this, I shall now pass to my third point.

III. To what fort of perfons does Solomon in the character of a worldling addrefs himfelf, when he fays, "Be not righteous over-much, neither make thyfelf over-wife: why fhouldft thou deftroy thyfelf?" Not to the wicked, 'tis plain; for befides fides that it would have been an unneceffary precaution, he turns to these in the next verse with another kind of warning, which however has fome analogy with this. "Be not overmuch wicked, neither be thou foolifh, why fhouldft thou die before thy time?" Was it then to the righteous, in a common way; that is, to fuch as content themfelves with the observance of the absolute effentials of GoD's laws? Surely our adversaries will not allow this, unless they be of opinion, that to be righteous at all, is to be righteous over-much. And yet it cannot poffibly be supposed that the persons spoken to, are men perfectly righteous; fince, as I proved to you, in the introduction of this discourse, till we come up to the perfection of our heavenly father, we can never be righteous enough, much lefs perfectly righteous : wherefore, as in this life, men cannot attain to the perfection of their heavenly father, it follows in courfe that the perfons here spoken to, cannot be men perfectly righteous, there being no fuch men exifting; for as St. John faith, " If we fay that we have no fin. we deceive ourfelves, and the truth is not in us." Alas; Q LORD, when shall we be delivered from the body of this death ?

It remains, that the perfons fpoken to, in the text, are fuch only, as perfifting ftedfaftly in a firm adherence to all the effential laws of GOD, content not themfelves with the practice of common virtues in a common degree, but live in a perpetual habitude of defires, ftruggles, and yearnings towards an intimate union with CHRIST, the perfection of righteoufnefs. They are not of the number of those righteous with indifference, who would fain blend the fervice of GOD and mammon, would fain have CHRIST and the world for their mafters, and halting between two, like the-children of lfrael of old, with their faces to heaven, and their hearts to the earth, are neither hot nor cold. Alas, would they were cold or hot ! But " because they are luke-warm, and neither cold nor hot, the LORD fhall (pew them out of his mouth."

Not fo the perfons fpoken to in my text; not fo you, O beloved in GoD, who having fhaken off the world and worldly affections, to run the more fwiftly after righteousness, hate your own lives for the fake of CHRIST. Happy, happy are all you, who put on our LORD JESUS, and with him the new man! "You are the true circumcifion which worfhip GOD in fpirit, and rejoice in CHRIST JESUS, and have no confidence in the flefh."

What wonder then, christians? To you I speak, all ye lovers and strugglers after the perfect righteousness of your divine Master CHRIST; what wonder is it, that you should be charged with enthusias, with folly, with fanaticism and madness? Were not the apostles so before you, when they preached CHRIST JESUS? Nay were they not reputed drunk with wine? Can you be amazed at it is an age, "when the it manner of vice abounds to a degree almost unheard of," when the land is full of adulterers, and because of swearing: the land mourneth. O how is the faithful city become an harlot! my heart within me is broken, because of the clergysall my bones shake? I am like a drunken man, and like a man whom wine hath overcome; because of the LORD, and because of the words of his holines, perverted by this deludedclergyman.

When the clergy, whom CHRIST has appointed to teach his people "to walk before him and be perfect," become teachers of worldly maxims, what can be expected from the laity? It is notorious, that for the moralizing iniquity of the prieft, the land mourns. They have preached and lived many fincere perfons out of the church of England. They endeavour to make you vain: (as the prophets did in the days of Jeremiab) they fpeak a vision out of their own mouth, and not out of the mouth of the LORD. In a word, "both " prophet and prieft are prophane, and do wickednefs in the " very house of the LORD." Nay, they fay ftill to them who despise the LORD, The LORD hath faid, ye shall have peace; and they fay to every one who walketh after the imagination of his own heart, No evil shall come upon you.

Such is the language, my beloved lovers of chriftian perfection, which the indolent, earthly-minded, pleafure-taking clergy of the church of England, ufe to ftrengthen the hands of evil-doers, that none may return from his wickednefs. Such is the doctrine of the letter-learned divine, who has dipped his pen in gall, to decry perfect righteoufnefs, and to delude you from it, with a falfe application of that text fo grofly mifunderflood by him: "Be not righteous over-much, neither neither be thou over-wife; why fhouldft thou deftroy thyfelf?" But suffer not yourselves, my fellow-christians, to be deluded by him. For as I have already fhewn to you, he is grofly (Lord grant he was not maliciously) mistaken in his manner of explaining this text; and fo far from making a right application of it according to the wife, the experienced Solomon's intention, he acts the character of a vain libertine. full of felf-love, and earthly defires, whom Solomon but perfonated, to ridicule. But the doctor by realizing that character in himfelf, becomes the teacher and approver of worldly maxims, which he applies to you, on purpole to defiroy in you the yearnings after perfect righteoufgels in CHRIST. May I not then, nay, must I not warn you, my beloved, that this man is an enemy to perfect righteous in men through CHRIST JESUS, and, therefore, no friend to CHRIST ? O that my head was an ocean, and my eyes fountains of tears; to weep night and day for this poor creature, this hood-winked member of the clergy.

• Pray you, O true christians, pray and figh mightily to the LORD; importune him in the behalf of this erring paftor; pray that he would vouchfafe to open the eyes, and touch the stubborn heart of this fcribe, that he may become better infiructed. Otherwife, as the LORD faid by the mouth of his true prophet Jeremiah, " Behold; I will feed him with wormwood, and make him drink the water of gall; for from him is prophanenes gone forth into all the land."

This good, however, hath he done by attempting to fhew the folly, fin, and danger of that which he mifcalls being righteous over-much, that is, being fuperlatively righteous, in defire and habitual flruggles; he has thereby given me the occasion to fhew you, brethren, in the course of this fermon, the great and real folly, fin, and danger of not being righteous enough; which, perhaps, I should never have thought of doing, had not his falle doctrine pointed out to me the necessfity of doing it. Thus does the all-wise providence of GoD, make tife of the very vices of men to draw good out of evil; and chuse their very errors to confound falsehood and make way for truth. Though this should be more than our angry adversary intended, yet, LORD, reward him according to his works: and fuffer him no longer to be hafty in his words, that we may have room to entertain better hopes of him for the future.

Bleffed be GOD for fending you better guides! I am convinced it was his divine will: our dear fellow-creature, Doctor Trapp, falling into fuch errors, has given fo great a fhock to the found religion of ebriftian perfection, that unlefs I had opposed him, I verily believe the whole flock who liftened to his doctrine, would have been feattered abroad like fheep having no fhepherd. "But woe to ye feribes and pharifees! Woe be unto the paftors that deftroy and featter the fheep of my pafture, faith the LORD."

Full well I know that this fermon will not be pleafing to my poor psevifa adversary; but correction is not to pleafure but to profit: few children can be brought willingly to kifs the rod which rebuketh them; though, when they become of riper understanding, they will blefs the hand that guided it. Thus fhall this angry man, I truft, thank me one day for reproving him, when his reason thall be reftored to him by the light of the holy spirit. O LORD, grant thou this light unto him, and suffer him to see with what bowels of pity and tenderness I love him in thee, even while I chasten him.

Neither am I infenfible, brethren, how offenfive my words will be to worldlings in general, who loving falfehood better than truth, and the flefh before the fpirit, will ftill prefer the doctor's fin-foothing doctrines to the plain gofpel verities preached by me. O how my foul pities them. But I have done my duty, I wafh my hands, and am innocent of the blood of all. I have not fought to pleafe my hearers, but have fpoken plain truth though it fhould offend. For what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for CHRIST; and hope I shall ever do fo. Not that I presume to think myself already perfect. But "I press forward towards the mark, for the prize of the high-calling of. GOD in CHRIST JESUS."

None of us, as I before told you, can boaft of having attained the fummit of perfection; though, he is the neareft to it, who is wideft from the appetites of the flefth, and he ftands the higheft, who is the lowlieft in his own effeem; wherefore, as many of us as have made any advances towards CHRIST CHRIST and his kingdom, "whereto we have already at-"tained, let us walk by the fame rule; let us mind the fame "thing."

Walk not then, brethren, according to the ways of the world: but be followers of CHRIST together with me. And if any, even an angel of light, fhould prefume to teach you any other gofpel than that which I have here taught you, let him be accurfed. "For you will find many walking, like fuch of whom I have told you already, and now tell you weeping, that they are the enemies of the crofs of CHRIST: whofe end is deftruction, whofe GOD is their belly: and whofe glory is in their fhame, for they mind worldly things. But your converfation is in heaven, from whence alfo you look for the Saviour, the LORD JESUS CHRIST: who fhall change your vile bodies, that they may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able to fubdue even all things unto himfelf," even the stubborn heart of our perverfe adverfary.

S E R M O N XI.

Preached at Bow Church, London, before the Religious Societies.

ECCLES. xii. I.

Remember now thy Creator in the Days of thy Youth.

THE amiableness of religion in itself, and the innumerable advantages that flow from it to fociety in general, as well as to each fincere profession in particular, cannot but recommend it to the choice of every confiderate perfon, and make, even wicked men, as they wish to die the death, fo in their more fober intervals, to envy the life of the righte-And, indeed, we must do the world fo much justice, ous. as to confess, that the question about religion does not ulually arise from a dispute whether it be necessary or not (for most men see the necessity of doing fomething for the falvation of their fouls;) but when is the best time to fet about it. Perfons are convinced by universal experience, that the first effays or endeavours towards the attainment of religion, are attended with fome difficulty and trouble, and therefore they would willingly defer the beginning of fuch a feemingly ungrateful work, as long as they can. The wanton prodigal, who is fpending his fubftance in riotous living, cries, a little more pleasure, a little more sensuality, and then I will be fober in earneft. The covetous worldling, that employs all his care and pains in "heaping up riches, " though he cannot tell who shall gather them," does not flatter himself that this will do always; but hopes with the rich fool in the gospel, to lay up goods for a few more years on earth, and then he will begin to lay up treasures in heaven. And, in thort, thus it is that most people are 'convinced of the neceffity of being religious fome time or another; but then, like Felix, they put off the acting fuitably to their convictions; 'till, what they imagine, a more convenient featon : whereas, would we be to humble as to be guided by the experience and counfel of the wifeft men, we fhould learn that youth is the fitteft feason for religion; " Remember now thy creator, (fays Solomon) in the days of thy youth." By the word remember, we are not to understand a bare speculative remembrance, or calling to mind, (for that, like a dead faith, will profit us nothing,) but fuch a remembrance as will conftrain us to obedience, and oblige us out of gratitude, to perform all that the LORD our GOD shall require of us. For as the forgetting Gon in scripture language, implies a total neglect of our duty, in like manner remembring him fignifies a perfect performance of it : fo that, when Solomon fays, "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth," it is the fame as if he had faid, keep GoD's commandments; or, in other words, be religious in the days of thy youth, thereby implying, that youth is the most proper leafon for it.

I fhall in the following difcourfe,

- First, Endeavour to make good the wife man's proposition, implied in the words of the text, and to shew that youth is the fittest feason for religion.
- Secondly, By way of motive, I thall confider the many unfpeakable advantages that will arise from, "Remembering our Creator in the days of our youth." And,

Tbirdly, I shall conclude with a word or two of exhortation to the younger part of this audience.

Fir/l, I am to make good the wife man's proposition, implied in the words of the text, and to fhew that youth is the fitteft feason for religion: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." But to proceed more clearly in this argument, it may not be improper, first, to explain what I mean

I mean by the word religion. By this term, then, I would not be understood to mean a bare outward profession or naming the name of CHRIST; for we are told, that many who have even prophefied in his name, and in his name caft out devils, fhall notwithstanding be rejected by him at the last day : nor would I understand by it, barely being admitted into CHRIST's church by baptism; for then Simon Magus, Arius, and the herefiarchs of old, might pass for religious persons; for these were baptized : nor yet the receiving the other feal of the covenant, for then Judas himfelf might be canonized for a faint : nor indeed do I mean any or all of these together, confidered by themfelves; but a thorough, real, inward change of nature, wrought in us by the powerful operations of the Holy Ghoft, conveyed to and nourished in our hearts, by a conftant use of all the means of grace, evidenced by a good life, and bringing forth the fruits of the fpirit.

The attaining this real, inward religion, is a work of for great difficulty, that Nicodemus, a learned doctor and teacher in Ifrael, thought it altogether impossible, and therefore ignorantly asked our bleffed LORD, "How this thing could be ?" And, truly, to rectify a difordered nature, to mortify our corrupt paffions, to turn darknels to light, to put off the old man, and put on the new, and thereby to have the image of GoD reinftamped upon the foul, or, in one word, "to be born again," however light fome may make of it, muft, after all our endeavours, be owned by man to be impoffible. It is true, indeed, CHRIST's yoke is faid to be an easy or a gracious yoke, and his burthen light; but then it is to those only to whom grace has been given to bear and draw in it. For, as the wife fon of Sirach observes, "At first wildom walked " with her children in crooked ways, and brings them into 46 fear; and torments them with her difcipline, and does not " turn to comfort and rejoice them, 'till the has tried them " and proved their judgment." No; we must not flatter ourfelves that we shall walk in wisdom's pleasant ways, unless we first submit to a great many difficulties. The spiritual birth is attended with its pangs, as well as the natural: for they that have experienced it, (and they only are the proper judges,) can acquaint you, that in all things that are dear to corrupt VOL. V. L nature. nature, we must deny ourfelves, lest, after all, when we come to the birth, we should want strength to bring forth.

But if these things are so; if there are difficulties and pangs attending our being born again; if we must deny ourselves, what season more proper than that of youth? When, if ever, our bodies are robust and vigorous, and our minds active and couragious; and, consequently, we are then best qualified to endure hardness, as good foldiers of JESUS CHRIST.

We find, in fecular matters, people commonly obferve this method, and fend their children abroad among the toils and fatigues of bufinels, in their younger years, as well knowing they are then fitteft to undergo them. And why do they not act with the fame confiftency in the grand affair of religion? Because, as our Saviour has told us, "The children of this world are wifer in their generation than the children of light."

But, Secondly, If pure and undefiled religion confifts in the renewal of our corrupted natures, then it is not only a work of difficulty, but, the perfection of it, of time.

And if this be the cafe, then it highly concerns every one to fet about it betimes, and to " work their work while it is day, before the night cometh, when no man can work."

Could we, indeed, live to the age of Methufelah, and had but little bufinefs to employ ourfelves in, we might then be more excutable, if we made no other ufe of this world, than what too many do, take our paftime therein : but fince our lives are fo very flort, and we are called to work out our falvation with fear and trembling, we have no room left for trifling, left we fhould be fnatched away while our lamps are untrimmed, and we are entirely unprepared to meet the Bridegroom.

Did we know a friend or neighbour, who had a long journey of the utmost importance to make, and yet should stand all the day idle, neglecting to set out till the fun was about to go down, we could not but pity and condemn his egregious folly. And yet it is to be feared most men are just such fools; they have a long journey to take, nay, a journey to eternity, a journey of infinite importance, and which they are obliged to dispatch before the fun of their natural life be gone down a down; and yet they loiter away the time allotted them to perform their journey in, till fickness or death furprizes them a and then they cry out, "What shall we do to inherit eternal life ?" But leaving fuch to the mercies of GOD in CHRIST, who can call at the eleventh hour, I pafs on to

The Second general thing proposed, To thew the advantages that will arife from remembering our Creator in the days of our youth; which may ferve as fo many motives to excite and quicken all perfons immediately to fet about it,

And the first benefit refulting from thence is, that it will bring most honour and glory to God. This, I suppose, every ferious perfon will grant, ought to be the point in which our actions should centre; for to this end were we born, and to this end were we redeemed by the precious blood of JESUS CHRIST, that we should promote God's eternal glory. And as the glory of GOD is most advanced by paying obedience to his precepts, they that begin fooneft to walk in his ways, act most to his glory. The common objection against the divine laws in general, and the doctrines of the gospel in particular, is, that they are not practicable; that they are contrary to flefh and blood; and that all those precepts concerning felf-denial, renunciation of and deadness to the world, are but fo many arbitrary reftraints imposed upon human nature ; but when we fee mere ftriplings not only practifing, but delighting in fuch religious duties, and in the days of their youth, when, if ever, they have a relifh for fenfual pleafures, fubduing and despising the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life; this, this is pleasing to GoD; this vindicates his injured honour; this shews that his service is perfect freedom, " that his yoke is ealy, and his burden light."

But, Secondly, as an early piety redounds most to the honour of GoD, fo it will bring most honour to ourselves : for those that honour God, God will honour. We find it, therefore, remarked to the praise of Obadiab, that he ferved the LORD from his youth : of Samuel, that he ftood, when young, before GOD in a linen ephod : of Timothy, that from a child he had known the holy scriptures: of St. John, that he was the youngest and most beloved disciple : and of our blessed LORD. himfelf, himself, that at twelve years old he went up to the temple, and fat among the doctors, both hearing and asking them questions.

Nor, Thirdly, will an early piety afford us lefs comfort than honour, not only because it renders religion habitual to us, but also because it gives us a well-grounded assurance of the fincerity of our profession. Was there no other argument against a death-bed repentance, but the unsatisfactoriness and anxiety of fuch a state, that should be sufficient to deter all thinking perfons from deferring the most important bulinefs. of their life to fuch a dreadful period of it. For fuppoling a man to be fincere in his profession of repentance on a deathbed (which, in most cases, is very much to be doubted) yet, he is often afraid left his convictions and remorfe proceed not from a true forrow for fin, but a servile fear of punishment. But one, who is a young faint, need fear no fuch perplexity; he, knows that he loves GOD for his own lake, and is not driven to him by a dread of impending evil; he does not decline the gratifications of scale, because he can no longer " hear the voice of finging men and finging women;" but willingly. takes up his crofs, and follows his bleffed Master in his youth, and therefore has reason to expect greater confidence of his fincerity towards GOD. But farther, as an early piety affures the heart of its fincerity, fo, likewife, it brings its prefent reward with it, as it renders religion and all Its duties habitual and eafy. A young faint, was you to afk him, would joyfully tell you the unspeakable comfort of beginning to be religious betimes : as for his part, he knows not what men mean by talking of mortification, felf-denial, and retirement, as bard and rigorous duties; for he has to accuftomed himfelf to them, that, by the grace of GoD, they are now become even natural, and he takes infinitely more pleafure in practifing the fevereft precepts of the gofpel, than a Iuxurious Dives in a bed of state, or an ambitious Hamon at a royal banquet. And O how happy must that youth be, whole duty is become a fecond nature, and to whom those things, which feem terrible to others, are grown both eafy and delightful !

But the greatest advantage of an early piety is still behind, Fourthly, It lays in the best provision of comfort and support against against fuch times as we shall stand most in need thereof. viz. all times of our tribulation, and in particular, against the time of old age, the hour of death, and the day of judgment.

This is the argument the wife man makes use of in the words immediately following the text: " Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, wherein thou shalt fay, I have no pleasure in them." Observe, the time of old age, is an evil time, years wherein there is no pleafure : and afk those that are grown old, and they will inform you fo. Cordials furely, then, must be exceeding proper to support our drooping fpirits : and O what cordial comparable to the recollection of early piety, depending wholly on the righteoufnefs of CHRIST? When the eyes, like Ifaac's, are grown dim with age; when " the keepers of the house, the hands. shall tremble," as the wife man goes on to defcribe the infirmities of old age; when " the ftrong men bow themfelves," or the legs grow feeble; and the "grinders," the teeth, shall cease to do their proper office, because they are few; for a perfon then to hear the precepts of the golpel read over to him, and to be able to lay his hand on his heart, and to fay fincerely, notwithstanding a confcioufnels of numberless short-comings, " All these have I endeavoured, through grace, to keep from my youth :" this must give him, through CHRIST who worketh all, comfort that I want words to 'express and thoughts to conceive. But, supposing it was poffible for us to escape the inconveniences of old age, yet ftill death is a debt, fince the fall, we all must pay; and, what is worfe, it generally comes attended with fuch dreadful sircumstances, that it will make even a Felix to tremble. But as for the godly, that have been enabled to ferve the LORD from their youth, it is not usually fo with them; no, they have faith given them to look upon death, not as a king of terrors, but as a welcome messenger, that is come to conduct them to their wished-for home. All the days of their anpointed time have they waited, and it has been the bufinefs of their whole lives to study to prepare themselves for the coming of their great change; and, therefore, they rejoice to hear that they are called to meet the heavenly Bridegroom. Thus Thus dies the early pious, whole " path has been as the Anining light, that fhineth more and more unto the perfect day." But follow him beyond the grave, and fee with what an holy triumph he enters into his Mafter's joy; with what an humble boldnefs he flands at the dreadful tribunal of JESUS CHRIST; and can you then forbear to cry out, " Let me die the death of the rightcous, and let my latter end, and future flate, be like his ?"

Need I then, after having fhewn fo many advantages to arife from an early piety, ufe any more arguments to perfuade the younger part of this audience, to whom, in the Third and laft place, I addrefs myfelf, to " remember their Creator in the days of their youth?"

What ! will not all the arguments I have mentioned, prevail with them to leave their hufks, and return home to eat of the fatted calf? What ! will they thus requite our Saviour's love? That be far from them ! Did he come down and fhed his precious blood to deliver them from the power of fin; and will they fpend their youthful ftrength and vigour in the fervice of it, and then think to ferve CHRIST, when they can follow their lufts no longer ? Is it fit, that many, who are endowed with excellent gifts, and are thereby qualified to be supports and ornaments of our finking church, fhould, notwithstanding, forget the GOD who gave them, and employ them in things that will not profit? O why will they not arife, and, like fo many Phineas's, be zealous for the Lord of Hofts? Doubtlefs. when death overtakes them, they will with they had : and what hinders them, but that they begin now ? Think you that any one yet ever repented that he began to be religious too foon ? But how many, on the contrary, have repented that they began when almost too late ? May we not well imagine, that young Samuel now rejoices that he waited to foon at the tabernacle of the LORD? Or young Timothy, that from a child he knew the holy foriptures? And if you with to be partakers of their joy, let me perfuade you to be partakers of their piety.

I could flill go on to fill my mouth with arguments; but the circumftances and piety of those amongst whom I am now preaching "the kingdom of GOD," remind me to change my ftyle; and, instead of urging any more diffusives from fin, fin, to fill up what is behind of this discourse, with encouragements to perfevere in holines.

Bleffed, for ever bleffed be the GOD and the Father of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, I am not speaking to perfons inflamed with youthful lufts, but to a multitude of young professors, who by frequently affembling together, and forming themselves into religious societies, are, I hope on good ground, in a ready way to be of the number of those " young men, who have overcome the wicked-one."

Believe me, it gladdens my very foul, to fee fo many of your faces fet heaven-wards, and the visible happy effects of your uniting together, cannot but rejoice the hearts of all fincere chriftians, and oblige them to wifh you good luck in the name of the LORD. The many fouls who are nourifhed weekly with the fpiritual body and blood of JESUS CHRIST, by your means; the weekly and monthly lectures that are preached by your contributions; the daily incense of thanksgiving and prayer which is publicly fent up to the throne of grace by your fubfcriptions; the many children which are trained up " in the nurture and admonition of the LORD," by your charities; and, laftly, the commendable and pious zeal you exert in promoting and encouraging divine pfalmody, are fuch plain and apparent proofs of the benefit of your religious focieties, that they call for a public acknowledgment of praise and thanksgiving to our bleffed Master, who has not only put into your hearts fuch good defigns, but enabled you elfo to bring the fame to good effect.

It is true it has been objected, "That young mens form-"ing themfelves into religious focieties, has a tendency to "make them fpiritually proud, and to 'think more highly of "themfelves than they ought to think." And, perhaps, the imprudent, imperious behaviour of fome novices in religion, who, "though they went out from you, were not of you," may have given too much occasion for fuch an afperfion.

But you, brethren, have not fo learned CHRIST. Far, far be it from you to look upon yourfelves, as rightcous, and defpife others, becaufe you often affemble yourfelves together. No; this, inflead of creating pride, ought to beget an holy fear in your hearts, left your practice fhould not correspond with your profeffion, and that, after you have benefited and edified others, you yourfelves should become cast-aways.

Worldly-mindednefs, my brethren, is another rock against which we are in danger of fplitting. For, if other fins have flain their thousands of professing christians, this has flain its ten thousands. I need not appeal to past ages; your own experience, no doubt, has furnished you with many unhappy inftances of young men, who, " after (as one would have imagined) they had escaped the pollutions which are in the world through luft," and " had tafted the good word of life," and endured for a feafon, whilst under the tuition and infpection of others; yet, when they have come to be their own masters, through a want of faith, and through too great an earneftnefs in " labouring for the meat which perifheth," have caft off their first love, been again entangled with the world, and " returned like the dog to his vomit, and like the fow that was washed, to her wallowing in the mire." You would, therefore, do well, my brethren, frequently to remind each other of this dangerous fnare, and to exhort one another to begin, pursue, and end your christian warfare, in a thorough renunciation of the world, and worldly tempers; fo that, when you are obliged by Providence to provide for yourfelves, and those of your respective housholds, you may continue to walk by faith, and ftill " feek first the kingdom of GoD, and his righteousnes;" not doubting, but all other things, upon your honeft industry and endeayours, shall be added unto you.

And now, what fhall I fay more? To fpeak unto you, fathers, who have been in CHRIST fo many years before me, and know the malignity of worldly-mindedness, and pride in the fpiritual life, would be altogether needless. To you, therefore, O young men, (for whom I am diftreffed, for whom I fear as well as for myfelf) do I once more addrefs myfelf, in the words of the beloved difciple, " Look to yourfelves, that we lose not those things which we have wrought, but receive a full reward." Be ever mindful, then, of the words that have been spoken to us by the apostles of the LORD and Saviour. "Give diligence to make your calling and election fure. Beware, left ye also being led away by the error of the wicked, fall from your own stedfastness. Let him that thinketh he ftandeth, take heed left he fall. Be not high-minded, but fear. But we are persuaded better things of you, and things that accompany falvation, though we thus speak. ź speak. For GOD is not unrighteous, to forget your works and labours of love. And we defire that every one of you do fhew the fame diligence, to the full affurance of hope unto the end: that ye be not flothful, but followers of them, who through faith and patience inherit the promifes." It is true, we have many difficulties to encounter, many powerful enemies to overcome, ere we can get possession of the promifed land. We have an artful devil, an enfnaring world, and above all, the treachery of our own hearts, to withstand and frive against. " For strait is the gate, and narrow is the way that leadeth unto eternal life." But wherefore should we fear, fince he that is with us is far more powerful, than all who are against us? Have we not already experienced his almighty power, in enabling us to conquer fome difficulties which feemed as infurmountable then, as those we ftruggle with now? And cannot he, who delivered us out of the paws of those bears and lions, preferve us also from being hurt by the ftrongeft Goliab?

" Be stedfast therefore, my brethren, be immoveable." Be not "ashamed of the gospel of CHRIST: for it is the power of GOD unto falvation." Fear not man; fear not the contempt and revilings which you must meet with in the way of duty; for one of you fhall chafe a thouland; and two of you put ten thousand of your enemies to flight. And if you will be contented, through grace, to fuffer for a fhort time here; I speak the truth in CHRIST, I lye not; then may ye hope, according to the bleffed word of promife, that ye shall be exalted to fit down with the Son of Man, when he shall come in the glory of his Father, with his holy angels, to judgment hereafter. May Almighty GOD give every one of us fuch a measure of his grace, that we may not be of the number of those that draw back unto perdition, but of them that believe and endure unto the end, to the faving of our fouls, through our LORD JESUS CHRIST.

SERMON XII.

CHRIST the Believer's Hufband.

ISAIAH liv. 5.

For thy Maker is thy Husband.

LTHOUGH believers by nature, are far from Gon, and children of wrath, even as others, yet it is amazing to think how nigh they are brought to him again by the blood of JESUS CHRIST. Eye hath not feen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of any man living, fully to conceive, the nearners and dearners of that relation, in which they fland to their common head. He is not ashamed to call them brethren. Behold, fays the bleffed JEsus in the days of his flefh, " my mother and my brethren." And again after his refurrection, " go tell my brethren." Nay fometimes he is pleafed to term believers his friends. "Henceforth call I vou no longer fervants, but friends." " Our friend Lazarus fleepeth." And what is a friend ? Why there is a friend that is nearer than a brother, nay, as near as one's own foul. And " thy friend, (fays GOD in the book of Deuteronomy) which is as thy own foul." Kind and endearing appellations thefe, that undoubtedly bespeak a very near and ineffably intimate union between the LORD JESUS and the true living members of his mystical body ! But, methinks, the words of our text point out to us a relation, which not only comprehends, but in respect to nearness and dearness, exceeds all other relations whatsoever. I mean that of a Husband. "For thy Maker is thy husband; the LORD of Hosts is his name; and thy Redeemer the Holy One of I/rael, the GoD of the whole earth fhall he be called."

These words were originally spoken to the people of the Jews, confidered collectively as a peculiar people, whom our LORD

LORD had betrothed and married to himfelf; and they feem to be fooken, when religion was on the decline among their churches; when they had, in a great measure, loft that life and power, which they once experienced; and their enemies began to infult them with a " where is now your Gop?" Such a flate of things must undoubtedly be very afflicting to the true mourners in Zion; and put them upon crying unto the LORD, in this their deep diffress. He hears their praver. his bowels yearn towards them; and in the preceding verfe, he affures them, that though the enemy had broken in upon them like a flood, yet their extremity fhould be his opportunity to lift up a flandard against him. "Fear not, (fays the great Head and King of his church) for thou thalt not be ashamed (finally or totally); neither be thou confounded, (diffipated or dejected, giving up all for gone, as though thou never shouldst fee better days, or another revival of religion) for thou fhalt not (entirely) be put to fhame;" though for a while, for thy humiliation, and the greater confusion of thy adversaries, I fuffer them to triumph over thee : " For thou fhalt forget the fhame of thy youth, and fhalt not remember the reproach of thy widow-hood any more;" i. e. I will vouchfafe you fuch another glorious gale of my bleffed Spirit. that you shall quite forget your former troubled widow-state. and give your enemies no more occasion to infult you, on account of your infant-condition, but rather to envy you, and gnash their teeth, and melt away at the fight of your unthought-of glory and prosperity. And why will the infinitely great and condescending JESUS deal thus with his people? Becaufe the church is his spouse; " For, (as in the words just now read to you) thy Maker is thy hufband; thy Redeemer. the Holy One of Ifrael;" and therefore he loves thee too well, to let thy enemies always trample thee under foot. " The LORD of Hofts is his name, the GOD of the whole earth fhall he be called;" and therefore he is armed with fufficient power to relieve his opprefied people, and overcome and avenge himfelf of all their haughty and infulting foes.

This feems to be the prime and genuine interpretation of the text and context, especially if we add, that they may have a further view to the latter-day glory, and that blefied state of the church, which the people of GOD have been looking for in [173] in all ages, and the fpeedy approach of which, we undoubtedly pray for, when we put up that petition of our LORD's, "thy kingdom come."

But, though the words were originally fpoken to the Jews, yet they are undoubtedly applicable to all believers in all ages, and, when inlarged on in a proper manner, will afford us fuitable matter of difcourse both for finners and for faints; for fuch as know GoD, as well as for fuch who know him not; and likewise for those, who once walked in the light of his bleffed countenance, but are now backflidden from him, have their harps hung upon the willows, and are afraid that their beloved is gone, and will return to their fouls no more. Accordingly, without prefacing this discourse any farther, as I suppose that a mixed multitude of faints, unconverted finners, and backfliders, are prefent here this day, I shall endeavour fo to speak from the words of the text, that each may have a proper portion, and none be fent empty away.

In profecuting this defign, I will,

I. Endeavour to shew, what must pass between JESUS CHRIST and our fouls before we can fay, " that our Maker is our husband."

II. The duties of love which they owe to our LORD, who fland in fo near a relation to him.

III. The milerable condition of fuch as cannot yet fay, "their Maker is their hufband." And

IV. I fhall conclude with a general exhortation to all fuch unhappy fouls, to come and match with the dear LORD JESUS. And O! may that GOD who bleffed Abraham's fervant, when he went out to feek a wife for his fon Ifaac, blefs me, even me alfo, now I am come, I truft, relying on divine ftrength, to invite poor finners, and recal backfliders, to my Mafter JESUS !

And First, I am to shew, what must pass between JESUS CHRIST and our souls before we can fay, "Our Maker is our husband."

But before I proceed to this, it may not be improper to obferve, that if any of you, amongst whom I am now preaching the 21

the kingdom of GOD, are enemies to inward religion, and explode the doctrine of inward feelings, as enthulialm, cant and nonfence, I shall not be surprized, if your hearts rife against me whilft I am preaching; for I am about to discourse on true, vital, internal piety; and an inspired apossible hath told us, " that the natural man discerneth not the things of the spirit, because they are spiritually discerned." But, however, be noble as the Bereans were; fearch the Scriptures as they did; lay afide prejudice; hear like Nathaniel, with a true Ifraelitish ear; be willing to do the will of GOD; and then you shall, according to the promise of our dearest LORD, "know of the doctrine, whether it be of GOD, or whether I speak of myself."

I would further obferve, that if any here do expect fine preaching from me this day, they will, in all probability, go away difappointed. For I came not here to fhoot over people's heads; but, if the LORD fhall be pleafed to blefs me, to reach their hearts. Accordingly, I fhall endeavour to cloath my ideas in fuch plain language, that the meaneft negro or fervant, if GoD is pleafed to give a hearing ear, may underfland me; for I am certain, if the poor and unlearned can comprehend, the learned and rich muft.

This being premifed, proceed we to fhew what must pass between JBSUS CHRIST and our fouls, before we can fay, "our Maker is our husband."

Now, that we may discourse more pertinently and intelligibly upon this point, it may not be amiss to confider, what is necessary to be done, before a marriage between two parties amongst ourselves, can be faid to be valid in the fight of GOD and man. And that will lead us in a familiar way, to shew what must be done, or what must pass between us and JESUE CHRIST, before we can fay, " our Maker is our husband."

And First, In all lawful marriages, it is abfolutely neceffary, - that the parties to be joined together in that holy and honourable eftate, are actually and legally freed from all pre-engagements whatfoever. "A woman is bound to her hufband, (faith the spoffle) fo long as her hufband liveth." The fame law holds good in respect to the man. And fo likewife, if either party be betrothed and promifed, though not actually married to another, the marriage is not lawful, till that preengagement and promife be fairly and mutually diffolved. Now, Ċ.

Now, it is just thus between us and the LORD JESUS. For. we are all by nature born under, and wedded to the law, as a covenant of works. Hence it is that we are fo fond of, and artfully go about, in order to establish a righteousness of our own. It is as natural for us to do this, as it is to breathe, Our first parents, Adam and Eve, even after the covenant of grace was revealed to them in that promife, 45 the feed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head," reached out their hands, and would again have taken hold of the tree of life. which they had forfeited, had not GOD drove them out of paradife, and compelled them, as it were, to be faved by grace. And thus all their defcendants naturally run to, and want to be faved, partly at least, if not wholly, by their works, And even gracious fouls, who are inwardly renewed, to far as the old man abides in them, find a ftrong propenfity this way. Hence it is, that natural men are generally fo fond of Arminian principles. " Do and live," is the native language of a proud. felf-righteous heart. But before we can fay, " our Maker is our husband," we must be divorced from our old husband the law; we must renounce our own righteousness, our own doings and performances, in point of dependence, whether in whole or part, as dung and drofs, for the excellency of the knowledge of CHRIST JESUS our LORD. For thus fpeaks the apostle Paul to the Romans, chap. vii. 4. "Ye also are become dead to the law (as a covenant of works) by the body of CHRIST, that ye fhould be married to another, even to him, who is raifed from the dead." As he also speaketh in another place,  I have espoused you, as a chaste virgin to JESUS CHRIST." This was the apoffle's own cafe. Whilf he depended on his being a Hebrew of the Hebrews, and thought himfelf fecure, becaufe. as to the outward observation of the law, he was blameles: he was an entire firanger to the divine life: but when he began to experience the power of JESUS CHRIST's referrection, we find him, in his epifile to the Philippians, absolutely renouncing all his external privileges, and all his pharifaical righteousnels; "Yea, doubtles, and I count all things but lofs, nay but dung, that I may win CHRIST, and be found in him, not having mine own righteoulnels, which is of the law, but that which is through the faith of JESUS CHRIST, the rightcoulnels which is of Gon by faith." And thus it must be with with us, ere we can fay, "our Maker is our hufband." Thought we may not be wrought upon in that extraordinary way in which the apoftle was, yet we must be dead to the law, we must be espoused as chafte virgins to JESUS CHRIST, and count all external privileges, and our most splendid performances (as was before observed) only "as dung and dross, for the excellency of the knowledge of JESUS CHRIST our LORD."

But further; before a marriage among us can ftand good in law, both parties must not only be freed from all pre-engagements, but there must be a mutual confent on both fides. We are not used to marry people against their wills. This is what the Fews called betrothing, or espousing, a thing previous to the folemnity of marriage. Thus we find, the Virgin Mary is faid to be espoused to Joseph, before they actually came together. Mat. i. 18. And thus it is among us. Both parties are previously agreed, and, as it were, espoused to each other, before we publish, what we call the banns of marriage concerning them. And fo it will be in the fpiritual marriage, between JESUS CHRIST and our fouls. Before we are actually married or united to him by faith ; or, to keep to the terms of the text, before we affuredly can fay, that " our Maker is our hufband," we must be made willing people in the day of GoD's power, we must be fweetly and effectually perfuaded by the Holy Spirit of GOD, that the glorious Emmanuel is willing to accept of us, just as we are, and also that we are willing to accept of him upon his own terms, yea, upon any terms. And when once it comes to this, the fpiritual marriage goes on apace, and there is but one thing lacking to make it compleat. And what is that? An actual union.

This is abfolutely neceffary in every lawful marriage among men. There must be a joining of hands before witness, ere they can be deemed lawfully joined together. Some men indeed of corrupt minds, are apt to look upon this as a needless ceremony, and think it fufficient to be married, as they term it, in the fight of Gon. But whence men get, fuch divinity, I know not. I am positive, not from the Bible; for we there read that even at the first marriage in paradife, there was something of outward solemnity; Gon himself (if I may to speak) being there the priest. For we are told, Gen. ii. 22. that, after after Gob had made the woman, " he brought her unto the man." And indeed, to lay afide all manner of outward ceremony in marriage, would be to turn the world into a den of brute beafts. Men would then take, or forfake as many wives as they pleafed, and we fhould foon fink into as bad and brutal a state, as those nations are, amongst whom such practices are allowed of, and who are utterly defitute of the knowledge of our LORD and Saviour JESUS CHRIST. Whoever has experienced the power of his refurrection, I am persuaded will. never plead for fuch a licentious practice. For the terms made use of in Scripture, to represent the mystical union between CHRIST and his church, fuch as, our being " joined to the LORD," and " married to JESUS CHRIST," are all metaphorical expressions, taken from some analogous practices amongst men. And as perfons when married, though before twain, are now one flesh; so those that are joined to the LORD, and can truly fay, " our Maker is our hufband," are in the apoftle's language, one spirit. This was typified in the original marriage of our first parents. When GOD brought Eve to Adam, he received her with joy at his hands, and faid, " this is bone of my bone, and flesh of my flesh." They had there. primarily, but one name. For thus fpeaks the facred Hiftorian, Gen. v. 1, 2. " In the day that GOD created man, he bleffed them, and called their name Adam." And why? because they were one flesh, and were to have but one heart. The felf-fame terms are made use of in Scripture, to express the believer's union with JESUS CHRIST. We are called Chriftians, after CHRIST's name, because made partakers of 'CHRIST's nature. Out of his fulnefs, believers receive grace for grace. And therefore, the marriage flate, especially by the apofile Paul, is frequently made use of, to figure out to us the real, vital union, between JESUS CHRIST and regenerate fouls. This is termed by the apofile, Eph. v. 32. "A great myftery." But great as it is, we must all experience it. before we can fay affuredly, that " our Maker is our hufband." For what fays our LORD, in that prayer he put up to his Fa-'ther before his bitter paffion? "Father, I will that those whom thou haft given me, shall be where I am, that they may be one with thee; even as thou, O Father, and I are one, I in them, and they in me, that we all may be made perfect in one." infinite condescension ! O ineffable union ! Hence it is, that believers are faid to be members of his body, of his flefh, and of his bones. Hence it is, that the apoftle speaking of himfelf, fays, "I live, yet not I, but CHRIST liveth in me." What an expression is that ? How much does it comprehend ? And, that we might not think this was fomething peculiar to himfelf, he puts this clofe question to the Corinthians; "Know ye not, that CHRIST is in you, unless you be reprobates ?" Agreeable to what he fays in his epiftle to the Coloffians, "CHRIST in you, the hope of glory." And hence it is, that our church, in the communion-office, directs the minister to acquaint all those who receive the facrament worthily, that they are one with CHRIST, and CHRIST with them; that they dwell in CHRIST, and CHRIST in them. Words that deferve to be written in letters of gold, and which evidently fhew, what our reformers believed all perfons must experience, before they could truly and affuredly fay, that " their Maker is their hufband."

From what has been delivered, may not the pooreft and most illiterate perfon here prefent eafily know whether or not he is really married to JESUS CHRIST. Some indeed, I am afraid, are so presumptuous as to affirm, at least to infinuate, that there is no fuch thing as knowing, or being fully affured, whilft here below, whether we are in CHRIST or not. Or at least, if there be fuch a thing, it is very rare, or was only the privilege of the primitive believers. Part of this is true, and part of this absolutely false. That this glorious privilege of a full affurance is very rare, is too, too true. And fo it is equally too true, that real christians, comparatively speaking, are very rare alfo. But that there is no fuch thing, or that this was only the privilege of the first followers of our bleffed LORD, is directly opposite to the word of GOD. "We know (fays St. John, speaking of believers in general) that we are his, by the fpirit which he hath given us;" and, "He that believeth hath the witness in himself;" " because you are fons (faith St. Paul) GOD hath fent forth his Spirit into your hearts, even the fpirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father." Not that I dare affirm, that there is no real christian, but what has this full affurance of faith, and clearly knows, that his Maker is his hufband. In fpeaking thus, I fhould undoubtedly condemn some of the generation of GoD's dear children, children, who through the prevalence of unbelief, indwelling fin, spiritual floth, or it may be, for want of being informed of the privileges of believers, may walk in darknefs, and fee no light; therefore; though I dare not affirm, that a full allurance of faith is abfolutely necessary for the very being, yet I dare affert, that it is absolutely necessary, for the well being of a christian. And for my own part, I cannot conceive, 'how any perfons, that pretend to chriftianity, can reft fatisfied or contented without it. This is flopping fhort, on this fide Jordan, with a witness. And gives others too much reason to suspect, that such persons, however high their profeffion may be, have, as yet, no true faving grace at all.

Men, whole hearts are fet on this world's goods, or, to use our LORD's language, " the children of this world," act not fo. I suppose there is scarce a single merchant in this great congregation, especially in these troublous times, that will venture out either his fhip or cargo, without first infuring, both against the violence of an enemy, or a storm. And I suppose there is 'fcarce a fingle house, of any confiderable value, in any populous town or city, but the owner has taken out a policy from the fire-office; to infure it, in cafe of fire. And can I be fo irrational as to think, that there is fuch a thing as fecuring my goods, and my houfe, and that there is no fuch thing as infuring, what is infinitely more valuable, my precious and immortal foul? Or if there be fuch a thing, as undoubtedly there is, what foolifhnefs of folly must it needs be in men, that pretend to be men of parts, of good fense, and folid reasoning, to be so anxious to secure their ships against a storm, and their houses against a fire, and at the fame time, not to be unfpeakably more folicitous, to take a policy out of the affurance-office of heaven; even the feal and witness of the bleffed Spirit of GoD, to infure their fouls against that storm of divine wrath, and that vengeance of eternal fire, which will at the last decifive day come upon all those, who know not Goo, and have not obeyed his gracious gofpel? To affirm therefore, that there is no fuch thing as knowing, that " our Maker is our hufband;" or that it was a privilege peculiar to the first christians, to speak in the mildest terms, is both irrational and unscriptural. Not that 'all who can fay, their Maker is their hufband, can give the fame clear and diffinct account of the time, manner and means of

of their being spiritually united and married by faith, to the bleffed bridegroom of the church. Some there may be now, as well as formerly, fanctified from the womb. And others in their infancy and non-age, as it were filently converted. Such perhaps may fay, with a little Scotch maiden, now with GOD, when I asked her, whether JESUS CHRIST had taken away her old heart, and given her a new one ? " Sir, it may " be, (faid fhe,) I cannot directly tell you the time and place, " but this I know, it is done." And indeed it is not fo very material, though no doubt it is very fatisfactory, if we cannot relate all the minute and particular circumstances, that attended our conversion ; if so be we are truly converted now, and can fay, the work is done, and that, " our Maker is our husband." And I question, whether there is one fingle adult believer, now on earth, who lived before conversion, either in a course of secret or open fin, but can, in a good degree, give an account of the beginning and progress of the work of grace in his heart.

What think ye? Need I tell any married perfons in this congregation, that they mult go to the university, and learn the languages, before they can tell whether they are married or not? Or, if their marriage was to be doubted, could they not, think you, bring their certificates, to certify the time and place of their marriage; and the minister that joined them together in that holy state ? And if you are adult, and are indeed married to JESUS CHRIST, though you may be unlearned, and what the world terms illiterate men, cannot you tell me the rife and progrefs, and confummation of the fpiritual marriage, between JESUS CHRIST and your fouls? Know you not the time, when you were first under the drawings of the Father, and JESUS began to woo you for himfelf? Tell me, O man, tell me, O woman, knoweft thou not the time, or at least, knowest thou not, that there was a time, when the bleffed Spirit of GoD ftripped thee of the figleaves of thy own righteousnels, hunted thee out of the trees of the garden of thy performances, forced thee from the embraces of thy old hufband the law, and made thee to abhor thy own righteousness, as so many filthy rags? Canst thou not remember, when, after a long ftruggle with unbelief, JESUS appeared to thee, as altogether loyely, mighty and willing to fave ? And canft thou not reflect upon a featon, when thy own flubborn heart was made to bend; and thou waft made willing to embrace him, as freely offered to thee in the everlafting gospel? And canst thou not, with pleasure unspeakable, reflect on some happy period, some cortain point of time, in which a facred fomething (perhaps thou couldft not then well tell what) did captivate, and fill thy heart, fo that thou could fay, in a rapture of holy furprize, and extacy of divine love, " My LORD and my GOD ! my beloved is mine, and I am his; I know that my Redeemer liveth;" or, to keep to the words of our text, " My Maker is my hufband." Surely, amidst this great and folemn assembly, there' are many that can answer these questions in the affirmative. For these are transactions, not easily to be forgotten; and the day of our espousals is, generally, a very remarkable day; a day to be had in everlafting remembrance.

And can any of you indeed, upon good grounds fay, that your Maker is your hufband? May I not then (as it is cuftomary to with perfons joy who are just entered into the marriage flate) congratulate you upon your happy change, and wifh you joy, with all my heart? Sure am I that there was joy in heaven on the day of your espousals: and why should not the bleffed news occasion joy on earth? May I not addrefs you in the language of our LORD to the women that came to visit his fepulchre, " All hail !" for ye are highly favoured. Bleffed are ye among men, bleffed are ye among women ! All generations shall call you bleffed. What ! " is your Maker your hufband? the holy one of Ifrael your Redeemer ?" Sing, O heavens, and rejoice, O earth ! What an amazing floop is this ! What a new thing has GOD created on the earth ! Do not your hearts, O believers, burn within you, when meditating on this unspeakable condescension of the high and lofty one that inhabiteth eternity? Whilft you are mufing, does not the facred fire of divine love kindle in your fouls? And, out of the abundance of your hearts, do you not often fpeak with your tongues, and call upon all that is within you, to laud and magnify your Redeemer's holy name? Is not that GODexalting, felf-abafing expression frequently in your mouths, "Why me, LORD, why me?" And are you not often confrained to break out into that devout exclamation of Solomon, when the glory of the LORD filled the temple, "And will Gop indeed dwell with man?" ungrateful, rebellious, ill, and hell-deferving man ! O, my brethren, my heart is enlarged towards you ! Tears, while I am fpeaking, are ready to gufh out. But they are tears of love and joy. How fhall I give it vent? How fhall I fet forth thy happinefs, O believer, thou bride of Gop ! And is thy Maker thy hufband ? Is his name "The LORD of hofts?" Whom then fhouldft thou fear ? And is thy Redeemer the holy one of Ifrael? the Gop of the whole earth fhould he be called ! of whom then fhouldft thou be afraid? He that toucheth thee, toucheth the very apple of GoD's eye. "The very hairs of thy head are all numbered ;" and " it is better that a man fhould have a milftone tied round his neck, and be drowned in the fea, than that he fhould juftly offend thee."

All hail, (I must again repeat it) thou Lamb's bride ! For thou art all glorious within, and comely, through the comelinefs thy heavenly bridegroom hath put upon thee. Thy garment is indeed of wrought gold ; and, ere long, the King fhall bring thee forth with a raiment of needle-work, and prefent thee blameless before his Father, without spot, or wrinkle, or any fuch thing. In the mean while, well shall it be with you, and happy shall you be, who are married to JESUS CHRIST : for all that CHRIST has, is yours. "He is made of GOD to you, wildom, righteousness, fanctification, and eternal redemption," " Whether Paul, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things prefent, or things to come ; all are yours." All his attributes are engaged for your prefervation, and all things shall work together for your good, who love Gon, and, by being thus married to the LORD JESUS, give an evident proof that you are called according to his purpofe. What fay you? When you meditate on these things, are you not frequently ready to cry out, What shall we render unto the LORD for all these mercies, which, of his free unmerited grace, he hath been pleafed to beftow upon us? For, though you are dead to the law, as a covenant of works, yet you are alive to the law as a rule of life, and are in, or under the law (for either expression feems to denote the fame thing) to your glorious hufband, JESUS CHRIST.

Second general head, under which I was to fhew, what duties of love they owe to JESUS CHRIST, who are fo happy as to be able to fay, " My Maker is my hufband."

I fay, duties of love. For being now married to JESUS CHRIST, you work not for life, but from life. The love of GOD constrains you, fo that, if there was no written law, or fuppofing JESUS would fet you at liberty from his yoke, fo far as grace prevails in your hearts, you would fay, we love our bleffed bridegroom, and will not go from him.

And what does the LORD require of you? That we may fpeak on this head as plainly as may be, we fhall purfue the method we begun with; and, by carrying on the allegory, and examining what is required of truly christian wives, under the gofpel, infer what our LORD may justly demand of those who are united to him by faith, and can therefore fay, "our Maker is our hufband."

And here let us go to the law and to the testimony. What fays the scripture ? " Let the wife see that the reverence her "hufband." It is, no doubt, the duty of married women to think highly of their husbands. From whom may husbands juftly command respect, if not from their wives ? The apostle's expression is emphatical. " Let the wife fee that the reverence her hufband;" thereby implying, that women, fome of them at least, are too prone to difrespect their husbands; as Michal, Saul's daughter, despised David in her heart, when the tauntingly faid, 2 Sam. vi. 20. "How glorious was the king of I/rael to-day, who uncovered himself to-day in the eyes of the handmaids of his fervants, as one of the vain fellows shamlesly uncovereth himself."

This is a fource and fountain, from whence many domeftic evils frequently flow. Women should remember the character that husbands suftain in scripture. They are to them, what CHRIST is to the church. And it is mentioned to the honour of Sarab, that the called Abraham " Lord." " Shall I have a child who am old, my Lord being old alfo ?" It is remarkable, there are but two good words in that whole fentence, " my Lord," (for all the others are the language of unbelief) and yet those two words the Holy Ghost mentions to her eternal eternal honour, and buries, as it were, the reft in oblivion. " Even as Sarah (fays St. Peter) obeyed Abraham, calling him Lord." An evident proof how pleafing it is in the fight of Gon, for women in the married state to reverence and refpect their hufbands. Not that hufbands therefore fhould lord it over their wives, or require too much respect at their hands. This would be unchriftian, as well as ungenerous. indeed. They dught rather, as Gon has taken fuch care to keep up their authority, commanding their wives to reverence . and respect them; they ought, I fay, to be doubly careful. that they live fo holy and unblameable, as to lay their wives under no temptation to despile them. But to return from this digreffion. Does the apoftle fay, " Let the wife fee that fhe reverence her hufband ?" May I not pertinently apply this caution to you who are married to JESUS CHRIST ? See to it that you reverence and respect your husband, I fay, fee to it. For the devil will be often fuggesting to you hard and mean thoughts against your husband. It was thus he befet our mother Eve, even in a state of innocence. He would fain perfuade her to entertain hard, thoughts of her glorious benefactor. "What, has GOD faid, ye shall not eat of the trees of the garden ?" Has he been fo cruel to put you here in a beautiful garden only to vex and teize you? This he made use of as an inlet to all his fucceeding infinuations. And this trade he is still purfuing, and will be purfuing to the very end of time. Befides, in the eyes of the world, JESUS CHRIST has no form or comeline's that they thould defire him; and therefore, unlefs you "watch and pray," you will be led into temptation, and not keep up fuch high thoughts of your bleffed JESUS as he jully deferves. In this you can never exceed. Women, perhaps, may fometimes think too highly of, and, through excess of love, idolize their earthly comforts. But it is impossible for you to think too highly of your heavenly hufband, JESUS CHRIST.

Farther, what fays the apostle in his episitle to the Ephefians? Speaking of the marriage flate, he fays, "The wife is the glory of her husband;" as though he had faid, a christian wife should fo behave, and fo walk, as to be a credit to her husband. As Abigail was an honour to Nabal, and by her fweet deportment made up, in some degree, for her husband's band's churlishness. This is to be a help-meet indeed. Such a woman will be praifed in the gate; and her hufband get glory, and meet with respect on her account. And ought a woman to be the glory of her hufband ? How much more ought you; that are the Liamb's bride, to to live, and to to walk, as to bring glory, and gain refpect, to the caule and interest of your husband JESUS? This is what the apolite every where supposes, when he would draw a parallel between a temporal and fpiritual marriage. "The woman, is the glory of her hulband, even as the church is the glory of CHRIST." Agreeable to this, he tells the Corinthians, "Whether you eat or drink, or whatforver you do, do all to the glory of GOD;" and as he also speaks to the Thessalonians, I Theff. ii, II, 12. " As you know how we exhorted, and comforted, and charged every one of you (as a father doth his children) that you would walk worthy of GOD who hath called you to his kingdom, and his glory." What an expreffion is here ! " That you would walk worthy of GoD." O! how ought this, and fuch like texts, to flir up your pure minds, Q believers, fo to have your conversation in this world, that you may be what the apostle fays fome particular perfons were, even "the glory of CHRIST." You are his glory s he rejoices over you with finging; and you should fo walk, that all who know and hear of you, may glorify CHRIST in you.

Subjection, is another duty, that is enjoined married women, in the word of GoD. They are to " be subject to their own hufbands in every thing," every lawful thing : " For, the hufhand is the head of the wife, even as CHRIST is the head of the church." And knowing how unapt fome bafe minds would he to fubmit to the hufband's authority, he takes care to enforce this duty of fubjection by many cogent and powerful arguments," " For Adam was first made, and not Eve. Neither was the man made for the woman, but the woman for the man." And again, " The man was not first in the transgression, but: the woman." Upon which accounts, fubjection was imposed on her as part of her punishment. " Thy defire (fays GOD) fhall be to thy hufband, and he shall rule (though not tyrannize) over thee." So that, to use the words of pious Mr. Henry, those who attempt to usurp authority over their husbands, bands, not only contradict a divine command, but thwart a divine curfe. And if women are to be subject to their own husbands in every thing, how much more ought believers, whether men or women, to be subject to JESUS CHRIST : for he is the head of the church. He has bought her by his blood. Believers therefore are not their own, but are under the highest obligations to glorify and obey JESUS CHRIST, in their bodies and their fouls, which are his. Add to this, that his fervice, as it is admirably expressed in one of our collects, is perfect freedom. His commandments holy, just, and good. And therefore it is your highest privilege, O believers. to fubmit to, and obey them. Earthly hufbands may be fo mean as to impose fome things upon their wives, merely to thew their authority; but it is not fo with JESUS CHRIST. He can and does impose nothing, but what immediately conduces to our prefent, as well as future good. In doing, nay, in fuffering for JESUS CHRIST, there is a prefent unspeakable reward. And therefore I may fay to believers, as the bleffed Virgin faid to the fervants at the marriage in Cana, "Whatfoever he fays unto you, do it." "For his yoke is eafy, and his burden is light." And I believe it might eafily be proved in a few minutes, that all the diforders which are now in the world, whether in church or flate, are owing to a want of being universally, unanimously, chearfully, and perfeveringly conformed to the laws and example of our LORD and Saviour JESUS CHRIST.

Again, Faithfulnefs in the marriage flate, is flrictly enjoined in the fcriptures of truth. "Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled. But whoremongers and adulterers GoD will judge." Nay, adultery is an iniquity to be punished by the earthly judges; it diffolves the marriage relation. "For the man has not power over his own body, but the woman; neither has the woman power over her own body, but the man." The heathens themfelves have been taught this by the light of nature; and adultery, among fome of them, is punished with immediate death. And ought married perfors to be thus careful to keep the marriage-bed undefiled, how carefully then ought believers to keep their fouls chafte, pure, and undefiled, now they are espoused to JESUS CHRIST? For there is fuch a thing as fpiritual adultery; "O ye adulterers and adulteress," faith St. James. And GoD frequently complains of his people's playing the harlot. Hence it is, that St. John, in the most endearing manner, exhorts believers to "keep themselves from idols." For the luft of the eye, the luft of the flesh, and pride of life, are always ready to steal away our hearts from JESUS CHRIST. And every time we place our affections upon any thing more than CHRIST, we do undoubtedly commit spiritual adultery. For we admit a creature to rival the Creator, who is GoD over all, blessed for evermore. "Little children, therefore, keep yourselves from idols."

But it is time for me to draw towards the close of this head. Fruitfulnels was a bleffing promifed by GOD to the first happypair: " Increase and multiply, and replenish the earth." " Lo, children, and the fruit of the womb, (fays the Pfalmift) are a gift and heritage, which cometh of the LORD." And fo, if we are married to JESUS CHRIST, we must be fruitful. In what? In every good word and work : for thus speaks the Apostle, in his episitle to the Romans : " Wherefore, my brethren, ye also are become dead to the law, by the body of CHRIST, that ye fhould be married to another, even to him who is raifed from the dead." What follows? " That we should bring forth fruit unto Gon." Glorious words, and proper to be confidered in a peculiar manner, by fuch who would explode the doctrine of free justification, as an Antinomian doctrine, and as though it deftroyed good works. No: it eftablishes, and lays a folid foundation, whereon to build the superstructure of good works. Titus is therefore commanded to " exhort believers to be careful to maintain good works." And " herein (fays our LORD) is my Father glorified, that ye bring forth much fruit. Let your light fo thine before men, that they may fee your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven;" with a multitude ot paffages to the fame purpole.

Moreover, it is required of wives, that they not only love and reverence their husbands, but that they also love and respect their husband's friends. And if we are married to JESUS CHRIST, we shall not only reverence the bridegroom, but we shall also love and honour the bridegroom's friends. "By this, shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye love one one another." " By this we know, (fays the beloved difciple) that we have passed from death to life, because we love the brethren." Observe, the brethren, indefinitely, of whatever denomination. And this love must be " without diffimulation, and with a pure heart fervently." This was the cafe of the primitive christians. They were all of one heart. and of one mind. It was faid of them (O that it could be faid of us !) " See how these christians love one another !" They were of the fame fpirit as a good woman of Scotland was, who, when the faw a great multitude, as is cultomary in that country, coming from various parts to receive the bleffed facrament, faluted them with a " Come in, ye bleffed of the " LORD, I have an house that will hold an hundred of you, " and a heart that will hold ten thousand." Let us go and do likewife.

Once more. Perfons that are married, take one another for better or for worfe, for richer or for poorer, to love and to cherish each other in sickness and in health. And if we are married to JESUS CHRIST, we shall be willing to bear his crofs, as well as to wear his crown. " If any man will come after me, let him deny himfelf, take up his crofs, and follow me." Neither will they be compelled to do this, as Simon of Cyrene was, but they will be volunteers in his fervice; they will cry out, Crown him, crown him, when others are crying out, " Crucify him, crucify him." They will never leave or forfake him, but willingly follow the Captain of their falvation. though it be through a fea of blood.

I might run the parallel still further, and also enlarge upon the hints already given; but I fear I have faid enough already to reproach most believers; I am fure I have faid more than enough to abath and upbraid myfelf. For alas ! how vilely, treacheroufly, and ungratefully have we behaved towards our spiritual husband, the dear LORD JESUS, ever fince the day of our espoufals? Had our friends, or even the wives of our own bofoms, behaved to us as we have behaved to our great and best friend, our glorious husband, we should have broken off our friendship, and sued for a bill of divorcement long ago. Under our first løve, what promises did we make to him? But how frowardly have we behaved ourfelves in this covenant ? How little have we reverenced him ? How often has eur bur Beloved been no more to us than another beloved? How little have we lived to his glory ? Have we not been a fhame and reproach to his goldel? Have we not crucified him . afrefh, and has he not been forely wounded in the house of his friends? Nay, has not his holy name been blasphemed through our means! For alas! how little have we obeyed him ? How careless and indifferent have we been, whether we pleafed him or not? We have often faid, indeed, when commanded by him to go work in his vineyard, We go, LORD; but alas ! we went not. Or if we did go, with what reluctance has it been? How unwilling to watch with our dear Lord and Master; only one hour ? And of his fabbaths. how often have we faid. What a wearinels is this? As for our adulteries, and spiritual fornications, how frequent, how aggravated have they been ? Have not idols of all forts, been fuffered to fill up the room of the ever-bleffed Jesus in our hearts? You that love him in fincerity, will not be offended if I tell you, that the xwith chapter of Ezekiel gives, in my opinion, a lively description of our behaviour towards our LORD. We were, like base-born children, cast out in the field to the loathing of our perforts: no eye pitied or had compaffion on us. JESUS paffed by, faw us polluted in our own blood, and faid unto us, " Live," i. r. preferved us, even in our natural flate, from death. And when his time of love was come, he foread the fkirt of his imputed righteoufnefs over us, and covered the nakedness of our fouls, entered into covenant with us, and we became his. He walked us alfo with water, even in the laver of regeneration, and thoroughly washed us by his precious blood, from the guilt of all our fins. He cloathed us also with broidered work, and decked us with ornaments, even with righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghoft. We did eat fine flour and honey at his ordinances, and we fed on JESUS CHRIST in our hearts by faith, with thank fgiving. In fhort, we were made exceed-Ing beautiful, and the kingdom of GOD was erected in our hearts. We were renowned among our neighbours for our love to Gob, and all that knew us took knowledge of us, that we had been with JESUS. But alas! how have we fallen, who were once fons of the morning ! How have we truffed in our own beauty, have grown spiritually proud, and provoked voked our patient and unspeakably long-fuffering LORD to anger? Where is that ardent love we fpake of, when we told him, that, though we fhould die for him, we would not deny him in any wife ? How desperately wicked, and deceitful above all things, have we proved our hearts to be, fince we have done all these things, even the work of an imperious woman? These are great and numerous charges; but great and numerous as they are, there is not a fingle believer here present, but, if he knows his own heart, may plead guilty to fome, or all of them. But this is a tender point : I fee you concerned : your tears, O believers, are a proof of the anguish of your fouls. And can any of us give any reason, why JESUS CHRIST should not give us a bill of divorcement, and put us away? May he not justly speak to us as he did to his adultrefs Ifrael, in the forementioned xvith of Ezekiel, " Wherefore. O harlot, hear the word of the LORD; I will judge thee as women that break wedlock, and fhed blood, are judged. I will give thee blood in fury and jealoufy, becaufe thou haft not remembered the days of thy youth, but hast fretted me in . all these things. Behold, therefore, I also will recompence thy way upon thy head. I will even deal with thee as thou haft done, who haft despifed the oath, in breaking the covenant, the marriage contract that was between us." This, I am perfuaded, you will confess to be the treatment which we all most justly deferve. But be not overwhelmed wich overmuch forrow: for though the LORD our GOD is a jealous GOD, and will certainly vist our offences with a rod, and our backflidings with a fpiritual fcourge, yet his loving-kindnefs will he not utterly take from us, nor fuffer his truth to fail. Though we have changed, yet he changeth not : He abideth faithful : his loving-kindness abideth for evermore. Hark ! how fweetly he fpeaks to his backfliding people of old; "O Ifrael, thou haft destroyed thyself, but in me is thy help. I will heal their backfliding, and love them freely." And in the verfes immediately following the words of the text, how comfortably does he addrefs his espouled people ! " In a little wrath, I hid my face from thee for a moment; but with everlafting kindness will I have mercy on thee, faith the LORD thy Redeemer. For this is as the waters of Noab unto me : for as I have fworn, that the waters of Noab should no more go over the earth ; to have I fworn, that I would not be wroth with thee, nor rebuke thee. For the mountains shall depart. and the hills be removed, but my kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace be removed, faith the LORD that hath mercy on thee." O that this goodness may lead us to repentance! O that this unparalleled, infinite, unchangeable love, may conftrain us to an universal. uniform, chearful, unanimous, perfevering obedience to all the commands of GOD !

Brethren, my heart is enlarged towards you, and I could dwell a long while upon the many great and precious invitations that are made to backfliders, to return to their first love, and do their first works : but it is high time for me, if, as was proposed,

III. I give to every one their proper portion ; to fpeak to those poor fouls, who know nothing of this bleffed Bridegroom of the church, and confequently cannot yet fay, " My Maker is my hufband."

Ah ! I pity you from my inmost foul; I could weep over, and for you, though perhaps you will not weep for yourfelves. But furely you would weep, and howl too, did you know the miserable condition those are in, who are not married to JESUS Will you give me leave (I think I fpeak it in CHRIST. much love) to inform you, that if you are not married to JESUS CHRIST, you are married to the law, the world, the flesh, and the devil, neither of which can make you happy; but all, on the contrary, concur to make you miserable. Hear ye not, ye that are married to the law, and feek to be justified in the fight of GOD, partly, at least, if not wholly, by your own works, what the law faith to those that are under it, as a covenant of works? " Curfed is every one that continueth not in all things that are written in the book of the law, to do them." Every word breathes threatening and flaughter to poor fallen creatures. Curfed, both here and hereafter, be this man, and every one, naturally engendered of the offspring of Adam, without exception, that continueth not, even to the very end of life, in all things; not only in fome, or many, but in all things, that are written in the book of the law, to do them, in the utmost perfection : for " he that 3 that offendeth in one point, is guilty of all." So that, according to the tenor of the covenant of works, whofeever is guilty of one wicked thought, word, or action, is under the curfe of an angry fin-avenging GoD. "For as many as are under the law, are under the curfe." And do you know what it is to be under the curfe of GoD, and to have the wrath of GOD abide upon you! If you did, I believe you would not be for unwilling to be divorced from the law, and be efpouled, as chafte virgins, to JESUS CHRIST.

And why are ye to wedded to the world? Did it ever prove faithful or latisfactory to any of its votaries ? Has not Solomon reckoned up the fum total of worldly happines? And what does it amount to? " Vanity, vanity, faith the preacher, all is vanity," nay he adds, " and vexation of fpirit." And has not a greater than Solomon informed us, that a man's life, the happiness of a man's life, doth not confist in the things which he possefieth ? Befides, " know ye not that the friendship of this world is enmity with GOD; fo that wholeever will be a friend to the world, (to the corrupt cuftoms and vices of it) is an enemy to GOD !" And what better reasons can you give for being wedded to your lufts ! Might not the poor flaves in the gallies, as reasonably be wedded to their chains? For do not your lufts fetter down your fouls from God? Do they not lord it, and have they not dominion over you? Do not they fay, Come, and ye come; Go, and ye go; Do this, and ye do it? And is not he or fire. that liveth in pleasure, dead, whilst he liveth ? And above all, how can ye bear the thoughts of being wedded to the devil, as every natural man is : for thus speaks the fcripture, '" He now ruleth in the children of difobedience." And how can ye bear to be ruled by one, who is fuch a profeffed open enemy to the most high and holy GoD? Who will make a drudge of you, whilft you live, and be your companion in endless and extreme torment, after you are dead ?" For thus will our LORD fay to those on the left hand, " Depart from me, ye curfed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels." But,

IV. Will you permit me, O finners, that I may draw towards a close of this discourse, to propose a better match to your

This is a part of the discourse which I long to vour fouls. come to, it being my heart's defire, and earnest prayer to GOD, that your fouls may be faved. " And now, O LORD GOD Almighty, thou Father of mercies, and GOD of all confolations, thou GOD and Father of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, who hast promised to give thy Son the heathen for his inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for his possession, fend me good speed this day, O LORD, send me now prosperity. Behold, I stand here without the camp. bearing a little of thy dear Son's facred reproach ! Hear mea O LORD, hear me, and according to thy word, let thy dear. thine only begotten Son, fee of the travel of his foul, and be fatisfied! O help me fo to fpeak, that many may believe on. and cleave unto thy bleffed, thine holy child JESUS !"

But who am I; that I should undertake to recommend the bleffed Jesus to others, who am myfelf altogether unworthy to take his facred name into my polluted lips? Indeed, my brethren, I do not count myfelf worthy of fuch an honour; but fince it has pleased him, in whom all fulness dwells, to count me worthy, and put me into the ministry, the very flones would cry out against me, did I not attempt, at least; to life out his praise, and earnestly recommend the ever-bleffed JESUS to the choice of all,

Thus Abraham's faithful fervant behaved, when fent out to fetch a wife for his mafter Ifaac. He spake of the riches and honours, which GOD had conferred on him; but what infinitely greater honours and riches, has the Gob and Father of our LORD JESUS, conferred on his only Son, to whom I now invite every christles sinner ! To you, therefore, I call, O ye fons of men, alluring you, there is every thing in JESUS that your hearts can defire, or hunger and thirst after. Dơ people in difpofing of themfelves or their children in marriage, generally covet to be matched with perfons of great names? Let this confideration ferve as a motive to ftir you up to match with JESUS. For GOD the Father has given him a name above every name; he has upon his vefture, and upon his thigh, a name written, " The King of kings, and the Lord of lords;" and here in the text we are told, " The Lord of Hofts is his name." Nor has he an empty title, but power equivalent; for he is a prince, as well as a faviour. " All N power Voi. V.

power is given unto him, both in heaven and on earth :" " The God of the whole earth, (fays our text) he shall be called." The government of men, of the church, and of devils, is put upon his shoulders : " Thrones, principalities and powers, are made fubject unto him; by him kings reign, and princes decree justice; he setteth up one, and putteth down another : and of his kingdom there shall be no end." Will riches be an inducement unto you to come and match with JESUS? Why then, I can tell you, the riches of JESUS, are infinite : for unto me, who am less than the least of all faints, is this grace given, that I fhould preach to poor finners, the unfearchable riches of JESUS CHRIST. I appeal to you that are his faints, whether you have not found this true, by happy experience; and though fome of you, may have been acquainted with him thirty, forty, fifty years ago, do you not find his riches are yet unfearchable, and as much past finding out, as they were the very first moment in which you gave him your hearts !

Would you match with a wife hufband? Hafte then, finners, come away to JESUS: He is the fountain of wildom, and makes all that come unto him, wife unto falvation; "He is the wildom of the Father: the LORD poffeffed him in the beginning of his way, before his works of old. When he prepared the heavens, he was there; when he appointed the foundations of the earth, then was he with him, as one brought up with him; he was daily his delight, rejoicing always before him." As he is wife, fo is he holy; and therefore, in the words of our text, he is stiled, " The Redeemer, the Holy One of I/rael :" and by the angel Gabriel, " That holy Thing." The apofiles, addreffing GoD the Father, ftile him his " holy child JESUS :" and the fpirits of just men made perfect, and the angels in heaven, cease not day or night, laying, " Holy, holy, holy." Nor is his beauty inferior to his wildom or holinels; the feraphs veil their faces, when they appear before him : " He is the chiefest among ten thousand, nay, he is altogether lovely." And, as he is altogether lovely, fo is he altogether loving : his name and his nature is Love. GOD, GOD in CHRIST is love : love in the abstract. And in this has he manifested his love, in that, whilft we were yet finners, nay open enemies, JESUS, in his own due time, died for the ungodly. He loved us fo as to give himfelf for us. O what manner of love is this! What was Facob's love to Rachel, in comparison of the love which IEsus bore to a perifhing world ! He became a curfe for us. For it is written, " Curfed is every man that hangeth upon a tree" What Zipporab faid to her hufband improperly, JESUS may fay properly to his spoule the church, "A bloody wife has thou been to me, because of the crucifixion." For he has purchased her with his own blood. And having once loved his people, he loves them unto the end. His love, like himfelf, is from everlafting to everlafting. He hates putting away: though we change, yet he changeth not: he abideth faithful. When we are married here, there comes in that flocking claufe, to use the words of holy Mr. Boston, " Till death us doth part ;" but death itself shall not separate a true believer from the love of GOD, which is in CHRIST JESUS his Lord : for he will never cease loving his Bride, till he has loved her to heaven, and prefented her before his Father, without fpot or wrinkle, or any fuch thing. Nay, his love will, as it were, but be beginning, through the endless ages of eternity.

And now, Sirs, what fay you? Shall I put that queftion to you, which Rebecca's relations, upon a propofal of martiage, put to her? "Will ye go with the man?" With the God-man, this infinitely great, this infinitely powerful, this all-wife, all-holy, altogether lovely, ever-loving JESUS? What objection have you to make against fuch a gracious offer ? One would imagine, you had not a fingle one; but it is to be feared, through the prevalency of unbelief, and the corruption of your desperately wicked deceitful hearts, you are ready to urge feveral. Methinks I hear fome of you fay within yourfelves, "We like the proposal, but alas! we " are poor." Are you fo? If that be all, you may, notwithstanding, be welcome to JESUS: " For has not GOD chofen the poor of this world, to make them rich in faith, and heirs of his everlasting kingdom?" And what fays that Saviour, to whom I am now inviting you? " Bleffed are the poor in Spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." And what fays his Apostle concerning him? " Though he was rich, yet for our fakes he became poor, that we through his poverty might be made rich. But fay you, " We are not N 2 only only poor, but we are in debt; we owe GoD ten thousand talents, and have nothing to pay;" but that need not keep you back : for GOD the Father, from the LORD JESUS, his dearly beloved Son, has received double for all believers fins : the blood of JESUS cleanfeth from them all. But you are blind, and miferable, and naked; to whom then should your fly for fuccour, but to JESUS, who came to open the eyes of the blind, to feek and fave the miferable and loft, and cloath the naked with his perfect and spotless righteousness. And now, what can hinder your espoufals with the dear and everbleffed Lamb of GoD? I know but of one thing, that dreadful fin of unbelief. But this is my comfort, IEsus died for unbelief, as well as for other fins, and has promifed to fend down the Holy Spirit to convince the world of this fin in particular : " If I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I go away, I will fend the Comforter. and he will convince the world of fin." What fin ? of unbelief : " because they believe not on me." O that this promife may be fo fulfilled in your hearts, and JESUS may fo become the author of divine faith in your fouls, that you may be able to fend me the fame meffage as a good woman in Scotland, on her dying bed, fent me by a friend : " Tell him, (fays she) for his comfort, that at such a time he married me to the LORD JESUS." This would be comfort indeed. Not that we can marry you to CHRIST : No; the Holy Ghost muft tie the marriage knot. But fuch honour have all Gon's ministers: under him they espoule poor finnets to JESUS " I have espoused you (fays St. Paul) as a chaste CHRIST. virgin to JESUS CHRIST." O that you may fay, We will go with the man; then will I bow my head, as Abraham's fervant did, and go with joy and tell my Master, that he has not left his poor fervant deftitute this day: then shall I rejoice in your felicity. For I know, my Master will take you into the banqueting-house of his ordinances, and his banner over you shall be love. That this may be the happy cafe of you all, may the glorious GOD grant, for the fake of JESUS his dearly beloved Son, the glorious bridegroom of his church ; to whom, with the Father, and the Holy Spirit, be all honour and glory, now and for evermore. Amen, and Amen.

The Potter and the Clay.

JER. XVIII. 1-6.

The word which came to Jeremiah from the Lord, faying, Arife, and go down to the potter's bouse, and there I will cause thee to hear my words. Then I went down to the potter's bouse, and behold, be wrought a work on the wheels. And the veffel that he made of clay was marred in the bands of the potter, so he made it again another veffel, as seemed good to the potter to make it. Then the word of the Lord came to me, faying, O boufe of Ifrael, cannot I do with you as this potter? faith the Lord. Bebold, as the clay is in the potter's band, for are ye in mine hand, O house of Israel.

T fundry times, and in divers manners, GOD was pleafed L to speak to our fathers by the prophets, before he spoke to us in these last days by his Son. To Elijab, he revealed himself by a small still voice. To Jacob, by a dream. To Mofes, he spake face to face. Sometimes he was pleased to fend a favourite prophet on fome efpecial errand; and whilft he was thus employed, vouchsafed to give him a particular meffage, which he was ordered to deliver without referve to all the inhabitants of the land. A very inftructive inftance of this kind we have recorded in the paffage now read to you. The first verse informs us that it was a word, or message, which came immediately from the LORD to the prophet Fere-At what time, or how the prophet was employed miah. N_3 when when it came, we are not told. Perhaps, whilst he was praying for those who would not pray for themselves : Perhaps, near the morning, when he was flumbering or mufing on his bed. For the word came to him, faying, "Arife." And what must he do when rifen? He must " go down to the potter's house" (the prophet knew where to find it) " and there (fays the great Jehovah) I will caufe thee to hear my words." Feremiab does not confer with fleth and blood, he does not object that it was dark or cold, or defire that he might have his message given him there, but without the leaft hefitation is immediately obedient to the heavenly vision. " Then (fays he) I went down to the potter's house, and behold he wrought a work upon the wheels." Just as he was entering into the house or workshop, the potter, it seems, had a veffel upon his wheel. And was there any thing to extraordinary in this, that it fhould be ushered in with the word BEHOLD? What a dreaming vilionary, or superstitious enthusiast, would this Feremiab be accounted, even by many who read his prophecies with feeming respect, was he alive now ? But this was not the first time Jeremiah had heard from heaven in this manner. He therefore willingly obeyed; and had you or I accompanied him to the potter's houfe; I believe we should have seen him filently, but intensely waiting upon his great and all-wife Commander, to know wherefore he fent him thither. Methinks I fee him all attention. He takes notice, that " the veffel was of clay;" but as he held it in his hand, and turned round the wheel, in order to work it into fome particular form, "it was marred in the hands of the potter," and confequently unfit for the use he before intended to put it to. And what becomes of this marred veffel ? Being thus marred, I suppose, the potter, without the least imputation of injuffice, might have thrown it afide, and taken up another piece of clay in its room. But he did not. "He made it again another veffel." And does the potter call a council of his domeflics, to enquire of them what kind of veffel they would advise him to make of it? No, in no wife. "He made it again another veffel, as feemed good to the potter to make it."

"Then," adds Jeremiah, whilft he was in the way of duty then-whilft he was mentally crying, LORD what wouldft 3 thou thou have me to do ? " Then the word of the LORD came unto me, faying, O house of Ifrael, cannot I do with you as this potter ? faith the LORD. Behold, as the clay is in the hands of the potter. (marred, and unfit for the first defigned purpose) fo are ye in mine hand, O house of Israel." At length, then, Jeneniab hath his fermon given to him: fhort, but popular. It was to be delivered to the whole house of I/rael, princes, priefts, and people ; fhort, but pungent, even harper than a two-edged fword. What ! fays the fovereign LORD of heaven and earth, must I be denied the privilege of a common potter ? May I not do what I will with my own ? "Behold, as the clay is in the potter's hands, fo are ye in mine hands, O house of Israel. I made and formed you into a people, and bleffed you above, any other nation under heaven : but, O I/reel, thou by thy backflidings haft deftroyed thyfelf. As the potter therefore might justly have thrown afide his marred clay, fo may I justly unchurch and unpeople you. But what if I fhould come over the mountains of your guilt, heal your backflidings, revive my work in the midft of the years, and caufe your latter end greatly to increase? Behold, as the clay is in the hands of the potter, lying at his disposal, either to be destroyed or formed into another vessel, fo are ye in my hands, O house of Israel: I may either rejeft, and thereby ruin you, or I may revisit and revive you according to my own fovereign good will and pleafure, and who fhall fay unto me, what doft thou?"

This feems to be the genuine interpretation, and primary intention of this beautiful part of holy writ. But waving all further enquiries about its primary defign or meaning, I fhall now proceed to fhew, that what the glorious Jehovah here fays of the houfe of Ifrael in general, is applicable to every individual of mankind in particular. And as I prefume this may be done, without either wire-drawing foripture on the one hand, or wrefting it from its original meaning on the other, not to detain you any longer, I fhall, from the paffage thus explained and paraphrafed, deduce, and endeavour to enlarge on thefe two general heads.

First, I shall undertake to prove, that every man naturally engendered of the offspring of Adam, is in the fight of the all-feeing, heart-scarching GoD, only as a "piece of marred clay." N 4 Secondly,

Secondly, That being thus marred, he must neceffarily be renewed: and under this head, we shall likewise point out by whose agency this mighty change is to be brought about.

These particulars being discussed, way will naturally be made for a short word of application.

First, To prove that every man naturally engendered of the offspring of Adam, is in the fight of an all-feeing, heart-fearching God, only as a piece of marred clay.

Be pleafed to observe, that we say every man naturally engendered of the offspring of Adam, or every man fince the fall: for if we confider man as he first came out of the hands of his Maker, he was far from being in fuch melancholy circumstances. No: he was originally made upright; or as Moles, that facred penman, declares, "God made him after his own image." Surely never was to much expressed in the few words; which hath often made me wonder how that great critic Longinus, who fo justly admires the dignity and grandeur of Moles's account of the creation, and "God faid, Let there be light, and there was light;" I fay I have often wondered why he did not read a little further, and bestow as just an encomium upon this short, but withal inexpressibly august and comprehensive description of the formation of man, " fo Gon created man in his own image." Struck with a deep fense of such amazing goodness, and that he might impress yet a deeper fense of it upon our minds too, he immediately adds, "in the image of GoD made he him." A council of the most adorable Trinity was called on this important occasion : Gon did not say, Let there be a man, and there was a man, but GOD faid, " Lot us make man in our image, after our likenefs." This is the account which the lively oracles of GoD do give us of man in his first estate : but it is very remarkable, that the transition from the account of his creation to that of his milery, is very quick, and why? For a very good reafon, because he foon fell from his primeval dignity; and by that fall, the divine image is fo defaced, that he is now to be valued only as antiquarians value an ancient medal, merely for the fake of the image and fuperfeription once stamped upon it; or of a second divine imprefs, which, through grace, it may yet receive.

Let us take a more particular furvey of him, and fee when ther these things are so or not: and first, as to his underflanding. As man was created originally "after GoD in knowledge," as well as righteoufnefs and true holinefs, we may rationally infer, that his understanding, in respect to things natural, as well as divine, was of a prodigious extent : for he was made but a little lower than the angels, and confequently being like them, excellent in his understanding, he knew much of GOD, of himfelf, and all about him; and in this as well as every other respect, was, as Mr. Collier expresses it in one of his effays, a perfect major : but this is far from being our cafe now. For in respect to natural things, our understandings are evidently darkened. It is but little that we can know, and even that little knowledge which we can acquire, is with much wearinefs of the flefh, and we are doomed to gain it as we do our daily bread, I mean by the fweat of our brows.

Men of low and narrow minds foon commence wife in their own conceits : and having acquired a little imattering of the learned languages, and made fome fmall proficiency in the dry fciences, are eafily tempted to look upon themfelves as a head taller than their fellow mortals, and accordingly too, too often put forth great swelling words of vanity. But perfons of a more exalted, and extensive reach of thought, dare not boaft. No: they know that the greateft fcholars are in the dark, in respect to many even of the minutest things in life : and after all their painful refearches into the Arcanæ Naturæ, they find fuch an immense void, such an unmeasurable expanse yet to be travelled over, that they are obliged at last to conclude, almost with respect to every thing, " that they know nothing yet as they ought to know." This confideration, no doubt, led Socratos, when he was asked by one of his scholars, why the oracle pronounced him the wifest man on earth, to give him this judicious answer, " Perhaps it is, fe becaufe I am most fensible of my own ignorance." Would to GoD, that all who call themfelves christians, had learnt to much as this heathen I We should then no longer hear fo many learned men, falfely fo called, betray their ignorance by boafting of the extent of their shallow understanding, nor by profeffing themfelves fo wife, prove themfelves fuch arrant Įf pedantic fools.

If we view our understandings in respect to spiritual things. we shall find that they are not only darkened, but become darkness itself, even " darkness that may be felt" by all who are not past feeling. And how should it be otherwise, fince the infallible word of GoD affures us, that they are alienated from the light and life of GoD, and thereby naturally as incapable to judge of divine and fpiritual things, comparatively speaking, as a man born blind is incapacitated to diffinguish the various colours of the rainbow. " The natural man, (fays an infpired apostle) difcerneth not the things of the Spirit of GOD;" fo far from it, " they are foolifhnefs unto him;" and why? Becaule they are only to be " fpiritually discerned." Hence it was, that Nicodemus, who was bleffed with an outward and divine revelation; who was a ruler of the Fews, nay a master of Israel, when our LORD told him, "he must be born again;" appeared to be quite grappled. "How (fays he) can a man be born when he is old ? can he enter a fecond time into his mother's womb and be born? how can thefe things be?" Were three more abfurd questions ever propoled by the most ignorant man alive? or can there be a. clearer proof of the blindness of man's understanding, in refpect to divine, as well as natural things? Is not man then a piece of marred clay ? 41.1.12

This, will appear yet more evident, if we confider the perverfe best of his will ... Being made in the very image of GoDs undoubtedly before the fall, man bad, no other will but his Maker's. God's will, and Adam's, were then like unifons in mufic. There was not the least difunion, or difcord between them. But now he hath a will, as directly contrary to the will of God, as light is contrary to darkness, or heaven to hell, We all bring into the world with us a carnal mind, which is not only an enemy to Gon, but !! enmity itfelf, and which is therefore not subject unto the law of Gon, neither indeed can it be." A great many thew much zeal in talking again the man of fin, and loudly (and indeed very juffly) exclaim against the Pope for fitting in the temple, I mean the church of CHRIST, and " exalting himfelf above all that is called GOD." But fay not within thyself, who shall go to Romas, to pull down this spiritual antichrift ? as though there was no antichrift but what is without us. For know, O ; mana man, whoever thou art, an infinitely more dangerous antichrift, because less discerned, even self-will, fits daily in the temple of thy heart, exalting itfelf above all that is called GOD, and obliging all its votaries to fay of CHRIST himfelf, that Prince of peace, " we will not have this man to reign over us." GoD's people, whose spiritual fenses are exercised about fpiritual things, and whole eyes are opened to fee the abominations that are in their hearts, frequently feel this to their forrow. Whether they will or not, this enmity from time to time bubbles up, and in fpight of all their watchfulnefs and-care, when they are under the preffure of fome tharp affliction, a long defertion, or tedious night of temptation, they often find fomething within rifing in rebellion against the all-wife difpofals of divine Providence, and faying unto Gop their heavenly Father, " what doft thou ?" This makes them to cry (and no wonder, fince it conftrained one of the greatest faints and apostles first to introduce the expression) " O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death ?" The fpiritual and renewed foul groans thus, being burdened; but as for the natural and unawakened manit is not fo with him; felf-will, as well as every other evil. either in a more latent or discernable manner, reigns in his unrenewed foul, and proves him, even to a demonstration to others, whether he knows, or will confeis it himself or not. that in respect to the disorders of his will, as well as his understanding, man is only a piece of marred clay.

A transient view of fallen man's affections will yet more firmly corroborate this melancholy truth. These, at his being first placed in the paradise of GoD, were always kept within proper bounds, fixed upon their proper objects, and, like so many gentle rivers, sweetly, spontaneously and habitually glided into their ocean, GoD. But now the scene is changed. For we are now naturally full of vile affections, which like a mighty and impetuous torrent carry all before them. We love what we should hate, and hate what we should love; we fear what we should hope for, and hope for what we should fear; nay, to such an ungovernable height do our affections sometimes rise, that though our judgments are convinced to the contrary, yet we will gratify our passions though it be at the expence of our present and eternal welfare. We

We feel a war of bur affections, warring against the law of our minds, and bringing us into captivity to the law of fin and death. So that video meliora proboque, deteriora fequor, I approve of better things but follow worse, is too, too often the practice of us all.

I am fenfible, that many are offended, when mankind are compared to beafts and devils. And they might have fome thadow of reason for being so, if we afferted in a physical fense, that they were really beasts and really devils. For then, as I once heard a very learned prelate, who was objecting against this comparison, observe, " a man being a beast would be incapable, and being a devil, would be under an impoffibility of being faved." But when we make use of fuch shocking comparisons, as he was pleased to term them, we would be understood only in a moral sense; and in so doing, we affert no more than fome of the most holy men, of God have faid of themfelves, and others, in the lively oracles many ages ago. Holy David, the man after GOD's own heart, fpeaking of himself, says, " so foolish was I, and as a beast before thee." And holy Job, speaking of man in general, says, that " he is born as a wild ass's colt," or take away the expletive, which as fome think ought to be done, and then he politively afferts, that man is a wild afs's colt. And what fays our LORD, "Ye are of your father the devil;" and " the whole world is faid to lie in him, the wicked one, who now rules in the children of disobedience," that is, in all unrenewed souls. Our flupidity, pronenefs to fix our affections on the things of the earth, and our eagernels to make provision for the flefh, to fulfil the lusts thereof, evidence us to be earthly and brutal; and our mental paffions, anger, hatred, malice, envy, and fuch like, prove with equal firength, that we are also devilish. Both together confpire to evince, that in respect to his affections, as well as his understanding and will, man defervedly may be termed a piece of marred clay.

The prefent blindnefs of natural conficience makes this appear in a yet more glaring light; in the foul of the first man Adam, conficience was no doubt the candle of the LORD, and enabled him rightly and instantaneously to differ between good and evil, right and wrong. And, bleffed be GOD! fome remains of this are yet left; but alas, how dimly does it burn, and how eafily and quickly is it covered, or put out and extinguifhed. I need not fend you to the heathen world, to learn the truth of this; you all know it by experience. Was there no other evidence, your own confiiences are inflead of a thousand witneffes, that man, as to his natural conficience, as well as understanding, will and affections, is much marred clay.

Nor does that great and boafted Diana, I mean unaffifted unenlightened reason, less demonstrate the justness of such an affertion. Far be it from me to decry or exclaim against human reason. CHRIST himself is called the "Logos, the Reafon;" and I believe it would not require much learning, or take up much time to prove, that fo far and no farther than as we act agreeably to the laws of CHRIST [ESUS, are we any way conformable to the laws of right reason. His fervice is therefore called "a reafonable fervice." And however his fervants and followers may now be looked upon as fools and madmen; yet there will come a time, when those who despise and fet themfelves to oppose divine revelation, will find, that what they now call reafon, is only reafon depraved, and as utterly incapable, of itfelf, to guide us into the way of peace, or fhew the way of falvation, as the men of Sodom were to find Lot's door after they were ftruck with blindnefs by the angels, who came to lead him out of the city. The horrid and dreadful miftakes, which the most refined reasoners in the heathen world ran into, both as to the object, as well as manner of divine worfhip, have fufficiently demonstrated the weakness and depravity of human reason : nor do our modern boafters afford us any better proofs of the greatness of its ftrength, fince the beft improvement they generally make of it, is only to reason themselves into downright wilful infidelity, and thereby reason themselves out of eternal falvation. Need we now any further witness, that man, fallen man, is altogether a piece of marred clay?

But this is not all, we have yet more evidence to call; for do the blindness of our understandings, the perverseness of our will, the rebellion of our affections, the corruption of our conficiences, the depravity of our reason prove this charge; and does not the present disordered frame and constitution of our bedies confirm the same also? Doubtless in this respect, man, in

in the most literal sense of the word, is a piece of marred clay. For GOD originally made him of the " dust of the earth." So that notwithstanding our boasting of our high pedigrees, and different descent, we were all originally upon a level, and a little red earth was the common substratum out of which we were all formed. Clay indeed it was, but clay wonderfully modified, even by the immediate hands of the Creator of heaven and earth. One therefore hath observed, that it is faid "Gop built the man;" he did not form him rashly or hastily. but built and finished him according to the plan before laid down in his own eternal mind. And though, as the great GOD is without body, parts, or passions, we cannot suppose when it is faid "GoD made man after his own image," that it has any reference to his body, yet I cannot help thinking (with Doctor South) that as the eternal Logos was hereafter to appear, God manifest in the flesh, infinite wildom was undoubtedly exerted in forming a cafket into which fo invaluable a pearl was in the fulness of time to be deposited. Some of the ancients are faid to have afferted, that man at the first. had what we call a glory fhining round him; but without attempting to be wife above what is written, we may venture w affirm, that he had a glorious body, which knowing no fin, knew neither fickness nor pain. But now on this, as well as other accounts, he may justly be called Ichabod; for its primitive firength and glory are fadly departed from it, and like the ruins of fome ancient and flately fabric, only fo much left as to give us fome faint idea of what it was when it first appeared in its original and perfect beauty. The apostle Paul, therefore, who knew how to call things by their proper names, as well as any man living, does not fcruple to term the human body, though in its original conflictution fearfully and wonderfully made, a " vile body;" vile indeed ! fince it is subject to such vile diseases, put to such vile, yea very vile uses, and at length is to come to so vile an end. "For dust we are, and to dust we must return." This among other confiderations, we may well fuppofe, caufed the bleffed JESUS to weep at the grave of Lazarus. He wept, not only because his friend Lazarus was dead, but he wept to fee human nature, through man's own default, thus laid in ruins, by being fubject unto fuch a disolution, made like unto the beafts that perifh.

Let us here pause a while, and with our fympathizing LORD, see if we cannot shed a few filent tears at least, upon the same forrowful occasion. Who, who is there amongst us, that upon such a melancholy review of man's present, real, and most deplorable depravity both in body and soul, can refrain from weeping over such a piece of marred clay? Who, who can help adopting holy David's lamentation over Saul and Jonathan? "How are the mighty fallen! How are they flain in their high places!" Originally it was not fo. No, "GOD made man after his own image: in the image of GOD made he man." Never was there so much expressed in fo few words. He was created after GOD in righteousness and true holines.

This is the account, which the facred volume gives us of this interesting point. This, this is that bleffed book, that book of books, from whence, together with an appeal to the experience of our own hearts, and the testimonies of all past ages, we have thought proper to fetch our proofs. For, after all, we must be obliged to divine revelation, to know what we were, what we are, and what we are to be. In these, as in a true glass, we may see our real and proper likenels. And from these only can we trace the source and sountain of all those innumerable evils, which like a deluge have overflowed the natural and moral world. If any fhould object against the authenticity of this revelation, and confequently against the doctrine this day drawn from thence, they do in my opinion thereby very much confirm it. For unlefs a man was very much difordered indeed, as to his understanding, will, affections, natural confcience, and his power of reasoning, he could never possibly deny such a revelation, which is founded on a multiplicity of infallible external evidences, hath fo many internal evidences of a divine stamp in every page, is fo fuited to the common exigencies of all mankind, to agreeable to the experience of all men, and which hath been fo wonderfully handed and preferved to us, hath been fo inftrumental to the convicting, converting, and comforting fo many millions of fouls, and hath ftood the teft of the most severe scrutinies, and exact criticifms of the most subtle and refined, as well as of the most malicious and perfecuting enemies, that ever lived, even from the beginning of time to this very day. Perfons of fuch a turn turn of mind, I think, are rather to be prayed for, than difputed with, if so be this perverse wickedness of their hearts may be forgiven them : " They are in the very gall of bitternefs, and must have " their confciences feared as it were with a red-hot iron," and must have their eyes " blinded by the Gop of this world," otherwife they could not but fee, and feel, and affent to the truth of this doctrine, of man's being univerfally depraved; which not only in one or two, but in oneor two thousands, in every page, I could almost fay, is written, in such legible characters, that he that runs may read. Indeed, revelation itself is founded upon the doctrine of the fall. Had we kept our original integrity, the law of GOD would have yet been written in our hearts, and thereby the want of a divine revelation, at least fuch as ours, would have been superseded; but being fallen, instead of rising in rebellion against GOD, we ought to be filled with unspeakable thankfulness to our all bountiful Creator, who by a few lines in his own books hath discovered more to us, than all the philosophers and most learned men in the world could, or would, have discovered, though they had fludied to all eternity.

I am well aware, that fome who pretend to own the validity of divine revelation, are notwith ftanding enemies to the doctrine that hath this day been delivered; and would fain elude the force of the proofs generally urged in defence of it, by faying, they only befpeak the corruption of particular perfons, or have reference only to the heathen world: but fuch perfons err, not knowing their own hearts, or the power of JESUS CHRIST: for by fature there is no difference between Jew or Gentile, Greek or Barbarian, bond or free. We are altogether equally become abominable in GoD's fight, all equally fallen fhort of the glory of GoD, and confequently all alike fo many pieces of marred clay.

How God came to fuffer man to fall ? how long man flood before he fell ? and how the corruption contracted by the fall, is propagated to every individual of his fpecies ? are queftions of fuch an abstrufe and critical nature; that should I undertake to answer them; would be only gratifying a finful curiosity, and tempting you, as Satan tempted our first parents; to eat forbidden fruit. It will much better answer the defign of this prefent discourse, which is practical, to pass

II. To the next thing proposed, and point out to you the absolute necessity there is of this fallen nature's being renewed.

This I have had all along in my eye, and on account of this, have purpofely been fo explicit on the first general head: for has Archimedes once faid, "Give me a place where I may "fix my foot, and I will move the world;" fo without the least imputation of arrogance, with which, perhaps, he was justly chargeable, we may venture to fay, grant the foregoing doctrine to be true, and then deny the necessfity of man's being renewed who can.

I suppose, I may take it for granted, that all of you amongst whom I am now preaching the kingdom of GOD, hope after death to go to a place which we call Heaven. And my heart's defire and prayer to GOD for you is, that you all may have manfions prepared for you there. But give me leave to tell you, was you now to fee thefe heavens opened, and the angel (to use the words of the seraphic Hervey) cloathed with all his heavenly drapery, with one foot upon the earth, and another upon the fea; nay, were you to fee and hear the angel of the everlasting covenant, JESUS CHRIST himself, proclaiming "time shall be no more," and giving you all an invitation immediately to come to heaven; heaven would be no heaven to you, nay it would be a hell to your fouls, unless you were first prepared for a proper enjoyment of it here on earth. " For what communion hath light with darknefs ?" Or what fellowship could unrenewed fons of Belial possibly keep up with the pure and immaculate JESUS?

The generality of people form firange ideas of heaven. And because the scriptures, in condescension to the weakness of our capacities, describe it by images taken from earthly delights and human grandeur, therefore they are apt to carry their thoughts no higher, and at the best only form to themfelves a kind of Mahometan paradife. But permit me to tell you, and GoD grant it may fink deep into your hearts ! Heaven is rather a flate than a place; and consequently, unless Vol. V. O you you are previously disposed by a fuitable flate of mind, you could not be happy even in heaven itself. For what is grace but glory militant? What is glory but grace triumphant? This confideration made a ploue author say, that " holiness, "happiness, and heaven, were only three different words for one " and the felf-fame thing." And this made the great Preform, when he was about to die, turn to his friends, faying, " I am " changing my place, but not my company." He had converfed with GoD and good men on earth; he was going to keep up the fame, and infinitely more refined communion with GoD, his holy angels, and the spirits of just men made perfect, in heaven.

To make us meet to be blifsful partakers of fuch heavenly company, this "marred clay," I mean, these depraved natures of ours, must necessarily undergo an universal moral change: our understandings must be enlightened; our wills, reason, and confciences, must be renewed; our affections must be drawn toward, and fixed upon things above; and because field and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of heaven, this corruptible must put on incorruption, this mortal must put on immortality. And thus old things must literally pass away, and behold all things, even the body as well as the faculties of the foul, must become new.

This moral change is what fome call, repentance, fome, conversion, some, regeneration; choose what name you please, I only pray Gop, that we all may have the thing. scriptures call it holinels, fanctification, the new creature, and our LORD calls it a " New birth, or being born again, or born from above." These are not barely figurative expresfions, or the flights of eastern language, nor do they barely denote a relative change of flate conferred on all those who are admitted into CHRIST's church by baptism; but they denote a real, moral change of heart and life, a real participation of the divine life in the foul of man. Some indeed content themselves with a figurative interpretation; but unless they are made to experience the power and efficacy thereof, by a folid living experience in their own fouls, all their learning, all their laboured criticisms, will not exempt them from a real damnation. CHRIST hath faid it, and CHRIST will fland, " Unlefs a man," learned or unlearned, high or low, though he

he be a master of Ifrael as Nicodemus was, unless he " be born again, he cannot see, he cannot enter into the kingdom of Goo."

If it be enquired, who is to be the potter ? and by whole agency this marred clay is to be formed into another veffel ? Or in other words, if it be afked, how this great and mighty change is to be effected ? I answer, not by the mere dint and force of moral fuafion. This is good in its place. And I am to far from thinking, that christian preachers should not make use of rational arguments and motives in their fermons, that I cannot think they are fit to preach at all, who either cannot, or will not use them. We have the example of the great GoD himfelf for fuch a practice; " Come (fays he) and let us reason together." And St. Paul, that prince of preachers, " reasoned of temperance, and righteousness, and a judgment to come." And it is remarkable, " that whilft he was reasoning of these things, Felix trembled." Nor are the most perfuasive strains of holy rhetoric less needful for a fcribe ready instructed to the kingdom of GOD. The fcriptures both of the Old and New Testament, every where abound with them. And when can they be more properly employed, and brought forth, than when we are acting as ambaffadors of heaven, and befeeching poor finners, as in CHRIST's flead, to be reconciled unto GoD. All this we readily grant. But at the fame time, I would as foon go to yonder church-yard, and attempt to raife the dead carcafes, with a " come forth," as to preach to dead fouls, did I not hope for fome fuperior power to make the word effectual to the defigned end. I should only be like a founding brass for any faving purposes, or as a tinkling cymbal. Neither is this change to be wrought by the power of 'our own free-will. This is an idol every where fet up, but we dare not fall down and worfip it. "No man (fays CHRIST) can come to me, unlefs the Father draw him." Our own free-will, if improved, may reftrain us from the commission of many evils, and put us in the way of conversion; but, after exerting our utmost efforts (and we are bound in duty to exert them) we shall find the words of our own church article to be true, that " man fince " the fall hath no power to turn to GoD." No, we might as foon attempt to ftop the ebbing and flowing of the tide, Q 2 and and calm the most tempestuous sea, as to imagine that we can fubdue, or bring under proper regulations, our own unruly wills and affections by any strength inherent in ourfelves.

And therefore, that I may keep you no longer in fuspence. I inform you, that this heavenly potter, this bleffed agent, is the Almighty Spirit of GOD, the Holy Ghoft, the third perfon in the most adorable Trinity, coeffential with the Father and the Son. This is that Spirit, which at the beginning of time moved on the face of the waters, when nature lay in one universal chaos. This was the Spirit that overfhadowed the Holy Virgin, before that holy thing was born of her : and this fame Spirit must come, and move upon the chaos of our fouls, before we can properly be called the fons of GOD. This is what John the haptift calls " being baptized with the Holy Ghoft," without which, his and all other baptisms, whether infant or adult, avail nothing. This is that fire, which our LORD came to fend into our earthly hearts, and which I pray the LORD of all lords to kindle in every unrenewed one this day,

As for the extraordinary operations of the Holy Ghoft, fuch as working of miracles, or fpeaking with divers kinds of tongues, they are long fince ceafed. But as for this miracle of miracles, turning the foul to GoD by the more ordinary operations of the Holy Ghoft, this abides yet, and will abide till time itfelf fhall be no more. For it is he that fanctifieth us, and all the elect people of GoD. On this account, true believers are faid to be " born from above, to be born not of blood, nor of the will of the flefth, nor of the will of man, but of GoD." Their fecond, as well as their firft creation, is truly and purely divine. It is, therefore, called " a creation;" but put ye on (fays the apoftle) the new man which is ereated"—And how? Even as the firft man was, " after GoD in righteousness and true holines."

Thefe, thefe are the precious truths, which a fcoffing world would fain rally or ridicule us out of. To produce this glorious change, this new creation, the glorious JESUS left his Father's bofom. For this he led a perfecuted life; for this he died an ignominious and accurfed death; for this he rofe again; and for this he now fitteth at the right hand of

of his Father. All the precepts of his gospel, all his ordinances. all his providences, whether of an afflictive or prosperous nature, all divine revelation from the beginning to the end, all center in these two points, to shew us how we are fallen; and to begin, carry on, and compleat a glorious and bleffed change in our fouls. This is an end worthy of the coming of fo divine a perfonage. To deliver a multitude of fouls of every nation, language and tongue, from fo many moral evils, and to reinftate them in an incomparably more excellent condition than that from whence they are fallen, is an end worthy the fhedding of fuch precious blood. What fystem of religion is there now, or was there ever exhibited to the world, any way to be compared to this? Can the deiftical scheme pretend in any degree to come up to it? Is it not noble, rational, and truly divine? And why then will not all that hitherto are ftrangers to this bleffed reftoration of their fallen natures. (for my heart is too full to abitain any longer from an application) why will you any longer dispute or stand out against it? Why will you not rather bring your clay to this heavenly Potter, and fay from your inmost fouls, " Turn us, O good LORD, and fo shall we be turned !" This, you may and can do: and if you go thus far, who knows but that this yery day, yea this very hour, the heavenly Potter may take you in hand, and make you veffels of honour fit for the Redeemer's use? Others that were once as far from the kingdom of Gon as you are, have been pattakers of this bleffedness. What a wretched creature was Mary Magdalene? And yet out of her TESUS CHRIST caft feven devils. Nay, he appeared to her first, after he role from the dead, and she became as it were an apostle to the very apostles. What a coverous creature was Zaccheus? He was a griping cheating publican; and vet, perhaps, in one quarter of an hour's time, his heart is enlarged, and he made quite willing to give half of his goods to feed the poor. And to mention no more, what a cruel perion was Paul. He was a perfecutor, a blasphemer, injurious; one that breathed out threatnings against the disciples of the LORD, and made havor of the church of CHRIST. And yet what a wonderful turn did he meet with, as he was journeying to Damascus? from a persecutor, he became a preacher; was afterwards made a spiritual father to thousands, and now probably 03

bably fits nearest the LORD JESUS CHRIST in glory. And why all this? That he might be made an example to them that thould hereafter believe. O then believe, repent; I befeech you, believe the gospel. Indeed, it is glad tidings, even tidings of great joy. You will then no longer have any thing to fay against the doctrine of Original Sin; or charge the Almighty foolilhly, for fuffering our first parents to be prevailed on to eat fuch four grapes, and permitting thereby their children's teeth to be fet on edge. You will then no longer cry out against the doctrine of the New Birth, as enthuliafm, or brand the affertors of fuch bleffed truths with the opprobrious names of fools and madmen. Having felt, you will then believe; having believed, you will therefore fpeak; and inflead of being veffels of wrath, and growing harder and harder in hell fire, like vessels in a potter's oven, you will be made vessels of honour, and be prefented at the great day by JESUS, to his heavenly Father, and be translated to live with him as monuments of rich, free, diffinguishing and fovereign grace, for ever and ever.

You, that have in some degree experienced the quickening influence (for I must not conclude without dropping a word or two to Gon's children) you know how to pity, and therefore, I beleech you also to pray for those, to whose circumfances this discourse is peculiarly adapted. But will you be content in praying for them ? Will you not fee reason to pray . for yourfelves alfo ? Yes, doubtlefs, for yourfelves alfo, For you, and you only know, how much there is yet lacking in your faith, and how far you are from being partakers in that degree, which you defire to be, of the whole mind that was in CHRIST JESUS. You know what a body of fin and death you carry about with you, and that you must necessarily expect many turns of GoD's providence and grace, before you will be wholly delivered from it. But thanks be to GOD, we are in fafe hands. He that has been the author, will also be the finisher of our faith. Yet a little while, and we like him shall fay " It is finished ;" we shall bow down our heads and give up the ghoft. Till then, (for to thee, O LORD, will we now direct our prayer) help us, O Almighty Father, in patience to poffels our fouls. Behold, we are the clay, and thous art the Potter. formed it, whatever the dispensations of thy future Will concerning us may be, Why dost thou deal with us thus? Behold, we put ourselves as blanks in thine hands, deal with us as seemeth good in thy fight, only let every cross, every affliction, every temptation, be overruled to the stamping thy bleffed image in more lively characters on our hearts; that so passing from glory to glory, by the powerful operations of thy bleffed Spirit, we may be made thereby more and more meet for, and at last be translated to a full, perfect, endless, and uninterrupted enjoyment of glory hereafter, with thee O Father, thee O Son, and thee O bleffed Spirit; to whom, three perfons but one GOD, be afcribed, as is most due, all honour, power, might, majesty and dominion, now and to all eternity. The LORD our Righteousnes.

Jeremiah XXIII. 6.

The LORD our Righteousness.

HOEVER is acquainted with the nature of mankind in general, or the propenfity of his own heart in particular, must acknowledge, that felf-righteousness is the last idol that is rooted out of the heart : being once born under a covenant of works, it is natural for us all to have recourse to a covenant of works, for our everlasting falvation. And we have contracted fuch a devilish pride, by our fall from GoD, that we would, if not wholly, yet in part at leaft, glory in being the caufe of our own falvation. We cry out against popery, and that very justly; but we are all Papists, at leaft. I am fure, we are all Arminians by nature; and therefore no wonder fo many natural men embrace that scheme. It is true, we disclaim the doctrine of merit, are ashamed directly to fay we deferve any good at the hands of GOD; therefore, as the Apostle excellently well observes. " we go about," we fetch a circuit, " to establish a righteoufnefs of our own, and," like the Pharifees of old, " will not wholly fubmit to that righteousness which is of GoD through JESUS CHRIST our LORD."

This is the foreft, though, alas! the most common evil that was ever yet seen under the fun. An evil, that in any age, especially in these dregs of time wherein we live, cannot fufficiently be inveighed against. For as it is with the people, so it is with the priests; and it is to be feared, even in those places, where once the truth as it is in JESUS was eminently preached, many ministers are so fadly degenerated from their pious ancestors, that the doctrines of grace, especially the personal, all-fufficient righteoufness of JESUS, is but too seldom, too slightly mentioned. Hence the love of many waxeth cold; and I have often thought, was it possible, that this single consideration would be sufficient to raise our venerable forefathers again from their graves; who would thunder in their ears their fatal error.

The righteouíneis of JESUS CHRIST is one of thole great myfteries, which the angels defire to look into, and feems to be one of the first lessons that GOD taught men after the fall. For, what were the coats that GOD made to put on our first parents, but types of the application of the merits or righteousness of JESUS CHRIST to believers hearts? We are told, that thole coats were made of skins of beass; and, as beass were not then food for men, we may fairly infer, that thole beasts were flain in facrifice, in commemoration of the great facrifice, JESUS CHRIST, thereaster to be offered. And the skins of the beasts thus flain, being put on Adam and Eve, they were hereby taught how their nakedness was to be covered with the righteousness of the Lamb of GOD.

This is it which is meant, when we are told, "Abraham believed on the LORD, and it was accounted to him for righteousness." In short, this is it of which both the law and the prophets have spoken, especially Jeremiab in the words of the text, "The LORD our righteousness."

I propose, through divine grace,

I. I am to confider who we are to understand by the word LORD. The LORD our righteousness.

If any Arians or Socinians are drawn by curiofity to hear what the babler has to fay, let them be alhamed of denying the divinity of that LORD, who has bought poor finners with his precious blood. For the perfon mentioned in the text, under the character of the LORD, is JEBUS CHRIST. Ver. 5. " Behold, the days come, faith the LORD, that I will raife unto David a rightcous branch, a king shall reign and profper, and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth. In his days (ver. 6.) Judah thall be faved, and Ifrael shall dwell fafely; and this is his name whereby he shall be called. The LORD our righteousness." By the righteous branch, all agree, that we are to understand JESUS CHRIST. He it is that is called the LORD in our text. If fo, if there were no other text in the Bible to prove the divinity of CHRIST, this is fufficient: for if the word Lord may properly belong to JESUS CHRIST, he must be Gop. And, as you have it in the margin of your Bibles, the word Lord is in the original Jehowah, which is the effential title of Gon himself. Come then, ye Arians, kiss the Son of God, bow down before him, and honour him, eyen as ye honour the Father. Learn of the angels, those morning-stars, and worthip him as truly GOD : for otherwise you are as much idolators, as those that worthip the Virgin Mary. And as for you Socinians, who fay CHRIST was a mere man, and yet profess that he was your Saviour, according to your own principles you are accurfed : for, if CHRIST be a mere man, then he is only an arm of fleth : and it is written, " Curfed is he that trufteth on an arm of flefh." But I would hope, there are no fuch monsters here; at least, that, after these confiderations, they would be ashamed of broaching fuch monftrous abfurdities any more. For it is plain, that, by the word Lord, we are to understand the LORD JESUS CHRIST, who here takes to himfelf the title of Jehovah, and therefore must be very GOD of very GOD; or, as the Apostle devoutly expresses it, " Gon bleffed for evermore."

II. How the LORD is to be man's righteouinefs, comes next to be confidered.

And that is, in one word, by imputation. For it pleafed Gop. after he had made all things by the word of his power. to create man after his own image. And to infinite was the condescension of the high and lofty One, who inhabiteth eternity, that, although he might have infifted on the everlafting obedience of him and his posterity ; yet he was pleafed to oblige himfelf, by a covenant or agreement made with his own creatures, upon condition of an unfinning obedience. to give them immortality and eternal life. For when it is faid, " The day thou eatest thereof, thou shalt furely die;" we may fairly infer, fo long as he continued obedient, and did not eat thereof, he should furely live, The 2d of Genelis gives us a full, but mournful account, how our first parents broke this covenant, and thereby flood in need of a better righteoufnels than their own, in order to procure their future acceptance with GOD. For what must they do ? They were as much under a covenant of works as ever. And though, after their disobedience, they were without ftrength ; yet they were obliged not only to do, but continue to do all things. and that too in the most perfect manner, which the LORD had required of them : and not only fo, but to make fatisfac-- tion to GoD's infinitely offended justice, for the breach they had already been guilty of. Here then opens the amazing scene of divine philanthropy; I mean, GoD's love to man: For behold, what man could not do, JESUS CHRIST, the fon of his Father's love, undertakes to do for him. And that Gop might be just in justifying the ungodly, though " he was in the form of GOD, and therefore thought it no robbery to be equal with GOD; yet he took upon him the form of a Tervant," even human nature. In that nature he obeyed, and thereby fulfilled the whole moral law in our flead; and alfo died a painful death upon the crofs, and thereby became a curfe for, or inflead of, those whom the Father had given to As GOD, he fatisfied, at the fame time that he obeyed him. and fuffered as man; and, being GOD and man in one perfan, he wrought out a full, perfect, and fufficient righteoufness for all to whom it was to be imputed.

Here then we fee the meaning of the word righteeufnefs. It implies the active as well as paffive obedience of the LORD JESUS CHRIST. We generally, when talking of the merits of CHRIST, buly mention the latter,-his death ; whereas, the former,-his life and active obedience, is equally neceffary. CHRIST is not fuch a faviour as becomes us, unless we join both together. CHRIST not only died, but lived; not only fuffered, but obeyed for, or instead of, poor finners. Anđ both these jointly make up that compleat righteousness, which is to be imputed to us, as the difobedience of our first parents was made ours by imputation. In this fense, and no other, are we to understand that parallel which the apostle Paul draws, in the vth of the Romans, between the first and second Adam. This is what he elsewhere terms, " our being made the righteousness of GOD in him." This is the sense wherein the Prophet would have us to understand the words of the text ; therefore, Yer. xxxiii. 16. " She (i. e. the church iffelf) shall be called, (having this righteoufness imputed to her) The LORD our righteousnefs." A passage, I think, worthy of the profoundeft meditation of all the fons and daughters of Abraham.

Many are the objections which the proud hearts of fallen men are continually urging against this wholesome, this divine, this foul-faving doctrine. I come now, III. To answer some few of those which I think the most considerable.

And, Firft, they fay, because they would appear friends to morality, "That the doctrine of an imputed righteousness is "deftructive of good works, and leads to licentiousness."

And who, pray, are the perfons that generally urge this objection? Are they men full of faith, and men really concerned for good works? No; whatever few exceptions there may be, if there be any at all, it is notorious, they are generally men of corrupt minds, reprobate concerning the faith. The beft title I can give them is, that of profane moralifs, or moralifs falfely fo called. For I appeal to the experience of the prefent as well as paft ages, if iniquity did and does not most abound, where the doctrine of CHRIST's whole perfonal righteoufnefs is most cried down, and most feldom mentioned : Arminian being antichriftian principles, always did, and always will lead to antichriftian practices. And never was there a reformation brought about in the church, but but by the preaching the doctrine of an imputed righteouinefs. This, as that man of GOD, Luther, calls it, is "Articulus Mantis aut cadentis Ecclefice," the article by which the Church ftands or falls. And though the preachers of this doctrine are generally branded by those on the other fide, with the opprobrious names of Antinomians, deceivers, and what not; yet, I believe, if the truth of the doctrine on both fides was to be judged of by the lives of the preachers and professors of it, on our fide the question would have the advantage every way.

It is true, this, as well as every other doctrine of grace, may be abused. And perhaps the unchristian walk of some. who have talked of CHRIST's imputed righteousness, justification by faith, and the like, and yet never felt it imputed to their own fouls, has given the enemies of the LORD thus cause to blaspheme. But this is a very unsafe, as well as a very unfair way of arguing. The only question should be, Whether or not this doctrine of an imputed righteousnels, does in itfelf out off the occasion of good works, or lead to li-To this we may boldly answer, In no wife. centoufnefs ? It excludes works, indeed, from being any caufe of our justification in the fight of GOD ; but it requires good works as a proof of our having this righteousness imputed to us, and as a declarative evidence of our justification in the fight of men. And then, how can the doctrine of an imputed righteousness be a doctrine-leading to licentioufnefs ?

It is all calumny. The apoftle Paul introduceth an infidel making this objection, in his epiftle to the Romans; and none but infidels, that never felt the power of CHRIST's refurrection upon their fouls, will urge it over again. And therefore, notwithftanding this objection, with the Prophet in the text, we may boldly fay, " The LORD is our righteoufnefs."

But Satan (and no wonder that his fervants imitate him) often transforms himfelf into an angel of light : and therefore, (fuch perverfe things will infidelity and Arminianifm make men fpeak) in order to drefs their objections in the beft colours, fome urge, " That our Saviour preached no fuch " doctrine; that in his fermon on the mount, he mentions " only morality :" and confequently the doctrine of an imputed righteoufnefs falls wholly to the ground.

Digitized by Google

But

But furely the men, who urge this objection, either never read, or never underflood, our Lok D's bleffed difcourfe, wherein the doctrine of an imputed rightcoufnefs is fo plainly taught, that he who runs, if he has eyes that fee, may read.

Indeed our LORD does recommend morality and good works, (as all faithful minifiers will do) and clears the moral law from many corrupt gloffes put upon it by the letterlearned Pharikes. But then, before he comes to this, 'tis remarkable, he talks of inward piety, fuch as poverty of spirit, meekness, holy mourning, purity of heart, efpecially hungring and thirfting after righteoufnefs; and then recommends good works, as an evidence of our having his righteoufnefs imputed to us, and these grees and divine tempers wrought in our hearts. " Let your light (that is, the divine light I before have been mentioning) fhine before men, in a holy life; that they, feeing your good works, may glorify your father which is in heaven." And then he immediately adds, " Think not that I am come to deftroy the moral law: I came not to defiroy, (to take away the force of it as a rule of life) but to fulfil, (to obey it in its whole latitude, and give the complet fenfe of it.") And then he goes on to flew how exceeding broad the moral law is. So that our LORD, inflead of fetting alide an imputed righteoufnels in his fermion upon the mount, not only confirms it, but allo answers the foregoing objection urged against it, by making good works a proof and evidence of its being imputed to our fouls. He, therefore, that hath ears to hear, let him hear what the Prophet fays in the words of the text, " The LORD out righteoufnels."

But as Satan not only quoted feripture, but backed one temptation after another with it, when he attacked CHRIST in the wildernefs; fo his children generally take the fame method in treating his doctrine. And, therefore, they urge another objection against the doctrine of an imputed righteoufnefs, from the example of the young man in the gospel.

We may flave it thus: " The Evangelift Mark, fay they, " chap. x. mentions a young man that came to CHRIST, " running, and afking him what he flould do to inherit eterf nal life? CHRIST referred him to the commandments, to " know ⁴⁶ know what he must do to inherit eternal life. It is plain, ⁴⁶ therefore, works were to be, partly at least, the cause of ⁴⁶ his juffification: and consequently the doctrine of an im-⁴⁶ puted righteousness is unforipetral." This is the objection in its full strength: and little strength in all its fulness. For, was I to prove the necessity of an imputed righteousness, I fearee know how I could bring a better instance to make it good.

Let us take a nearer view of this young man, and of our LORD's behaviour towards him, Mark x. 17. the Evangelift tells us, " That when CHRIST was gone forth into the way, there came one running (it should feem it was fome nobleman; a rarity indeed to fee fuch a one running to CHRIST !) and not only fo, but he kneeled to him, (perhaps many of his rank now, fcarce knew the time when they kneeled to CHRIST) and afked him, faying, Good Mafter, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life ?" Then JESUS, to fee whether or not he believed him to be what he really was, truly and properly GOD, faid unto him, "Why callest thou me good ? There is none good but one, that is GoD." And, that he might directly answer his question, fays he, " Thou knowest the commandments: do not commit adultery, do not bear falfe witness, defraud not, honour thy father and thy mother." This was a direct answer to his question; namely, That eternal life was not to be attained by his doings. For our LORD, by referring him to the commandments, did not (as the objectors infinuate) in the leaft hint, that his morality would recommend him to the favour and mercy of GoD : but he intended thereby, to make the law his feboolmafter to bring him to himfelf; that the young man, feeing how he had broken every one of these commandments, might thereby be convinced of the infufficiency of his own, and confequently of the absolute necessity of looking out for a better righteoufnefs, whereon he might depend for eternal life.

This was what our Lord defigned. The young man being felf-righteous, and willing to juftify himfelf, faid, "All these have I observed from my youth:" but had he known himfelf, he would have confessed, all these have I broken from my youth. For, supposing he had not actually committed adultery, had he never lusted after a woman in his heart? What, if he had not really killed another, had he never been angry without a caufe, or fpoken unadvifedly with his lips? If fo, by breaking one of the leaft commandments in the leaft degree, he became liable to the curfe of GOD: for " curfed is he (faith the law) that continueth not to do all things that are written in this book." And therefore, as obferved before, our LORD was fo far from fpeaking against, that he treated the young man in that manner, on purpose to convince him of the necessity of an imputed righteousness.

But perhaps they will reply, it is faid, " JESUS beholding him. loved him." And what then ? This he might do with a human love, and at the fame time this young man have no interest in his blood. Thus CHRIST is faid to wonder, to weep over Ferusalem, and fay, "O that thou hadft known, &c." But fuch-like paffages are to be referred only to his human nature. And there is a great deal of difference between the love wherewith CHRIST loved this young man, and that wherewith he loved Mary, Lazarus, and their fifter Martha. To illustrate this by a comparison : A minister of the LORD TESUS CHRIST feeing many amiable dispositions, such as a readiness to hear the word, a decent behaviour at public worship, and a life outwardly spotless in many, cannot but so far love them; but then there is much difference betwixt the love which a minister feels for such, and that divine love, that union and fympathy of foul, which he feels for those that he is fatisfied are really born again of GOD. Apply this to our LORD's case, as a faint illustration of it. Confider what has been faid upon the young man's cafe in general, and then, if before you were fond of this objection, instead of triumphing, like him you will go forrowful away. Our Saviour's reply to him more and more convinces us of the truth of the prophet's affertion in the text, that " the LORD is our righteoufnefs."

But there is a fourth, and a grand objection yet behind, which is taken from the 25th chapter of Matthew, "where "our LORD is defcribed as rewarding people with eternal "life, because they fed they hungry, cloathed the naked, and "fuch-like. Their works therefore were a cause of their "juftification, consequently the doctrine of imputed righte-"ous for a greeable to scripture."

Digitized by Google

This,

This, I confeis, is the moft plaufible objection that is brought against the doctrine infisted on from the text; and that we may answer it in as clear and brief a manner as may be, we confeis, with the Article of the Church of England; "That albeit good works do not justify us, yet they will "follow after justification, as fruits of it; and though they can claim no reward in themselves, yet forafmirch as they fring from faith in CHRIST, and a renewed foul; they shall receive a reward of grace, though not of debt; and confeture quently the more we abound in such good words, the greater will be our reward when JESUS CHRIST shall come to "idgment:"

Take these confiderations along with us, and they will help us much to answer the objection now before us. For thus faith Matthew, " Then shall the King fay to them on his right hand, Come, ye bleffed children of my Father; inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. For I was an hungred; and ye gave me meat; I was thirfly; and ye gave me drink, I was a ftranger; and ye took me in; naked, and ye cloathed me ; I was lick, and ye vilited me ; I was in prilon, and ye came unto me. I will therefore reward you, becaule you have done these things out of love to me, and hereby have evidenced yourfelves to be my true disciples." And that the people did not depend on these good actions for their justification in the fight of God; is evident. "For when faw we thee f an hungred, fay they, and fed thee? or thirfty, and gave " thee drink ? When faw we thee a ftranger, and took thee in, " or naked; and cloathed thee ? Or when faw we thee fick, 46 or in prifon; and came into thee ?" Language, and queftions, duite improper for perfons relying on their own righteoufness, for acceptance and acquittance in the fight of Gop.

But then they reply against this: " In the latter part of the "chapter, it is plain that JESUS CHRIST rejects and damns "the others for not doing these things. And therefore, if "he damns these for not doing; he saves those for doing ; "and confequently the doctrine of an imputed righteousness "is good for nothing."

But that is no confequence at all; for GOD may juftly damn any man for omitting the leaft duty of the moral law, and yet in himfelf is not obliged to give to any one any re-VOL..V. P * * ward, ward, fuppoling he has done all that he can. We are unprofitable servants; we have not done near so much as it was out duty to do, must be the language of the most holy fouls living; and therefore, from or in ourfelves, cannot be justified in the fight of GoD. This was the frame of the devout fouls just now referred to. Senfible of this, they were fo far from depending on their works for justification in the fight of GOD, that they were filled, as it were, with a holy blufhing, to think our LORD should condescend to mention, much more to reward them for, their poor works of faith and labours of I am perfuaded their hearts would rife with a holy inlove. dignation against those who urge this passage, as an objection to the affertion of the prophet, that " the LORD is our righteoutnels."

Thus, I think, we have fairly answered these grand objections, which are generally urged against the doctrine of an imputed righteousnels. Was I to stop here, I think I may fay, "We are made more than conquerors through him that loved us." But there is a way of arguing which I have always admired, because I have thought it always very convincing, by schewing the abfurdities that will follow from denying any particular proposition in dispute.

IV. This is the next thing that was proposed. And never did greater or more absurdities flow from the denying any doctrine, than will flow from denying the doctrine of CHRIST's imputed righteousness.

And first, if we deny this doctrine, we turn the truth, I mean the word of GOD, as much as we can, into a lie, and utterly fubvert all those places of foripture which fay that we are faved by grace; that it is not of works, left any man fhould boaft; that falvation is GOD's free gift; and that he who glorieth, must glory only in the LORD. For, if the whole perforal righteousness of JESUS CHRIST be not the fole cause of my acceptance with GOD, if any work done by or foreseen in me, was in the least to be joined with it, or looked upon by GOD as an inducing, impulsive cause of acquitting my foul from guilt, then I have somewhat whereof I may glory in myself. Now boasting is excluded in the great work of our redemption; but that cannot be, if we are enemics mies to the doctrine of an imputed righteousness. It would be endless to enumerate how many texts of scripture must be false, if this doctrine be not true. Let it suffice to affirm in the general, that if we deny an imputed righteousness, we may as well deny a divine revelation all at once: for it is the alpha and omega, the beginning and the end of the book of GOD. We must either difbelieve that, or believe what the prophet hath spoken in the text, "that the LORD is our righteousness."

But farther: I observed at the beginning of this difcourse, that we are all Arminians and Papists by nature: for as one fays, "Arminianism is the back way to popery." And here I venture further to affirm, that if we deny the doctrine of an imputed righteousness, whatever we may stile ourselves, we are really Papists in our hearts, and deferve no other title from men.

Sirs, what think you? Suppofe I was to come and tell you, that you muft intercede with faints, for them to intercede. with GoD for you; would you not then fay; I was juftly reputed a popifh miffionary by fome, and defervedly thruft out of the fynagogues by others? I fuppofe you would. And why? Becaufe, you would fay, the interceffion of JESUS CHRIST was fufficient of itfelf, without the interceffion of faints; and that it was blafphemous to join theirs with his, as though it. was not fufficient.

, Suppose I went a little more round about; and told you that the death of CHRIST was not sufficient, without our death being added to it; that you must die as well as CHRIST, join your death with his, and then it would be fufficient. Might you not then, with a holy indignation, throw duft in the air, and juftly call me a " fetter forth of ftrange doctrines ?" And now then, if it be not only absurd, but blafphemous, to join the interceffion of faints with the interceffion of CHRIST, as though his intercession was not sufficient : or our death with the death of CHRIST, as though his death was not fufficient: judge ye, if it be not equally ablurd. equally blafphemous, to join our obedience, either wholly or in part, with the obedience of CHRIST, as if that was not fufficient. And if fo, what abfurdities will follow the deny-P 2 ing 1

ing that the LORD, both as to his active and paffive obediaence, is our righteoufnefs?

One more absurdity I shall mention, as following the denying this doctrine, and I have done.

I remember a ftory of a certain prelate, who, after many arguments in vain urged to convince the Earl of Rochefter of the invisible realities of another world, took his leave of his fordship with some such words as these: "Well, my lord,  if there be no hell, I am fafe; but if there should be such " a thing as hell, what will become of you?" I apply this to those that oppose the doctrine now infished on. If there be no fuch thing as the doctrine of an imputed righteoufnefs, those who hold it, and bring forth fruit unto holiness, are fafe; but if there be fuch a thing (as there certainly is) what will become of you that deny it? It is no difficult matter to determine. Your portion must be in the lake of fire and brimstone for ever and ever. Since you will rely upon your works, by your works you shall be judged. They shall be weighed in the balance of the fanctuary; and they will be found wanting. By your works therefore shall you be condemned; and you, being out of CHRIST, shall find GOD, to your poor wretched fouls, a confuming fire.

The great Stoddard of Northampton in New-England, has therefore well intitled a book which he wrote (and which I would take this opportunity to recommend) "The Safety of appearing in the Righteousnels of CHRIST." For why should I lean upon a broken reed, when I can have the rock of ages to ftand upon, that never can be moved !

And now, before I come to a more particular application, give me leave, in the apoftle's language, triumphantly to cry out, "Where is the fcribe, where the difputer i" Where is the reafoning infidel of this generation? Can any thing appear more reafonable, even according to your own way of arguing, than the doctrine here laid down? Have you not felt a convincing power go along with the word? Why then will you not believe on the LORD JESUS CHRIST, that fo he may become the LORD your righteoufnefs?

But it is time for me to come a little clofer to your confciences.

Brs-

Brethren, though fome may be offended at this doctrine, and may account it foolifhnefs; yet, to many of you, I doubt not but it is precious, it being agreeable to the form of found words, which from your infancy has been delivered to you; and, coming from a quarter, you would least have expected. may be received with more pleasure and satisfaction. But give me leave to alk you one queftion; Can you fay, the LORD our righteousness? I fay, the LORD our righteousness. For entertaining this doctrine in your heads, without receiving the LORD JESUS CHRIST favingly by a lively faith into your hearts, will but increase your damnation. As I have often told you, fo I tell you again, an unapplied CHRIST is no CHRIST at all. Can you then, with believing Thomas, cry out, " My LORD and my GOD ?" Is CHRIST your fanctification, as well as your outward righteoufnefs? For the word nighteoufnefs, in the text, not only implies CHRIST's perfonal righteousness imputed to us, but also holiness wrought in us. These two, GoD has joined together. He never did, he never does, he never will put them afunder. If you are justified by the blood, you are also fanctified by the Spirit of our LORD. Can you then in this fense fay, The LORD our righteousnes? Were you ever made to abhor yourfelves for your actual and original fins, and to lothe your own righteoufnefs; for, as the prophet beautifully expresses it, " your righteousness is as filthy rags? Were you ever made to fee and admire the all-fufficiency of CHRIST's righteousness, and excited by the Spirit of Gon to hunger and thirst after it? Could you ever fay, my foul is athirst for CHRIST, yea, even for the righteousness of CHRIST ? O when shall I come to appear before the presence of my Gad in the righteousness of CHRIST ! nothing but CHRIST ! nothing but CHRIST ! Give me CHRIST, O GOD, and I am fatisfied ! my foul shall praise thee for ever.

Was this ever the language of your hearts? and, after thefe inward conflicts, were you ever enabled to reach out the arm of faith, and embrace the bleffed JESUS in your fouls, fo that you could fay, "my beloved is mine, and I am his?" If fo, fear not, whoever you are. Hail, all hail, you happy fouls! The LORD, the LORD CHRIST, the everlasting GOD, is your sighteousnels. CHRIST has justified you, who is he that condemneth you? CHRIST has died for you, nay rather is sifen again, and ever liveth to make interreffion for you. Being now justified by his grace, you have peace with GoD, and fhall, ere long, be with JESUS in glory, reaping everlafting and unspeakable fruits both in body and soul. For there is no condemnation to those that are really in CHRIST JESUS. "Whether Paul or Apollos, or life or death, all is yours if vou are CHRIST's, for CHRIST is GOD's. My brethren, my heart is enlarged towards you! O think of the love of CHRIST in dying for you! If the LORD be your righteousnels, let the righteousnels of your LORD be continually in your mouth. Talk of, O talk of, and recommend the righteousness of CHRIST, when you lye down, and when you rife up, at your going out and coming in ! Think of the greatness of the gift. as well as of the giver ! Shew to all the world, in whom you have believed ! Let all by your fruits know, that the LORD is your righteoufnels, and that you are waiting for your Long from heaven ! O fludy to be holy, even as he who has called you, and washed you in his own blood, is holy! Let not the righteousness of the LORD be evil spoken of through you. Let not JESUS be wounded in the house of his friends; but grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our LORD and Saviour JESUS CHRIST, day by day. O think of his dying love! Let that love confirain you to obedience ! having much forgiven, love much. Be always afking, What shall I do, to exprefs my gratitude to the LORD, for giving me his righteouf+ nefs? Let that felf-abafing, GOD-exalting queftion be always in your mouths; "Why me, LORD? why me?" why am I taken, and others left ? why is the LORD my righteousness ? why is he become my falvation, who have to often deferved damnation at his hands?

My friends, I truft I feel fomewhat of a fenfe of GoD's diftinguishing love upon my heart; therefore I must divert a little from congratulating you, to invite poor christless finners to come to him, and accept of his righteousness, that they may have life.

Alas, my heart almost bleeds! What a multitude of precious fouls are now before me! how shortly must all be ushered into eternity! and yet, O cutting thought! was GOD now to require all your fouls, how few, comparatively speaking, could really fay, the LORD our rightcoufness!

And think you, O finners, that you will be able to fland in the day of judgment, if CHRIST be not your righteousness! No. that alone is the wedding-garment in which you must appear. O chriftles finners, I am distressed for you! the defires of my foul are enlarged. O that this may be an accepted time! that the LORD may be your righteousness! For whither would you flee, if death should find you naked ? Indeed there is no hiding yourfelves from his prefence. The pitiful figleaves of your own righteousnels will not cover your nakednels, when GOD fhall call you to stand before him. Adam found them ineffectual, and fo will you. O think of death ! O think of judgment! Yet a little while, and time shall be no more; and then what will become of you, if the LORD be not your righteoufnefs? Think you that CHRIST will spare you? No, he that formed you, will have no mercy on you. If you are not of CHRIST, if CHRIST be not your righteoufnefs, CHRIST himfelf shall pronounce you damned. And can you bear to think of being damned by CHRIST? Can you bear to hear the LORD JESUS fay to you, " Depart from me, ve cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels." Can you live, think you, in everlasting burnings? Is your flefh brafs, and your bones iron? what if they are? hell-fire, that fire prepared for the devil and his angels, will heat them through and through. And can you bear to depart from CHRIST? O that heart-piercing thought! Afk those holy ' fouls, who are at any time bewailing an abfent GoD, who walk in darknefs, and fee no light, though but a few days or hours; alk them, what it is to lole a fight and prefence of CHRIST? See how they feek him forrowing, and go mourning after him all the day long ! And, if it is fo dreadful to lofe the fenfible prefence of CHRIST only for a day, what must it be to be banished from him to all eternity?

But thus it must be, if CHRIST be not your righteousnels. For GoD's justice must be fatisfied; and, unless CHRIST's righteousnels is imputed and applied to you here, you musthereafter be fatisfying the divine justice in hell-torments eternally; nay, CHRIST himself shall condern you to that place of torment. And how cutting is that thought! Methinks I see poor, trembling, christless wretches, standing before the bar of GOD, crying out, LORD, if we must be damned, let P 4 fome angel, or fome archangel, pronounce the damnatory fentence : but all in vain. CHRIST himself shall pronounce the irrevocable fentence. Knowing therefore the terrors of the LORD, let me perfuade you to close with CHRIST, and never reft till you can fay, 16 the LORD our righteouineis." Who knows but the LORD may have mercy on, nay, abundantly pardon you? Beg of GOD to give you faith; and, if the LORD gives you that, you will by it receive CHRIST, with his righteousnels, and his All. You need not fear the greatnels or number of your fins. For are you finners? fo am I. Are you the chief of finners? fo am I. Are you backfliding finners? fo am I. And yet the LORD (for ever adored be his rich, free and fovereign grace) the LORD is my righteoufnefs, Come then, O young men, who (as I acted once myfelf) are playing the prodigal, and wandering away afar off from your heavenly Father's house, come home, come home, and leave your fwines trough. Feed no longer on the hufks of fenfual delights: for CHRIST's fake arile, and come home! your beavenly Father now calls you. See yonder the best robe, even the righteoufness of his dear Son, awaits you. See it, view it again and again. Confider at how dear a rate it was purchased, even by the blood of Gon. Confider what great need you have of it. You ate loft, undone, damned for ever, without it. Come then, poor, guilty prodigals, come home : indeed, I will not, like the elder brother in the gospel, be angry; no, I will rejoice with the angels in heaven. And O that GOD would now how the heavens, and come down ! Descend, O Son of Gon, descend; and, as thou hast shewn in me fuch mercy, Q let thy bleffed Spirit apply thy righteousness to some young prodigals now before thee, and clothe their naked fouls with thy best robe !

But I must speak a word to you, young maidens, as well as young men. I see many of you adorned, as to your bodies: but are not your sould naked? Which of you can fay, the LORD is my righteousses? which of you was ever solicitous to be dreffed in this robe of invaluable price, and without which you are no better than whited sepulchres in the fight of God? Let not then so many of you, young maidens, any longer forget your chief and only ornament. O seek for the LORD to be your righteousses, or otherwise burning will son be upon you, instead of beauty!

And what shall I fay to you of a middle age, you bus merchants, you cumbered Martha's, who, with all your gettings, have not yet gotten the LORD to be your righteoufnefs? Alas! what profit will there be of all your labour under the fun, if you do not fecure this pearl of invaluable price? this one thing. to abfolutely needful, that it only can fland you in. flead, when all other things shall be taken from you. Labour therefore no longer to anxioully for the meat which perifheth. but henceforward feek for the LORD to be your righteoulness. a righteousness that will entitle you to life everlasting. I fee also many heary heads here, and perhaps the most of them cannot fay, the LORD is my righteousness. O gray-headed finners, I could weep over you! your gray hairs, which ought to be your crown, and in which perhaps you glory, are now your shame. You know not that the LORD is your righter ouineis: O haste then, haste ye, aged finners, and seek an interest in redeeming love! Alas, you have one foot already in the grave, your glass is just run out, your sun is just going down, and it will fet and leave you in an eternal darkneis, unless the LORD be your righteousness! Flee then, O flee for your lives ! be not afraid. All things are poffible with God. If you come, though it be at the eleventh hour, CHRIST JESUS will in no wife caft you out. Seek then for the LORD to be your righteousness, and befeech him to let you know. how it is that a man may be born again when he is old ! But I must not forget the lambs of the flook. To feed them was one of my LORD's last commands. I know he will be angry with me, if I do not tell them, that the LORD may be their righteousness; and that of fuch is the kingdom of heaven. Come then, ye little children, come to CHRIST; the LORD CHRIST shall be your righteousness. Do not think, that you are too young to be converted. Perhaps many of you may be nine or ten years old, and yet cannot fay, the LORD is our righteousnels; which many have faid, though younger than you. Come then, while you are young. Perhaps you may not live to be old. Do not flay for other people. If your fathers and mothers will not come to CHRIST, do you come without them. Let children lead them, and shew them how the LORD may be their righteousness. Our LORD JESUS loved little children. You are his lambs; he bids me feed you. I pray GOD make you willing betimes to take the LORD for your righteoufnefs. '

Here then I could conclude: but I must not forget the poor negroes; no. I must not. JESUS CHRIST has died for them. as well as for others. Nor do I mention you last, because I defpife your fouls, but becaufe I would have what I shall fav, make the deeper impression upon your hearts. O that you would feek the LORD to be your righteoufnefs! Who knows but he may be found of you? For in JESUS CHRIST there is neither male nor female, bond nor free; even you may be the children of GOD, if you believe in Insus. Did you never read of the eunuch belonging to the queen of Candace? a pegro like yourfelves. He believed. The LORD was his righteousness. He was baptized. Do you also believe, and you shall be faved. CHRIST JESUS is the fame now as he was vesterday, and will wash you in his own blood. Go home then, turn the words of the text into a prayer, and intreat the LORD' to be your righteousness. Even fo, come LORD JESUS, come quickly, into all our fouls! Amen, LORD JESUS, Amen and Amen!

SERMONXV,

The Righteousness of CHRIST, an everlasting Righteousness.

DANIEL IX. 24.

And to bring in everlasting Righteousness.

N reading these words, I cannot help addreffing you in the language of the angels to the poor shepherds, who kept watch over their flocks by night, " Behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy," fuch tidings, that if we have ears to hear, if we have eyes to fee, and if our hearts have indeed experienced the grace of GOD, must cause us to cry out with the Virgin Mary, " My foul doth magnify the LORD, and my spirit doth rejoice in Gop my Saviour." The words which I have read to you, are part of one of the most explicit revelations that was given of JESUS CHRIST, before he made his public entrance into this our world. It has been observed by some, and very properly too, that it is one mark of the divine goodnefs to his creatures, that he is pleafed to let light come in gradually upon the natural world. If the fun from midnight darkness, was immediately to shine forth in his full meridian blaze, his great splendor would be apt to dazzle. our eyes, and frike us blind again : but GOD is pleafed to make light come gradually in, and by that means we are prepared to receive it. And as GOD is pleased to deal with the natural, fo he has dealt with the moral, with the fpiritual The LORD JESUS CHRIST did not appear in 'his full world. glory all at once, but as the fun rifes gradually, fo did the LORD JESUS, the Sun of righteoufnels, rife gradually upon men, with healing under his wings. Hence it was, that our first parents had nothing to fix their faith upon, but that first promile, promise, "The seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head." And in future ages, at fundry times, and after divers manners, GOD was pleased to speak to our fathers by the prophets, before he spake to us in these last days by his son; and the prophets that were more peculiarly dear to GOD, it should seem had more peculiar and extraordinary revelations vouch fafed to them, concerning JESUS CHRIST.

It is plain from the accounts we have in Scripture, that the Prophet Daniel was one of these; he is stilled by the angel, not only a "man that was beloved," but a "man that was greatly beloved," or as it is in the margin of your bibles, " he was a man of defires," of large and extensive defires to promote the glory of GOD; he was a defirable man, a man that did much good in his generation, and therefore his life was much to be defired by those who loved Gop. The words which I have choicn for the fubicct of our prefent meditation, contain part of a revelation made to this man. If you look back to the beginning of this chapter, you will find how the good man was employed, when GoD was pleafed to give him this revelation ; verse 2. " In the first year of Darius's reign, I Daniel understood by books the number of the years, whereof the word of the LORD came to Feremiah the prophet, that he would accomplish seventy years in the desolations of Ferufalem." Daniel was a great man, and withal a good man; great as he was, it feems he was not above reading his Bible; he made the Bible his conftant fludy; for it is the Bible we are to understand by what is here termed books, and elfewhere, the fcriptures of truth. He found, that the time for GoD's people being delivered from the captivity, was now at hand. Well, one would have thought, that therefore Daniel needed not to pray; but this, inflead of retarding, quickened him in his prayers: and therefore we are told in the third verse, "I fet my face unto the LORD GOD, to feek by prayer and supplications, with fasting and sackcloth, and ashes." It is beautifully expressed: " he fet his face," as though he was resolved never to let his eye go off GoD, till GOD was pleased to give him an answer; he was refolved, Jacob-like, to wreftle with the LORD GOD, until GOD should be pleased to give him the defired bleffing. We are told in the fourth verfe, that " he prayed unto the LORD, and made confession," not only only of his own fins, but the fins of his people. And when ye retire home to your houses, before ye go to bed, I would recommend to you the reading of this prayer; every word of it befpeaks his exceeding concern for the public good. It would take me up too much time, was I to make fuch obfervations as indeed the prayer deferves; to bring you fooner to the words of the text, let us go forward to the twentieth verse, and there you will find the success that Daniel met with, when praying, Says he, "while I was praying and confeffing my fin, and the fin of my people lfrael; and prefenting my fupplication before the LORD my GOD, for the holy mountain of my GOD; yea, while I was speaking in prayer, even the man Gabriel, whom I had feen in the vision at the beginning, being caufed to fly fwiftly, touched me about the time of the evening oblation." The manner in which Daniel expresses himself, is very emphatical : "While I was (peaking in prayer;" implying, that GoD fuffers us, when we draw near to him by faith in prayer, to lay all our complaints before him; he fuffers us to speak unto, and talk with him. as a man talketh with his friend. Daniel at this time too was making confession one part of his prayer; for we are never, never in a better frame to receive anfwers from above, than when we are humbling ourfelves before the LORD. He was not only confeffing his own fins, but he was confeffing the fins of his people; he was praying for those, who perhaps' feldom prayed for themfelves; " while I was speaking in prayer, the man Gabriel:" which word, by interpretation, fignifies the strength of GoD; a very proper name, fays Bishop Hall, for that angel who was to come and bring the news to the world, of the GOD of ftrength, the LORD JESUS CHRIST. This angel is here reprefented as flying, and as flying fwiftly : to flow us how willing, how unspeakably willing those bleffed spirits are, to bring good news to men. And it is upon this account, I suppose, that we are taught by our LORD to pray. " that God's will may be done by us on earth, as it is done in heaven," that we may imitate a little of that alacrity and vigour, which angels employ, when they are fent on errands for Gop.

Well, here is not only mention made of the angel's flying fwiftly, but there is mention made of the time that he came; " He

" He came and touched me, about the time of the evening oblation," that is, about three o'clock in the afternoon; at this time there was a facrifice made to GOD, and this facrifice was in a peculiar manner a type of the LORD JESUS, who in the evening of the world was to become a factifice for finners. We are told in the 22d verfe, what meffage this angel delivered, " He informed me, and talked with me, and faid. O Daniel, I am now come forth to give thee skill and underfanding; at the beginning of thy supplication, the commandment came forth, and I am come to flow thee, for thou art greatly beloved, therefore understand the matter, and confider the vision." This passage, with fuch-like passages of scrip-. ture, hath often comforted my foul, and may comfort the hearts of all GOD's people. There are a great many of you, perhaps, have prayed, and prayed again to GoD, and probably you do not find any answer given you : you pray for an enlarged heart, you pray for comfort, you pray for deliverance; GOD is pleased to withhold it for a while; then the devil strikes in, and fays, GOD has shut out your prayers; GOD will never hear, GOD will never regard you, therefore pray no more. But, my dear friends, this is a miftake ; a thousand years are with GOD as one day; and the LORD JESUS has bid us, " to pray always, and not faint." You may have had your prayers heard, the very moment they went out of your lips, though it may not please your GoD, (and it may not be proper for you) to let you know that they are heard. " At the beginning of thy supplication, the commandment went forth ;" and this very angel fome hundred years after, told Zacharias, that his prayer was heard ;" a prayer for what ? a prayer for a child : it could not be supposed that at the very time Zacharias was praying for a child; but his prayer he had put up forty years before, God was pleafed to answer to long asterwards.

But to proceed with Gabriel's declaration, ver. 24. "Seventy years are determined upon thy people, and upon thy holy citv, to finish transgreffion, to make an end of fins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness," I do not intend to trouble you about the critical exposition of these fournty weeks; commentators are divided exceedingly upon this subject; some of them explain them [239] them one way, and fome another, and perhaps we fhall never know till the day of judgment, till the glorious day fpoken of in the New Teftament, which are right. My intention is to dwell upon this particular part of the angel's meffage, that fome one perfon was to do fomething unfpeakable for Gop's people, even "to bring in an everlafting righte-

If you want to know who was the perfon that was to do this, look to the 26th verfe, and you will find the perfon meationed, the LORD JESUS CHRIST: " after threefcore and two weeks shall the Meffiab be cut off, but not for himfelf:" he is the perfon spoken of, he was " to put an end to fin, to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousnels."

From these important words, I shall endeavour, ...

First, To thew you what we are to understand by the word, "Righteousness."

Secondly, I shall endeavour to shew you, upon what account it is, that the righteousness montioned in the text, is called an ⁵⁶ everlasting righteousness."

Thirdly, I shall shew, what we are to understand by "bringing it in." And,

Then speak a word to faints and finners. And while I am speaking to your ears, may GOD, for the LORD JESUS CHRIST'S fake, speak to your hearts !

First, To explain what we are to understand by the word, "righteousnels." If I was to alk some people what we are to understand by the word, righteousnels; if the person was an Arminian, or an enemy to the doctrine of free grace, he would answer me, it fignifies what we commonly call moral bonesty, or doing justice between man and man. And, indeed, in various passages of scripture, the word righteousnels has no other meaning, at least, it bears that meaning. I suppose, we are to understand it in this fense, when we are told, that Paul, preaching before Felix, "reasoned of temperance, of righteousnels, and of a judgment to come." Felix had been a very unrighteous and unjust man, and therefore, fore, to convince him of his wickednels; to alarm his conferation, to put him upon feeking help in the LORD JESUS, Paul preached not only of temperance, (for Felix had been a very intemperate man) but he preached to him of righteoulnels, of the necessity of doing justice; because he had been an unjust man; and he puts before him the judgment to come; in order to make him fly to JESUS CHRIST for deliverance from the bad confequences of that judgment; and there are other places of foripture, where the word righteousnels may be understood in this fense.

It likewife fignifies inward holinefs, wrought in us by the 'bleffed Spirit of Gon. But, I believe, the word righteoufnels in my text fignifies, what, I truft most, I should be glad if I could fay, all who attend this night, will be glad to hear of : What is that ? It is what all reformed divines, that have clear heads and clean hearts, call an imputed righteou[nefs, or the righteousnels of the LORD JESUS CHRIST to be imputed to poor finners upon their believing : and, if you afk me, what I mean by an imputed righteousness; not to shoot over your heads, but rather, if GOD shall be pleased to make me, to reach your hearts, I will tell you, by the word " righteousnels," I understand all that CHRIST hath done, and all that CHRIST hath fuffered : or, to make use of the term generally made use of by found divines, " CHRIST's active, and CHRIST's paffive obedience;" put these two together, and they make up the rightcoufnels of the LORD JESUS CHRIST. My dear friends, thus flood the cafe between GOD and man : at first GOD made man upright. Mofesgives us a fhort, but never was fo full a description of the origin and nature of man given by any other but himfelf. " In the image of GOD made he man, fays that facred hiltorian, being infpired by the Spirit of GOD. GOD faid, and it was done; God commanded, and the world arole before him ; " Let there be light," and inftantaneoufly behold light appeared : but when that lovely, that divine, that bleffed creature Man, the Lord of the creation, God's vicegerent, was to be made, GOD calls a council, and fays, "Let us make man after our own image." Now, this image is to be understood, no doubt, in respect of man's soul; for Gon being no corporeal fubftance, man could not be made after his image that that way. Well, in this condition GoD made man. Adat stood as our representative. Adam and Eve had but one name originally, "Gop made man, and called their name Adam. Gop left Adam to his own free will; he was pleafed to enter into a covenant with him, which, indeed, is an amazing inftance of God's condescention. God might have ordered man to do fo and fo, and not made him any promife of a reward : but the great Creator was pleafed to promife him, that if he performed an unfinning obedience, if he abstained from eating a particular tree, that he and his posterity should live for ever; but if he broke that command, in the day that he ate thereof, he and all his pofferity were to die. Now, I verily believe, had you and I been there prefent, however fome people may object against God's feverity, in imputing Adam's fin to us; yet I believe, if you and Is and all the world had been prefent, we fhould have heartily come into this agreement. Supposing God had called the whole creation together, and had faid, "Ye, my creatures, I have made here a man after my own image, I have breathed into him the breath of life, I have caufed him to become a living foul; I have filled him with righteousness and true holiness; he has not the least propensity to fin, only he is a fallible and mutable creature ; all that I defire of this man is, that he abstain from yonder tree : I have given to him all the trees of the garden, I have made h m, and planted for him a garden with mine own right hand; I defire he may abstain from plucking yonder fruit : Will ye stand or fall by this man, will ye let him be your representative; will ye be content that his obedience or difobedience be imputed to you?" If we had been all there, ' every one of us would have faid, " LORD GOD, we will lee " him be our reprefentative;" the terms were fo eafy, the improbability of his falling was fo exceeding great, that I believe every one of us frould have all put our hand to the covenant. And supposing us alive, and that we had agreed to that covenant, who is that man or woman that could find fault with God's imputing Adam's fin to us. Well, my friends, Gov made man in this condition; the devil envied his happinels; it is supposed by fome, that man was made to fupply the places of the fallen angels. But the devil envied man, and had leave to tempt him ; Eve foon resched VOL. V. 015

wards Adam tran greffed allo; and from that very moment. to make use of Mr. Boston's words, " Man's name was Ishabod," the glory of the LORD departed from him. Adam and Eve then fell ; you, and I, and all their posterity (whom they represented) fell in them. Mankind had but one neck: and GOD might have ferved mankind, as Caligula would have ferved Rome, according to his own words, "I wish it had but " one neck, and I would cut it off with one blow." Gon. if he pleafed, might have fent us all to hell. Here Calvin represents God's attributes as flruggling one with another; Juffice faying to GoD, feeing Juffice had framed the fanction, " Is the law broken, damn the offender, and fend him to hell." The mercy of GoD, his darling attribute, cries out, " Spare him, spare him." The wisdom of GOD contrives a way, that juffice might be fatisfied, and yet mercy be triumphant still. How was that? The LORD JESUS interposes, the days-man, the dear Redeemer ! he faw GOD wielding his flaming fwors, and his hand taking hold of vengeance; the LORD JESUS CHRIST faw the fword ready to be fheathed in the blood of the offender; when no eye could pity, when no angel or archangel could refcue, just as GOD was, as it were, about to give the fatal blow, just as the knife was put to the throat of the offender, the Son of GOD, the elernal Logos, fays, " Father, spare the sinner; let him not die; Father, Father, O hold thy hand, withdraw thy fword, for I come to do thy will; man has broken thy law, and violated thy cove-.nant : I do not deny but man deferves to be damned for ever : but, Father, what Adam could not do, if thou wilt prepare me a body, I in the fulness of time will go, and die for him; he has broken thy law, but I will go and keep it, that thy law may be honoured; I will give a perfect unfinning obedience to all thy commandments; and that thou may it justify ungodly creatures, I will not only go down and obey thy law, but I will go down and bleed ; I will go down and die ; here I am; I will will ftep in between thee and finners, and be glad to have thy fword fheathed in my heart's blood for them."

In the fulnels of time defcends the eternal Logos, " In the fulnels of time God lent forth his Son made of a woman, made made under the law, to redeem them that are under the law from the curse of it, being made a curse for us." The Lord JESUS CHRIST being cloathed in human nature, fulfilled all righteousness; he submitted to every institution of GoD, and was pleafed to obey the whole moral law; and afterwards, O can we think of it, O can you hear of it; without a heart leap. ing with joy, at last the LORD JESUS bled and died ! and when he was just expiring, just as he was about to bow down his head, and give up the ghoft, what do ye think he faid ? He faid, " It is finished !" As much as to fay, " Now the arduous work, the difficult talk I had undertaken, bleffed be Gon. is now completely over; all the demands of the law are finithed; now God's justice is satisfied; now a new and living way is opened by my blood to the holieft of all for poor finners,"

So that when CHRIST's righteousness is here spoken of; we are to understand " CHRIST's obedience and death," all that CHRIST has done, and all that CHRIST has fuffered for an elect world, for all that will believe on him. And bleffed be Gop for this righteousness! bleffed be Gop for the epither which in the text is put to this righteousness, it might be called a bleffed righteousness, it might be called a glorious righteousness, it might be called an invaluable righteousness; but the angel calls it an everlasting righteousness : God give you to take the comfort of it !

Secondly, I am now to thew, on what account, this righteoufness is here called an everlasting rightcoufness; and pray why do you think is CHRIST's righteoufness called an everlafting righteoufnefs ?

I suppose it is called an everlasting righteousnes,

Firft, Becaufe CHRIST's righteoufnefs was intended by the great GOD to extend to mankind even from eternity. All of you know, that old love is the best love. When we have an old acquaintance; a friend; that has loved us for many years, indeed that love is fweet : though we may love new friends, yet when an old friend and a new friend meet together, we may fay, that the old is better. Now this should endear God to us, to think that from all the ages of eternity God had thoughts of you; God intended the Lord JESUS CHRIST to fave your fouls and mine : hence it is, that GoD, to endear Jeremiah to him, tells him, I have loved thee with with an everlafting love. Hence it is, that the LORD JESUS, when he calls his elect people up to heaven, fays, " Come, ye bleffed of my Father ;" what follows ? " receive the kingdom prepared for you ;" how long ? " from the foundation of the world." All that we receive in time; all the ftreams that come to our fouls, are but fo many ftreams flowing from that inexhauftible fountain, GoD's electing, GoD's fovereign, GoD's diftinguifhing, GoD's everlafting love; and, therefore, the righteoufnefs of JESUS CHRIST may properly be called an everlafting righteoufnefs, becaufe GoD intended it from everlafting.

Secondly, It is called an everlafting righteoufnefs, becaufe the efficacy of CHRIST's death took place immediately upon Allam's fall. Chriftianity, in one fense, is as old as the creation. Great Professor Franck, of Germany, fays, " That " CHRIST is the fum and fubftance of all righteoufnefs." Mr. Henry observes, " That the LORD JESUS CHRIST is the " treasure hid in the field of the Old Testament, under the " types and fhadows of the Mofaic difpensation." We have the Sun of Righteousness thining in his full meridian in the New Testament dispensation. Now the righteousness of TESUS CHRIST, may be called an everlasting righteoufness, because all the faints that have been faved, or that ever will be faved, are all faved by the righteoutness of CHRIST. A great many cenforious people are mighty inquifitive to know. what will become of the heathens, that never heard of JESUS CHRIST. I would fay to fuch perfons, as the LORD JESUS CHRIST did to another curious enquirer, "What is that to thee? follow thou me." Pray, for what fhould you and I trouble outfelves about the heathens? Are not we heathens? It is too true, that we have too much of 'the heathens temper and practice with us. But why fhould we lofe our time in enquiring about what will become of the heathen, and not tather enquire what will become of our own fouls ! We may be fure GOD will deal with heathens according to their light : if he has given them no revelation, they will not be judged by a revelation; if they have not had a law, they will be judged without law. But as for the Jews and Gentiles, who have the gospel revealed to them, however Deifts may argue contrary to it; however they may fet up reason in opposition to divine divine revelation; we may be fure none were ever faved, or will be faved, but by the righteoufnefs of CHRIST. It was through faith in him, that Abel was faved ; it was through the factifice of JESUS CHRIST, that Abraham was accepted, and that all the prophets of old were accepted; and there is none other name given under heaven, whereby we can be faved, but that of CHRIST. And therefore, fince perfons under the law, and under the gospel, are to be faved only through CHRIST; therefore, CHRIST's rightcousness may properly be called an everlasting righteousness. But this is not all.

Thirdly, The righteousness of JESUS CHRIST, is not only to be called an everlasting righteousness, because that all perfons under the law, and all perfons under the gofpel, are faved by it; but because the efficacy thereof, bleffed be GoD for it ! is to continue till time shall be no more. Bleffed be GOD for JESUS CHRIST ! the efficacy of whole blood, death, and atonement, is as great and as effectual now to the falvation of poor finners, as when he bowed his bleffed head, and gave up the ghost : " JESUS CHRIST is the fame yesterday, to-day, and for ever ;" and whofoever believes on him now, whofoever comes to, and accepts of him, fhall now fee his power, shall taste of his grace, and shall be actually faved by him, the fame as if he had been in company with those who faw him expiring.

Fourthly, CHRIST's righteousness may be called an everlafting righteousnels, because the benefit of it is to endure to everlasting life. Indeed, fome people tell us, that a perfon may be in CHRIST to-day, and go to the devil to morrow : but, bleffed be GOD, ye have not fo learned CHRIST ! No. my dear friends, thanks be to GOD for that divine text, " There is now no condemnation to them that are in CHRIST IESUS." Though GOD's people may fall foully; and though many are full of doubts and fears, and fay, " One day I fhall fall by the hands of Saul;" however ye may fay in your haste, " All men are liars;" however your poor fouls may be haraffed, yet no wicked devil, nor your own depraved heart, shall be able to separate you from the love of GoD : GOD has loved you, GOD has fixed his heart upon you, and having loved his own, he loves them unto the end. The LORD of life and of glory, the bleffed JESUS, will never ceafe loving loving you, till he hath loved and brought you to heaven ; when he will rejoice, and fay, " Behold me, O my Father, and the dear children that thou hast given me; thou gavest them me; thine they were, I have bought them with my blood, I have won them with my fword and with my bow, and I now will wear them as fo many jewels of my crown." Therefore, JESUS CHRIST's righteousness may be called an everlasting righteoufnels, becaule thole who once take hold of, and are interested in it, shall be faved everlastingly by CHRIST : " It is GOD that juflifies us, (fays St. Paul) who is he that condemneth ? It is CHRIST that died, yea rather that is rifen again." He gives devils the challenge, "O death, where is thy fting, O grave, where is thy victory ? Who fhall feparate us from the love of GOD? I am perfuaded that neither death nor life, neither principalities nor powers, nor any other creature, shall ever be able to seperate us from the love of Gon. which is in CHRIST JESUS our LORD." Those whom Gon justifies, he also glorifies. And because CHRIST lives, bleffed be Gop, we shall live also. I know not what you may fay ; but though I truft I have felt the grace of CHRIST, yet I find that I have as much need to come to CHRIST every day for fresh strength, as if I had never believed before : and if I was to depend upon my own faithfulnefs, and not the faithfulnefs of the Son of Gop, I am fure I should soon defert the LORD JESUS CHRIST. But glory be to GOD, he is faithful that hath promised ! Glory be to Gop, our falvation depends not upon our own free will, but upon Gon's free grace ! Here is a fure bottom; the believer may build upon it; let the ftorms blow as long and as high as they pleafe, they may make the poor creature tremble, but bleffed be GoD, they pever shall be able to take him off the foundation; though they may thake him, they thall only thake off his corruption: and I believe all that fear GOD, will be glad to part with it. On all these accounts, CHRIST's righteousness may be called an everlasting righteousness.

III. It is faid, in my text, that JESUS was to bring it in. What are we to underftand by his bringing it in? Our LORD's promulgating and proclaiming it to the world. Indeed, it was brought in under the law; but then it was brought brought in under types and fhadows, and most of the Jews booked no further. But JESUS CHRIST brought life and immortality to light by the gospel. The light of Moles was only twilight; the light of the gospel, is like the fun at noon-day, fhining in his full meridian. Therefore, JESUS CHRIST may be faid to bring in this everlasting righteousness, because he proclaimed it to the world, and commanded it to be preached, that GOD fent his Son into the world, that the world through him might be faved.

Again, The LORD JESUS CHRIST brought in this righteoulnels, as he wrought it out for finners upon the crofs. Some Antinomians, for want of a proper distinction, run into a grievous error, telling us, Because GOD intended to justify by the righteousness of JESUS CHRIST, therefore man is justified from all eternity : which is abfurd : a perfon cannot be juftified, till he is actually existing ; therefore, though man is juftified, as it lies in GoD's mind from all eternity, yet it was not actually brought in till the LORD JESUS CHRIST pronounced those bleffed words, " It is finished;" the grand confummation ! then JESUS brought it in. A new and a living way was to be opened to the Holy of Holies, for poor finners, by the blood of CHRIST. But I do not think that the expreffion, brought in, is to be limited to this fense, though I suppose it is the primary one; it implies not only CHRIST's bringing it into the world, as promulgating, and having it written in the word of GOD, and as having wrought it out for finners in his life, and on the crofs; but he brings it in, in a manner, which, I pray GOD may take place this night; I mean, bringing it, by his bleffed Spirit, into poor believers hearts. All that CHRIST hath done, all that CHRIST hath fuffered, all CHRIST's active obedience, all CHRIST's paffive obedience, will do us no good, unless by the Spirit of God, it is brought into our fouls. As one expreffes it, " An unapplied CHRIST is no CHRIST at all." To hear of a CHRIST dying for finners, will only increase your damnation, will only fink you deeper into hell, unless we have ground to fay, by a work of grace wrought in our hearts, that the LORD JESUS hath brought this home to us. Hence it is, that the Apostle, speaking of CHRIST, says, "Who loved me, and gave himfelf for me." O that dear, that that great, that little, but important word, me. Happy they, who can adopt the Apoftle's language! Happy they that can apply it to their own heart; and when they hear that CHRIST has brought in an everlafting righteoufnefs, can fay, Bleffed be GOD, it is brought in by the bleffed Spirit to my foul!

Are there any here that can go along with me on this doctrine ? But why do I afk this question, when preaching to numbers, who, I hope, have tafted of the grace of GoD long ago? I do not know, I cannot diftinguissi you; you are just like other people, as to your looks and habits; but if I do not, and if your neighbours cannot know you, that great GoD, in' whole presence you are, knows you; He, before whole tribunal we are fhortly to appear, knows you. If CHRIST JESUS hath brought his everlasting righteousness into your heart; if it is applied by the Spirit of GOD to your foul, what shall I fay to you ? I will fay as the Angel to John, " Come up hither," thou child of Gop ! Come up hither, thou fon, thou daughter of Abraham ! Come and join with me, in calling upon angels and archangels, in calling upon the fpirits of just men made perfect, to help thee to praise that loving Redeemer, that has brought in an everlafting righteousness. O was ever love like this! When Abrabam was about to offer up his fon, GOD faid, " Now I know that thou lovest me, fince thou halt not withheld thy fon, thine only fon from me." Now may each child of GoD fay, 5 Now, O GOD, I know that thou hast loved me, fince thou hast not withheld thy Son, thy dear Son, the LORD JESUS CHRIST, from dying for me." If thou haft got CHRIST brought into thy foul by faith, O look forward, look towards a happy eternity; O look towards those everlasting mansions, into which GOD will bring thee after death. My dear friends, I could fay much from this text to comfort God's people : But

I must address myself to you, poor souls, who cannot fay, that this righteousness has been brought home to your souls; but if it was never brought home before, may GOD, for the LORD JESUS CHRIST's take, bring it home now ! Are any of you depending upon a righteousness of your own? Do any of you here, think to fave yourselves by your own doings? I fay to you, as the Apostle faid to one that offered money for a power to confer the gift of the Holy Ghost, your righteousness

ness thall perifh with you. Poor miserable creatures! What is there in your tears? what in your prayers? what in your performances, to appeale the wrath of an angry God? Away from the trees of the garden; come, ye guilty wretches, come as poor, loft, undone, and wretched creatures, and accept of a better righteousness than your own. As I faid before, fo I tell you again, the righteousness of JESUS CHRIST is an everlafting righteoufnefs : it is wrought out for the very chief of finners. Ho, every one that thirsteth, let him come and drink of this water of life freely. Are any of you wounded by fin? Do any of you feel you have no righteoufnels of your own? Are any of you perifhing for hunger? Are any of you afraid ye will perish for ever? Come, dear souls, in all your rags : come, thou poor man; come, thou poor, distreffed woman; you, who think GOD will never forgive you, and that your fins are too great to be forgiven; come, thou doubting creature, who art afraid thou wilt never get comfort; arife, take comfort, the LORD JESUS CHRIST, the LORD of life, the LORD of glory, calls for thee : through his righteoufnefs there is hope for the chief of finners, for the worft of creatures. What if thou hadft committed all the fins in the world? What if thou hadit committed the fins of a thousand. what if thou hadft committed the fins of a million of worlds ? CHRIST's righteousness will cover, the blood of the LORD JESUS CHRIST will cleanfe, thee from the guilt of them all. O let not one poor foul fland at a diffance from the Saviour. My dear friends, could my voice hold out, was my ftrength equal to my will, I would wreftle with you; I would firive with arguments, till you came and washed in this blood of the Lamb; till you came and accepted of this everlasting righteousnels. O come, come! Now, fince it is brought ; into the world by CHRIST, fo in the name, in the ftrength, and by the affistance of the great GOD, I bring it now to the pulpit; I now offer this righteousness, this free, this imputed, this everlafting righteousness to all poor finners that will accept of it. For God's fake accept it this night : you do not know but ye may die before to-morrow. How do ye know, but while I am speaking, a fit of the apoplexy may feize, and death arreft you? O my dear friends, where can ye go? where will ye appear? How will ye fland before an angry GoD, Gop, without the righteousness of the LORD JESUS CHRIST put upon your fouls? Can ye ftand in your own rags? Will ve dare to appear before a heart-fearching GoD, without the apparel of your elder brother ? If ye do, I know your doom : CHRIST will frown you into hell? " Depart, depart, ye curfed, into everlasting fire," shall be your portion. Think. I pray you, therefore, on these things; go home, go home, go home, pray over the text, and fay, " LORD GOD, thou haft brought an everlasting righteousness into the world by the LORD JESUS CHRIST; by the bleffed Spirit bring it into my heart !" then, die when ye will, ye are safe; if it be to-morrow, ye shall be immediately translated into the prefence of the everlafting Gon: that will be fweet ! Happy they who have got this robe on; happy they that can fay, " My Gop hath loved me, and I shall be loved by him with an everlasting love !" That every one of you may be able to fay fo, may Gob grant, for the fake of JESUS CHRIST, the dear Redeemer; to whom be glory for ever. Amen.

SERMON XVI.

The Observation of the Birth of CHRIST, the Duty of all Christians; or the true Way of keeping Christmas.

MATTHEW i. 21.

And the shall bring forth a Son, and thou shalt call his Name Jefus: For he shall fave his People from their Sins.

HE celebration of the birth of CHRIST hath been efteemed a duty by most who profess christianity. When we confider the condescension and love of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, in fubmitting to be born of a virgin, a poor finful creature; and especially as he knew how he was to be treated in this world; that he was to be defpifed, fcoffed at, and at last to die a painful, shameful, and ignominious death; that he should be treated as though he was the off-scouring of all mankind; used, not like the fon of a man, and, therefore, not at all like the Son of GoD; the confideration of these things should make us to admire the love of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, who was fo willing to offer himfelf as a ranfom for the fins of the people, that when the fulnefs of time was come, CHRIST came, made of a woman, made under the law: he came according to the eternal counfel of the Father ; he came; not in glory or in fplendor, not like him who brought all falvation with him : no, he was born in a ftable, and laid in s manger; oxen were his companions. O amazing condescenfion of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, to stoop to such low and poor poor things for our fake. What love is this, what great and wonderful love was here, that the Son of GoD fhould come into our world in fo mean a condition, to deliver us from the fin and mifery in which we were involved by our fall in our first parents ! And as all that proceeded from the springs must be muddy, because the fountain was so, the LORD JESUS CHRIST came to take our natures upon him, to die a stameful, a painful, and an accursed death for our fakes; he died for our fins, and to bring us to GoD; he cleansed us by his blood from the guilt of fin, he fatisfied for our imperfections; and now, my brethren, we have access unto him with boldness; he is a mediator between us and his offended Father.

Therefore, if we do but confider into what flate, and at how great a diffance from GoD we are fallen ; how vile our natures were; what a depravity, and how incapable to reffore that image of GOD to our fouls, which we loft in our first parents : when I confider these things, my brethren, and that the LORD JESUS CHRIST came to reftore us to that favour with GOD which we had loft, and that CHRIST not only came down with an intent to do it, but actually accomplifhed all that was in his heart towards us; that he raifed and brought us into favour with GOD, that we might find kindnels and mercy in his fight; furely this calls for fome return of thanks on our part to our dear Redeemer, for this love and kindnefs to our fouls. How just would it have been of him, to have left us in that deplorable state wherein we, by our guilt, had involved ourfelves? For Gop could not, nor can receive any additional good by our falvation; but it was love, mere love; it was free love that brought the LORD IESUS CHRIST into our world about 1700 years ago. What, shall we not remember the birth of our JESUS? Shall we yearly celebrate the birth of our temporal king, and shall that of the King of kings be quite forgotten ? Shall that only, which ought to be had chiefly in remembrance, be quite forgotten ? God forbid! No, my dear brethren, let us celebrate and keep this festival of our church, with joy in our hearts : let the birth of a Redeemer, which redeemed us from fin, from wrath, from death, from hell, be always remembered; may this Saviour's love, never be forgotten ! but may we fing forth all his love and glory as long as life fhall laft here, and through an endlefs endlefs eternity in the world above! may we chaunt forth the wonders of redeeming love, and the riches of free grace, amidft angels and archangels, cherubim and feraphim, without intermiffion, for ever and ever! And as, my brethren, the time for keeping this feftival is approaching, let us confider our duty in the true obfervation thereof, or the right way for the glory of GoD, and the good of immortal fouls, to celebrate the birth of our LORD JESUS CHRIST; an event which ought to be had in eternal remembrance.

It is my defign to lay down rules for the true keeping of that time of Christmas, which is now approaching.

I. I shall shew you when you may be faid, not to observe this festival aright.

II. I shall shew you, when your observation and celebrating of this festival is done according to the glory of Gov, and to the true manner of keeping of it.

III. Shall conclude with an exhortation to all of you, high and low, rich and poor, one with another, to have a regard to your behaviour at all times, but more especially, my dear brethren, on this folemn occasion.

I. My brethren, I am to fhew when your celebration of this feftival is not of the right kind.

And First, you do not celebrate this aright, when you fpend most of your time in cards, dice, or gaming of any fort.

This is a feafon, for which there is no more allowance for wafting of your precious time in those unlawful entertainments, than any other. Perfons are apt to flatter themfelves that they are free and at liberty to fpend whole evenings now at cards, at dice, or any diversion whatfoever, to pafs away, as they call it, a tedious evening. They can do any thing now to pafs away that, which is haftening as fast as thought : time is always upon the wing; it is no fooner prefent but it is past, and no fooner come but it is gone. And have we fo much to do, and fo little time to do it in, and yet complain of time lying heavy upon our hands? Have we not the devil and the beast to get out of our fouls? Are not our natures to be changed, our corruptions to be fubdued, our wills to be brought brought over to GOD, our hard hearts to be foftened, all old things to be done away, and all things to become new in our fouls? Is there not all this to be done? And yet we have too much time upon our hands! It is well, that inftead of having too much time, it be not found that we have got too little, when we come to die: then we fhall wifh, my-brethren, that we had made more account of our time, that we had improved it for the glory of GOD, and the welfare of our immortal fouls.

Good GOD! how amazing is the confideration, that many can go to church in the morning, and take the Sacrament, and come home and fpend the afternoon and evening in cards: Is this, my brethren, differing the LORD's body ! Is this taking the facrament according to its inflitution ? Is not this a pollution thereof, and making the blood of the covenant an unholy thing.

Therefore, those of you who have made this your practice in times paft, let me beseech you, in the bowels of mercy, not to do so any more; for, indeed, it is earthly, it is fenfual, it is devilish. Consider what is faid of those who eat and drink at the LORD's table unworthily, that they eat and drink their own damnation !' And can they, my brethren, be faid to eat and drink any otherwife, who no fooner go from the table of the LORD, but run to the diversions of the devil ? Indeed this is exceeding finful, and displeasing unto the LORD; then forbear those diversions which are so evil in themfelves: O be not found in those exercises, and in that pleafure, which you would not be found in when you come Thus, my brethren, you fee it is not a right celeto die. Bration of the birth of the LORD JESUS, to spend it in eards, dice, or any other diversions, which proceed fo directly from the devil, and are deftructive to all true goodnefs.

Secondly, They cannot be faid truly to celebrate this time, who fpend their time in eating and drinking to excels.

This is a feafon when perfons are apt to indulge themfelves in all manner of luxury: iniquity now abounds apace; nothing is fearcely to be feen but things of the greateft extravagance imaginable; not only for the necessities of the body, but to pamper it in luft, to feed its vices, to make us go on in fin, to be a means for gratifying our carnal appetite; and this this is a means to make us forget the LORD of glory. This makes us only fit to do fuch drudgery, as the devil fhall fet us about; this is only preparing to run wherefoever the devil fends: this, inflead of denying ourfelves, is indulging ourfelves; this is not, nor cannot be called, a celebration of the birth of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, when we are making ourfelves worfe than the beafts that perifh.

I am not speaking against eating and drinking of the good things of life, but against the eating and drinking of them to excess, because, thus they unqualify us for the fervice of GoD; and to our fellow-creatures they make us unfociable, and may occasion us to be guilty of faying and acting those things, which we should be assumed to think of, if we had only eat or drank with moderation.

Therefore, my dear brethren, let me beseech you to set a watch over yourselves; be careful that you do not run into that company which may tempt you to evil; for would a man run himself into danger on purpose? Would a man enter himself into that company, where, before he goes, he knows he shall be exposed to great temptations; and therefore, if you have any reason to think that the company you are going into will be a temptation, I besech you, by the mercies of GOD in CHRIST JESUS, that you would not run into it.

How can you fay, "Lead us not into temptation," when you are refolved to lead yourfelves into it, by running into the occafions of fins. You are commanded to keep from the appearance of evil; and do you do that, by running into the place and company where it is like to be committed ? No, this is fo far from avoiding, and flunning it, that it is a plain proof to the contrary; therefore, if you are for obferving this time, this feftival of our church, let it not be done by running to excefs; for you plainly fee, that those who are guilty thereof, cannot be faid properly to celebrate it.

Tbirdly, Nor can they, my brethren, be faid to keep, or rightly observe the commemoration of the birth of our Redeemer, the LORD JESUS CHRIST, who neglect their worldly callings to follow pleasures and diversions.

Alas! many, instead of keeping this time as it ought to be, run into fin with greedines; instead of devoting their time to the LORD, it is only devoted to the devil and their own lufts. How many who thus mispend their time, at this featon. lay by the work of their callings for a confiderable time, with no other view, but to follow earthly, fenfual, and devilish pleasures. If they should go to hear a fermon, or to at fociety, my brethren, the mouths of all the Pharifees at once are open against them, that they are not only a going to be ruined themselves, but are going to ruin their families too : they think it needlefs to make fo much ado; this is being righteous over-much; but you may be as wicked as you pleafe, and they will not cry out; however, when you are wicked over-much, by ferving the devil and your own pleafures for a week or a month together, then, my brethren, with them you are only taking a little recreation, fpending your time in innocent diversions; no one cries out against you, there is no outcry that you are going to be ruined. Again, if you give never fo fmall a matter among the poor people of GOD, for their relief, then you are robbing your families, then you are going to turn madmen, and in a few days will be fo methodiffically mad, that you are not fit for a polite gentleman's conversation; but if you spend one hundred times the money in playhouses, &c. on your lufts and pleasures, then you are liked and effeemed as a good friend and companion ; but, my dear brethren, these good companions in the world's account, are never to in the LORD JESUS CHRIST's. You cannot ferve Gob and mammon; you must either lose your lustse your pleasures, and your delights, or you cannot expect to find favour with GOD; for indeed, and indeed, the ways that too many follow at this time, are finful, yea, they are exceeding finful. You fee they cannot be faid to celebrate this holy time, who thus mispend their precious time to the neglect of their families; fuch are deftroying themfelves with a witness.

te

Thus, my dear brethren, I have fhewn you who they are who do not rightly observe this holy settival.

II. I come now; in the fecond place, to shew you, who they are who do rightly observe, and truly celebrate the birth of our Redeemer.

And I shall shew you who they are in two particulars, ditectly opposite to the others; and then, my brethren, take your choice: you must choose the one or the other, there is no medium, you must either ferve the LORD or Baal; and, therefore, my dear brethren; let me beg of you to confider;

First, That those spend their time aright, and truly observe this feftival, who spend their hours in reading, praying, and religious conversation.

What can we do to employ our time to a more noble purpole; than reading of what our dear Redeemer has done and fuffered; to read, that the King of kings, and the LORD of lords, came from his throne and took upon him the form of the meaneft of his fervants; and what great thnigs he underwent. This, this is an hiftory worth reading, this is worth employing our time about : and furely, when we read of the fufferings of our Saviour, it should excite us to prayer, that we might have an interest in the LORD JESUS CHRIST; that the blood which he spilt upon mount Calvary, and his death and trucifixion, might make an atonement for our fins, that we might be made holy; that we might be enabled to put off the old man with his deeds, and put on the new man, even the LORD JESUS CHRIST; that we may throw away the heavy yoke of fin, and put on the yoke of the LORD JESUS CHRIST. Indeed, my brethren, these things call for prayer, and for earnest prayer too; and O do be earnest with GOD. that you may have an interest in this Redeemer, and that you may put on his righteoufnefs, fo that you may not come before him in your filthy rags, nor be found not having on the wedding garment. O do not, I befeech you, truft unto yourfelves for justification; you cannot, indeed, you cannot be justified by the works of the law. I intreat that your time may be thus ipent; and if you are in company, let your time be spent in that conversation which profiteth ; let it not be about your dreffing, your plays, your profits, or your worldly. concerns, but let it be the wonders of redeeming love: O tell, tell to each other, what great things the LORD has done for your fouls; declare unto one another, how your were delivered from the hands of your common enemy, Satan, and how the LORD has brought your feet from the clay, and has fet them upon the rock of ages, the Lord Jesus CHRIST; there, my brethren, is no flipping; other con-VOL. ı versation, by often reporting, you become fully acquainted with, but of CHRIST there is always something new to raile your thoughts; you can never want matter when the love of the LORD JESUS CHRIST is the subject: then let JESUS be the fubject, my brethren, of all your conversation.

Let your time be fpent on him : O this, this is an employ, which if you belong to JESUS, will laft you to all eternity. Let others enjoy their cards, their dice, and gaming hours; do you, my brethren, let your time be fpent in reading, praying, and religious conversation. Which will fland the trial heft at the laft day? which do you think will being most comfort, most peace, in a dying hour? O live and fpend your time now, as you will wish to have done, when you come to die.

Secondly, Let the good things of life, you enjoy, be used with moderation.

1-am not, as the fcoffers of this day tell you, against eating and drinking the good things of life; no, my brethren, I am only against their being used to an excels; therefore, let me befeech you to avoid those great indifcretions, those finful, actions, which will give the enemies of GOD room to blafphome. Let me beseech you, to have a regard, a particular, regard to your behaviour, at this time; for indeed the eyes of all are upon you, and they would rejoice much to find any reason to complain of you. They can say things against us without a caufe; and how would they rejoice if there was wherewith they might blame us? Then they would triumph and rejoice indeed ; and all your little flips, my dear brethren, are, and would be charged upon me. O at this time, when the eyes of, fo many are upon you, be upon your guard ; and if you use the good things of this life with moderation, you do then celebrate this festival in the manner which the institution calls for.

And inftead of running into excefs, let that money, which you might expend to pamper your own bodies, be given to feed the poor; now, my brethren, is the feason, in which they commonly require relief; and fure you cannot act more agreeable, either to the feason, to the time, or for the glory of GoD, than in relieving his poor diffrested fervants. Therefore fore, if any of you have poor friends, or acquaintance, who are in diffrefs, I befeech you to affift them; and not only those of your acquaintance, but the poor in general. O my dear brethren, that will turn to a better account another day, than all you have expended to pleafe the luft of the flefh, the luft of the eye, or the pride of life. Confider, CHRIST was always willing to relieve the diffreffed; it is his command also; and can you better commemorate the birth of your king, your Saviour, the LORD JESUS CHRIST, than in obeying one of his commands?

Do not, my dear brethren, be forgetful of the poor of this world; confider, if providence has finiled upon you, and bleffed you with abundance of the things of this life, Gon calls for fome returns of gratitude from you: be ye mindful of the poor, and when you are fo, then you may be faid to have a true regard for that time which is now approaching; if you would truly observe this festival, let it be done with moderation, and a regard to the poor of this world.

Thirdly, Let me beg of you not to alienate too much of your time from the worldly bufiness of this life, but have a proper regard there unto, and then you may be said rightly to observe this festival.

GOD allows none to be idle : in all ages businefs was commended ; and therefore do not think that any feafon will excufe us in our callings : we are not; my brethren, to labour for the things of this life inordinately, but we are to labour for them with all moderation : we are not to neglect our callings ; no, we are to regard those places and flations of hife, which GOD in his providence has thought convenient for us; and therefore, when you neglect your businefs to the burt of your families, whatever pretence you thereby make for fo doing, you are guilty of fin; you are not acting according to the doctrine of the golpel, but are breaking the commands of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, both according to his word, and to his own practice.

At this feftival; perfors are apt to take a little more liberty than usual; and if that time from our vocations is not prejudicial to ourfelves or families, and is spent in the service \mathbf{G} GoD, and the good of immortal fouls, then I do not R 2 think it finful; but there is too much reason to fear, that the time is spent upon our own lusts, and then it is exceeding finful, it is against our own fouls, and it is against the good of our families, and instead of commemorating the birth of our dear Redeemer, we are dishonouring him in the greatest degree possibly we can.

Therefore, enquire ftrictly into your end and defign in fpending your time; fee, my brethren, whether it proceeds from a true love to your Redeemer, or whether there is not fome worldly pleafure or advantage at the bottom : if there is, our end is not right; but if it proceed intirely from love to him that died, and gave himfelf for us, our actions will be a proof thereof; then our time will be fpent, not in the polite pleafures of life, but according to the doctrines, and commands of the bleffed JESUS; then our converfation will be in heaven: and O that this might be found to be the end of each of you, who now hear me; then we fhould truly obferve this feftival, and have a true regard to the occafion thereof, that of CHRIST's coming to redeem the fouls of those which were loft.

Let me now conclude, my dear brethren, with a few words of exhortation, befeeching you to think of the love of the LORD JESUS CHRIST. Did JESUS come into the world to fave us from death, and shall we spend no part of our time in conversing about our dear Jesus; shall we pay no regard to the birth of him, who came to redeem us from the worft of flavery, from that of fin, and the devil; and fhall this JESUS not only be born on our account, but likewife die in our strad, and yet shall we be unmindful of him? Shall we fpend our time in those things which are offenfive to him? Shall we not rather do all we can to promote his glory, and act according to his commands? O my dear brethren, be found in the ways of GOD; let us not difturb our dear Redeemer by any irregular proceedings; and let me befeech you to ftrive to love, fear, honour and obey him. more than ever you have done yet; let not the devil engrofs your time, and that dear Saviour who came into the world on your accounts, have so little. O be not so ungrateful to him who has been to kind to you : What could the LORD. TESUS

JESUS CHRIST have done for you more than he has? Then do not abufe his mercy, but let your time be fpent in thinking and talking of the love of JESUS, who was incarnate for us, who was born of a woman, and made under the law, to redeem us from the wrath to come.

Now to Gop the Father, Gop the Son, &c.

SERMON XVII.

The Temptation of CHRIST.

MATTHEW iv. 1-11.

Then was JESUS led up of the spirit into the wilderness, to be tempted of the devil. And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterwards an hungered. And when the sempter came to him, he faid, If thou be the Son of GOD, command that these stones may be made bread. But he answered and faid, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of GOD. Then the devil taketh him up into the holy city, and fetteth him on a pinnacle of the temple, and faith unto him, If thou be the Son of GOD, cast thyself down : for it is written, He shall give his angels charge concerning thee, and in their hands they shall bear thee up, left at any time thou dafh thy foot against a flone. JESUS faid unto him, It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the LORD thy GOD. Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them : and faith unto him, All thefe things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then faith JESUS unto him, Get thee hence, Satan : for it is written, Thou shalt worship the LORD thy GOD, and him only fhalt thou ferve. Then the devil leaveth him, and behold, angels came and ministered unto him.

DEARLY beloved, to-day you are invired to take a walk into the wildernefs, to behold, fympathize with, and get inftruction and comfort from a Saviour tempted. In the conflict, he approves himfelf to be GoD's beloved Son; and the Faher gives demonstrable evidence, that with, and in him, he is indeed well pleafed. Let us with ferious attention confider, when, when, where, and how, our great Michael fought with and overcame the dragon. The Evangelist Matthew is very particular in relating the preparations for, the beginning, process, and iffue of this glorious and important combat.

" Then was JESUS led up of the spirit into the wildernefs, to be tempted of the devil." In the close of the foregoing chapter we are told, that the bleffed Jesus had been publicly baptized, and was also folemnly inaugurated to his mediatorial office, by the opening of the heavens, by the Spirit of GOD descending on him like a dove, and by a voice from heaven, faying, " This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well-pleafed ;" and then it was, when he came from the folemn ordinance of baptilm; when he was about to fhew himself openly unto Ifrael; when he was full of the Holy Ghoft (Luke iv. 1.); even then was he led, with a holy unconstrained violence, as a champion into the field, to engage an enemy, whom he was fure to conquer. But whither is this conqueror led ? Into a lonefome, wide, howling wildernefs : probably, fays Mr. Henry, into the great wildernefs of Sinai; a wilderness, not only lonesome, but inhabited by wild beafts. Mark i. 12. Hither was our LORD led, not only that he might prepare himfelf by retirement and prayer. but also that he might be alone, and thereby give Satan all the advantages he could defire. In this combat, as well as that of his last agony, " of the people, there was to be none with him." Neither does he content himfelf with praying, but he fafts also, and that " forty days and forty nights," (ver. 2.): as Moles and Elias had done, many years before, it may be, in the very fame place. All these fasts were miraculous; and therefore, though we are taught hereby, that fafting is a christian duty, yet, to pretend, in an ordinary way, to imitate them, by fasting for so long a term together, is no doubt superfitious, presumptuous, and finful : but few people, I believe, need fuch a caution.

During these forty days, we may suppose, our LORD felt no hunger : converse with heaven, to him was instead of meat and drink; but " afterwards he was an hungered;" exceedingly fo, no doubt. And now, the important fight begins. For, then " the tempter," emphatically fo called, becaule he first tempted our first parents to fin, and hath ever fince fince been unwearied in tempting their descendants ; then the tempter, who in an invisible manner had been attacking our bleffed LORD all the whole forty days, when he faw him hungering, and in fuch diffreffing circumstances, came to him, as it fhould (eem, in a visible shape, and probably transformed into the appearance of an angel of light. And what does he tempt him to ? To nothing lefs, than to doubt of his being the Son of Gop." " If thou be the Son of Gop." What ! put an if to this, Satan, after the glorious JESUS had been proved to be Gop's fon, and repeatedly too in fuch a glorious manner? Surely, thou thyself coulds not but see the heavens opened. and the Spirit descending; surely, thou didst hear the voice that came to him from heaven, immediately after his baptism. faying, " This is my beloved Son :" And doit thou now fay unto him, " If thou be the Son of GOD." Yes; but Satan knew, and believed he was full well; but he wanted to make our LORD to doubt of it. And why? Because he was in fuch a melancholy fituation. As though he had faid, " If Gop was thy father, he would never fuffer thee to starve to. death in a howling wilderness, among wild beafts. Surely, the voice thou lately didft hear, was only a delution. If thou waft the Son of GOD, especially his beloved Son, in whom he was fo pleafed, thou would ft be taken more care of by him." Thus he attacked our first parents, by fuggesting to them hard thoughts of their all-bountiful Creator : "Yea, hath Gop faid, Ye shall not eat of every tree in the garden ?" " Hath he placed you amidit fuch a variety of delicious fruits, only to teaze and make you miferable ?" And how artfully now does he labour to infinuate himfelf into our LORD's affections, as be then did to ingratiate himfelf with our fift parents. " If. thou he the Son of GOD, fays he, come, prove it, by commanding these stones (a heap of which, probably, lay very near) to be made bread : this will demonstrate thy divinity, and relieve thy preffing neceffity at the fame time." Thus, as in all his other temptations. Satan would fain appear to be his yery kind friend; but the holy JESUS faw through the difguifed enmity of his antagonift; and fcorning either to diffrust his righteous Father on the one hand, or to work a miracle to please and gratify the devil on the other, although he had the Spirit of GOD without measure, and might have made use of a thousand thousand other ways, yet answers him with a text of scripture: ⁵⁶ It is written, that man fhall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of Gop." This is a quotation from Deuteronomy viii. 3, and contains a reason given by the great GOD, why he chose to feed the I/raelites with manna; that they might learn thereby, man doth not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of GOD. This our bleffed LORD here applies to himfelf; and his being in the wildernefs, made the application of it ftill more pertinent. Ifrael was GoD's fon : out of Egypt was he called to fojourn in the wilderness, where he was miraculoufly fupported. And therefore our LORD, knowing that he was typified by this Ifrael, and that, like them, he was now in a wildernefs, quotes this fcripture as a reason why he fhould not, at Satan's fuggestion, either despair of receiving help from his Father in his present circumstances, or distrust the validity of his late manifestations, or make use of any unwarrantable means for his prefent relief. For as GOD was his father, he would, therefore, either in an ordinary way fpread a table for him in the wilderness, or support and sustain him. as he did his Ifiael of old, in some extraordinary way or other without it : " For man fhall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Thus is the tempter foiled in the first onset; but he hath other arrows in his quiver, with which he will farther ftrive to wound the immaculate Lamb of GoD. Since he cannot draw him in either to distruft, or despair, he will now try if he cannot prevail on him to prefume. In order to effect this, " He taketh the bleffed JESUS up into the Holy City," or Ferusalem, called by our Saviour, the city of the Great King, and here called holy, becaufe the holy temple was in it, and, we would hope, many holy people. This was a populous place, and therefore, would greatly befriend the devil's defign. And not only fo, but " he fetteth him on a pinnacle," a battlement or wing, " of the temple," the top of which was fo very high, that, as Josephus observes, it would make a man's head run giddy to look down from it. And fome think this was done at the time of public worfhip. How the holy JESUS fuffered himself to be taken hither; whether he was transported through the air, or whether he followed Satan on foot, is uncertain; but certainly it was an inftance of amazing condescension in our LORD, that he should permit fo foul a fiend, to carry or lead his holy body about in this manner. Well ! Satan hath now gotten him upon the pinnacle of the temple, and fill harping upon his old ftring, " If thou be the Son of GOD, (fays he) caft thyself down," and , thereby shew to this large worshipping affembly, (who will affuredly then believe) that thou art Gon's beloved Son, under the special protection of heaven, and art that Messiah, " who was to come into the world." This was artful, very artful. But he feems to improve in cunning : for he bringe his Bible with him, and backs his temptation with a text of scripture; " For it is written, (fays he) he shall give his angels charge concerning thee, and in their hands they shall bear thee up, left at any time thou dafh thy foot against a flone." But is Saul also among the prophets? Does the devil auote scripture, yea, and seemingly such a very appofite one too? I suspect some delign, without doubt: for herein, he would mimic our LORD, who, he perceived, intended to fight him with this meapon; and not liking the tharp edge of it, he thought that if he quoted fcripture, the LORD JESUS would not employ it against him any more. " It is written, (therefore faid he) he shall give his angels charge concerning thee, and in their hands they shall bear thee up, left at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone : and therefore, fince thou art fure of fuch protection, thou needst not fear to cast thyself down." This was plausible, and by the length of it, one would be apt to imagine, it was a fair quotation; but Satan takes care, not only to milapply, but also to maim it, purposely omitting these important words, " in all thy ways." It is true, GOD had given charge to his angels, concerning his children in general, and his beloved Son in particular, that they should keep him in all his ways; but, if our LORD had at this time, at the devil's requeft, and to gratify pride, thrown himfelf down from the pinnacle, and thereby unneceffarily prefumed on his Father's protection, he would not have been in Gon's way, and therefore, would have had no right to the promifed protection at all. Satan was aware of this, and therefore flily left out what he knew would not fuit his purpole. But is feripture the worfe, for being [267] being abused or perverted by the devil, or his emissaries? No, in no wife. Our LORD, therefore, lets him know, that he should not throw aside this important weapon upon this account, but puts by this home thruft, with another fcripture : " It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the LORD thy GOD." Still our LORD quotes fomething out of the book of Deuteronomy, and hath his eye upon Ifrael in his wildernefs flate. Originally these words were directed to the Ifraelites in general, and accordingly are in the plural number; but here our LORD, as before, makes a particular application of them to himfelf : Satan bids him caft himfelf down, affuring him, God had promifed in his word, to order his angels to take care of him : Now, fays our LORD, " It is written in another part of his word, that the Ifraelites fould not tempt the LORD their GOD, by diffrufting his goodnels on the one hand, or prefuming on his protection on the other : And, therefore, as I would not command the flones to be made bread, needlefsly and diffruftfully fet up to provide for myfelf; neither will I now prefume unneceffarily upon GoD's power, by caffing myfelf down, though placed by thee in fuch a dangerous fituation."

Thus our great Michael comes off conqueror in the fecond affault. And doth not the ferpent feel his head bruifed enough yet? Not at all : on the contrary, being more and more enraged at fuch unufual opposition, and want of fucces, "He again taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, (what mountain is not very material) and fneweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them," St. Luke adds, " in a moment of time:" which confirms the common conjecture, that Satan did not fnew our LORD really the kingdoms of the world, (for that must have taken up more time) but only took him up into an exceeding high mountain to humour the thing, and by exerting his utmost art, imprefied on our LORD's imagination all at once, a very Brong, and to any but innocence itfelf, a very firiking prospect of the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; not the cares: that would not ferve Satan's turn. He shewed our Saviour crowns, but never told him, those crowns were gilded with thorns; " He thewed him, (fays Mr. Henry, my favourite " commentator) as in a landscape, or airy representation in a " cloud.

se cloud, fuch as that great deceiver could eafily frame and so put together, the glorious and fplendid appearance of " princes, their robes and retinue, their equipage and life-" guards; the pomps of thrones and courts, and flately pa-" laces ; the fumptuous buildings in cities ; the gardens and " fields about the country feats, with the various inflances of " their wealth, pleasure, and gaiety; so as might be most " likely to strike the fancy, and excite the admiration and " affection. Such was this fhew." Our Saviour very well knew it, only lets Satan go to the full length of his ftring, that his victory over him might be the more illustrious. And now, fays the devil, " All these things (a mighty all indeed; a mere imaginary bubble !) will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. He would fain have it taken for granted, that he had fucceeded in the two preceding temptations ; " Come, thou feeft thou art not the Son of Gop, or if thou art, thou feeft what an unkind Father he is ; thou art here in a flarving condition, therefore take my advice. difown thy relation to him, fet up for thyself, call me father, afk of me bleffings, and all thefe will I give thee; while all that I defire in return, is but a bow, only fall down and worthip me." Here Satan discovers himself with a witness : this was a defperate parting ftroke, indeed. It is now high time for thee, O thou enemy of fouls, to be commanded to depart ! Filled with a holy refentment at fuch hellifh treatment, and impatient of the very thought of fetting up for himfelf, or alienating the least part of his heart and affections from his Father, or dividing them between his Gon and the world ; " Then faid JESUS unto him, Get thee hence, Satan, (I know thee who thou art, under all thy difguifes) get thee hence, thou grand adverfary : for it is written, Thou shalt worfhip the LORD thy GOD, and him only fhalt thou ferve : this is the great commandment of the law; this is the commandment my Father gave unto his I/rael of old, and wouldst thou have me, who came to fulfil the law and the prophets, thus fhamefully be a transgreffor of it? Get thee hence, I will bear thy infolence no longer: thy other temptations were hellish, like thyself, but this intolerably so : get thee therefore hence, Satan: my heavenly Father is the LORD my God, and him only will I ferve."

And

And now the battle is over: the important combat is ended: JESUS hath won the field: Satan is routed and totally put to flight: "Then," when the devil found that JESUS could withftand even the golden bait, the luft of the eye and pride oflife, in the two laft, as well as the luft of the flefh in the firft temptation, defpairing of the leaft fucces, and quite ftunned with that all-powerful Get thee hence, Satan, " he leaveth him."

Hell, we may well suppose, like the Philistines of old, was confounded, and gave a horrible groan, when they faw their great Goliaby in whom they had fo long trufted, thus fhamefully and totally defeated in no lefs than three pitched battles." The first Adam was attacked but once, and was conquered ; but the fecond Adam, though thus repeatedly affaulted, comes off without the least fin, not only conqueror, but more than conqueror. Think you not, that there was joy, joy unspeakable in heaven, upon this glorious occasion? Think you not that the angels, those fons of GOD, and the multitude of the heavenly holt, who shouted to loud at our LORD's birth, did not repeat, if poffible, with yet greater extaly, that heavenly anthem, " Glory be to GOD in the higheft." For a while they were only spectators, orders, we may suppose, being iffued out, that they should only wait around, but not relieve their praying, failing, tempted LORD; but now the referaint is removed : Satan departs, and " behold, angels came and min niftered unto him ;" they came to administer to his bodily new ceffities, and to congratulate him upon the glorious and contw pleat victory which he had gained : fome of them, it may be had done this kind office for Elijab long ago; and with unspeakably greater joy, they repeat it to the LORD of Elijab now. His Father fends him bread from heaven; and by this lets him know, that notwithstanding the horrid temptations. with which he had been attacked, he is his own beloved fon. in and with whom he was well pleafed. ł

And was there joy in heaven on this happy occasion? What equal, and if possible, what infinitely greater joy ought there to be among the children of GOD here on earth? For we should do well to remember, that our bleffed LORD in this great fight with, and conquest over the dragon, acted as a public person, as a fæderal head of his mystical body the church.

church, even the common representative of all believers. We may therefore from this bleffed paffage gather firong confelations; fince by our LORD's conquest over Satan, we are thereby affured of our own, and in the mean while can apply to him as a compaficonate High-Prieft, who was in all things tempted as we are, that he might experimentally be enabled to fuccour us when we are tempted.

Who, who after hearing of or reading this, can think themfelves hardly used, or utterly call off by Gov, becault they are tempted to felf-murder, blafpheiny, on any other horrid and fhocking trimes? Who can wonder at mave being permitted to come upon wave, and one trial to follow upon the back of another? Who can admire, that Satan follows then to holy ordinances, and tempts them to doubt of the reality of all their manifestations, and of their being God's children, even after they have enjoyed the most institute and delightful communion with their heavenly Father? Was not our Low treated thus? And " fhall the fervant be above his Lord, or the difciple above his Master?" No, it is fulficient that the fervant be as his Lord, and the difciple as his Master.

But not to dwell on z general improvement, let us for what particular leffons may be learned from this affecting portion of holy write

And Firly, was our Loko thus violently beliet in the wildernefs? then we may leave, that however profitable folitude and retirement may be; when uled in due fealon, ver when carried to an extreme is hursful, and rather befriends than prevents compliation. We be to him that is thus always alone : for he hady not another to lift him up when he falleth. or to advise with when he is tempted. As a hermit in America once told me, when I afked him whether he found that way of life leffened his temptations; "Doft not thou know, friend, " (faid he) that a tree which grows by itfelf, is more expoled " to winds and forms than another that fiends furrounded " with other trees in the woods?" Our LORD knew this. and therefore he was hed by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. LORD, keep as from leading ourfelves into this temptation, and fuccour and fupport us whenever led by thy providence into it! Then, and then only, fall we be fafe amidft the flery darts of the grand enemy of our fouls.

Secondly,

Secondly, Did our LORD by prayer, fafting, and temptation. prepare himfelf for his public ministry ? Surely then, all those who profess to be inwardly moved by the Holy Ghoft to take upon them the office and administration of the church, foould be prepared in the fame manner. For though the knowledge of books and men, are good in their places, yet without a knowledge of Satan's devices be fuperadded, a minister will be only like a phylician, that undertakes to preferibe to fick people, without having fludied the nature of herbs. And hence, it is to be feared, many heavy laden and afflicted fourie have been feat by dertain ministers, to fargeons, to be blooded in the arm, inflead of being directed to apply to the blood of CHRIST to cleanfe their hearts. Hence, conviction is looked upon as a delirium, and violent temptations denfured as downright madnefs. Hence, fouls that are truly and earneffly repenting of their fins, and as earneally feeking after reft in CHRIST, have been directed to: plays, nowels, romances, and merry company, to divert them from being righteous overmuch. Miferable comforters are fuch blind guides! Surely, they deferve no better titles than that of murdsress of fouls I They go not into the kingdom of heaven themfelves, and those who are entering in they would by this means hinder. Go not after them, all ye young men who would be able minifters of the New Festament; but on the contrary, if you would be useful in binding up the broken hearted, and pouring the oil of confelation into wounded fouls, prepare yourfelves for manifold temptations. For as Luther fays, " prayer " and meditation, reading and temptation, make a minister." If now exercised with spiritual conflicts, be not disheartened; it is a good fign that our LORD intends to make use of you. Being thus tempted like unto your brethren, you will be the better enabled to fuccour and advise those who shall apply to you under their temptations. What fays the apoftle Paul? " If we are afflicted, it is for your fake." And if you are afflicted, it is only that you may fave your own fouls, and help to fave the fouls of those who shall be committed to your charge. Be Arong therefore in the grace which is in CHRIST JESUS, and learn to endure hardness, like good foldiers, that are hereafter to instruct others how they must fight the good fight of faith. Thirdly,

Thirdly, Did the tempter come to CHRIST when he faw him an hungered ? Let those of you that are reduced to a low estate, from hence learn, that an hour of poverty is an hour of temptation, not only to murmuring and doubting of our fonship and the divine favour, but also to help ourselves by unlawful means. " If thou be the Son of GoD, faid Satan; command that these stones may be made bread." This is what Agur dreaded, " left I be poor and steal." Learn, ye godly poor, to be upon your guard, and remember that poverty and temptations are no marks of your being caft off by GOD. Your LORD was an hungered; your LORD was tempted on this account to doubt his fonfhip, before you. Learn of him not to distrust, but rather to trust in your heavenly Father. Angels came and miniftered unto CHRIST; and he who is LORD of the angels, will fend fome kind meffenger or another to relieve your wants. Your extremity shall be the Redeemer's opportunity to help you. Make your wants known unto him, he careth for you. Though in a defart, though no visible means appear at present, yet you shall in GOD's due time find a table spread for you and yours; " For man doth not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of Gop."

And may not fuch among you, who are exalted, as well as those who are brought low, from Satan's taking the LORD Issus, and placing him upon a pinnacle of the temple, learn also a leffon of holy watchfulness and caution. High places are flippery places, and are apt to make even the flrongeft heads and most devout hearts to turn giddy. How necessary therefore is that excellent petition in our Litany, " in all time of our wealth, (as well as in all time of our tribulation) good LORD deliver us !" Agreeably to this, Agur prays as much against riches as poverty; if he was poor, he feared he should be tempted to steal, if rich, that he should trust in uncertain riches, and fay, who is the LORD?

I charge, therefore, all of you, who are rich and high in this world, to watch and pray, left ye fall by Satan's temptation. Those especially of you, that are placed as on the pinnacle of the temple, exalted above your fellows in the church of GOD, take heed in an especial manner unto yourselves, left by spiritual pride, vanity, or any other fin that doth most eafily befet perfons perfons in fuch eminent stations, ye cast yourselves down. This is what Satan aims at. He ftrives to make us deftroyers of ourselves. And he hath a particular enmity against such as you; he knows, that your name is Legion; and that if you cast yourselves down, he shall gain a great advantage over many others; you cannot fall alone. O that it may be faid of us, as the papifts used to fay of Luther, " That German " beaft doth not love gold." May the fire of divine love burn up all the love of this prefent evil world, and pride of life, out of your hearts! This, Satan referved for his laft, as thinking it was the most powerful and prevailing temptation, "He took our LORD up into an exceeding high mountain, and shewed him all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them." He cares not how high he exalts us, or how high he is obliged to bid, fo he can but get our hearts divided between GOD and the world. All this will be offer to give us, if we will only fall down and worfhip him. Arm us, dear LORD JESUS, with thy Spirit, and help us under all fuch circumstances, to learn of thee, and fay unto the tempter, "Get thee hence, Satan; for it is written, thou shalt worship the LORD thy GOD, and him only fhalt thou ferve."

Fourthly, Whether befet with this or any other temptation. let all of us learn of our LORD to fight the devil with the fword of the Spirit, which is the word of GOD. Though he had the Spirit without measure, yet he always made use of this. We may fay of it, as David did of Goliah's fword. " none like this," none like this. And fuppoling Satan fhould be permitted to transform himfelf into an angel of light, and by falle impressions, and delusive applications of milguoted texts, attempt to turn this weapon upon us against ourselves ; let us not therefore be prevailed on to let go, but by comparing fpiritual things with spiritual, as our LORD did, find out GoD's mind and our duty. Had CHRIST's children and ministers only observed this one lesson, how much strange fire would quickly have been extinguished ? how much real enthusias been easily stopped? how many imaginary revelations have been detected ? how many triumphs of Satan and his emiffaries been prevented? and how much more would the comforts of CHRIST's people and ministers been continued and increased, not only in this present, but also in every age ्र्वृ VOL. of the christian church? But let us not be discouraged or think worse of CHRIST, his cause, or his word, because through Satan's fubtlety, any of us, or others, may have been drawn in to make fome wrong applications of it; others have been thus tempted and mistaken before us. However, let us be humbled before GOD and man, and be excited by our paft ignorance of Satan's devices, to adhere more closely to the written word, and to pray more earnestly for GoD's holy Spirit to give us direction by it. " Then will it still be a lanthorn unto our feet, and a light unto our paths;" we shall yet be enabled to behave more skilfully under all our future trials. Many we must yet expect; nay, perhaps our severest temptations are yet to come; Satan left our LORD, after his attacking him in the wilderness, " only for a feafon," as St. Luke has it, until the feason of his death and passion. And thus he may be permitted to deal with us. We are not yet come to our compleat reft; the King of terrors is yet to be grappled with, and the valley of the shadow of death to be paffed through; long before that, we may be called to endure many a fiery trial, and be befet with manifold temptations. under which we may be as ignorant how to behave, as under those with which we have already been visited. Alas! we know not what remaining corruptions are in our hearts. which time and temptation may draw out and difcover. Perhaps Satan hath not yet attacked us on our weakeft fide: when he does, if left to ourfelves, how weak shall we be? It is faid of Achilles, that he was invulnerable, except in the heel, and by a wound in that, at last he died. Let not him. therefore, that putteth on the harness, boaft as though he had put it off." Neither, on the other hand, let us be fainthearted or difmayed. Satan may tempt, but cannot force a he may fift, but CHRIST will pray. He who hath helped us already, will help us to the end. He who conquered for us in the wilderness, will ere long make us also more than conquerors over all trials and temptations, inward and outward. and over death and hell itfelf, through his almighty, everlafting, and never-failing love. We now fow in tears; in a very little time, and we shall reap with joy: we may now go on our way weeping, by reafon of the enemy oppreffing us; but, ere long, angels shall be fent, not to minister to us in this wilderhefs.

wilderness, but to carry us to an heavenly Canaan, even to Abraham's bosom. Then shall we see this accuser and tempter of our LORD, of our brethren, and of ourselves, cass out: this wicked one, as well as the wicked world, and wicked heart, will no more be permitted to vex, diffurb or annoy us.

"But woe unto you that laugh now; for you thall then lament and weep." Woe unto you, who either believe there is no devil, or never felt any of his temptations. Woe unto you that are at eafe in Zion, and inftead of flaying to be tempted by the devil, by idleness, felf-indulgence, and making continual provision for the flesh, even tempt the devil to tempt you. Woe unto you, who not content with finning yourfelves, turn factors for hell, and make a trade of tempting others to fin. Woe unto you, who either deny divine revelation, or never make use of it but to ferve a bad turn. Woe unto you who fell your confciences, and pawn your fouls for a little worldly wealth or honour. Woe unto you who climb up to high places, when in church or flate, by corruption, bribery, extortion, cringing, flattery, or bowing down to, and foothing the vices of those by whom you expect to rife. Woe unto you! for whether you will own the telation or not, furely you are of your father the devil; for the works of your father you will do; I tremble for you. How can you escape the damnation of hell.

But I have not time to follow fuch as you any farther. This difcourfe, and the prefent frame of my mind, lead me rather to fpeak to thofe, who by feeling Satan's fiery darts, know affuredly that there is a devil. Comfort thou, comfort thou, thefe afflicted ones, O LORD. O thou all-merciful and all-bountiful GOD, and thou compaffionate High-Prieft, thou once tempted, but now triumphant Saviour, as thou once didft not difdain to be miniftered unto by angels, blefs we pray thee this difcourfe, to the fupport and firengthening of thy tempted people, though delivered by the meaneft meifenger thou didft ever yet employ in thy church !

I add no more. The LORD blefs you and keep you! The LORD lift up the light of his countenance, ftablifh, ftrengthen, and fettle you, and bring you to his eternal kingdom!

SERMON XVIII.

The Heinous Sin of Profane Curfing and Swearing.

MATTHEW V. 34.

But I fay unto you, Swear not at all.

MONG the many heinous fins for which this nation is grown infamous, perhaps there is no one more crying, but withal more common, than the abominable cuftom of profane fwearing and curfing. Our ftreets abound with perfons of all degrees and qualities, who are continually provoking the holy one of Ifrael to anger, by their detestable oaths and blasphemies : and our very children, " out of whose mouths," the pfalmift observes in his days, " was perfected praise," are now grown remarkable for the quite opposite ill quality of curfing and swearing. This cannot but be a melancholy prospect, for every fincere and honest minister of JESUS CHRIST, to view his fellow-creatures in ; and such as will put him on contriving fome means to prevent the fpreading at least of fo growing an evil; knowing that the LORD (without repentance) will affuredly visit for these things. But alas ! what can he do? Public animadversions are so neglected amongft us, that we feldom find a common fwearer punished as the laws direct. And as for private admonition, men are now fo hardened through the deceitfulness of fin, that to give them fober and pious advice, and to fhew them the evil of their doings, is but like " cafting pearls before fwine; they only turn again and rend you." Since matters then are come to this pais, all that we can do is, that as we are appointed³³ watchmen watchmen and ambaffadors of the LORD, it is our duty from time to time to fhew the people their transgreffion, and warn them of their fin; fo that whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear, we however may deliver our own fouls. That I therefore may discharge my duty in this particular, give me leave, in the name of GOD, humbly to offer to your most ferious confideration, fome few observations on the words of the text, in order to shew the heinous of profane cursing and swearing.

But, before I proceed directly to the profecution of this point, it will be proper to clear this precept of our LORD from a misrepresentation that has been put on it by some, who infer from hence, that our Saviour prohibits fwearing before a magistrate, when required on a folemn and proper occafion. But that all fwearing is not abfolutely unlawful for a christian, is evident from the writings of St. Paul, whom we often find upon some solemn occasions using several forms of imprecation, as, "I call GOD to witnefs;" "GOD is my judge;" "By your rejoicing in CHRIST JESUS," and fuch like. And that our Saviour does by no means forbid fwearing before a magistrate, in the words now before us, is plain, if we confider the fcope and defign he had in view, when he gave his disciples this command. Permit me to obferve to you then, that our bleffed mafter had fet himfelf, from the 27th verse of the chapter, out of which the text is taken. to vindicate and clear the moral law from the corrupt gloffes and milconstruction of the Pharifees, who then fat in Moles's chair, but were notorioufly faulty in adhering too clofely to the literal expression of the law, without ever confidering the due extent and fpiritual meaning of it. Accordingly they imagined, that because GOD had faid, " Thou shalt not commit adultery," that therefore, fuppoling a perfon was not guilty of the very act of adultery, he was not chargeable with the breach of the feventh commandment. And likewife in the matter of fwearing, becaufe GoD had forbidden his people. in the books of Exedus and Deuteronomy, " to take his pame in vain," or to fwear falfely by his name; they therefore judged it lawful to fwear by any creature in common discourse, fuppoling they did not directly mention the name of GOD. Our bleffed Saviour therefore, in the words now before us, rectifics $ 3 : . **.

rectifies this their mistake about swearing, as he had done in the verfes immediately foregoing, concerning adultery, and tells the people, that whatever allowances the Pharifees might give to fwear by any creature, yet he pronounced it abfolutely unlawful for any of his followers to do fo. "You have heard, that it has been faid by them of old time," (namely, by the Pharifees and teachers of the Jewife law) " Thou thalt not forswear thyself, but perform unto the LORD thine oaths: but I fay unto you," (I who am appointed by the Father to be the great prophet and true law-giver of his church) "Swear not at all, (in your common conversation) neither by heaven for it is GOD's throne; (and therefore to fwear by that, is to fwear by Him that fits thereon) neither by the earth, for it is his foot-stool; nor by Forusalem, for it is the city of the great King; neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black : but let your communications (which plainly fhews that CHRIST is here speaking of swearing, not before a magistrate, but in common conversation) let your communication be yea, yea; pay, nay, (a ftrong affirmation or negation at the most); for whatloever is more than this, cometh of evil;" that is, cometh from an evil principle, from the evil one, the devil, the author of all evil.

Which by the way, methinks, fhould be a caution to all fuch perfons, who, though not guilty of fwearing in the grofs fenfe of the word, yet atteft the truth of what they are fpeaking of, though ever fo trifling, by faying, Upon my life,—as I live,—by my faith,—by the heavens, and fuch like : which exprefiions, however harmlefs and innocent they may be efteemed by fome forts of people, yet are the very oaths which our bleffed LORD condemns in the words immediately following the text; and perfons who ufe fuch unwarrantable forms of fpeaking, muft expect to be convicted and condemned as fwearers, at our Saviour's fecond coming to judge the world.

But to return: It appears then from the whole tenor of our Saviour's difcourfe, that in the words of the text he does by no means difannul or forbid fwearing before a magistrate (which, as might eafly be shewn, is both lawful and neceffary) but only profane fwearing in common conversation; the heinousness and sinfulness of which I come now, more immediately to lay before you.

And here, not to mention that it is a direct breach of our bleffed mafter's and great law-giver's command in the words of the text, as likewife of the third commandment, wherein GoD pofitively declares, "he will not hold him guiltlefs (that is, will affuredly punifh him) that taketh his name in vain:" not to mention that it is the greateft abufe of that noble faculty of fpeech, whereby we are diffinguifhed from the brute creation; or the great hazard the common fwearer runs, of being perjured fome time or other: not to mention thofe reafons againft it, which of themfelves would abundantly prove the folly and finfulnefs of fwearing: I fhall at this time content myfelf with inftancing four particulars, which highly aggravate the crime of profane fwearing, and thofe are fuch as follow:

- I. First, Because there is no temptation in nature to this fin, nor does the commission of it afford the offender the least pleasure or fatisfaction.
- II. Secondly, Becaule it is a fin which may be fo often repeated.
- III. Thirdly, Because it hardens infidels against the christian religion, and must give great offence, and occasion much forrow and concern to every true disciple of JESUS CHRIST.
- IV. Fourthly, Becaufe it is an extremity of fin, which can only be matched in hell.

I. The first reason then, why swearing in common conversation is so heinous in GOD's sight, and why we should not swear at all, is, because it has no temptation in nature, por does the commission of it, unless a man be a devil incarnate, afford the offender the least pleasure or satisfaction.

Now here, I prefume, we may lay it down as a maxim univerfally agreed on, that the guilt of any crime is increased or less or strength of the temptation, by which a person is carried to the commission of

it.

it: It was this confideration that extenuated and diminified the guilt of Saul's taking upon him to offer factifice before the Prophet Samuel came; and of Uzza's touching the ark, becaufe it was in danger of falling: as, on the contrary, what fo highly aggravated the difobedience of our first parents, and of Lot's wife, was, becaufe the former had fo little reason to eat the forbidden fruit, and the latter fo finall a temptation to look back on Sodom.

And now if this be granted, furcly the common fwearer muft of all finners be the moft without excufe, fince there is no manner of temptation in nature to the commiffion of his crime. In moft of the other commands, perfons, perhaps, may plead the force of natural inclination in excufe for the breach of them: one, for inftance, may alledge his firong propenfity to anger, to excufe his breaking of the fixth: another, his pronene's to luft, for his violation of the feventh. But furely the common fwearer has nothing of this kind to urge in his behalf: for though he may have a natural inclination to this or that crime, yet no man, it is to be prefumed, can fay, he is born with a fwearing conflictution.

But farther, As there is no temptation to it, fo there is no pleasure or profit to be reaped from the commission of it. Ask the drunkard why he rifes up early to follow ftrong drink, and he will tell you, because it affords his fensual apperite fome kind of pleafure and gratification, though it be no higher than that of a brute. Enquire of the covetous worldling, why he defrauds and over-reaches his neighbour, and he has an anfwer ready; to enrich himfelf, and lay up goods for many years. But it must certainly puzzle the profane fwearer himself, to inform you what pleafure he reaps from fwearing : for alas ! it is a fruitlefs taffelefs thing that he fells his foul for. But indeed he does not fell it at all : in this cafe he prodigally gives it away (without repentance) to the devil; and parts with a bleffed cternity, and runs into everlaiting torment, merely for nothing. ÷. :

II. But Secondly, what increases the heinousiness of protane Twearing, is, that it is a fin which may so often be repeated. This is another confideration which always ferves to less or increase the guilt and malignity of any tin. It was some t excule for the drunkennels of Noab, and the adultery of David. that they committed thefe crimes but once : as, on the contrary, of the patriarch Abraham's diffrust of GOD, that he repeated the diffembling of Sarah to be his wife, two feveral And if this be admitted as an aggravation of other times. perfons crimes, furely much more fo of the guilt of common fwearing, because it is a fin which may be, and is for the generality often repeated. In many other groß fins it cannot be fo: if a man be overcome in drink, there must be a confiderable time ere he can recover his debauch, and return to his cups again : or if he be accustomed to profane the fabbath, he cannot do it every day, but only one in feven. But alas! the profane fwearer is ready for another oath, almost hefore the found of the first is out of our ears : yea, some double and treble them in one fentence, even to as to confound the fense of what they fay, by an horrid din of blasphemy ! Now if the great and terrible Fehovah has exprelly declared that he will not hold him guiltlefs, that is, will affuredly punish him. that taketh his name but once in vain : what a vaft heap of these heinous fins lies at every common fwearer's door ! It would be apt to fink him into an intolerable despair, did he but fee the whole fum of them. And O what a feared conscience must that wretch have, that does not feel this prodigious weight !

III. But Thirdly, what makes the fin of profane fwearing appear yet more exceeding finful, is, that it hardens infidels against the christian religion.

It is the Apostle Peter's advice to the married perfons of his time, that they should walk as became the gospel of CHRIST, that those who were without, might be won to embrace the christian religion, by seeing and observing their pious converfation coupled together with fear. And what the Apostle prefies on married perfons, we find elsewhere enjoined on each particular member of the church. Accordingly we are commanded by our bleffed LORD, to " let our light fo fhine before men, that they may see our good works, and glorify our Father which is in heaven:" And the Apostle Paul bids us " walk eircumspectly towards them that are without, redeeming the times," that is, embracing all opportunities to do them good, " because " becaufe the days are evil." But alas ! in what a direct contradiction does the profane fwearer live to this and fuchlike precepts, who, inftead of gaining profelytes to CHRIST from the unbelieving part of the world, does all he can to oppofe it ! For how can it be expected, that infidels fhould honour our GOD, when chriftians themfelves defpife him ; or that any fhould embrace our religion, when profeffors of it themfelves make fo light of one of its ftricteft commands ? No; to our grief and fhame be it fpoken, it is by reafon of fuch impieties as thefe, that our holy religion (the beft and pureft in itfelf) is become a by-word among the heathen; that the facred authority of the holy JESUS and his doctrine is defpifed; and "GOD's name (as it is written) blafphemed among the Gentiles."

These cannot but be fad flumbling-blocks and offences in the way of our brethren's conversion : " But woe be to those men by whom such offences come." We may say of them, as our bleffed LORD did of Judas, " It had been better for such men, that they had never been born :" Or, as he threatens in another place, " It shall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrab in the day of judgment, than for such finners."

But this is not all; As profane fwearing must undoubtedly harden those in their infidelity, that are without, fo must it no lefs grieve and give great offence to those honeft and fincere perfons that are within the church. We hear of David's complaining and crying out, " Woe is me, that I am conftrained to dwell with Melech, and to have my habitation amongft the tents of Kedar;" that is, that he was obliged to live and converse with a people exceedingly wicked and profane. And St. Peter tells us, that " Lot's righteous foul was grieved day by day, whilft he faw and observed the ungodly conversation of the wicked." And no doubt it was one great part of our bleffed Master's sufferings whilst on earth, that he was compelled to converse with a wicked and perverse generasion, and to hear his heavenly Father's facred name profaned and fcoffed at by unrighteous and wicked men. And furely it cannot but pierce the heart of every true and fincere christian, of every one that does in any measure partake of the spirit of his Mafter, to hear the multitude of oaths and curfes which proceed daily and hourly out of the mouths of many people, and thole those too, whose liberal education, and seeming regard for the welfare of religion, one would think, thould teach them a more becoming behaviour. To hear the great and terrible name of GOD polluted by men, which is adored by angels : and to confider how often that facred name is profaned in common difcourse, which we are not worthy to mention in our prayers : this, I fay, cannot but make each of them cry out with holy David, "Woe is me, that I am confirained to dwell with Melech, and to have my habitation amongst the tents of Kedar." And though the blafphemous and profane discourses of others, will not be imputed to fincere persons for fin, fo long as they " have no fellowship with fuch hellish fruits of darknefs, but rather reprove them ;" yet it will greatly enhance the prefent guilt, and fadly increase the future punishment of every profane swearer, by whom such offences come. For if, as our Saviour tells us, " it had been better for a man to have a mill-ftone tied about his neck, than that he should offend one of his little ones, (that is, the weakest of his disciples) how much forer punishment will they be thought worthy of," who not only caufe GoD's name to be blasphemed among the Gentiles, and the religion of our dear Redeemer to be abhorred; but who make his faints to weep and mourn, and vex their righteous fouls from day to day, by their ungodly, profane, and blasphemous conversation ? Surely, as GOD will put the tears of the one into his bottle, fo it will be just in him to punish the other with eternal forrow, for all their ungodly and hard speeches, and cast them into a lake of fire and brimítone, where they shall be glad of a drop of water to cool those tongues, with which they have fo often blasphemed the LORD of Hofts, and grieved the people of our GoD.

IV. But it is time for me to proceed to give my Fourth and last reason, why common swearing is so exceeding finful; and that is, Because it is such an extremity of fin, that can only be matched in hell, where all are desperate, and without hope of mercy.

The damned devils, and damned fouls of men in hell, may be supposed to rave and blaspheme in their torments, because they know that the chains wherein they are held, can never be knocked knocked off: but for men that fwim in the river of GoD's goodnefs, whofe mercies are renewed to them every morning, and who are vifited with fresh tokens of his infinite unmerited loving-kindnefs every moment: for these favourite creatures to fet their mouths against heaven, and to blassheme a gracious, patient, all-bountiful GOD; is a height of fin which exceeds the blackness and impiety of devils and hell itself.

And now, after what has been here offered, to fhew the heinoufnefs of profane curfing and fwearing in common converfation, may I not very juftly addrefs myfelf to you in the words of the text, " Therefore I fay unto you, Swear not at all;" fince it is a fin that has no temptation in nature, nor brings any pleafure or profit to the committer of it; fince it hardens infidels in their infidelity, and affords fad caufes of grief and lamentation to every honeft chriftian; fince it is a fin that generally grows into a habit; and laftly, fuch a fin that can only be matched in hell.

1. And first then, if these things be so, and the fin of profane swearing, as hath been in some measure shewn, is so exceeding finful, what fhall we fay to fuch unhappy men, who think it not only allowable, but fashionable and polite, to " take the name of GOD in vain;" who imagine that fwearing makes them look big among their companions, and really think it a piece of honour to abound in it ? But alas! little do they think that fuch a behaviour argues the greatest degeneracy of mind and fool-hardiness, that can possibly be thought of. For what can be more bafe, than one hour to pretend to adore GOD in public worthip, and the very next moment to blafpheme his name : indeed, fuch a behaviour, from perfons who deny the being of a GOD, (if any fuch fools there be) is not altogether fo much to be wondered at; but for men, who not only fubscribe to the belief of a Deity, but likewife acknowledge him to be a GOD of infinite majefty and power; for fuch men to blafpheme his holy name, by profane curling and fwearing, and at the fame time confeis, that this very Gon has expressly declared, he will not hold him guiltlefs, but will certainly and eternally punish (without repentance) him that taketh his name in vain; is fuch an inftance of foolhardineis, as well as bafencis, that can fcarcely be paralleled. This is what they prefume not to do in other cafes of lefs danger :

danger : they dare not revile a general at the head of his army, nor rouze a sleeping lion when within reach of his paw. And is the Almighty GOD, the great JEHOVAH, the everlasting King, who can confume them by the breath of his noftrils, and frown them to hell in an inftant; is he the only contemptible being in their account, that may be provoked without fear, and offended without punishment? No; though GOD bear long, he will not bear always : the time will come, and that too, perhaps, much fooner than fuch perfons may expect, when GOD will vindicate his injured honour, when he will lay bare his almighty arm, and make those wretches feel the eternal imart of his juffice, whole power and name they have so often vilified and blasphemed. Alas ! what will become of all their bravery then ? Will they then wantonly fport with the name of their Maker, and call upon the King of all the earth to damn them any more in jeft? No; their note will then be changed : indeed, they fhall call, but it will be for "the rocks to fall on them, and the hills to cover them from the wrath of him that fitteth upon the throne, and from the Lamb for ever." It is true, time was when they prayed, though without thought, perhaps, for damnation both for themselves, and others : and now they will find their prayers answered. " They delighted in curfing, therefore fhall it happen unto them ; they loved not bleffing, therefore shall it be far from them; they cloathed themselves with curfing like as with a garment, and it fhall come into their bowels like water, and like oil into their bones."

2. But farther, if the fin of fwearing is fo exceeding heinous, and withal fo common, then it is every particular perfon's duty, especially those that are in authority, to do their utmost towards discountenancing and suppressing fo malignant a crime. The duty we owe both to GoD and our neighbour, requires this at our hands: by the one we are obliged to affert our Maker's honour; by the other to prevent our neighbour's ruin: and it is but doing as we would be done by, and as we ourselves act in cases of leffer consequence. Were we to hear either our own or our 'friend's good name vilified and traduced, we should think it our bounden duty to vindicate the wronged reputation of each: and shall the great, terrible, and holy name of our best and only friend, our king, our our father, nay our God : shall this be daily, nay every moment, defied and blasphemed; and will no one dare to fland up in defence of his honour and holine(s? Be aftonished, O heavens, at this ! No; let us fcorn all fuch bafe and treacherous treatment : let us refolve to support the cause of religion, and with a becoming prudent courage manifest our zeal for the honour of the LORD of Hofts. Men in authority have double the advantages of ordinary christians: their very office thews they are intended for the punifhment of evil doers. And fuch is the degeneracy of mankind, that the generality of them will be more influenced by the power of perfons in authority, than by the most laboured exhortations from the pulpit. To fuch, therefore, if there are any here prefent, I humbly address myself, befeeching them, in the name of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, to do their utmost to put a stop to. and reftrain profane curfing and fwearing. And though it must be confessed, that this is a work which requires a great deal of courage and pains, yet they would do well to confider, it is for GOD they undertake it, who certainly will support and bear them out in a due execution of their office here, and reward them with an exceeding and eternal weight of glory But it is time to draw towards a conclusion. hereafter.

3. Let me, therefore, once more address myself to every perfon here present, in the name of our LORD JESUS CHRIST; and if any amongft them have been any way guilty of this notorious fin of fwearing, let me entreat them by all that is near and dear to them, that they would neither give the magistrate the trouble to punish, nor their friends any reason for the future to warn them against committing the crime; but keep a constant and careful watch over the door of their lips, and withal implore the divine affiftance (without which all is nothing) that they offend no more fo fcandaloufly with their tongues. Let them feriously lay to heart, what with great plainnefs and fimplicity has here been delivered: and if they have any regard for themselves as men, or their reputation as christians; if they would not be a public scandal to their profeffion, or a grief to all that know or converse with them : in thort, if they would not be devils incarnate here, and provoke GOD to punish them eternally hereafter; I say unto them in the name of our LORD JESUS CHRIST, "Swear not at all." CHRIST the Support of the Tempted.

MATTHEW vi. 13.

Lead us not into Templation.

THE great and important duty which is incumbent on christians, is to guard against all appearance of evil; to watch against the first risings in the heart to evil; and to have a guard upon our actions, that they may not be finful. or fo much as feem to be fo. It is true, the devil is tempting us continually, and our own evil hearts are ready to join with the tempter, to make us fall into fins, that he thereby may . obtain a victory over us, and that we, my brethren, may be his fubjects, his fervants, his flaves; and then by-and-by he will pay us our wages, which will be death temporal, and Our LORD JESUS CHRIST faw how his peodeath eternal. ple would be tempted; and that the great enemy of their fouls would lay hold of every opportunity, fo he could but be a means of keeping poor finners from coming to the LORD JESUS CHRIST; hurrying you with temptation, to drive you to fome great fins; and then if he cannot gain you oven, fall it to a smaller, and fuit his temptations time after time a and when he finds none of these things will do, often transform himfelf into an angel of light, and by that means make the foul fall into fin, to the diffuonour of Gon, and the wounding of itself: the LORD JESUS, I fay, feeing how liable his disciples, and all others, would be to be overcome by temptation, therefore advifes them, when they pray, to beg that they might not be led into temptation. It is fo dangerous to engage to fubtle and powerful an enemy as Satan is, that we shall be overcome as often as we engage, unless the LORD LORD is on our fide. My brethren, if you were left to yourfelves, you would be overcome by every temptation with which you are befet.

These words are part of the prayer which CHRIST taught his disciples; and I shall, therefore, make no doubt, but that you all believe them to be true, fince they are spoken by one who cannot lie. I shall,

I. Shew you who it is that tempts you.

II. Shall fhew, my brethren, why he tempts you.

- III. Mention fome of the ways and means he makes use of, to draw you over to his temptations.
- IV.' Let you fee how earnest you ought to be to the LORD, that he may preferve you from being led into temptation.
- V. I fhall make fome application by way of entreaty unto you, to come unto CHRIST, that he, my brethren, may deliver you from being tempted.

I. First, We are to confider who it is that tempts ye.

And the Tempter is Satan, the prince of the power of the air, he that now ruleth in the children of difobedience; he is an enemy to GoD and goodnefs, he is a hater of all truth : Why elfe did he flander GoD in paradife? Why did he tell Eve, "You fhall not furely die?" He is full of malice, envy, and revenge : for what reafons elfe could induce him to moleft innocent man in paradife? The perfon that tempts ye, my brethren, is remarkable for his fubtilty : for having not power given him from above, he is obliged to wait for opportunities to betray us, and to catch us by guile : he, therefore, made ufe of the ferpent to tempt our first parents : and to lie in wait to deceive, is another part of his character. And though this character is given of the devil, if we were to examine our own hearts, we fhould find many of the tempter's characters legible in us.

Do not many of you love to make a lie? And if it is done in your trade, you therefore look on it as excufable; but whether you believe it or not, it is finful, it is exceedingly finful. Though you may value yourfelves as fine rational creatures,

creatures, and that you are noble beings; and you were fo, as you first came out of GoD's hands; but now you are fallen. there is nothing lovely, nothing defirable in man; his heart is a fink of pollution, full of fin and uncleannefs : Yet. though a man's own heart is fo desperately wicked, he is told by our modern polite preachers, that there is a fitnefs in men. and that GoD feeing you a good creature, gives you his grace ; but this, though it is a modern; polite, and fashionable way of talking, is very unferiptural; it is very contrary to the doctrines of the Reformation, and to our own Articles. But however contrary to the doctrines of the Church of England. vet our pulpits ring of nothing more, than doing no one any harm, living honeftly, loving your neighbour as yourfelves? and do what you can, and then CHRIST is to make up the deficiency: this is making CHRIST to be half a faviour, and man the other part; but I fay, CHRIST will be your whole righteoufnefs, vour whole wildom, your whole fanctification, or elfe he will never be your whole redemption. How amazing is it, that the ministers of the church of England should focak quite contrary to what they have fubfcr bed ! Good GOD ! if these are the guides of the ignorant, and esteemed to be the true ministers of JESUS, because they have a great fhare of letter-learning; when at the fame time they are only the blind leaders of the blind; and without a special Providence, they both will fall into the ditch.

No wonder at people's talking of the fitnefs and unfitnefs of things, when they can tell us, that the Spirit of God, is a good confcience, and the comforts of the Holy Ghoft are confequent thereupon. But this is wrong ; for it fhould be faid, the Spirit of GoD, are the comforts of the Holy Ghoft, and a good confcience confequent thereupon. Seneca, Cicero, Platos or any of the heathen philosophers, would have given as good a definition as this; it means no more than reflecting we have done well.

But let these modern; polite gentlemen, and let my letterlearned brethren, paint man in as lovely colours as they please; I will not do it : I dare not make him better than the word of God does. If I was to paint man in his proper colours, I must go to the kingdom of hell for a copy : for man is by nature full of pride, fubtility, malice; envy, revenge, VOL. V.

and all uncharitableness; and what are these but the tempers of the devil? and luft, sensuality, pleasure, these are the tempers of the beast. Thus, my brethren, man is half a beast, and half a devil, a moticy mixture of the beast and devil. And this is the creature, who has made himself so obnoxious to the wrath of GOD, and open to his indignation, that is told, that he must be part his own faviour, by doing good works, and what he cannot do CHRIST will do for him.

This is giving the tempter great room to come in with his temptation; he may prefs a foul to follow moral duties, to go to church, take the facrament, read, pray, meditate; the devil is well content you fhould do all thefe; but if they are done in your own ftrength, or if you go no farther than here, you are only going a (moother way to hell.

Thus, my brethren, you may see who it is that tempts us. But

II. Why he tempts you, is the fecond thing I am to fhew you.

It is out of envy to you, and to the LORD JESUS CHRIST, he endeavours to keep you from clofing with JESUS; and if he can but keep you from laying hold by faith on CHRIST, he knows he has you fafe enough; and the more temptations you are under, and according to their nature and greatness, you are more hurried in your minds; and the more unfettled your thoughts and affections are, the more apt you are to conclude, that if you were to go to CHRIST, at prefent, in all that hurry of mind, he would not receive you; but this is the policy of the tempter, to make you have low and diffionourable thoughts of the bleffed JESUS; and fo by degrees he works upon your minds, that you are careless and indifferent about CHRIST. This, this, my brethren, is the defign of the tempter. Nothing will pleafe him more, than to fee you ruined and loft for ever. He tempts you for that end, that you may lofe your interest in JESUS CHRIST, and that you may dwell with him and apoftate spirits to all eternity. He knows that JESUS CHRIST died for finners, yet he would fain keep fouls from feeking to this city of refuge for thelter, and from going to Gilead for the true balm.

It

It is he that rules in thy heart, O fcoffer, O Pharifee; the devil reigns there, and endeavours to blind your eyes, that you fhall not fee what danger you are in, and how much evil there is in those hearts of yours; and as long as he can keep you . eafy and unconcerned about having your hearts changed, he will be eafy; though if he can, he will tempt you to fin against him, until you are hardened in your iniquity. O, my brethren, do not give the devil a handle wherewith he may lay hold on you : alas ! it is no wonder that the devil tempts you, when he finds you at a play, a ball, or masquerade; if you are doing the devil's work, it is no wonder if he preffes you in the continuation thereof; and how can any fay, " Lead us not into temptation," in the morning, when they are refolved to run into it at night ? Good GoD! Are these persons members of the church of England? Alas, when you have gone to church, and read over the prayers, it is offering no more than the facrifice of fools; you fay Amen to them with your lips, when in your hearts you are either unconcerned at what you are about, or elfe you think that the bare faying of yout prayers is fufficient, and that then Gop and you have balanced accounts.

But, my dear brethren, do not deceive yourselves, God is not to be mocked. You are only ruining yourfelves for time and eternity. You pray, " lead us not into temptation," when you are tempting the devil to come and tempt you,

III. I fhall now point out fome of the ways and means, he makes use of to draw you to him/elf.

But this is a field to large, and I have but just begun to be a foldier of JESUS CHRIST, that I cannot name many unto you. I shall therefore be very short on this head.

1. He endeavours to make you think fin is not fo great as it is; that there is no occasion of being to over-firict, and that you are righteous over-much; that you are offentatious, and will do yourfelf harm by it; and that you will deftroy yourselves. He shows you, my brethren, the bait, but he hides the hook; he fhows you the pleafure, profits and advantages, that attend abundance of this world's goods; but he does not flow you the croffes, loffes and vexations that you m iy may have while you are in the enjoyment of the bleffings of this world.

2. When he finds he cannot allure you by flattery, he will try you by frowns, and the terrors of this world; he will flir up people to point at you, and cry, "Here comes another " troop of his followers :" He will ftir them up to jeer, fcoff, backbite, and hate you; but if he still finds this will not do. then he throws doubts, my brethren, and discouragements in your mind, whether the way you are in is the true way or not; or elfe he will fuggeft, What! do you expect to be faved by CHRIST ? Alfo, He did not die for you; you have been too great a finner; you have lived in fin fo long, and committed fuch fins against CHRIST, which he will not forgive. Thus he hurries poor finners almost into despair.

And very often, when the people of GoD are met to worthip him, he fends his agents, the fcoffers, to difturb them. We faw an inftance of their rage just now; they would fain have diffurbed us; but the LORD was on our fide, and fo prevented all the attempts of wicked and defigning men, to disturb and disquiet us. LORD JESUS, forgive them who are thus perfecuting thy truth ! JESUS, fhew them that they are fighting against thee, and that it is hard for them to kick against the pricks! These, my brethren, are some of the ways Satan takes, in his temptations, to bring you from CHRIST : Many more might be named ; but these are sufficient, I hope, to keep you on your guard, against all that the enemy can do to hinder you from coming to CHRIST.

IV. I come to fhew you, how earnest you ought to be with IESUS CHRIST, either not to fuffer you to be led into temptations, or to preferve you under them.

And here, my dear brethren, let me befeech you to go to JESUS CHRIST; tell him, how you are affaulted by the evil one, who lies in wait for your fouls; tell him, you are not able to mafter him, in your own ftrength; beg his affiftance, and you shall find him ready to help you; ready to affift you, and to be your Guide, your Comforter, your Saviour, your All: He will give you ftrength to refift the fiery darts of the devil; and, therefore, you can no where find one to proper. to relieve you, as JESUS CHRIST; he knows what it is to be tempted; tempted; he was tempted by Satan in the wildernefs, and he will give you the affiftance of his Spirit, to refift the evil one, and then he will fly from you. In CHRIST JESUS you shall have the ftrength you fland in need of, the devil shall have no power; therefore fear not, for in the name of the LORD we shall overcome all our spiritual Amalekites : Let the devil and his agents rage, let them breathe out threatnings, yea, let them breathe out flaughters, yet we can rejoice in this, that JESUS CHRIST hath them in his power, they shall go no farther than he permits them; they may rage, they may rage horribly, but they can go no farther, until they have got more power from on high.

If they could do us what mifchief they would, very few of us should be permitted to see our habitations any more; but, bleffed be GOD, we can commit ourfelves to his protection; he has been our protector hitherto, he will be fo ftill. Then earnesly intreat of the LORD to support you under those temptations, which the devil may affault you with; he is a powerful adverfary, he is a cunning one too; he would be too hard for us, unlefs we have the ftrength of CHRIST to be But let us be looking up unto JESUS, that he would with us. fend his Spirit into our hearts, and keep us from falling. O my dear brethren in CHRIST JESUS, how stands it now between GOD and your fouls? Is JESUS altogether lovely to your souls? is he precious unto you? I ath sure, if you have not gone back from CHRIST, he will not from you; he will root out the accurfed things of this world, and dwell in your You are candidates for heaven; and will you mind hearts. earth ? What are all the pleasures of earth, without an intereft in the LORD JESUS CHRIST ? And one fmile from him is more to be defired than rubies, yea more than the whole world.

O you who have found JESUS CHRIST affifting you, and fupporting you under all the temptations of this life, will you forfake him ? have you not found him a gracious mafter ? is he not the chiefest of ten thousand, and altogether lovely? Now you fee a form and comelinefs in CHRIST, which you never faw before. O! how do you and I with we had known JESUS fooner, and that we had more of his love; it is condescending love, it is amazing, it is forgiving love, it is dying love, love, it is exalted and interceding love, and it is glorified love. Methinks when I am talking of the love of JESUS CHRIST. who loved me before I loved him; he faw me polluted in blood, full of fores, a flave to fin, to death and hell, running to destruction, then he passed by me, and faid unto my foul, " Live;" he fnatched me as a brand plucked from the burning. It was love that faved me, it was all of the free grace of Gon, and that only. The little experience I have had of this love. makes me amazed at the condescension, the love, and mercifulnefs of the bleffed JESUS, that he should have mercy upon fuch a wretch. O, my brethren, the kingdom of GOD is within me, and this fills me fo full of love, that I would not be in my natural flate again, not for millions of millions of worlds; I long to be with JESUS, to live with the LORD that bought me, to live for ever with the Lamb that was flain, and to fing Hallelujab's unto him. Eternity itself will be too fhort to fet forth the love of the LORD JESUS CHRIST. I cannot, indeed I cannot forbear speaking again, and again, and again, of the LORD JESUS.

And if there are any here who are ftrangers to this love of the L RD JESUS CHRIST, do not defpair; come, come unto CHRIST, and he will have mercy upon you, he will pardon all your fins, he will heal all your backflidings, he will love you freely, and take you to be with himfelf. Come therefore, O my guilty brethren, unto JESUS, and you fhall find reft for your fouls. You need not fear, you need not defpair, when GOD has had mercy upon fuch a wretch as I; and he will fave you alfo, if you will come unto him by faith.

Why do ye delay? What! do you fay, you are poor, and therefore afhamed to come? It is not your poverty that CHRIST mindeth; come in all your rags, in all your pollution, and he will fave you. Do not depend upon any thing but the blood of JESUS CHRIST; do not ftand out an hour longer, but give your hearts to CHRIST, give him the firftlings of the flock; come unto him now, left he fhould cut you off before you are prepared, and your foul be fent to that pit from whence there is no redemption.

Do not waver, but give him that which he defires, your hearts; it is the heart the LORD JESUS CHRIST wanteth; and when you have an inward principle wrought in your hearts by this fame JESUS, then you will feel the fweetnefs and pleafure of communion with God. O confider, my brethren, the love of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, in dying for you; and are you refolved to flight his dving love? Your fins brought CHRIST from heaven, and I humbly, pray to the LORD that they may not be a means of fending you to hell. What language will make you leave your fins and come to CHRIST ? O that I did but know ! and that it lay in my power to give you this grace; not one of you, not the greatest fcoffer here fhould go hence before he was changed from a natural to a fpiritual life; then, then we would rejoice and take fweet council together; but all this is not in my power: but I tell you where you may have it, even of the LORD JESUS; he will give it to you, if you afk it of him, for he has told us. "Alk, and you shall receive;" therefore alk of him, and if you are repulfed again and again, intreat him more, and he will be unto you as he was to the poor Syrophænician woman, who came to CHRIST on account of her daughter; and if the was fo importunate to him for a body, how much more should we be folicitous for our fouls? If you feek to him in faith, his answer will be to you as it was to her, " Thy faith hath faved thee, be it as thou wouldeft have it."

O, do not forfake the feeking of the LORD; do not, I befeech you, neglect the opportunities which may be offered to you, for the falvation of your fouls; forfake not the affembling of yourfelves together, to build up and confirm and ftrengthen those who are weak in faith; to convince finners, that they may feel the power of GOD pricking them in their hearts, and make them cry out, "What must we do to be faved?"

The devil and his agents have their clubs of revelling, and their focieties of drunkennefs; they are not afhamed to be feen and heard doing the devil their mafter's works; they are not afhamed to proclaim him; and fure you are not afhamed of the LORD JESUS CHRIST; you dare proclaim that JESUS, who died that you might live, and who will own you before his Father and all the holy angels: Therefore, dare to be fingularly good; be not afraid of the face of man; let not all the threats of the men of this world move you: what is the lofs of all the grandeur, or pleafure, or reputation of this T 4 life, compared to the loss of heaven, of CHRIST and of your fouls? and as for the reproaches of the world, do not mind them; when they revile you, never, never revile again; do not answer railing with railing; but let love, kindness, meekness, patience, long-fuffering, be found in you, as they were in the bleffed JESUS; therefore, I befeech you, do not neglect the frequent coming together, and telling each other, what great things JESUS CHRIST hath done for your fouls.

I do not now, as the Pharifees fay I do, encourage you to leave your lawful callings, and your bulinels, in which GoD, by his providence, hath placed you; for you have two callings, the one a general, and the other a fpecial one; it is your duty to regard your familes, and if you neglect them out of any pretence whatfoever, as going to church or to focieties, you are out of the way of your duty, and offering that to GoD which he commanded you not. But then, my brethren, you are to take care that the things of this life do not hinder the preparing for that which is to come; let not the bulinels of the world make you unmindful of your fouls; but in all your moral actions, in the bulinels of life, let all be done with a yiew to the glory of GoD, and the falvation of your fouls.

The night draws on, and obliges me to haften to a conclufioh; though, methinks, I could fpeak until my tongue clave to the roof of my mouth, yea, until I could fpeak no more, if it was to fave your fouls from the paws of him who feeketh to devour them.

Therefore let me befeech you, in all love and compafion: Confider, you, who are Pharifees; you, who will not come to CHRIST, but are truffing to yourfelves for righteoulnefs; who think; becaufe you lead civil, honeft, decent lives, all will go well at laft; but let me tell you, O ye Pharifees, that harlots, murderers, and thieves, fhall enter the kingdom of GOD before you. Do not flatter yourfelves of being in the way to heaven, when you are in the broad way to hell; but if you will throw away your righteoufnefs and come to CHRIST, and be contented to let JESUS CHRIST do all for you, and in you, then CHRIST is willing to be your Saviour; but if you bring your good works with you, and think to be juffified on the account of them, you may feek to be juffified by them for ever, and never be juffified; no, it is only the blood of JESUS that cleanfeth éléanseth us from the filth and pollution of all our fins; and you must be fanctified before you are justified. As for good works, we are justified before GOD without any respect to them, either past, present, or to come : when we are justified, good works will follow our justification, for we can do no good works, until we are cleansed of our pollution, by the fanctification of the Spirit of GOD.

O ye fcoffers, come and fee this JESUS, this LORD of glory whom you have defpifed; and if you will but come to CHRIST, he will be willing to receive you, notwithftanding all the perfecution you have ufed towards his members: However, if you are refolved to perfift in your obstinacy, remember, falvation was offered to you, that CHRIST and free grace were proposed; but you refused to accept of either, and therefore your blood will be required at your own hands.

I shall only fay this unto you, that however you may defpife either me or my ministry, I shall not regard it, but shall frequently shew you your danger, and propose to you the remedy; and shall earnessly pity and pray for you, that GOD would shew you your error, and bring you home into his sheepfold, that you, from ravenous lions, may become peaceful lambs.

And as for you, O my brethren, who defire to chufe CHRIST for your Lord, and to experience his power upon your fouls, and as yet do not find your defires and prayers anfwered; go on, and CHRIST will manifeft himfelf unto you, as he does not unto the world; you fhall be made to fee and feel this love of JESUS upon your fouls; you fhall have a witnefs in your own breaft, that you are the LORD's; therefore, do not fear, the LORD JESUS CHRIST will gather you with his elect, when he comes at that great day of accounts, to judge every one according to the deeds done in the body, whether they be good, or whether they be evil: and, O that the thought of anfwering to GoD for all our actions, would make us more mindful about the confequences that will attend it.

And now let me address all of you, high and low, rich and poor, one with another, to accept of mercy and grace while it is offered to you: Now is the accepted time, now is the day of falvation; and will you not accept it, now it is offered unto you? do not stand out one moment longer; but come and and accept of JESUS CHRIST in his own way, and then you fhall be taken up at the last day, and be with him for ever and ever: and fure this should make you defirous of being with that JESUS who has done so much for you, and is now interceding for you, and preparing mansfions for you; where may we all arrive and fit down with JESUS to all eternity !

Which GOD of his infinite mercy grant, &c.

SERMONXX.

Worldly bufiness no Plea for the Neglect of Religion.

MATTHEW viii. 22. Let the dead bury their dead.

S T. Paul preaching at Athens, tells them, that as he paffed by and beheld their devotions, he perceived they were in all things too fuperstitious. But was this apostle to rife, and come publishing the glad tidings of falvation in any of our populous cities, he would fee no reason why he should charge the inhabitants with this; but rather as he passed by and observed the tenor of their life, fay, I perceive in all things ye are too worldly-minded; ye are too eagerly bent on purfuing your lawful business; fo eagerly, as either wholly to neglect, or at least too heedless to attend on the one thing needful.

There cannot then be a greater charity fhewn to the chriftian world, than to found an alarm in their ears, and to warn them of the inexpreffible danger, of continually grafping after the things of this life, without being equally, nay a thoufand times more concerned for their well-being in a future flate.

And there is ftill the more occasion for fuch an alarm, because worldly-mindedness to easily and craftily besets the hearts of men. For out of a specious pretence of ferving GoD in labouring for the meat which perisheth, they are infensibly fulled into such a spiritual flumber, as fearce to perceive their neglect to secure that which endureth to everlassing life.

The

The words of the text, if not at first view, yet when examined and explained, will be found applicable to this case, as containing an admirable caution not to pursue the affairs of this world, at the expense of our happines in the next.

They are the words of JESUS CHRIST himfelf: the occafion of their being fpoken was this; As he was converfing with those that were gathered round about him, he gave one of them an immediate fummons to follow him: but he, either afraid to go after fuch a perfecuted master, or rather loving this present world, fays, "Suffer me first to go home and bury my father;" or, as most explain it, let me first go and dispatch fome important business I have now in hand. But JESUS faid unto him, "Let the dead bury their dead;" leave worldly business to worldly men, let thy fecular business be left undone, rather than thou should neglect to follow me.

Whether this perfon did as he was commanded, I know not; but this I know, that what CHRIST faid here in perfon, he has often whilpered with the finall ftill voice of his holy Spirit, and faid to many here prefent, that rife up early and late take reft, and eat the bread of earefulnefs, Come draw off your affections from the things of this life; take up your crofs and follow me. But they, willing to juilify themfelves, make anfwer, LORD, fuffer us first to bury our fathers, or difpatch our fecular affairs. I fay unto all fuch, "Let the dead bury their dead," let your worldly bufinefs be left undone, rather than you fhould neglect to follow him.

From the words thus explained, naturally arifes this proposition, that no buliness, though ever so important, can justify a neglect of true religion.

The truth of which I shall first shew, and then make an application of it.

I. First then, I am to prove, that no temporal business, though ever so important, can justify a neglect of true religion.

By the word religion, I do not mean any fet of moral virtues, any partial amendment of ourfelves, or formal attendance on any outward duties whatfoever: but an application of CHRIST's whole and perfonal righteoufnels, made by faith to our hearts; a thorough real change of nature wrought in us by the invifible, yet powerful operation of the Holy Ghoft, preferved and nourifhed in our fouls by a conftant use of all the means of grace, evidenced by a good life, and bringing forth the fruits of the Spirit.

This is true and undefiled religion, and for the perfecting this good work in our hearts, the eternal Son of GOD came down and fhed his precious blood; for this end were we made, and fent into the world, and by this alone can we become the fons of GOD. Were we indeed to judge by the common practice of the world, we might think we were fent into it for no other purpole, than to care and toil for the uncertain riches of this life : but if we confult the lively oracles, they will inform us, that we were born for nobler ends, even to be born again from above, to be reftored to the divine likenels by JESUS CHRIST, our fecond Adam, and thereby be made meet to inherit the kingdom of heaven; and confequently, there is an obligation laid upon all, even the most buly people, to fecure this end; it being an undeniable truth, that all creatures ought to answer the end for which they were created.

Some indeed are for confining religion to the elergy, and think it only belongs to those who serve at the altar: but what a fatal miltake is this, feeing all perfons are indifferently called by GOD to the fame state of inward holinefs. As we are all corrupt in our nature, fo must we all be renewed and And though it must be granted, that the clergy fanctified. lie under double obligations to be examples to believers, in faith, zeal, charity, and whatever elfe is commendable and of good report, as being more immediately dedicated to the fervice of GOD; yet as we have been all baptized with one baptism into the death of CHRIST, we are all under the neceffity of performing our baptismal covenant, and perfecting holinefs in the fear of GOD: for the holy scriptures point out to us but one way of admission into the kingdom of CHRIST, through the narrow gate of a found conversion : and he that does not enter into the fheepfold, whether clergy or lay-man, by this door, will find, to his everlafting confusion, there is no climbing up another way.

Belides,

Befides, what a groß ignorance of the nature of true religion, as well as of our own happinels, does fuch a diffinction difcover? For what does our Saviour, by willing us to be religious, require of us? but to fubdue our corrupt paffions, to root out ill habits, to engraft the heavenly graces of GoD's most holy Spirit in their room; and, in one word, to fill us with all the fulnels of GoD.

And will men be so much their own enemies, as to affirm this belongs only to those who minister in holy things? Does it not equally concern the most active man living? Is it the end of religion to make men happy, and is it not every one's privilege to be as happy as he can? Do perfons in bufinels find the corruptions of their nature, and diforder of their paffions, fo pleafing, that they care not whether they ever regulate or root them out? Or will they confent that minifters shall be alone partakers of the inheritance of the faints in light? If not, as they defire the fame end, why will they not make use of the same means ? Do they think that GOD will . create a new thing upon the earth, and, contrary to the purity of his nature, and immutability of his counfel, admit them into heaven in their natural state, because they have been encumbred about many worldly things? Search the scriptures, and see if they give any room for such a groundlefs hope.

But farther, one would imagine there was fomething of the higheft concern and utmost importance in our temporal affairs, that they should divert fo many from purifying their hearts by faith which is in CHRIST JESUS.

A covetous mifer, who neglects religion by being continually intent on feeking great things for himfelf and thofe of his own houfhold, flatters himfelf he herein acts moft wifely; and at the fame time will cenfure and condemn a young prodigal, who has no time to be devout, becaufe he is fo perpetually engaged in wafting his fubftance by riotous living and following of harlots. But yet a little while, and men will be convinced, that they are as much without excufe who lofe their fouls by hunting after riches, as thofe who lofe them by hunting after fenfual pleafures. For though bufinefs may affume an air of importance, when compared with other trifling amufements, yet when put in the balance with with the lofs of our precious and immortal fouls, it is equally frivolous, according to that of our Saviour, "What fhall it" profit a man, if he fhall gain the whole world, and lofe his own foul; or what fhall a man give in exchange for his foul?"

And now what need we any further proof? We have heard the decifion out of CHRIST's own mouth. But becaufe it is fo difficult to convince fuch of this important truth, whofe hearts are blinded by the deceitfulness of riches, that we had need cry out to them in the language of the prophet, "O earth, earth, hear the word of the LORD," I shall lay before you one passage of scripture more, which I could with were written on the tables of all our hearts. In the xivth of St. Luke, the 18th and following verfes, our bleffed LORD puts forth this parable, " A certain man made a great fupper, and bade many, and fent his fervant at fuppertime, to call them that were bidden : but they all, with one confent, began to make excufe. The one faid, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and fee it, I prav thee have me excufed. And another faid, I have bought a voke of oxen, and I must needs go and prove them, I pray thee therefore have me excufed. So the fervant returned, and fhewed his mafter all these things." And what follows? Did the mafter accept of their excuses? No, the text tells us the good man was angry, and faid, " that none of those which were bidden, should taste of his supper." And what does this parable teach, but that the most lawful callings cannot juffify our neglect; nay, that they are no longer lawful when they in any wife interfere with the great concerns, of religion ? For the marriage supper here spoken of, means the gospel; the master of the house is CHRIST; the servants fent out, are his ministers, whole duty it is, from time to time, to call the people to this marriage-feaft, or, in other words, to be religious. Now we find those that were bidden. were very well and honefly employed. There was no harm in buying or feeing a piece of ground, or in going to prove a yoke of oxen; but here lay their fault, they were doing these things, when they were invited to come to the marriage feaft.

Without

Without doubt, perfons may very honeftly and commendably be employed in following their refpective callings; but yet, if they are engaged fo deeply in thefe, as to hinder their working out their falvation with fear and trembling, they muft expect the fame fentence with their predeceffors in the parable, that none of them fhall tafte of CHRIST's fupper : for our particular calling, as of this or that profeffion, muft never interfere with our general and precious calling, as chriftians. Not that chriftianity calls us entirely out of the world, the holy foriptures warrant no fuch doctrine.

It is very remarkable, that in the book of life, we find fome almost of all kinds of occupations, who notwithstanding ferved GOD in their respective generations, and shone as fo many lights in the world. Thus we hear of a good centurion in the evangeliss, and a devout Cornelius in the Acts; a pious lawyer; and fome that walked with GOD, even of Nero's houshold, in the epistles; and our divine master himself, in his check to Martha, does not condemn her for minding; but for being cumbered or perplexed about many things.

No, you may, nay, you must labou, out of obedience to Gop, even for the meat which perisheth.

But I come, in the Second place, to apply what has been faid.

I befeech you, by the mercies of GOD in CHRIST JESUS, let not your concern for the meat which perisheth be at the expence of that which endureth to everlassing life; for, to repeat our bleffed Saviour's words, "What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own foul; or, what shall a man give in exchange for his foul?"

Were we always to live in the world, then worldly wifdom would be our higheft wifdom: but forafmuch as we have here no continuing city, and were only fent into this world to have our natures changed, and to fit ourfelves for that which is to come; then to neglect this important work for a little worldly gain, what is it but, with profane Efau, to fell pur birth-right for a mefs of pottage.

Alas! how unlike are chriftians to chriftianity! they are commanded to "feek first the kingdom of GOD and his righteoufnels," and all other real necessfaries shall be added unto them; but they are fearful (O men of little faith!) that if they should do fo; all other necessfaries would be taken from them : them : they are ftrictly forbidden to be careful for the morrow, and yet they reft not night or day, but are continually heaping up riches for many years, though they know not who fhall gather them. Is this acting like perfons that are ftrangers and pilgrims upon earth ? Is this keeping their baptifmal vow ? Or rather, is it not directly apoftatizing from it, and deferting the fervice of JESUS CHRIST, to lift themfelves under the banner of mammon ?

But what will be the hope of fuch worldlings, when Gop fhall take away their fouls? What if the almighty fhould fay to each of them, as he did'to the rich fool in the gofpel, ^{et} this night fhall thy foul be required of thee;" O then, what would all those things profit them, which they are now fo bufy in providing?

Was eternal life, that free gift of GOD in CHRIST JESUS, to be purchafed with moncy; or could men carry their flocks beyond the grave, to buy oil for their lamps, i. e. grace for their hearts, when they flould be called to meet the bridegroom, there might be fome reafon why GOD might well bear with them : but fince their money is to perifh with them; fince it is certain, as they brought nothing into the world, fo they can carry pothing out; or fuppofing they could, fince there is no oil to be bought, no grace to be purchafed when once the lamp of their natural life is gone out; would it not be much more prudent to fpend the flort time they have here allotted them, in buying oil while it may be had, and not for fear of having a little lefs of that which will quickly be another man's, eternally lofe the true riches?

What think you? Is it to be fuppofed, it grieved that covetous worldling before mentioned, when his foul fprung into the world of fpirits, that he could not flay here till he had pulled down his barns and built greater? Or think you not that all things here below feemed equally little to him then, and he only repented that he had not employed more time in pulling down every high thought that exalted itfelf againft the Almighty, and building up his foul in the knowledge and fear of Gop ?

And thus it will be with all unhappy men, who like him are difquieting themfelves in a vain purfuit after worldly riches, and at the fame time are not rich towards GoD.

Vol. V. 48 U

They

They may, for a feafon, feem excellently well employed in being folicitoufly careful about the important concerns of this life; but when once their eyes are opened by death, and their fouls launched into eternity, they will then fee the littlenefs of all fublunary cares, and wonder they fhould be fo befotted to the things of another life, while they were, it may be, applauded for their great wifdom and profound fagacity in the affairs of this world.

Alas! how will they bemoan themfelves for acting like the unjust fleward, to very wifely in their temporal concerns, in calling their respective debtors to carefully, and asking how much every one owes to them, and yet never remembring to call themfelves to an account, or enquire how much they owed to their own great LORD and master?

And now what shall I fay more? The GOD of this world, and the inordinate defire of other things, must have wholly shifted the conficience of that man, who does not see the force of these plain reasonings.

Permit me only to add a word or two to the rich, and to perfons that are freed from the business of this life.

But here I must pause a while, for I am sensible that it is but an ungrateful, and as some may imagine, an assuming thing, for such a novice in religion to take upon him to inflruct men in high stations, and who perhaps would disdain to set me with the dogs of their slock.

But however, fince St. Paul, who knew what beft became a young preacher, commanded Timothy, young as he was, to exhort and charge the rich with all authority; I hope none here that are fo, will be offended, if with humility I beg leave to remind them, though they once knew this, that if perfons in the moft bufy employs are indifpenfibly obliged to " work out their falvation with fear and trembling," much more ought they to do fo, who are free from the toils and incumbrance of a lower way of life, and confequently have greater opportunities and leifure to prepare themfelves for a future flate.

But is this really the cafe? or do we not find, by fatal experience, that too many of those whom GOD has exalted above their brethren, who are " cloathed in purple and fine linnen, and fare sumptuously every day," by a fad abuse of

GoD's great bounty towards them, think that their flations fet them above religion, and fo let the poor, who live by the fweat of their brows, attend more conftantly on the means of grace than do they ?

[307]

But woe unto fuch rich men! for they have received their confolation. Happy had it been if they had never been born for if the careles irreligious tradelman cannot be faved, where will luxurious and wicked gentlemen appear?

Let me therefore, by way of conclusion, exhort all perfons, high and low, rich and poor, one with another, to make the renewal of their fallen nature, the one business of their lives ; and to let no worldly profit, no worldly pleafure, divert them from the thoughts of it. Let this cry, "Behold the bridegroom cometh," be ever founding in our ears; and let us live as creatures that are every moment liable to be hurried away by death to judgment : let us remember, that this life is a fate of infinite importance, a point between two eternities, and that after these few days are ended, there will remain no more facrifice for fin; let us be often afking ourfelves, how we shall wish we had lived when we leave the world ? And then we shall always live in such a state, as we shall never fear to die in. Whether we live, we shall live unto the LORD; or whether we die, we shall die unto the LORD; fo that living or dying we may be the LORD's.

To which end, let us befeech GOD, the protector of all them that put their truft in him, without whom nothing is frong, nothing is holy, to increase and multiply upon us his mercy, that he being our ruler and guide, we may so pass through things temporal, that we finally lose not the things eternal; through JESUS CHRIST OUR LORD.

SERMON XXI.

CHRIST the only Reft for the Weary and Heavy-Laden.

MATTHEW XI. 28.

Come unto me, all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you reft.

TOTHING is more generally known than the duties which belong to christianity; and yet, how amazing is it, nothing is lefs practifed ? There is much of it in name and fhew, but little of it in the heart and conversation; indeed, if going to church, and to the facrament, or, if our being called after the name of CHRIST, and being baptized into that name ; if that will make us christians, I believe all of us would have a claim thereto: but if it confifts in the heart, that there must be an inward principle wrought in us by faith; that there must be a change of the whole nature, a putting off the old man with his deeds, a turning from fin unto GOD, a cleaving only unto the Son of Righteousnes; and that there must be a new birth, and we experience the pangs thereof; and that you must feel yourselves weary and heavy laden with your fins, before you will feek for deliverance from them; if this is to be the cafe, if there is fo much in being children of GOD, alas ! how many who pleafe themfelves with an outfide fhew, a name to live whilft they are dead; and how few that have any fhare in this spiritual state, in this true and living name ? How few are they who are weary and heavy laden with their fins, and feek to CHRIST for reft? They fay, in a formal suftomary manner, we are finners, and there is no health in us; but how few feel themfelves.

felves finners, and are fo oppreft in their own fpirits, that they have no quiet nor reft in them, because of the burden of their fins, and the weight that is fallen and lays on their minds?

Under these burdens, these heavy burdens, they are at a loss what to do whereby they may obtain reft; they fly to their works, they go to a minister, and he tells them to read, to pray, and meditate, and take the facrament : thus they go away, and read, and pray, and meditate almost with out ceafing, and never neglect the facrament whenever there is an opportunity for the taking of it. Well, when the poor foul has done all this, it still finds no ease, there is yet no relief : Well, what must you do then ? To lie still under the burden they cannot, and to get rid of it they cannot : O what must the burdened foul do'! Why, goes to the clergyman again, and tells him the cafe, and what it has done, and that it is no better. Well, he asks, have you given alms to the poor? Why no. Then go and do that, and you will find reft. Thus the poor finner is hurried from duty to duty, and ftill finds no reft : all things are uneafy and difquiet within, and there remains no reft in the foul. And if it was to go through all the duties of religion, and read over a thousand manuals of prayers, none would ever give the foul any reft; nothing will, until it goes to the LORD JESUS CHRIST, for there is the only true reft; that is the reft which abideth, and will continue for ever. It is not in your own works, nor in your endeavours : no; when CHRIST comes into your fouls, he pardons you, without any respect to your works, either past, present, or to come.

From the words, my brethren, I have now read, I thall

I. Shew you who are the weary and heavy laden.

II. Inquire what is meant by coming to CHRIST. And,

III. Conclude with exhorting you to accept of the invitation which the LORD JESUS CHRIST gives unto you to come unto him, with the affurance of finding reft.

First, I am to shew you, who are the weary and heavy-laden.

U 3

And.

And here it will be neceffary to confider who are not; and then, to confider who they are that are really fo.

1. Those who think themselves good enough, and are pleased that they are not so bad as others, these are not weary or heavy laden.

No, these Pharifees are not thus troubled; they laugh and jeft at those who talk of feeling their fins, and think there is no occasion to make so much ado about religion : it is to be righteous over-much, and the means to deftroy yourfelves. They think if they do but mean well, and fay their prayers. as they call them, it is sufficient: though they may fay a prayer, yea, thousands of prayers, and all the while be only offering up the facrifice of fools. They may call Goo, Father, every day, when it is only mocking of GOD, and offering up falle fire unto him; and it would be just for him to ferve them, as he did Nabab and Abihu, destroy them, cut them off from the face of the earth : but he is waiting to be gracious, and willing to try a little longer, whether you will bring forth any thing more than the leaves of an outward profession, which is not all that the LORD requires : no, he wants the heart; and unless you honour him with that, he does not regard your mouths, when the other is far from him. You may fay over your prayers all your lives, and yet you may never pray over one: therefore, while you flatter yourfelves you are good enough, and that you are in a flate of falvation, you are only deceiving your own fouls, and hastening on your own destruction, Come unto him, not as being good enough, but as vile finners, as poor, and blind, and naked, and miserable, and then JESUS will have compassion.

O ye Pharifees, what fruits do ye bring forth? Why, you are moral, polite creatures; you do your endeavours, you do what you can, and fo JESUS is to make up the reft. You effeem yourfelves fine, rational, and polite beings, and think it is too unfafhionable to pray; it is not polite enough : perhaps you have read fome prayers, but knew not how to pray from your hearts; no, by no means : that was being righteous over-much indeed.

But when once you are fenfible of your being loft, damned creatures, and fee hell gaping ready to receive you; if GoD was but to cut the thread of life, O then, then you would cry. earneftly earnefly unto the LORD to receive you, to open the door of mercy unto you; your tones would then be changed, you would no more flatter yourfelves with your abilities and good wishes : no, you would fee how unable you were, how incapable to fave yourfelves; that there is no fitnefs, no free will in you: no fitnefs, but for eternal damnation, no free will but that of doing evil; and that when you would do good. evil is prefent with you, and the thing that ye would not, that do ye. He knows the fectet intent of every heart; and this is a pleasure to you, my dear brethren, who come on purpose to meet with him, though it be in a field. And, however fome may efteem me a mountebank, and an enthyfiaft, one that is only going to make you methodically mad ; they may breathe out their invectives against me, yet CHRIST knows all; he takes notice of it, and I fhall leave it to him to plead my cause, for he is a gracious Master : I have already found him to, and am fure he will continue to. Vengeance is his, and he will repay it. Let them revile me ; let them caft me out of their fynagogues, and have my name in reproach, I shall not answer them by reviling again, or in speaking evil against them : no, that is not the Spirit of CHRIST, but meekness, patience, long-fuffering, kindnefs. &c.

Ye pharifees, who are going about to effablish your own righteoulnefs; you, who are too polite to follow the LORD Izsus CHRIST in fincerity and truth; you, who are all for a little fhew, a little outfide work; who lead moral, civil, decent lives, CHRIST will not know you at the great day, but will fay unto you, O ye Pharifees, was there any place for me in your love? Alas! you are full of anger and malice, and felf-will; yet you pretended to love and ferve me, and to be my people : but, however, I despife you ; I, who am Gon, and knoweth the fecret of all hearts; I, who am truth itfelf, the faithful and true witnefs, fay unto you, " Depart from me, ye workers of iniquity, into that place of torment, prepared for the devil and his angels." Good Gop ! and must these diferent polite creatures, who never did any one harm, but led fuch civil, decent lives, must they fuffer the vengeance of eternal fire? Cannot their righteous fouls be faved ? Where then must the finner and the ungodly appear? Where wilt thou, O fabbath-breaker, appear, thou, who canft take thy pleafure.

pleasure, thy recreation, on the LORD's-day, who refufest to hear the word of Gop, who wilt not come to church to be instructed in the ways of the LORD? Where will you, O ve adulterers, fornicators, and fuch-like of this generation appear ? Whoremongers and adulterers GOD will judge, and them he will condemn. Then you will not call thefe tricks of youth : no, but you will call on the rocks and the mountains to fall on you, to hide you from the fury and anger of Where wilt thou, O man, appear, that takes the LORD. pleasure in making a mock of fin, who despisest all reproof, who throws about thy jefts as a madman does fire, and afks whether thou art not in fport? Where wilt thou, O man, appear, that makes it thy business to preach against the children of the Most High; thou, who art inventing methods in order to ftop the progress of the gospel, and using thy utmost power to quash the preaching thereof; who art raising of evil reports against the disciples of CHRIST, and effeemest them madmen, fools, fchifmatics, and a parcel of rabble? Thou, O man, with all thy letter-learning, wilt furely fee the judgment-feat of CHRIST, though, perhaps, forely against your will; to be caft by him into eternal fire, a place prepared for the devil and his angels. There is a burning tophet kindled by the fury of an avenging GOD, which will never, never be quenched. , The devil longs to embrace you in his hellifh arms, whenever the fentence is past, where you must for ever bear the weight of your fin : there is no redemption then; the day of grace is paft; the door of hope is fhut; mercy will be no more offered, but you must be shut out from GOD for ever. O who can dwell with everlasting burnings !

However you may think of hell, indeed it is not a painted fire; it is not an imagination to keep people in awe: then, then you will feel the power of the almighty arm. If you will not lay hold on his golden feeptre, he will break you with his iron rod. O ye Pharifees, who are now fo good, fo much better than others, how will ye ftand before CHRIST, when dreft in his glory as judge? You Arians, may now defpife his divinity; then you fhall have a proof of it; he will fhew, that he has all power, and that he was no fubordinate GoD; he will fhew you that he has all power in heaven and and earth; that he was King of kings, and Lord of lords; that he was the mighty GoD, the everlafting Father; and this power that he has, he will exercise in preferving you to no other end, but to punish you for ever. Thus you, who please yourselves with being good enough now, who are not weary and heavy laden with a fense of your fins here, will be weary and heavy laden with a fense of your punishment hereafter.

2. Those, my brethren, are not weary and heavy laden with a sense of their fins, who can delight themselves in the polite entertainments of the age, and follow the finful divertions of life.

Now they can go to balls and affemblies, play-houfes and horfe-racing; they have no thought of their fins; they know not what it is to weep for fin, or humble themfelves under the mighty hand of GOD; they can laugh away their forrows, and fing away their cares, and drive away thefe melancholy thoughts; they are too polite to entertain any fad thoughts; the talk of death and judgment is irkfome to them, becaufe it damps their mirth; they could not endure to think of their fin and danger; they could not go to a play, and think of hell; they could not go quietly to a mafquerade, and think of their danger; they could not go to a ball or an affembly in peace, if they thought of their fins.

And fo it is proved, even to a demonstration, that these are not weary and heavy laden : for if they are not thoughtful about their fins, they will never be weary and heavy laden of them. But at the day of judgment all will be over : they shall lose all their carnal mirth, all their pleasure, all their delight will be gone for ever.

They will fay then of their laughter, it is mad; and of mirth, What doft thou? Their merry conceits, and witty jefts against the poor despised people of GOD, are then over. Their mirth was but as the crackling of thorns under a pot; it made a great blaze and unseemly noise for a while, but it was presently gone, and will return no more.

They think now, that if they were to fast or to pray, and meditate and mourn, they should be righteous over much, and destroy themselves; their lives would be a continual trouble, and it would make them run mad. Alas, my brethren, what miscry must that life be, where there is no more pleasant days, no more balls or plays, no cards or dice, those wasters of precious time, no horse-racing and cock-fighting, from whence no good ever came, unless abusing God Almighty's creatures, and putting them to that use which he never defigned them, can be called fo. How miserable will your life be, when all your joys are over, when your pleasures are all pass, and no more mirth or passing? Do you think there is one merry heart in hell? one pleasing countenance? or jesting, fcossing, swearing tongue? A fermon now is irksome: the offer of falvation, by the blood of JESUS CHRIST, is now termed enthusias if in your power, for one tender of mercy, for one offer of grace, which now you to much despise.

Now, you are not weary of your diversions, nor are you heavy laden with the fins, with which they are accompanied : but then you will be weary of your punishment, and the aggravation which attends it. Your cards and dice, your bawks and hounds, and bowls, and your pleafant fports, will then be over. What mirth will you have in remembering your sports and diversions ? I would not have you mistake me, and fay, I am only preaching death and damnation to you; I am only fhewing you what will be the confequence of continuing in these finful pleasures; and if the devil does not hurry you away with half a fermon, I shall shew you how to avoid these dangers, which I now preach up as the effect of fin unrepented of. I mention this, left you should be hurried away by the devil : but be not offended, if I point out unto you more of the terrors which will attend your following these polite and fashionable entertainments of the present age, and of not being weary and heavy laden with a fenfe of your fins.

They who delight in drinking wine to excefs, and where are drunkards, what bitter draughts will they have inflead of wine and ale? The heat of luft will be then also abated; they will no more fing the fong of the drunkard; no more fpend their time in courting their miftreffes, in lascivious difcourfe, in amorous fongs, in wanton dalliances, in brutifh defilements: no, thefe are all over; and it will but prick each other to the heart to look one another in the face. Then they will with, that inflead of finning together, they had prayed prayed together; had frequented religious focieties; had ftirred up each other to love and holinefs, and endeavoured to convince each other of the evil of fin, and how obnoxious they are to the wrath of GOD; and the neceffity of being weary and heavy laden with a fenfe thereof; that they might have elcaped the punifhment which they fuffer, by their following the finful and polite diversions of the age they fell into. But as it was against GoD himfelf they had finned, fo no lefs than GOD will punifh them for their offences: he hath prepared their torments for his enemics; his continual anger will ftill be devouring of them; his breath of indignation will kindle the flame; his wrath will be a continual burden to their fouls. Woe be to him who falls under the flroke of the Almighty !

Thus they are not weary and heavy laden with their fins, who can follow the polite and fathionable entertainments of the age. But,

Secondly, I am to fhew you what it is to be weary and heavy laden with fins. And

1. You may be faid, my brethren, to be weary and heavy laden, when your fins are grievous unto you, and it is with grief and trouble you commit them.

You, who are awakened unto a fenfe of your fins, who fee how hateful they are to GOD, and how they lay you open to his wrath and indignation, and would willingly avoid them; who hate yourfelves for committing them; when you are thus convinced of fin, when you fee the terrors of the law, and are afraid of his judgments; then you may be faid to be weary of your fins. And O how terrible do they appear when you are first awakened to a fense of them; when you fee nothing but the wrath of GOD ready to fall upon you, and you are afraid of his judgments! O how heavy is your fin to you then ! Then you feel the weight thereof, and that it is grievous to be borne.

2. When you are obliged to cry out under the burden of your fins, and know not what to do for relief; when this is your cafe, you are weary of your fins. It does not confift in a wearinefs all of a fudden : no, it is the continual burden of your foul, it is your grief and concern that you cannot live without offending Gop, and finning against him; and thefe fins fine are fo many and fo great, that you fear they will not be forgiven.

It is not, my brethren, coming with your own works: no, you muft come in full dependance upon the LORD JESUS CHRIST, looking on him as the LORD who died to fave finners: Go to him, tell him you are loft, undone, miferable finners, and that you deferve nothing but hell; and when you thus go to the LORD JESUS CHRIST out of yourfelf, in full dependance on the LORD JESUS CHRIST, you will find him an able and a willing faviour: he is pleafed to fee finners coming to him in a fenfe of their own unworthinefs; and when their cafe feems to be moft dangerous, moft diffreffed, then the LORD in his mercy fleps in and gives you his grace; he puts his Spirit within you, takes away your heart of flone, and gives you a heart of fleft. Stand not out then againft this LORD, but go unto him, not in your own ftrength, but in the ftrength of JESUS CHRIST.

And this brings me, Thirdly, to confider the exhortation CHRIST gives unto all of you, high and low, rich and poor, one with another, to come unto him that you may have reft. And if JESUS CHRIST gives you reft, you may be fure it will be a reft indeed; it will be fuch a reft as your foul wants; it will be a reft which the world can neither give nor take away. O come all of ye this night, and you shall find reft : JESUS CHRIST hath promifed it. Here is a gracious invitation, and do not let a little rain hurry you away from the hearing cf it; do but confider what the devil and damned fpirits would give to have the offer of mercy, and to accept of CHRIST, that they may be delivered from the torments they labour under, and must do fo for ever; or, how pleasing would this rain be to them to cool their parched tongues; but they are denied both, while you have mercy offered to you; free and rich mercy to come to CHRIST : here is food for your fouls, and the rain is to bring forth the fruits of the earth, as food for your bodies. Here is mercy upon mercy.

Let me beseeh you to come unto CHRIST; and he will give you reft : you shall find reft unto your souls. O you. my weary, burthened brethren, do but go to CHRIST in this manner, and though you go to him weary, you shall find reft before you come from him : let not any thing fhort of the LORD JESUS CHRIST be your reft; for wherever you feek vou will be difappointed; but if you do but feek unto the LORD JESUS CHRIST, there you will find a fulnels of every thing which your weary foul wants. Go to him this night ; here is an invitation to all you who are weary fouls. He does not call you, O Pharifees; no, it is only you weary finners; and fure you will not flay from him, but accept of his invitation; do not delay; one moment may be dangerous : death may take you off fuddenly. You know not but that a fit of the apoplexy may hurry you from time into eternity : therefore, be not for flaying till you have fomething to bring; come in all your rags, in all your filthinefs. in all your distreffes, and you will soon find JESUS CHRIST ready to help, and to relieve you : he loves you as well in your rags, as in your best garments; he regards not your drefs; no, do but come unto him, and you shall foon find reft for your fouls.

What fay you? Shall I tell my Mafter you will come unto him, and that you will accept him on his own terms. Let me, my brethren, befeech you to take IESUS without any thing of your own righteoufnefs : for if you expect to mix any thing of yourfelf with CHRIST, you build upon a fandy foundation; but if you take CHRIST for your reft, he will be that unto you. Let me befeech you to build upon this rock of ages. O my brethren, think of the gracious invitation, " Come unto me," to JESUS CHRIST: it is he that calls you: And will you not go?

Come, come unto him. If your fouls were not immortal, and you in danger of lofing them, I would not thus fpeak unto you; but the love of your fouls conftrains me to fpeak : methinks this would confirain me to speak unto you for ever. Come then by faith, and lay hold of the LORD JESUS: though he be in heaven, he now calleth thee. Come, all ye drunkards, fweaters, fabbath-breakers, adulterers, fornicators; come, all ye scoffers, harlots, thieves, and murderers, and TESUS

JESUS CHRIST will fave you; he will give you reft, if you are weary of your fins. O come lay hold upon him. Had I lefs love for your fouls, I might fpeak lefs; but that love of GOD, which is fhed abroad in my heart, will not permit me to leave you, till I fee whether you will come to CHRIST or no. O for your life receive him, for fear he may never call you any more. Behold, the Bridegroom cometh; it may be this night the cry may be made. How would you bear this, if you were fure to die before the morning light? GOD grant you may begin to live, that when the king of terrors fhall come, you may have nothing to do but to commit your fouls into the hands of a faithful Redeemer.

Now to GoD the Father, GoD the Son, and GoD the Holy Ghost, be all honour, praises, dominion, and power, henceforth and for evermore, Amin, Amin.

S E R M O N XXII.

The Folly and Danger of parting with CHRIST for the Pleafures and Profits of Life.

MATTHEW viii. 23, to the End.

And when he was entered into a fhip, his disciples followed him. And behold, there arole a great tempeft in the fea, infomuch that the thip was covered with the waves : But he was afleep. And bis disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord, save us, we perifh. And he faith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then be arofe and rebuked the winds and the lea. and there was a great calm. But the men marvelled, faying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the fea obey him ! And when he was come to the other fide into the country of the Gergelenes, there met him two poffeffed with devils. coming out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, fo that no man might pafs by that way. And behold, they cried out, faying, What have we to do with thee, Jefus, thou Son of God? Art theu come hither to torment us before the time? And there was, a good way off from them, an herd of many fwine, feeding. So the devils befought him, faying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go away into the herd of swine. And he faid unto them, Go : And when they were come out, they went into the herd of fwine: and behold, the whole berd of fwine ran violently down a fleep place into the fea, and perifhed in the waters. And they that kept them, fled and went their ways into the city, and told every thing; and what was befallen to the posseffed of the devils. And behold, the whole city came out to meet Jefus, and when they faw him, they befought him that he would depart out of their coasts.

I F we were but fenfible of the great neceffity there is, in this our day, of being real chriftians, fure we fhould not be contented with being nominal ones; but we are funk into I know not what; we are no better than baptifed heathens: And

And how amazing is it, that we fhould profess the name of CHRIST, and yet fo little converse about him; furely, this name whereby we are called, fhould be the theme of our difcourse here, and of out eternal Halleluiahs in a world to come. But is it not more amazing, to confider, that instead of the name of JESUS, whereby we are to have falvation, we are taught to look for it in ourfelves, and that there must be a fitness in us before GOD bestows his grace and favour upon us. But what doctrine is this? Not the doctrine of the fcripture, not the doctrine of JESUS, not that of the primitive christians, not that of the reformation, nor that of the articles of the church of England: No, it is the doctrine of the devil: this is making CHRIST but half a Saviour, and driving man into an error of the greatest confequence, in making him go to JESUS in his own firength, and not in the name of the LORD JESUS CHRIST : But, my brethren, unless you go in the ftrength of JESUS CHRIST; unless you depend only upon him for falvation; unless he is your wildom, righteousness and fanctification, he will never be your redemption. Our falvation is the free gift of GOD; it is owing to his free love, and the free grace of JESUS CHRIST, that ever you are laved.

Do not flatter yourfelves of being good enough, becaufe you are morally fo; becaufe you go to church, fay the prayers, and take the facrament, therefore you think no more is required: alas, you are deceiving your own fouls; and if GOD, in his free grace and mercy, does not fhew you your error, it will only be leading you a fofter way to your eternal ruin; but GOD forbid that any of you, to whom I am now fpeaking, fhould imagine this; no, you must be abafed, and GOD must be exalted, or you will never begin at the right end, you will never fee JESUS with comfort or fatisfaction, unlefs you go to him only on the account of what he has done and fuffered.

Is it not plain to a demonstration, that we are acting the part of the Gergefenes, who came and defired JESUS to depart from them: Let us confider the words, and then we shall fee how exactly we are performing the part of these men over again.

And when he was entered into a fhip his difciples followed him. CHRIST

CHRIST had been working of many miracles, as we may read a few verfes before; and as he continually went about doing good, fo now he was going to the country of the Gergefenes to difpoffels two, who were poffeffed with devils; and his difciples followed him: No doubt they were reproached and pointed at, for following fuch a babbler, as the Scribes and Pharifees effecemed the LORD JESUS CHRIST: Doubtlefs they were pointed at, jeered, fcoffed, and effeemed madmen, enthulialts, and a parcel of rabble; but fill they followed the LORD JESUS CHRIST, they did not mind a little reproach; no, they loved their Mafter too well to forbear following him for the fake of a little perfecution. And if you do but love the LORD JESUS CHRIST, love him above all, you will follow him in fpight of the malice of all the Scribes and Pharifees of this generation.

And behold there arofe a great tempest on the sea.

The prefence of CHRIST in the thip, did not preferve the disciples from fears and troubles; they were filled with uneafinels, although CHRIST was with them : this was only for a trial of their faith, to fee if they would ftand fast for the LORD in a perfecuting time. My dear brethren, if the LORD is trying of you, do not give out; no, ftand fast in all that the LORD may call you to fuffer : It is eafy to follow CHRIST when all things are fafe: but your love to JESUS CHRIST would be feen more, if you must lose your lives, or deny your JESUS; it would be a trial of your love, when fire and faggot was before you, if you would rush into that, rather than flie from the truth as it is in JESUS. Though all things are calm now, the florm is gathering, and by and by it will break; it is at prefent no bigger than a man's hand; but when it is full it will break, and then you will fee whether you are found chriftians or not. Perfecution would fcatter the hypocrites, and make nominal christians afraid to worship GoD; they would then foon turn unto the world and the things of it.

And his difciples came to him, and awoke him, faying, LORD, fave us, we perifh. And he faith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he arofe and rebuked the winds and the fea, and there was a great calm. But the men marvelled, faying, VOL. V. X What

What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the fea obey bim !

Here we may see the great compassion of the LORD JESUS CHRIST; no fooner had the disciples awakened him, and he faw their danger, but he rebuked the winds and seas, and all things were calm: Thus it was in a natural way, and will be so in a spiritual one; for no fooner does JESUS CHRIST speak peace to a troubled soul, but all is calm and quiet: Now none but GOD could have performed this great miracle, and therefore it is no wonder that his disciples and the men of the ship were amazed to see the wonders he performed; and they could not forbear to express their fense thereof, by inquiring, "What manner of man is this !"

And when the LORD has brought you out of trouble, you will be amazed at the gracious dealings of the LORD with you, and wonder that he would fo eafily remove your troubles from you, when you have deferved nothing but wrath and deftruction, and to be punifhed to all eternity.

And when he was come to the other fide into the country of the Gergelenes, there met him two posselfelled with devils, coming out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, so that no man might pass by that way. And behold, they cried out, faying, What have we to do with thee, JESUS, thou Son of GOD? Art thou come bither to torment us before the time?

Two men, who were posseled bodily with that evil one who is going about feeking whom he may devour, met JESUS; as foon as they faw him they were afraid, and creid out: though they made every one afraid of them, yet they no fooner faw CHRIST, but their power left them, and they cried out, "What have we to do with thee, JESUS, thou Son of GOD?" We know that thou art GOD; we do not want thee, we have no power over thee, but thou hast over us, and we fear thou art come to torment us before our time; we know that we are to be brought to judgment, and therefore we would not be tormented until that time come.

And there was, a good way off from them, a herd of many fwine feeding. So the devils befought him, faying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go into the herd of swine.

The

The evil spirits were fensible that CHRIST was come to disposition of the second second second second second second second multipleave the bodies of these two men; for when CHRIST comes, who is stronger than the strong man armed, all must fall before him; they could not strand against the power of CHRIST: And here we may observe, that though the devil is an enemy, yet he is a chained one; he cannot hurt a poor fwine until he has power given him from above: and we may likewife fee the malice of the devil, that he would hurt a poor fwine rather than do no mischief; and the devil would, if in his power, destroy each of your fouls, but CHRIST, by his mighty power, prevents him.

And he faid unto them, Go: And when they were come out, they went into the herd of swine; and behold, the whole herd of swine ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and perished in the waters. And they that kept them sted, and went their ways into the city, and told every thing, and what was befallen to the possified of the devils. And behold, the whole city came out to meet JESUS, and when they saw him, they befought him that he would depart out of their coasts.

Here observe, that no sooner had CHRIST given the devils permission to enter the swine, but they did, and their malice was so great, that the swine ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and were drowned.

What poor fpite was here, that the devil fhould diffurb poor fwine! And the city, therefore, was fo grieved for the lofs of a little wealth, that they came and befought CHRIST to depart; they did not want his company; they preferred a few poor fwine before the company of CHRIST; a few worldly goods, a little pleafure, or any thing rather than CHRIST, part with CHRIST before any thing; but one, who is fenfible of the love of CHRIST, will part with all, rather than with the LORD JESUS CHRIST.

Thus far the letter of the flory goes; perhaps you think there is nothing to be learned herefrom, and that this is all you are to underfland by it; but if fo, my brethren, you are much miftaken; for here is an excellent leffon to be learned, and that you will fee, by confidering the words again, in a fpiritual fenfe.

And

And behold, there arofe a great tempest in the sea, infomuch that the ship was covered with the waves : but he was asses.

And do not you frequently experience great tempefts in this world ? does not the fea of temptation beat over your fouls ? vou are afraid left you should be overcome by them; you can fee no way to escape, for your souls are covered with waves. and you expect to be swallowed up in the tempest; you are afraid left you fhould fall into the hands of the evil one. O do not fear, for IESUS CHRIST, though he may be affeen to vour thinking, yet will keep you, he will preferve you from the raging of the men, of the Pharifees of this world; they may rage and fpit forth all their venom against you, still CHRIST will deliver, preserve and protect you; if you but feek unto him in a fense of your own helplefsnefs and unworthinefs, you will foon find he is a GOD ready to pardon and forgive. O that all that hear me would be perfuaded to bow their knee, and their hearts, as foon as they go home; but alas, how many of our christians go to GoD, day by day, and call him, Father, which is but mocking of GoD, when the devil is their father: None have a right to call him father. but those who have received the spirit of adoption, whereby they have a right to call him, "Abba, Father." Could the brute beafts speak, they might call GOD father as well as some of you; for he is their Creator to whom they owe their being; but this will not entitle you to call GOD father, in a spiritual fense; no, you must be born again of GoD; however you may flatter yourselves, you must have an inward principle wrought in your hearts by faith. This you must experience. this, this you must feel before you are christians indeed.

The LORD JESUS CHRIST takes notice of each of you: you may think the LORD does not take notice of us, becaufe we are in a field, and out of church walls; but he does obferve with what view you came this evening to hear his word; he knows whether it was to fatisfy your curiofity, or to find out wherewith you might ridicule the preacher. The thoughts and intentions of all your hearts are not hidden from JESUS CHRIST; though he may feem to be afleep, becaufe you are, at prefent, infentible of his workings upon your heart, and he may not feem to take notice of you, and regard you, no more than he did the Syrophænician woman; yet he will turn to you you and behold you with love; the LORD will be mindful of you in due time, and speak peace to your troubled soul, though the sea of troubles is beating over you, though the Pharises of this day are scoffing at you, yet, when CHRIST rebukes, then they shall cease.

Do not depend on yourfelf: fay unto him, "Save us, LORD, or we perifh:" befeech him to be your guide, and your falvation: I befeech you, by the tender mercies of GOD, which are in CHRIST JESUS, that you prefent yourfelves to him, as your reafonable fervice.

Awake, you that fleep, and arife from the dead, from the death of fin, and CHRIST then will give you the light of his righteousnels. Come to CHRIST and you shall be welcome; O come unto this bleffed JESUS, come notwithstanding your vileness; for if you come not you will perifh: If CHRIST does not fave you, your own good meaning, your own good intentions cannot; no, as you are in your blood, fo you must perifh in your blood; but if you come to CHRIST you will find mercy, you shall not perish. You cannot find falvation in any other but in CHRIST; if the disciples could have faved themselves, they would not have awoken JESUS CHRIST; but they were fenfible that no one could fave them but him; and therefore they cried out unto him; and fo you, who are under the sense of fin, who are in fear of hell, if you seek unto your own works, you only feek your own death; for there is no fitnels in you. I speak the truth in CHRIST JESUS, I lie not, there is no fitness in you, but a fitness for eternal damnation; for what are you by nature, but children of wrath, and your hearts are Satan's garrifon. Becaufe you have gone to church, faid the prayers, gone to the facrament, and done no one any harm, you speak peace to your fouls; and all is in peace you think, and your cafe is good enough; but indeed, all is a falle peace, and if you have no other peace than this, you must fhortly lie down in everlasting flames; this is an ungrounded, felf-created peace, and if you truft to this peace you will perifh.

But do as the disciples did when they were in distress; they go to CHRIST and say to him, "LORD, save us, we perish." I offer you falvation this day 4 the door of mercy is not yet shut, there does yet remain a factifice for sin, for all that will accept of the LORD JESUS CHRIST; he only knows the inmost thoughts of thy heart, he will embrace you in the arms of his love; he sees the first risings of grace in you, and would willingly encourage it: the angels long for your being in the love and favour of GOD; they will rejoice to see you turn from fin unto him. All the ministers of the bleffed JESUS would be glad to be instruments to turn you from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto GOD.

And he faith to them, why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith ?

And fo, my brethren, I may fay to you; why are you fearful to leave your fins and turn to GoD? O turn to him, turn in a fenfe of your own unworthinefs; tell him how polluted you are, how vile, and be not faithlefs, but believe; do not go in your own ftrength, and then you need not fear. Why fear ye that the LORD JESUS CHRIST will not accept of you? your fins will be no hindrance, your unworthinefs will be no hindrance; if your own corrupt hearts do not keep you back, or if your own good works do not hinder you from coming, nothing will hinder CHRIST from receiving of you: he loves to fee poor finners coming to him, he is pleafed to fee them lie at his feet pleading his promifes : and if you thus come to CHRIST, he will not fend you away without his Spirit; no, but will receive and blefs you.

O do not put a flight on infinite love: what would you have CHRIST do more? Is it not enough for him to come on purpose to fave? Will you not ferve Gop in your fouls, as well as with your bodies ? If not, you are only deceiving yourselves, and mocking of GOD; he must have the heart. O ye of little faith, why are ye fearful left he should not accept of you? If you will not believe me, fure you will believe the LORD JESUS CHRIST; he has told thee that he will receive you : then why tarry ye, and do not go to him directly? Does he defire impossibilities? It is only, "Give me thy heart :" or, does he want your heart only for the fame end as the devil does, to make you miferable ? no, he only wants you to believe on him, that you might be faved. This, this, is all the dear Saviour defires, to make you happy, that you may leave your fins, to fit down eternally with him. at the marriage supper of the Lamb.

Then

Then he arofe and rebuked the winds and the fea, and there was a great calm.

Thus, you fee, it was only in the power of CHRIST to ftop the raging of the fea; he rebuked it : the disciples might have spoken for ever, and it would not have ceased : so it is with the word preached; I may preach to you while I live; I may speak till I can speak no more; but the doctrines of CHRIST will never do you good, unless he impress them upon your hearts : O then, in all thy troubles look up to CHRIST, that he may rebuke them ; and if he speaks the word, then they shall ccase. If the Pharisees of this generation scoff and jeer you, if they fay all manner of evil against you, do not answer them; leave it unto CHRIST to rebuke them; for all you can fay will be of no more fignification, than the difciples speaking to the sea; but when CHRIST speaks the word, then they shall cease; let it not discourage you, for if you will live godly in CHRIST JESUS, you must fuffer perfecution.

It is true, that those who are fincerely good, are fet upfor marks for every one to shoot at. There is a continual enmity between the feed of the woman and the feed of the ferpent; if you were of the world, the world would love its own; but because CHRIST hath chosen you out of the world, therefore it hateth you.

Do not think of following CHRIST into glory, unlefs you go through the press here. Look forward, my brethren, into eternity, and behold CHRIST coming, and his reward with him, to give a kind recompence for all the temptations and difficulties of this present life.

But the men marvelled, faying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the feas obey him !

The men of the fhip were amazed to fee the miracle that JESUS CHRIST wrought only by his word; they thought he was fomething more than a man. And have not we as much reason to admire, that when we are overwhelmed with troubles, from within and without, that JESUS CHRIST, only by the word of his power, fhould speak peace, and then there is peace indeed. When GOD first awakens us with a' fense of fin, and sets his terrors in array against us, then there are troubles and tempests; for Satan having got possession, before Х₄ before he will give place, he will fight and firive hard to keep the foul from clofing with JESUS: But when CHRIST comes, he ftorms the heart, he breaks the peace, he giveth it most terrible alarms of judgment and hell, he fets all in a combustion of fear and forrow, 'till he hath forced it to yield to his mere mercy, and take him for its governor; then Satan is caft out; then the ftorm is rebuked, and he eftablishes a firm and lafting peace.

Can the fea be flill while the wind is raging ? no, it is impoffible : fo it is that there can be no peace in the foul, while it is at enmity with CHRIST; indeed, it may flatter itfelf and fpeak peace, but there can be no true peace : tho' thou, O Pharifee, may harden and fortify thy heart againft fear, grief, and trouble, yet, as fure as Gon is true, they will batter down thy proud and fortified fpirit, and feize upon it, and drive thee to amazement. This will be done here, or hereafter; here in mercy, or hereafter in wrath and judgment.

O my brethren, confider what CHRIST hath done, and you will be aftonifhed that he has done fo much for fuch wicked wretches as you and I are. If you are eafy under the ftorm and tempeft of fin, and do not cry to CHRIST for falvation, thou art in a dangerous condition: and it is a wonder to confider, how a man that is not fure of having made his peace with GOD, can eat, or drink, or live in peace; that thou art not afraid, when thou lieft down, that thou fhould'ft awake in hell: but if CHRIST fpeak peace unto thy foul, who can then fpeak trouble? None; no, not men or devils: Therefore, lie down at the feet of CHRIST whom you have refifted, and fay, LORD, what wouldft thou have me to do? and he will rebuke the winds and feas of thy troubled mind, and all things will be calm.

And when he was come to the other, fide into the country of the Gergesenes, there met him two poffessed with devils, coming out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, so that no man might pass by that way.

The LORD JESUS CHRISF, who went about doing good continually, very well knew, that he fhould meet two poor men in this country of the Gergefenes, who were posseffed with devils: devils; and JESUS CHRIST went on purpole that way, that he might relieve them. The devil, where he has the power, never wants will: but as I faid before, fo I fay again, though the devil is an enemy, yet he is a chained one; he could not defiroy these two poor men, he could not hurt the people that paffed that way, he could only terrify them : and thus it is with you; the devil tries his utmost fkill and power to frighten you from coming to the LORD JESUS CHRIST; he uses the utmost of his endeavours to keep poor fick and weary finners from coming to JESUS; if he can but make you lofe your fouls, it is the end he aims at.

And how many fouls does he keep from CHRIST, for fear of reproach ? Many thousands would willingly see CHRIST in his glory, in the world to come, and would be happy with him there, but they are afraid of being now laughed at, and of hearing the pharisees say, here is another of his followers: they are afraid of losing their worldly business, or of being counted methodistically mad and fit for bedlam. I doubt not but many, are kept from JESUS CHRIST, for fear of a little hurt or inconveniency.

What will fuch fay, when the LORD JESUS CHRIST fhall appear in his glory? Would you be glad to be confeffed by him then, you must now not be ashamed of confessing him before men: let not the fierceness of the devil keep you back from CHRIST, for fear of being counted fools; for the time will come, when it will be found who are truly wise, and who are truly mad.

Are you afraid to ftand up for the caufe of CHRIST in the world? Dare not you be fingularly good? Are you afraid of being members of JESUS CHRIST? I tell you, fuch perfons would crucify him afrefh were he in the world. But do not you, my brethren, fo learn CHRIST; let not the temptations of the devil keep you from coming to the LORD JESUS CHRIST; he may be fierce, he may hurry you from place to place, but ftrive with him, fo that he may not drive you from CHRIST; and if you feek unto CHRIST, he will fo help you that you fhall refift the devil, and then he will fly from you; CHRIST will difpoffels him, be not afraid therefore to meet JESUS CHRIST; tell him all that your fouls want, and and he will give it to you; and you shall not be any longer troubled with the fierce outrages of the devil.

And they cried out, faying, what have we to do with thee, JESUS, thou Son of GOD? Art theu come to tormeut us before the time?

As foon as the devils observed JESUS coming near, then they were afraid, left he was come to punish them before that day of accounts, when all must be brought to judgment.

The devils themselves are enough to convince all our polite Arians and Socinians. They here own the LORD JESUE CHRIST to be GOD bleffed for ever; they feel his power, and are affured of his being the GOD who must condemn them at the great day of accounts; and they were afraid left the LORD JESUS CHRIST was come to punish them now. But though the devils believe the divinity of CHRIST, yet the world fwarms with Arians and Socinians.

The Arians make CHRIST no more than a titular GOD, a fubordinate deity, one who was more than man, and yet lefs than GOD; that he was a prophet fent from GOD they own, but deny him to be equal with the Father. But I hope, my brethren, he is to you, what our creed makes him, GOD of GOD, very GOD of very GOD, co-eternal and confubftantial with the Father; that as there was not a moment of time in which GOD the Father was not, fo there is not a moment of time in which GoD the Son was not. For he fays himfelf, " All things were made by him ;" and if they were made by him, he must be GOD; and whoever reads but the word of GOD, will find divine homage is paid to him, " and that he thought it no robbery to be equal with GOD;" he is " the Alpha and Omega." Thefe and a great many more places might be brought to prove the divinity of the LORD JESUS CHRIST; he could never have made fatisfaction for our fins if he had not been GOD as well as Man. As Man he suffered ; as GoD he fatisfied; fo was GOD and man in one perfon; he took out nature upon him, and was offered upon the crois for the fins of all those who come unto him, which if he had not been God he could never have fatisfied for. It may be proved, even to a demonstration, that the LORD JESUS CHRIST is GOD, and that he is equal with the Father.

The

The Socinians do not go fo far as the others; they look on CHRIST to be no more than a good man, who told the people their duty, and died in defence of the doctrines which he delivered unto them.

But I hope there are none fuch here, that have fo low and diffuonourable thoughts of the bleffed JESUS, and that thus defpife the divinity of the LORD who bought them. No, I hope better things of you, and things that accompany falvation. Think you, that any one who denies the deity of CHRIST can ever be faved by him, living and dying in that flate ? Surely, the time will come, when they who have denied his Deity, fhall feel the power of it hereafter; they fhall feel that he is GOD as well as man'; then he will be owned as GOD by all those who now dare to deny his truths; but GOD forbid it fhould go undetermined till then ! Woe unto the polite infidels of this generation, for the devils will rife up in judgment againft them.

If any fuch are here, confider what you are doing of, before it is too late; return, return ye unto the LORD, and he will have mercy upon you, and to JESUS CHRIST, and he will abundantly pardon. O my friends, let me befeech you to confider what you are about, left you fall into hell, and there be none to deliver you.

And the devils befought him, faying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go away into the berd of swine. And he faid unto them, Go: And when they were come out, they went into the berd of swine; and behold, the whole herd of swine ran violently down a sleep place into the sea, and perished in the waters.

Here we may fee, that no fooner had the devil power, but he puts it into execution; thus, if the devil has but power to tempt, or to hurry a foul, O how grievous a tyrant he is, hurrying from one temptation to another, from one fin unto another, and would, if it were poffible, hurry you all into hell with as much violence, as he did the poor fwine into the fea; but CHRIST by his grace prevents it. JESUS CHRIST died for fouls, and therefore the devil cannot do with them as he will; he may have the will, but he cannot get the power. It is plain, that when the devil himfelf, or perfecuting men, get the power, they will harrafs the poor chriftians; every thing thing is too good for them, and they are not worthy to be fet with the dogs of the flock. My brethren, how joyful would many be, if the laws of our land would permit them to deftroy us : how would the Pharifees hurry us to prifon and to death; but, bleffed be Gon, he does not fay to them, as to the devil, "Go:" No, he bids them ftay, he hedges their way up with thorns that they cannot flir to burt us; they would fain, but they dare not deftroy us; nothing withholds them but the power of the bleffed JESUS. And there-Fore, be not afraid of their wrath though it is cruel, and of their anger though it be fierce : let them fhoot their arrows, even bitter words, against us, bleffed be Gon, the shield of faith will be a prefervative against them all.

And when you are thus preferved, it will be the occasion of joy in the Holy Ghoft; though many look on the joy of the Holy Ghoft as enthulialm and madnels, and fay that there is no fuch thing; but well do I know there is, it carries its own evidence along with it. Plead therefore with GOD, in the name of JESUS CHRIST; continue to wreftle with him, until he beftows the bleffing upon you, and gives you a feeling of that joy which the world intermeddles not with, and which they are strangers to : indeed the devil may fir up his agents to hurry us from one trouble to another; but it will not fignify, for the LORD JESUS CHRIST will not fuffer him to hurry us into hell; no, but will give us his Spirit, which will be a prefervative against all the affaults of the devil. Now fee what followed this miracle. which JESUS had wrought, by permitting the devil to enter into the herd of fwine.

And they that kept them fied, and went their ways into the city, and told every thing; and what was befallen to the possessed of the devils.

The people were fo amazed to fee the power that CHRIST had, and the malice with which the devil was posselfed, that they were afraid, and told all that had befallen the poffeffed of the devils : and fo, when the spirit of God has been at work on your fouls, and you are brought to feel the power of GOD upon your hearts, you will be so overjoyed that you will tell to every one what great things GoD has done for your your fouls; you will be fo full of joy, that you will declare the whole working of GOD on your hearts, and you will declare how you have been enabled to overcome Satan, and how you were affected at fuch a fermon, in fuch a place, and at fuch a time.

You will then love to talk of JESUS; no convertation will be to pleafing as that of the LORD JESUS CHRIST; no; he will be altogether lovely unto you, when you have once tafted of his love, and felt the power of his grace upon your hearts.

And behold, the whole city came out to meet JESUS, and when they faw him, they befought him that he would depart out of their coafts.

The whole city came to meet Jesus, not to worship, nor to thank him for the releasing of the two poor men who were poffessed; no, but to befeech him to go from them; they valued their fwine more than the LORD JESUS CHRIST, and had rather part from him, than them : and have we not among us, thousands who call themselves christians, who had rather part with CHRIST than their pleasures ? A play, a ball, or an affembly is far more agreeable to them than the company and prefence of the LORD JESUS CHRIST : if they can but indulge their fenfual appetite, pleafe and pamper their bellies, fatisfy the luft of the eye, the luft of the flesh, and the pride of life, they regard no more, but reft contented, as if they were to live here always. O my dear brethren, I hope none of you can reft contented with fuch proceed. ings as these, but that you like the company of the Long IESUS too well to part with him for a few delights of this life: and are there not many, who part with CHRIST for their own good works, and think they can go to heaven, if they do but go to church and fay their prayers and take the facrament ? but alas ! they will be much deceived, for if they reft in any thing thort of the LORD JESUS, if they do not make him the chief corner-flone, they will fall infinitely flort of what they flattered themselves to attain unto.

I would speak a few words to you before I part from you this evening, by way of application. Let me befeech you to come to JESUS CHRIST; I invite you all to come to him and receive him as your LORD and Saviour; he is ready to receive you: if you are afraid to go becaufe you are in a loft condition, he came to fave fuch; and to fuch as were weary and heavy laden, fuch as feel the weight and burden of their fins, he has promifed he will give reft: fuch as feel the weight and burden of their fins on their fouls, a burden too heavy for them to bear, are weary of it, and know not how to obtain deliverance of it, in the name of my LORD and mafter, I invite you to come to him, that you may find reft for your fouls.

If you will but come unto him he will not reproach you, as juftly he might; he will not reflect upon you for not coming fooner unto him; no, my dear brethren, he will rejoice and be glad, and will fay unto you, "Son, daughter, be of good cheer, your fins are forgiven you:" thefe words he faid to others; and if you will but come unto him, by faith in his blood, he is ready to fay the fame unto you now, as he did to them formerly, for "he is the fame to-day, yefterday and for ever:" though he fuffered on the crofs feventeen hundred years ago, yet he is the fame in goodnefs and power as ever he was.

He calls you, by his minifters; O come unto him, beg of him to break your flubborn hearts, that you may be willing to be brought to him in his own way, to be made poor in fpirit, and entitled to an inheritance among them that are fanctified.

O come and drink of the water of life; you may buy without money and without price; he is labouring to bring you back from fin, and from Satan unto himfelf: open the door of your hearts, and the King of glory shall enter in.

But if you are strangers to this doctrine, and account it foolishness; or, if you think you have enough of your own to recommend you to the favour of GOD, however you may go to church, or receive the facrament, you have no true love to the LORD JESUS CHRIST; you are strangers to the truth of grace in your hearts, and are unacquainted with the new-birth; you do not know what it is to have your natures changed; and 'till you do experience these things, you never can enter into the kingdom of GOD.

What

'What fhall I fay, my brethren, unto you? My heart is full, it is quite full, and I must speak, or I shall burst. What, do you think your souls of no value? do you esteem them as not worth faving? Are your pleasures worth more than your souls? Had you rather regard the diversions of this life, than the falvation of your souls? If so, you will never be partakers with him in glory; but if you come unto him, he will give you a new nature, supply you with his grace here, and bring you to glory hereaster; and there you may fing praises and hallelujahs to the Lamb for ever.

And may this be the happy end of all who hear me ! may the LORD guide you by his counfel, until he comes to fetch you to heaven, and make you partakers of his glory !

May he direct you in his ways, and lead you in those paths which lead to everlafting life! May you be holy here, and happy hereafter: may your lives answer the profession you make, that we may all be found at the right hand of the LORD JESUS CHRIST, when he shall come to judge the world according to our works, whether they be good or evil ! and that we then may be presented faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, GOD of his infinite mercy grant, &c.

SERMON

SERMON XXIII.

Marks of a true Conversion.

MATTHEW XVIII. 3.

Verily, I fay unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of beaven.

I Suppose I may take it for granted, that all of you, among whom I am now about to preach the kingdom of God, are fully convinced, that it is appointed for all men once to die, and that ye all really believe that after death comes the judgment, and that the confequence of that judgment will be, that ye must be doomed to dwell in the blackness of darkness, or afcend to dwell with the bleffed GoD, for ever and ever. I may take it for granted alfo, that whatever your practice in common life may be, there is not one, though ever fo profligate and abandoned, but hopes to go to that place, which the fcriptures call Heaven, when he dies. And, I think, if I know any thing of mine own heart, my heart's defire, as well as my prayer to GoD, for you all, is, that I may fee you fitting down in the kingdom of our heavenly Father. But then, though we all hope to go to heaven when we die, yet, if we may judge by people's lives, and our LORD fays, " that by their fruits we may know them," I am afraid it will be found, that thousands. and ten thousands, who hope to go to this bleffed place after death, are not now in the way to it while they live. Though we call ourfelves christians, and would confider it as an affront put upon us, for any one to doubt whether we were christians or not; yet there are a great many, who bear the name of CHRIST, that yet do not fo much as know what real chrifsignity is. Hence it is, that if you alk a great many, upon what what their hopes of heaven are founded, they will tell you, that they belong to this, or that, or the other denomination, and part of christians, into which Christendom is now unhappily divided. If you afk others, upon what foundation they have built their hope of heaven, they will tell you, that they have been baptized, that their fathers and mothers prefented them to the LORD JESUS CHRIST in their infancy; and though, instead of fighting under CHRIST's banner, they have been fighting against him, almost ever fince they were baptifed, yet because they have been admitted to church, and their names are in the Register-book of the parish, therefore they will make us believe, that their names are also written in the book of life. But a great many, who will not build their hopes of falvation upon fuch a forry rotten foundation as this, yet if they are, what we generally call, negatively good people; if they live fo as their neighbours cannot fay that they do any body harm, they do not doubt but they shall be happy when they die; nay, I have found many fuch die, as the fcripture fpeaks, "without any bands in their death." And if a perfon is what the world calls an honeft moral man, if he does juffly, and, what the world calls, loves a little mercy, is now and then good-natured, reacheth out his hand to the poor, receives the facrament once or twice a year, and is outwardly fober and honeft; the world looks upon fuch an one as a christian indeed, and doubtlefs we are to judge charitably of every fuch person. There are many likewise, who go on in a round of duties, a model of performances, that think they shall go to heaven; but if you examine them, though they have a CHRIST in their heads, they have no CHRIST in their hearts.

The LORD JESUS CHRIST knew this full well; he knew how defperately wicked and deceitful mens hearts were; he knew very well how many would go to hell even by the very gates of heaven, how many would climb up even to the door, and go fo near as to knock at it, and yet after all be difmiffed with a "verily I know you not." The LORD, therefore, plainly tells us, what great change must be wrought in us, and what must be done for us, before we can have any well grounded hopes of entering into the kingdom of heaven. Hence, he tells Nicodemus, " that unlefs a man be born again, and from above, and unlefs a man be born of water and of the Spirit, Vol. V. Y

he cannot enter into the kingdom of GoD." And of all the folemn declarations of our LORD, I mean with respect to this, perhaps the words of the text are one of the most folemn, "except, (fays CHRIST) ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." The words, if you look back to the context, are plainly directed to the difciples; for we are told, " that at the fame time came the difciples unto JESUS." And I think it is plain from many parts of Scripture, that these disciples, to whom our LORD addreffed himself at this time, were in some degree converted If we take the words strictly, they are applicable only before. to those, that have already gotten some, though but weak, faith in CHRIST. Our LORD means, that though they had already tafted the grace of GOD, yet there was fo much of the old man, fo much indwelling fin, and corruption, yet remaining in their hearts, that unless they were more converted than they were, unless a greater change past upon their souls, and fanctification was still carried on, they could give but very little evidence of their belonging to his kingdom, which was not to be fet up in outward grandeur, as they supposed, but was to be a spiritual kingdom, begun here, but com+ pleated in the kingdom of GOD hereafter. But though the words had a peculiar reference to our LORD's disciples; yet as our LORD makes fuch a declaration as this in other places of Scripture, especially in that discourse to Nicodemus, I believe the words may be justly applied to faints and finners; and as I fuppose there are two forts of people here, some who know CHRIST, and fome of you that do not know him ; fome that are converted, and fome that are ftrangers to conversion, I shall endeavour so to speak, that if GoD shall be pleased to affift me, and to give you an hearing ear and an obedient heart, both faints and finners may have their portion.

First, I shall endeavour to show you in what respects we are to understand this affertion of our LORD's, " that we must be converted and become like little children." I shall then,

Secondly, Speak to those who profess a little of this child-like temper.

And Lafly, fhall speak to you, who have no reason to think that this change has ever past upon your souls. And FirA, I shall endeavour to show you, what we are to underfland by our LORD's faying, " Except ye be converted and become as little children." But I think, before I fpeak to this point, it may be proper to premife one or two particulars.

. Firft,

1. I think, that the words plainly imply, that before you or I can have any well-grounded, fcriptural hope, of being happy in a future state, there must be some great, some notable, and amazing change pass upon our fouls. I believe, there is not one adult perfon in the congregation, but will readily confers, that a great change hath paft upon their bodies, fince they came first into the world, and were infants dandled upon their mothers knees. It is true, ye have no more members than ye had then; but how are these altered! Tho' you are in one respect the same ye were, for the number of your limbs, and as to the shape of your body, yet if a perfon that knew you when ye were in your cradle, had been absent from you for some years, and saw you when grown up, ten thousand to one if he would know you at all; ye are fo altered, fo different from what ye were, when ye were little ones. And as the words plainly imply, that there has a great change paft upon our bodies fince we were children, fo before we can go. to heaven, there must as great a change pais upon our fouls; Our fouls confidered in a physical fense are still the fame, there is to be no philosophical change wrought on them: But then, as for our temper, habit and conduct, we must be for changed and altered, that those who knew us the other day, when in z ftate of fin, and before we knew CHRIST, and are acquainted with us now, must fee fuch an alteration, that they may stand as much amazed at it, as a perfon at the als teration wrought on any perfon he has not feen for twenty years from his infancy.

2. But I think it proper to premife fomething farther, because this text is the grand ftrong-hold of Arminians, and others. They learn of the devil to bring texts to propagate bad principles : when the devil had a mind to tempt JESUS CHRIST, because CHRIST quoted scripture; therefore Satan did to too. And fuch perfons, that their doctrine and bad principles may go down the better, would fain perfuade unwary and unstable fouls, that they are founded upon the word of Gop. Though the doctrine of original fin, is a doctrine written written in fuch legible characters in the word of GoD, that he who runs may read it; and though, I think, every thing without us, and every thing within us, plainly proclaims that we are fallen creatures; though the very heathens, who had no other light, but the dim light of unaffifted reason, complained of this, for they felt the wound, and difcovered the dilease, but were ignorant of the cause of it; yet there are too many perfons of those who have been baptized in the name of CHRIST, that dare to speak against the doctrine of original fin, and are angry with those ill-natured ministers, who paint man in fuch black colours. Say they, "It cannot be that " children come into the world with the guilt of Adam's fin " lying upon them." Why? Defire them to prove it from Scripture, and they will urge this very text, our LORD tells us, " Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." Now their argument runs thus, " It is implied in the words of the text,  that little children are innocent, and that they come into the " world like a mere blank piece of white paper, otherwife our " LORD must argue abfurdly, for he could never pretend to " fay, that we must be converted, and be made like wicked " creatures; that would be no conversion." But, my dear friends, this is to make JESUS CHRIST speak what he never intended, and what cannot be deduced from his words. That little children are guilty, I mean, that they are conceived and born in fin, is plain from the whole tenor of the book of GOD. David was a man after GOD's own heart, yet, fays he, "I was conceived in fin." Jeremiab speaking of every one's heart, says, " the heart of man is deceitful and desperately wicked above all things." God's fervants unanimoufly declare, (and Paul cites it from one of them) " that we are altogether now become abominable, altogether gone out of the way of original righteoufness, there is not one of us that doth good (by nature), no not one." And I appeal to any of you that are mothers and fathers, if ye do not difcern original fin or corruption in your children, as foon as they come into the world; and as they grow up, if ye do not discover felfwill, and an averfion to goodnefs. What is the reafon your children are fo averfe to inftruction, but because they bring enmity into the world with them, against a good and gracious GOD?

GOD ? So then, it is plain from scripture and fact, that children are born in fin, and confequently that they are children of wrath. And for my part, I think, that the death of every child is a plain proof of original fin; fickness and death came into the world by fin, and it feems not confiftent with Gop's goodness and justice, to let a little child be fick or die, unless Adam's first fin was imputed to him. If any charge GOD with injustice for imputing Adam's fin to a little child, behold we have gotten a fecond Adam, to bring our children to him. Therefore, when our LORD fays, " unlefs ye are converted, and become as little children," we are not to understand, as though our LORD would infinuate, that little children are perfectly innocent; but in a comparative, and as I shall shew you by and by, in a rational fense. Little children are innocent, compare them with grown people; but take them as they are, and as they come into the world, they have hearts that are fenfual, and minds which are carnal. And I mention this with the greatest concern, because I verily believe, unless parents are convinced of this, they will never take proper care of their children's education. If parents were convinced, that children's hearts were fo bad as they are, you would never be fond of letting them go to balls, affemblies, and plays, the natural tendency of which is to debauch their minds, and make them the children of the devil. If parents were convinced of this, I believe they would pray more, when they bring their children to be baptized, and would not make it a mere matter of form. And I believe, if they really were convinced, that their children were conceived in fin, they would always put up that petition, before their children came into the world, which I have heard that a good woman always did put up, " LORD JESUS, let me never bear a child for hell " or the devil." O! is it not to be feared, that thousands of children will appear, at the great day, before GoD, and in prefence of angels and men will fay, Father and mother, next to the wickedness of mine own heart, I owe my damnation to your bad education of me.

Having premised these two particulars, I now proceed to shew in what sense we are really to understand the words, that we must be converted and become like little children. The Evangelist tells us, " that the disciples at this time came unto Jesus, faying, Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven ?" These disciples had imbibed the common prevailing notion, that the LORD JESUS CHRIST was to be a temporal prince; they dreamed of nothing but being ministers of state, of fitting on CHRIST's right-hand in his kingdom, and lording it over Gon's people; they thought themselves qualified for flate offices, as generally ignorant people are apt to conceive of themselves. Well, fay they, "Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven ?" Which of us shall have the chief management of public affairs? A pretty question fot a few poor fifhermen, who fcarcely knew how to drag their nets to shore, much less how to govern a kingdom. Our LORD, therefore, in the 2d verfe, to mortify them, calls a little child, and fets him in the midst of them. This action was as much as if our LORD had faid, " Poor creatures ! your imaginations are very towering; you difpute who shall be greateft in the kingdom of heaven; I will make this little child preach to you, or I will preach to you by him : Verily I fay unto you, (I who am truth itself, I who know in what manner my subjects are to enter into my kingdom; I say unto you, ye are so far from being in a right temper for 15y kingdom, that) except ye be converted, and become as this little child, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven, (unless ye are, comparatively speaking, as loofe to the world, as loofe to crowns, fcepters, and kingdoms, and earthly things, as this poor little child I have in my hand) ye fhall not enter into my kingdom." So that what our LORD is speaking of, is not the innocency of little children, if you confider the relation they fland in to GoD, and as they are in themselves, when brought into the world; but what our LORD means is, that as to ambition and lust after the world, we must in this fense become as little children. Is there never a little boy or girl in this congregation? Afk a poor little child, that can just speak, about a crown, scepter, or kingdom, the poor creature has no notion about it : give a little boy or girl a fmall thing to play with, it will leave the world to other people. Now in this fense we must be converted, and become as little children; that is, we must be as loose to the world, comparatively speaking, as a little child.

Do

Do not mistake me, I am not going to persuade you to thut up your thops, or leave your bufinels; I am not going to perfuade you, that if ye will be christians, ye must turn hermits. and retire out of the world : ye cannot leave your wicked hearts behind you, when you leave the world; for I find when I am alone, my wicked heart has followed me, go where I will. No, the religion of JESUS is a focial religion. But though JESUS CHRIST does not call us to go out of the world, thut up our thops, and leave our children to be provided for by miracles; yet this must be faid to the honour of christianity, if we are really converted, we shall be loofe from the world. Though we are engaged in it, and are obliged to work for our children; though we are obliged to follow trades and merchandize, and to be ferviceable to the commonwealth; yet if we are real christians, we shall be loofe to the world; though I will not pretend to fay that all real chriftians have attained to the fame degree of fpiritual-minded-This is the primary meaning of these words, that we neís. must be converted and become as little children; nevertheleis. I suppose the words are to be understood in other senses.

When our LORD fays, we must be converted and become as little children, I suppose he means also, that we must be fenfible of our weaknefs, comparatively speaking, as a little child. Every one looks upon a little child, as a poor weak creature; as one that ought to go to fchool and learn fome new lefton every day; and as fimple and artlefs: one without guile, having not learned the abominable art, called diffimulation. Now in all these fenses, I believe we are to underftand the words of the text.----Are little children fenfible of their weakness ? Must they be led by the hand ? Must we take hold of them or they will fall ? So, if we are converted. if the grace of GOD be really in our hearts, my dear friends, however we may have thought of ourfelves once, whatever were our former high exalted imaginations; yet we shall now be fenfible of our weakneis; we shall no more fay, "We are rich and increased with goods, and lack nothing;" we shall be inwardly poor: we fhall feel " that we are poor, miferable, blind, and naked." And as a little child gives up its hand to be guided by a parent or a nurfe, fo those who are truly converted, and are real christians, will give up the heart, their Y 4 under-understandings, their wills, their affections, to be guided by the word, providence, and the Spirit of the LORD. Hence it is, that the Apostle, speaking of the sons of GoD, says, "As many as are led by the Spirit of GoD, they are (and to be fure he means they only are) the sons of GoD."

And as little children look upon themfelves to be ignorant creatures, fo those that are converted, do look upon themfelves as ignorant too. Hence it is, that John, speaking to chriftians, calls them little children; " I have written unto vou, little children." And CHRIST's flock is called a little flock, not only because little in number, but also because those who are members of his flock, are indeed little in their own eyes. Hence that great man, that great apostle of the Gentiles, that spiritual father of so many thousands of souls, that man, who in the opinion of Dr. Goodwin, " fits nearest the Godman, the LORD JESUS CHRIST, in glory," that cholen veffel, the Apostle Paul, when he speaks of himself, says, " Unto me, who am lefs than the leaft of all faints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of CHRIST." Perhaps some of you, when you read these words, will be apt to think that Paul did not fpeak true, that he did not really feel what he faid ; because you judge Paul's heart by your own proud hearts : but the more ye get of the grace of GoD, and the more ye are partakers of the divine life, the more will ye fee your own meannels and vilenels, and be lefs in your own eyes. Hence it is, that Mr. Flavel, in his book called, Husbandry Spiritualized, compares young christians to green corn ; which before it is ripe, fhoots up very high, but there is little folidity in it : whereas, an old christian is like ripe corn ; it doth not lift up its head fo much, but then it is more weighty, and fit to be cut down, and put into the farmer's barn. Young chriftians are also like little rivulets; ye know rivulets are shallow, yet make great noise; but an old christian, he makes not much noise, he goes on sweetly, like a deep river fliding into the ocean.

And as a little child is looked upon as an harmlefs creature, and generally fpeaks true; fo, if we are converted, and become as little children, we fhall be guilelefs as well as harmlefs. What faid the dear Redeemer when he faw Nathaniel? As though it was a rare fight he gazed upon, and would have have others gaze upon it; "Behold an Ifraelite indeed:" Why fo? "In whom is no guile." Do not miftake me; I am not faying, that christians ought not to be prudent; they ought exceedingly to pray to GoD for prudence, otherwife they may follow the delufions of the devil, and by their imprudence give wrong touches to the ark of GoD. It was the lamentation of a great man, " GOD has given me many " gifts, but GOD has not given me prudence." Therefore, when I fay, a christian must be guileless, I do not mean, he fhould expose himself, and lie open to every one's affault : we fhould pray for the wildom of the ferpent, though we shall generally learn this wifdom by our blunders and imprudence : and we must make some advance in christianity, before we know our imprudence. A perfon really converted, can fay, as it is reported of a philosopher, " I wish there was a win-" dow in my breast, that every one may fee the uprightness f of my heart and intentions :" And though there is too much of the old man in us, yet, if we are really converted. there will be in us no allowed guile, we shall be harmlefs. And that is the reafon why the poor christian is too often imposed upon; he judgeth other people by himself; having an honest heart, he thinks every one as honest as himself, and therefore is a prey to every one. I might enlarge upon each of these points, it is a copious and important truth; but I do not intend to multiply many marks and heads.

And therefore, as I have fomething to fay by way of perfonal application, give me leave therefore, with the utmost tenderness, and at the fame time with faithfulness, to call upon you, my dear friends. My text is introduced in an awful manner, " Verily I fay unto you;" and what JESUS faid then, he fays now to you, to me, and to as many as fit under a preached gospel, and to as many as the LORD our GoD fhall call. Let me exhort you to fee whether ye are converted; whether fuch a great and almighty change has paffed upon any of your fouls. As I told you before, fo I tell you again, ye all hope to go to heaven, and I pray GOD Almighty ye may be all there : when I fee fuch a congregation as this, if my heart is in a proper frame, I feel myfelf ready to lay down my life, to be inftrumental only to fave one foul. It makes my heart bleed within me, it makes me fometimes fometimes most unwilling to preach, left that word that I hope will do good, may increase the damnation of any, and perhaps of a great part of the auditory, through their own unbelief. Give me leave to deal faithfully with your fouls, I have your dead warrant in my hand : CHRIST has faid it. TESUS will fland to it, it is like the laws of the Medes and Persians, it altereth not. Hark, O man ! hark, O woman ! he that hath ears to hear, let him hear what the LORD JESUS CHRIST fays, " Verily I fay unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." Though this is Saturday night, and ye are now preparing for the fabbath, for what you know, you may yet never live to fee the fabbath. You have had awful proofs of this lately; a woman died but yesterday, a man died the day before, another was killed by fomething that fell from a house, and it may be in twenty-four hours more, many of you may be carried into an unalterable state. Now then, for Gop's fake, for your own fouls fake, if ye have a mind to dwell with GoD, and cannot bear the thought of dwelling in everlafting burning, before I go any further, filently put up one prayer, or fay Amen to the prayer I would put in your mouths; " LORD, fearch me and try me; LORD, examine my heart, and let my confcience speak; O let me know whether I am converted or not !" What fay ye, mg dear hearers ? what fay ye, my fellow-finners ? what fay ye, my guilty brethren ? Has God by his bleffed Spirit wrought fuch a change in your hearts? I do not afk you, whether Gop has made you angels? That I know will never be; I only ask vou, Whether ye have any well-grounded hope to think that GOD has made you new creatures in CHRIST JESUS? So renewed and changed your natures, that you can fay, I humbly hope, that as to the habitual temper and tendency of my mind, that my heart is free from wickedness; I have a hufband, I have a wife, I have also children, I keep a shop, I mind my busines; but I love these creatures for GoD's fake. and do every thing for CHRIST : and if GOD was now to call me away, according to the habitual temper of my mind, I can fay, LORD, I am ready; and however I love the creatures, I hope I can fay, Whom have I in heaven but thee ? Whom have I in heaven, O my GOD and my dear Redeemer, that that I defire in comparison of thee? Can you thank Gon for the creatures, and fay at the fame time, these are not my CHRIST ? I speak in plain language, you know my way of preaching: I do not want to play the orator, I do not want to be counted a feholar; I want to fpeak fo as I may reach poor people's hearts. What fay ye, my dear hearers? Are ve fenfible of your weaknefs? Do ye feel that ye are poormiserable, blind, and naked by nature ? Do ye give up your hearts, your affections, your wills, your understanding to be guided by the Spirit of GOD, as a little child gives up its hand to be guided by its parent ? Are ye little in your own eyes ? Do ye think meanly of yourfelves ? And do you want to learn fomething new every day ? I mention thefe marks. because I am apt to believe they are more adapted to a great many of your capacities. A great many of you have not that flowing of affection ye fometimes had, therefore ye are for giving up all your evidences, and making way for the devil's coming into your heart. You are not brought up to the mount as ye used to be, therefore ye conclude ye have no grace at all. But if the LORD JESUS CHRIST has emptied thee, and humbled thee, if he is giving thee to fee and know that thou art nothing; though thou art not growing upward, thou art growing downward; and though thou haft not fo much joy, yet thy heart is emptying to be more abundantly replenished by and by. Can any of you follow me? Then, give GOD thanks, and take the comfort of it.

If thou art thus converted, and become a little child, I welcome thee, in the name of the LORD JESUS, into GOD's dear family; I welcome thee, in the name of the dear Redeemer, into the company of GOD's children. O ye dear fouls, though the world fees nothing in you, though there be no outward difference between you and others, yet I look upon you in another light, even as fo many kings fons and daughters : all hail ! in the name of GOD, I wifh every one of you joy from my foul, ye fons and daughters of the King of kings. Will not you henceforth exercife a child-like temper? Will not fuch a thought melt down your hearts, when I tell you, that the great GOD, who might have frowned you to hell for your fecret fins, that nobody knew of but GOD and your own fouls, and who might have damaed you times without without number, hath caft the mantle of his love over you; his voice hath been, Let that man, that woman live, for I have found a ranfom. O will ye not cry out, Why me, LORD ? Was King George to fend for any of your children. and were you to hear they were to be his adopted fons, how highly honoured would you think your children to be? What great condescension was it for Pharaob's daughter to take up Mofes, a poor child exposed in an ark of bulrushes, and breed him up for her child? But what is that happines in comparifon of thine, who was the other day a child of the devil, but now by converting grace art become a child of GOD ? Are ye converted ? Are ye become like little children ? Then what must ye do? My dear hearers, be obedient to GOD, remember Gon is your father; and as every one of you must know what a dreadful cross it is to have a wicked, disobedient child; if ye do not want your children to be disobedient to vou. for CHRIST's fake be not difobedient to your heavenly parent. If GoD be your father, obey him : if GoD be your father, ferve him; love him with all your heart, love him with all your might, with all your foul, ard with all your Arength. If GOD be your father, fly from every thing that may displease him; and walk worthy of that GOD, who has called you to his kingdom and glory. If ye are converted and become like little children, then behave as little children: they long for the breaft, and with it will be contented. Are ye new-born babes? then defire the fincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby. I do not want that Arminian husks should go down with you; ye are kings sons and daughters, and have a more refined tafte; you must have the doctrines of grace; and bleffed be God that you dwell in a country, where the fincere word is fo plainly preached. Are ye children ? then grow in grace, and in the knowledge of your LORD and Saviour JESUS CHRIST. Have any of you children that do not grow ? do not ye lament these children, and cry over them; do not ye fay, my child will never be fit for any thing in the world ? Well, doth it grieve you to fee a child that will not grow; how much must it grieve the heart of CHRIST to fee you grow fo little ? Will ye be always children ? Will ye be always learning the first principles of chriftianity, and never prefs forward toward the mark, for the prize prize of the high calling of GOD in CHRIST JESUS? GOD forbid. Let the language of your heart be, "LORD JESUS " help me to grow, help me to learn more, learn me to live " fo as my progrefs may be known to all !"

Are ye God's children? Are ye converted, and become like little children? Then deal with GOD as your little children do with you; as foon as ever they want any thing, or if any body hurt them, I appeal to yourfelves if they do not directly run to their parent. Well, are ye Gon's children ? Doth the devil trouble you ? Doth the world trouble you ? Go tell your father of it, go directly and complain to God. Perhaps you may fay, I cannot utter fine words : but do any of you expect fine words from your children ? If they come crying, and can speak but half words, do not your hearts yearn over them ? And has not GOD unspeakably more pity to you? If ye can only make figus to him; "As a father pitieth his children, fo will the LORD pity them that fear him." I pray you therefore be bold with your Father, faying, "Abba, Father," Satan troubles me. the world troubles me, my own mother's children are angry with me; heavenly Father, plead my caufe! the LORD will then speak for you some way or other.

Are ye converted, and become as little children, have ye entered into GoD's family ? Then affure yourfelves, that your heavenly father will chaften you now and then; " for what fon is there whom the father chaftneth not : if ye are without chastisement, of which all are partakers, then are ye bastards and not fons." It is recorded of bifhop Latimer, that in the house where he came to lodge, he overheard the master of the house fay, I thank GOD I never had a cross in my life: O faid he, then I will not flay here. I believe there is not a child of GOD, when in a good frame, but has prayed for great humility; they have prayed for great faith, they have prayed for great love, they have prayed for all the graces of the Spirit : Do ye know, when ye put up these prayers, that ye did also fay, LORD fend us great trials : for how is it poffible to know ye have great faith, humility and love, unless God put you into great trials, that ye may know whether ye have them or not. I mention this, because a great many of the children of GOD (I am fure it has been a temptation to me many times; when I have been under God's finarting rod) when they have great trials, think GOD is giving them over. If therefore ye are GoD's children; if ye are converted and become as little children; do not expect that GOD will be like a foolish parent; no, he is a jealous GOD. he loves his child too well to fpare his rod. How did he correct Miriam? How did he correct Moles? How hath Gon in all ages corrected his dearest children ? Therefore if ye are converted, and become as little children, if Gop hath taken away a child, or your substance, if GOD suffers friends to forfake you, and if you are forfaken as it were both by Gop and man, fay, LORD I thank thee ! I am a perverse child. or Gop would not ftrike me fo often and fo hard. Do not blame your heavenly Father, but blame yourfelves; he is a loving GOD, and a tender Father, " he is afflicted in all our afflictions :" therefore when GoD spake to Moles, he spake out of the bush, as much as to fay, " Moles, this bush represents my people; as this bufh is burning with fire, fo are my children to burn with affliction; but I am in the bufh; if the bufh burns, I will burn with it, I will be with them in the furnace, I will be with them in the water, and though the water come over them, it shall not overflow them."

Are ye GoD's children ? Are ye converted and become as little children? Then will ye not long to go home and fee your Father? O happy they that have gotten home before you; happy they that are up yonder, happy they who have afcended above this field of conflict. I know not what you may think of it, but fince I heard that fome, whole hearts God was pleafed to work upon, are gone to glory, I am fometimes filled with grief, that GOD is not pleafed to let me go home too. How can you fee fo much coldnefs among Gon's people ? How can ye fee Gon's people like the moon, waxing and waning? Who can but defire to be forever with the LORD? Thanks be to GOD, the time is foon coming; thanks be to God, he will come and will not tarry. Do not be impatient, GOD in his own time will fetch you home. And though ye may be brought to fhort allowance now, though fome of you may be narrow in your circumstances, yet do not repine ; a GOD, and the golpel of CHRIST, with brown bread, are great riches. In thy Father's house there is bread enough and to fpare; though thou art now tormented, yet by and by thou fhalt be comforted; the angels will look upon it as an honour to convey thee to Abraham's bolom, though thou art but a Lazarus here. By the frame of my heart, I am much inclined to fpeak comfortably to GoD's people.

But I only mention one thing more, and that is, if ye are converted, and become as little children, then for GoD's fake take care of doing what children often do; they are too apt to quarrel one with another. O love one another; "he that dwells in love dwells in Gop, and Gop in him." 70feph knew that his brethren were in danger of falling out, therefore when he left them, fays he, " fall not out by the way." Ye are all children of the fame Father, ye are all going to the fame place; why fhould ye differ ? The world has enough against us, the devil has enough against us, without our quarelling with each other; O walk in love. If I could preach no more, if I was not able to hold out to the end of my fermon, I would fay as John did, when he was grown old and could not preach, " Little children, love one another :" if ye are GoD's children, then love one another. There is nothing grieves me more, than the differences amongst Gop's people. O haften that time, when we shall either go to heaven, or never quarrel any more !

Would to GOD I could speak to all of you in this comfortable language; but my master tells me, I must " not give that which is holy to dogs, I must not cast pearls before fwine :" therefore, though I have been speaking comfortably, yet what I have been faying, especially in this latter part of the difcourfe, belongs to children; it is children's bread, it belongs to GoD's people. If any of you are graceless, chriftless, unconverted creatures, I charge you not to touch it, I fence it in the name of GOD; here is a flaming fword turning every way to keep you from this bread of life, till ye are turned to JESUS CHRIST. And therefore, as I suppose many of you are unconverted, and graceles, go home, and away to your closets, and down with your flubborn hearts before GoD; if ye have not done it before, let this be the night : Or, do not ftay till ye go home; begin now, while standing here; pray to GOD, and let the language of thy heart be, LORD convert me ! LORD

Lord make me a little child, LORD JESUS let me not be banished from thy kingdom ! My dear friends, there is a great deal more implied in the words, than is expressed : when CHRIST fays, "Ye fhall not enter into the kingdom of heaven," it is as much as to fay, " ye fhall certainly go to hells ye shall certainly be damned, and dwell in the blackness of darkness for ever, ye shall go where the worm dies not, and where the fire is not quenched." The LORD GOD impress it upon your fouls ! May an arrow (as one lately wrote me in a letter) dipped in the blood of CHRIST, reach every unconverted finner's heart ! May GOD fulfil the text to every one of your fouls! It is he alone that can do it. If ye confefs your fins, and leave them, and lay hold on the LORD JESUS CHRIST, the Spirit of God shall be given you; if you will go and fay, turn me, O my Gon ! thou knowest not, O man. what the return of GOD may be to thee. Did I think that preaching would be to the purpose, did I think that arguments would induce you to come, I would continue my discourse till midnight. And however some of you may hate me without a cause, would to Gap every one in this congregation was as much concerned for himfelf, as at prefent (bleffed be GOD) I feel myself concerned for him. Q that my head were waters, O that mine eyes were a fountain of tears, that I might weep over an unconverted, gracelefs, wicked, and adulterous generation. Precious fouls, for GoD's fake think what will become of you when ye die, if you die without being converted; if ye go hence without the wedding garment, GOD will strike you speechles, and ye shall be banished from his presence for ever and ever. I know ye cannot dwell with everlasting burnings; behold then I shew you a way of escape; JESUS is the way, JESUS is the truth, the LORD JESUS CHRIST is the refurrection and the life. It is his Spirit must convert you, come to CHRIST, and ye shall have it; and may GOD for CHRIST's fake give it to you all, and convert you, that we may all meet, never to part again, in his heavenly kingdom; even fo LORD JESUS, Amen and Amen.

SERMON XXIV.

What think ye of CHRIST?

MATTHEW XXII. 42.

What think ye of CHRIST?

THEN it pleased the eternal Son of God to tabernacle among us, and preach the glad tidings of falvation to a fallen world, different opinions were entertained by different parties concerning him. As to his perfon, fome faid he was Moles; others that he was Elias, Jeremias, or one of the ancient prophets; few acknowledged him to be what he really was, God bleffed for evermore. And as to his doctrine. though the common people, being free from prejudice, were perfuaded of the heavenly tendency of his going about to do good, and for the generality, heard him gladly, and faid he was a good man; yet the envious, worldly-minded, felfrighteous governors and teachers of the Jewish church, being grieved at his fuccess on the one hand, and unable (having never been taught of GOD) to understand the purity of his doctrine, on the other; notwithstanding our LORD spake as never man spake, and did such miracles which no man could poffibly do, unless GOD was with him; yet they not only were to infatuated, as to fay, that he deceived the people, but also were to blasphemous as to affirm, that he was in league with the devil himfelf, and caft out devils by Beelzebud the prince of devils. Nay, our LORD's own brethren and kinimen, according to the flefh, were to blinded by prejudice and unbelief, that on a certain day, when he went out to teach the multitudes in the fields, they fent to take hold on him, him, urging this as a reason for their conduct, "That he was befides himself."

Thus was the King and the LORD of glory judged by man's judgment, when manifest in flesh : far be it from any of his minifters to expect better treatment. No, if we come in the foirit and power of our Mafter, in this, as in every other part of his sufferings, we must follow his steps. The like reproaches which were caft on him, will be thrown on us alfo. Those that received our LORD and his doctrine. will receive and hear us for his name's fake. The poor, bleffed be God, as our prefent meeting abundantly teffifies, receive the gospel, and the common people hear us gladly; whilft those who are sitting in Moles' chair, and love to wear long robes, being ignorant of the righteousnels which is of God by faith in CHRIST JESUS, and having never felt the power of GOD upon their hearts, will be continually crying out against us, as madmen, deceivers of the people, and as acting under the influence of evil fpirits.

But he is unworthy the name of a minister of the gospel of peace, who is unwilling, not only to have his name caft out as evil, but also to die for the truths of the LORD JESUS. It is the character of hirelings and falle prophets. who care not for the fheep, to have all men fpeak well of them. "Bleffed are you, (fays our LORD to his first apostles, and in them to all fucceeding minifters) when men fpeak all manner of evil against you falsely for my name's fake." And indeed it is impossible but fuch offences must come : for men will always judge of others, according to the principles from -which they act themselves. And if they care not to yield obedience to the doctrines which we deliver, they must neceffarily, in felf-defence, fpeak against the preachers, left they should be asked that question, which the Pharifees of old feared to have retorted on them, if they confeffed that John-was a prophet, "Why then did you not believe on him ?" In all fuch cafes, we have nothing to do but to fearch our own hearts, and if we can affare our confciences, before GOD, that we act with a fingle eye to his glory, we are schearfully to go on in our work, and not in the leaft to regatt what men or devils can fay against, or do unto us. Right Land But

But to return. You have heard what various thoughts there were concerning JESUS CHRIST, whilft here on earth : nor is he otherwife treated, even now he is exalted to fit down at the right hand of his Father in heaven. A ftranger to chriftianity, was he to hear, that we all profefs to hold one LORD, would naturally infer, that we all thought and fpoke one and the fame thing about him. But alas! to our fhame be it mentioned, though CHRIST be not divided in himfelf, yet profeffors are fadly divided in their thoughts about him; and that not only as to the circumftances of his religion, but also of those effential truths which must neceffarily be believed and received by us, if ever we hope to be heirs of eternal falvation.

Some, and I fear a multitude which no man can eafily number, there are amongst us, who call themselves christians, and yet feldom or never feriously think of JESUS CHRIST at They can think of their shops and their farms, their all. plays, their balls, their affemblies, and horfe-races (entertainments which directly tend to exclude religion out of the world); but as for CHRIST, the author and finisher of faith, the LORD who has bought poor finners with his precious blood, and who is the only thing worth thinking of, alas ! he is not in all, or at most in very few of their thoughts. But believe me, O ye earthly, fenfual, carnally-minded professors, however little you may think of CHRIST now, or however industriously you may strive to keep him out of your thoughts, by pursuing the luft of the eye, the luft of the flefh, and the pride of life, yet there is a time coming, when you will wish you had thought of CHRIST more, and of your profits and pleafures lefs. For the gay, the polite, the rich also must die as well as others, and leave their pomps and vanities, and all their wealth behind them. And O! what thoughts will you entertain concerning JESUS CHRIST, in that hour?

But I must not pursue these reflections: they would carry me too far from the main design of this discourse, which is to shew, what those who are truly desirous to know how to worship GoD in spirit and in truth, ought to think concerning JESUS CHRIST, whom GOD hath sent to be the end of the law for righteousness to all them that shall believe.

I truft,

I truft, my bretbren, you are more noble than to think me too ftrict or fcrupulous, in thus attempting to regulate your thoughts about JESUS CHRIST: for by our thoughts, as well as our words and actions, are we to be judged at the great day. And in vain do we hope to believe in, or worfhip CHRIST aright, unlefs our principles, on which our faith and practice are founded, are agreeable to the form of found words delivered to us in the fcriptures of truth.

Befides, many deceivers are gone abroad into the world. Mere heathen morality, and not JESUS CHRIST, is preached in most of our churches. And how should people think rightly of CHRIST, of whom they have fcarcely heard? Bear with me a little then, whils, to inform your conficiences, I ask you a few questions concerning JESUS CHRIST: For there is no other name given under heaven, whereby we can be faved, but his.

First, What think you about the perfon of CHRIST ? "Whofe Son is he ?" This is the queftion our LORD put to the Pharifees in the words following the text; and never was it more necessary to repeat this question than in these last days. For numbers that are called after the name of CHRIST, and I fear, many that pretend to preach him, are fo far advanced in the blasphemous chair, as openly to deny his being really, truly, and properly God. But no one that ever was partaker of his Spirit, will speak thus lightly of him. No; if they are asked, as Peter and his brethren were, "But whom fay ye that I am ?" they will reply without hefitation, " Thou art CHRIST the Son of the ever-living GOD." For the confession of our LORD's divinity, is the rock upon which he builds his church. Was it possible to take this away, the gates of hell would quickly prevail against it. My brethren, if JESUS CHRIST be not very GOD of very GOD, I would never preach the golpel of CHRIST again. For it would not be gospel; it would be only a system of moral ethics : Seneca, Cicero, or any of the Gentile philosophers, would be as good a Saviour as JESUS of Nazareth. It is the divinity of our LORD that gives a fanction to his death, and makes him fuch a high-prieft as became us, one who by the infinite merits of his fuffering could make a full, perfect, fufficient facrifice, fatisfaction and oblation to infinitely offended juffice. And whatfoever whatfoever minifter of the church of England, makes use of her forms, and eats of her bread, and yet holds not this doctrine (as I fear too many such are crept in amongst us) such a one belongs only to the synagogue of Satan. He is not a child or minister of GOD: no; he is a wolf in sheep's cloathing; he is a child and minister of that wicked one the devil.

Many will think these hard sayings: But I think it no breach of charity to affirm, that an Arian or Sociatian cannot be a chriftian. The one would make us believe JESUS CHRIST is only a created God, which is a felf-contradiction : and the other would have us look on him only as a good man : and inftead of owning his death to be an atonement for the fins of the world, would perfuade us, that CHRIST died only to feal the truth of his doctrine with his blood. But if Jesus CHRIST be no more than a mere man, if he be not truly GOD, he was the vileft finner that ever appeared in the world. For he accepted of divine adoration from the man who had been born blind, as we read Fobn ix. 28. " And he faid, LORD I believe, and worfhipped him." Befides, if CHRIST be not properly GOD, our faith is vain, we are yet in our fins : for no created being, though of the highest order, could possibly merit any thing at GoD's hands : it was our LORD's divinity. that alone qualified him to take away the fins of the world ; and therefore we hear St. John pronouncing to politively, that " the Word (JESUS CHRIST) was not only with GOD. but was God." For the like reason, St. Paul fays, " that he was in the form of GOD: That in him dwelt all the fulnefs of the godhead bodily." Nay, JESUS CHRIST affumed the the title which GOD gave to himself, when he fent Moles to deliver his people Ifrael. 46 Before Abraham was, I AM.¹² And again, " I and my father are one." Which laft words. though our modern infidels would evade and wreft, as they do other fcriptures, to their own damnation, yet it is evident that the Fews understood our LORD, when he spake thus, as making himfelf equal with GOD; otherwife, why did they ftone him as a blasphemer? And now, why should it be thought a breach of charity, to affirm, that those who deny the divinity of JESUS CHRIST, in the fricteft fense of the word, cannot be christians ? For they are greaten infidels than the devils themfelves, who confeffed that they knew who he was, "even the holy one of Gon." They not only believe, but, which is more than the unbelievers of this generation do, they tremble. And was it poffible for arch-hereticks, to be released from their chains. of darkness, under which (unless they altered their principles before they died) they are now referved to the judgment of the great day, I am persuaded they would inform us, how hell had convinced them of the divinity of JESUS CHRIST, and that they would advise their followers to abhor their principles, left they should come into the same place, and thereby increase each others torments.

But, Secondly, What think you of the manhood or incarnation of JESUS CHRIST? For CHRIST was not only GOD, but he was GOD and man in one perfon. Thus runs the text and context, "When the Pharifees were gathered together, JESUS afked them, faying, What think ye of CHRIST? Whofe Son is he? They fay unto him, The Son of David, How then, fays our divine mafter, does David in fpirit call him LORD?" From which paffage it is evident, that we do not think rightly of the perfon of JESUS CHRIST, unlefs we believe him to be perfect GOD and perfect man, of a reafonable foul and human flefh fublifting,

For it is on this account that he is called CHRIST, or the ancinted one, who through his own voluntary offer was fei apart by the father, and firengthened and qualified by the anointing or communication of the Holy Ghoft, to be a mediator between Him and offending man.

The reafon why the Son of GOD took upon him our nature, was, the fall of our first parents. I hope there is no one prefent fo atheistical, as to think, that man made himself: no, it was GOD that made us, and not we ourselves. And I would willingly think, that no one is fo blass hermous as to suppose, that if GOD did make us, he made us such creatures as we now find ourselves to be. For this would be giving GOD's word the lie, which tells us, that " in the image of GOD (not in the image which we now bear on our fouls) made he man." As GOD made man, fo GOD made him perfect. He placed him in the garden of Eden, and condefcended to enter into a covenant with him, promising him eternal eternal life, upon condition of unfinning obedience; and threatening eternal death, if he broke his law, and did eat the forbidden fruit.

Man did eat; and herein acting as our representative. thereby involved both himfelf and us in that curfe, which GOD, the righteous judge, had faid fhould be the confequence of his disobedience. But here begins that mystery of godlinels, God manifelted in the flefh. For (fing, O heavens, and rejoice, O earth !) the eternal Father, forefeeing how Satan would bruife the heel of man, had in his eternal counfel provided a means whereby he might bruife that accurfed Serpent's head. Man is permitted to fall, and become fubject to death; but JESUS, the only begotten Son of GOD, begotten of the Father before all worlds, Light of light, very GOD of very GOD, offers to die to make an atonement for his transgreffion, and to fulfil all righteousness in his stead. And becaufe it was impossible for him to do this as he was Gop. and yet fince man had offended, it was necessary it should be done in the perfon of man; rather than we fhould perifh. this everlasting GOD, this Prince of Peace, this Antient of Days, in the fulnels of time, had a body prepared for him by the Holy Ghoft, and became an infant. In this body he performed a compleat obedience to the law of GoD; whereby he, in our stead, fulfilled the covenant of works, and at last became subject to death, even death upon the cross; that as God he might fatisfy, as man he might obey and fuffer; and being GOD and man in one perfon, might once more procure a union between GOD and our fouls.

. And now, What think you of this love of CHRIST? Do not you think it was wondrous great ? Especially when you confider, that we were CHRIST's bitter enemies, and that he would have been infinitely happy in himfelf, notwithstanding we had perifhed for ever. Whatever you may think of it, I know the bleffed angels, who are not fo much concerned in this mystery of godliness as we, think most highly of it. They do, they will defire to look into, and admire it, through all eternity. Why, why O ye finners, will you not think of this love of CHRIST? Surely it must melt down: the most hardened heart. Whilft I am speaking, the thought of this infinite and condescending love fires and warms my foul. I could could dwell on it for ever. But it is expedient for you, that I fhould afk you another question concerning JESUS CHRIST.

Thirdly, What think you about being justified by CHRIST ? I believe I can answer for some of you: for many, I fear, think to be justified or looked upon as righteous in GoD's fight, without JESUS CHRIST. But fuch will find themselves dreadfully mistaken : for out of CHRIST, " GOD is a confuming fire." Others fatisfy themselves, with believing that CHRIST was GOD and man, and that he came into the world to fave finners in general 1 whereas, their chief concern ought to be, how they may be affured that JESUS CHRIST came into the world to fave them in particular. " The life that I now live in the flesh, (fays the Apostle) is by faith of the Son of GOD, who loved me, and gave himself for me." Obferve, for me : it is this immediate application of JESUS CHRIST to our own hearts, that renders his merits effectual to our eternal falvation. An unapplied CHRIST will do us no fervice at all. Others there are who go still farther : for they think that IESUS CHRIST is God-man; that he is to be applied to their hearts; and that they can be justified in GoD's fight, only in or through him : but then they make him only in part a faviour : They are for doing what they can themfelves, and then JESUS CHRIST is to make up the deficiencies of their righteousness. This is the sum and substance of our modern divinity. And was it poffible for me to know the thoughts of most that hear me this day, I believe they would tell me, this was the scheme they had laid, and perhaps depended on for some years, for their eternal falvation. Is it not then high time, my brethren, for you to entertain quite different thoughts concerning juffification by JESUS CHRIST ? For if you think thus, you are in the cafe of those unhappy Fews, who went about to establish their own righteousness, and would not submit to, and consequently miffed of that righteoufnels which is of GOD by faith in CHRIST JESUS our LORD. What think you then, if I tell you, that you are to be justified freely through faith in JESUS CHRIST, without any regard to any work or fitness foreseen in us at all? For falvation is the free gift of GOD. I know no fitnefs in man, but a fitness to be cast into the lake of fire and brimstone for ever. Our righteousnesses, in God's fight, are but as filthy rags :

rags: he cannot away with them. Our holinefs, if we have any, is not the caufe, but the effect of our justification in Gon's fight. "We love Gon, because he first loved us." We must not come to Gon as the proud Pharifee did, bringing in as it were a reckoning of our fervices; we must come in the temper and language of the poor Publican, fmitting upon our breafts, and faying, " God be merciful to me a finner :" for JESUS CHRIST justifies us whilst we are ungodly. He came not to call the righteous, but finners to repentance. The poor in fpirit only, they who are willing to go out of themfelves, and rely wholly on the righteoufnefs of another, are so bleffed as to be members of his kingdom. The righteousnels, the whole righteousnels of JESUS CHRIST. is to be imputed to us, inftead of our own : " For we are not under the law, but under grace: and to as many as walk after this rule, peace be on them :" for they, and they only are the true Ifrael of GoD. In the great work of man's redemption, boafting is entirely excluded : which could not be, if only one of our works was to be joined with the merits of CHRIST. Our falvation is all of GOD, from the beginning to the end : it is not of works, left any man should boaft : man has no hand in it : it is CHRIST who is to be made to us of GOD the Father, wildom, righteousnels, fanctification. and eternal redemption. His active as well as his paffive obedience, is to be applied to poor finners. He has fulfilled all righteousness in our stead, that we might become the righteoufness of GOD in him. All we have to do, is to lay hold on this righteousness by faith : and the very moment we do apprehend it by a lively faith, that very moment we may be affured, that the blood of JESUS CHRIST has cleanfed us from all fin : " For the promife is to us and to our children, and to as many as the LORD our GOD shall call." If we and our whole houses believe, we shall be faved as well as the Jaylor and his house : for the righteousness of JESUS CHRIST is an everlasting, as well as a perfect righteoufnels. It is as effectual to all who believe in him now, as formerly; and fo it will be, till time shall be no more. Search the fcriptures, as the Bereans did, and fee whether these things are not so. Search St. Paul's epiftles to the Romans and Galatians, and there you will find this doct ine fo plainly taught you, that, unlefs unlefs you have eyes and fee not, he that runs may read. Search the Eleventh Article of our Church: "We are ac-" counted righteous before GOD, only for the merits of our " Lord and Saviour JESUS CHRIST by faith, and not for our " own works or defervings."

This doctrine of our free juftification by faith in CHRIST JESUS, however cenfured and evil fpoken of by our prefent Mafters of Ifrael, was highly effected by our wife fore fathers: for in the fublequent words of the forementioned article, it is called a most wholefome doctrine, and very full of comfort: and fo it is to all that are weary and heavy laden, and are truly willing to find reft in JESUS CHRIST.

This is golpel, this is glad tidings of great joy to all that feel themfelves poor, loft, undone, damned finners. " Ho, every one that thirfteth, come unto the waters of life; and drink freely; come and buy without money and without price." Behold a fountain opened in your Saviour's fide, for fin and for all uncleannefs, " Look unto him whom you have pierced:" look unto him by faith, and verily you fhall be faved, though you came here only to ridicule and blafpheme, and never thought of GOD or of CHRIST before.

Not that you must think GOD will fave you becaufe, or on account of your faith; for faith is a work, and then you would be justified for your works: but when I tell you, we are to be justified by faith, I mean that faith is the instrument whereby the finner applies or brings home the redemption of JESUS CHRIST to his heart. And to whomfoever GOD gives fuch a faith, (for it is the free gift of GOD) he may lift up his head with boldnefs, he need not fear; he is a spiritual fon of our spiritual David; he is passed from death to life, he shall never come into condemnation. This is the gospel which we preach. If any man or angel preach any other gospel, than this of our being freely justified through faith in CHRIST JESUS, we have the authority of the greatest Apostle, to pronounce him accuried.

And now, my brethren, what think you of this foolifhnefs of preaching? To you that have tafted the good word of life, who have been enlightened to fee the riches of GoD's free grace in CHRIST JESUS, I am perfuaded it is precious, and has diffilled like the dew into your fouls. And O that all

But I am afraid, numbers are ready all were like-minded ! to go away contradicting and blaspheming. Tell me, are there not many of you faying within yourfelves, " This is a " licentious doctrine; this preacher is opening a door for en-" couragement in fin." But this does not furprize me at all. it is a stale, antiquated objection, as old as the doctrine of juffification itfelf; and (which by the way is not much to the credit of those who urge it now) it was made by an infidel. St. Paul, in his epiftle to the Romans, after he had, in the first five chapters, demonstrably proved the doctrine of justification by faith alone; in the fixth, brings in an unbeliever faying, "Shall we continue in fin then, that grace may abound ?" But as he rejected fuch an inference with a "GOD forbid !" fo do I: for the faith which we preach, is not a dead fpeculative faith, an affenting to things credible, as credible, as it is commonly defined : it is not a faith of the head only, but a faith of the heart. It is a living principle wrought in the foul, by the Spirit of the ever-living GoD, convincing the finner of his loft, undone condition by nature; enabling him to apply and lay hold on the perfect righteousness of JESUS. CHRIST, freely offered him in the gospel, and continually exciting him, out of a principle of love and gratitude, to thew forth that faith, by abounding in every good word and work. This is the fum and fubitance of the doctrine that has been delivered. And if this be a licentious doctrine, judge ye. No. my brethren, this is not destroying, but teaching you how to do good works, from a proper principle. For to use the words of our Church in another of her Articles, " Works " done before the grace of CHRIST, and the infpiration of " the Spirit, are not pleasant to GOD, forasmuch as they " fpring not of faith in JESUS CHRIST; rather, for that they " are not done as GOD has willed and commanded them to " be done, we doubt not but they have the nature of fin." So that they who bid you do, and then live, are just as wife as those who would perfuade you to build a beautiful magnificent house, without laying a foundation.

It is true, the doctrine of our free juftification by faith in. CHRIST JESUS, like other golpel truths, may and will be abufed by men of corrupt minds, reprobates concerning the faith : but they who receive the truth of GOD in the love of it, it, will always be fnewing their faith by their works. For this reason, St. Paul, after he had told the Ephefians, " By grace they were faved through faith, not of works, left any man should boast," immediately adds, " For we are his workmanship, created in CHRIST JESUS unto good works." And in his epiftle to Titus, having given him directions to tell' the people they were justified by grace, directly subjoins, chap. iii. ver. 8. " I will that you affirm constantly, that they who have believed in GOD might be careful to maintain good works." Agreeable to this, we are told in our Twelfth Article, " That albeit good works, which are the fruits of " faith, and follow after justification, cannot put away our " fins, and endure the feverity of GOD's judgment; yet are " they pleafing and acceptable to GOD in CHRIST ; and do " fpring necefiarily out of a true and lively faith, infomuch, " that a lively faith may be as evidently known by them, as " a tree difcerned by the fruit."

What would I give, that this Article was duly underftood and preached by all that have fubscribed to it ! The ark of the LORD would not then be driven into the wildernefs, nor would fo many perfons diffent from the Church of England. For I am fully perfuaded, that it is not fo much on account' of rites and ceremonies, as our not preaching the truth as it is in JESUS, that fo many have been obliged to go and feek for food elsewhere. Did not we fall from our established doctrines, few, comparatively fpeaking, would fall from the Established Church. Where CHRIST is preached, though it be in a church or on a common, diffenters of all denominatrons have, and do most freely come. But if our clergy will preach only the law, and not fhew the way of falvation by faith in CHRIST JESUS, the charge of ichiim at the day of judgment, I fear, will chiefly lye at their door. The true fheep of CHRIST know the voice of CHRIST's true fhepherds, and strangers they will not hear.

Observe, my dear brethren, the words of the Article, "Good works are the fruits of faith, and follow after justificarion." How then can they precede, or be any way the cause of it? Our persons must be justified, before our performances can be accepted. GOD had respect to Abel before he had respect to his offering: and therefore the righteousness of JESUS CHRIST must be freely imputed to, and apprehended by us through faith, before we can offer an acceptable facrifice to GOD: for out of CHRIST, as I hinted before, GOD is a confuming fire: and whatfoever is not of faith in CHRIST, is fin.

That people miltake the doctrine of free justification, I believe, is partly owing to their not rightly confidering the different perfons to whom St. Paul and St. James wrote in their epiftles : as also the different kind of justification each of them writes about. The former afferts in line upon line, argument upon argument, " That we are justified by faith alone:" The latter put this question, " Was not Abraham justified by works ?" From whence many, not confidering the different views of these holy men, and the different perfons they wrote to, have blended and joined faith and works, in order to justify us in the fight of GOD. But this is a ca-Dital miftake; for St. Paul was writing to the Jewifb profelytes, who fought righteousnefs by the works, not of the ceremonial only, but of the moral law. In contradiffinction to that, he tells them, they were to look for juftification in Gop's fight, only by the perfect righteoufness of JESUS CHRIST apprehended by faith. St. James had a different fet of people to deal with; fuch who abused the doctrines of free justification, and thought they should be faved (as numbers among us do now) upon their barely profeffing to believe on JESUS CHRIST. These the holy Apostle endeavours wifely to convince, that fuch a faith was only a dead and falle faith; and therefore, it behoved all who would be bleffed with faithful Abraham, to thew forth their faith by their works, as he did : " For was not Abraham justified by works ?" Did he not prove that his faith was a true justifying faith, by its being productive of good works? From whence it is plain, that St. James is talking of a declarative juffification before men; shew me, demonstrate, evidence to me, that thou hast a true faith, by thy works : Whereas, St, Paul is talking only of our being justified in the fight of GOD; and thus he proves, that Abraham, as we also are to be, was justified before ever the moral or ceremonial law was given to the Fews : for it is written, " Abraham believed in the LORD, and it was accounted to him for righteoufnefs."

Take

Take the fubstance of what has been faid on this head, in the few following words. Every man that is faved, is juffified three ways: First, meriteriously, by the death of JESUS CHRIST: "It is the blood of JESUS CHRIST alone that cleanfes us from all fin." Secondly, instrumentally, by faith: faith is the means or inftrument whereby the merits of JESUS CHRIST are applied to the finner's heart: "Ye are all the children of GOD by faith in CHRIST JESUS." Thirdly, we are juffified declaratively; namely, by good works: good works declare and prove to the world, that our faith is a true faving faith. "Was not Abraham juffified by works?" And again, "Shew me thy faith by thy works."

It may not be improper to illustrate this doctrine by an example or two. I suppose no one will pretend to fay, that there was any fitnels for falvation in Zaccheus the publican. when he came to fee JESUS out of no better principle, than that whereby perhaps thousands are led to hear me preach ; I mean, curiofity : but JESUS CHRIST prevented and called him by his free grace, and fweetly, but irreliftibly inclined him to obey that call; as, I pray GOD, he may influence all you that come only to fee who the preacher is. Zaccheus received our LORD joyfully into his house, and at the fame time by faith received him into his heart : Zaccheus was then freely justified in the fight of GOD. But behold the immediate fruits of that iustification ! He stands forth in the mids. and as before he had believed in his beart, he now makes confession with his mouth to falvation : " Behold, LORD, the half of my goods I give unto the poor; and if I have taken any thing from any man by falle acculation. I reflore him four-fold." And thus it will be with thee, O believer, as foon as ever God's dear Son is revealed in thee by a living faith; thou wilt have no reft in thy fpirit, till out of fore and gratitude for what GoD has done for thy foul, thou shewest forth thy faith by thy works. - 1. ·

Again, I fuppole every body will grant there was no fitness for falvation in the perfecutor Saul; no more than there is in those perfecuting zealots of these last days, who are already breathing out threatenings, and, if in their power, would breathe out flaughter also, against the disciples of the LORD.

Now

Now our LORD, we know, freely prevented him by his grace, (and O that he would thus effectually call the perfecutors of this generation) and by a light from heaven flruck him to the ground. At the fame time, by his Spirit, he pricked him to the heart, convinced him of fin, and caufed him to cry out, "Who art thou, LORD?" CHRIST replies, "I am JESUS whom thou perfecuteft." Faith then was inflantaneoufly given to him, and behold, immediately Saul cries out, "LORD, what wouldft thou have me to do?" And fo will every poor foul that believes on the LORD JESUS with his whole heart. He will be always afking, LORD, what fhall I do for thee? LORD, what wouldft thou have me to do? Not to juftify himfelf, but only to evidence the fincerity of his love and thankfulnefs to his all-merciful High-prieft, for plucking him as a firebrand out of the fire.

Perhaps many felf-righteous perfons amongst you, may flatter yourselves, that you are not so wicked as either Zaccheus or Saul was, and confequently there is a greater fitnefs . for falvation in you than in them. But if you think thus, indeed you think more highly of yourfelves than you ought to think : for by nature we are all alike, all equally fallen fhort of the glory of Gon, all equally dead in trespaties and fins, and there needs the fame almighty power to be exerted in converting any one of the most sober, good-natured, moral perfons here prefent, as there was in converting the publican Zaecheus, or that notorious perfecutor Saul. And was it poffible for you to alcend into the highest heaven, and to enquire, of the spirits of just men made perfect, I am persuaded they would tell you this doctrine is from God. But we have a more fure word of prophecy, to which we do well to give heed, as unto a light thining in a dark place. My brethren, the word is nigh you; fearch the fcriptyres; beg of Gon to make you willing to be faved in this day of his power : For it is not flesh and blood, but the Spirit of JESUS CHRIST, that alone can reveal thele things unto you.

Fourthly and Lafly, What think you of JESUS CHRIST being formed within you? For whom CHRIST jullifies, them he also fanctifies. Although he finds, yet he does not leave us unholy. A true christian may not to properly be faid to live, as JESUS CHRIST to live in him. For they only that that are led by the Spirit of CHRIST, are the true fons of GOD.

As I observed before, so I tell you again, the faith which we preach is not a dead, but a lively active faith wrought in the foul, working a thorough change, by the power of the Holy Ghoft, in the whole man : and unless CHRIST be thus in you, notwithstanding you may be orthodox as to the foregoing principles, notwithstanding you may have good defires. and attend constantly on the means of grace; yet, in St. Paul's opinion, you are out of a state of falvation. "Know you not. (fays that Apostle to the Corinthians, a church famous for its gifts above any church under heaven) that CHRIST is in you, (by his Spirit) unless you are reprobates ?"

For CHRIST came not only to fave us from the guilt, but from the power of our fins : till he has done this, however he may be a Saviour to others, we can have no affurance or well-grounded hope, that he has faved us : for it is by receiving his bleffed Spirit into our hearts, and feeling him witneffing with our fpirits, that we are the fons of GoD, that we can be certified of our being fealed to the day of redemption.

This is a great mystery; but I speak of CHRIST and the new-birth. Marvel not at my afking you, what you think about CHRIST being formed within you? For either Gob must change his nature, or we ours. For as in Adam we all have fpiritually died, fo all that are effectually faved by CHRIST, must in CHRIST be spiritually made alive. His only end in dying and rifing again, and interceding for us now in heaven, is to redeem us from the milery of our fallen nature, and, by the operation of his bleffed Spirit, to make us meet to be partakers of the heavenly inheritance with the faints in light. None but those that thus are changed by his grace here, shall appear with him in glory hereafter.

Examine yourselves, therefore, my brethren, whether you are in the faith ; prove yourfelves ; and think it not fufficient to fay in your creed, I believe in JESUS CHRIST : many fay fo, who do not believe, who are reprobates, and yet in a flate of death. You take Gon's name in vain, when you call him Father, and your prayers are turned into fin, unlefs you believe in CHRIST, fo as to have your life hid with him in Gop.

GOD, and to receive life and nourifhment from him, as branches do from the vine.

I know, indeed, the men of this generation deny there is any fuch thing as feeling CHRIST within them; but alas ! to what a dreadful condition would fuch reduce us, even to the flate of the abandoned heathen, who, St. Paul tells us, " were past feeling." The Apostle prays, that the Ephefians may abound in all knowledge and fpiritual understanding, oras it might be rendered, spiritual sensation. And in the office for the visitation of the fick, the minister prays, that the LORD may make the fick perfon know and feel, that there is no other name under heaven given unto men, in whom and through whom they may receive health and falvation, but only the name of our LORD JESUS. For there is a fpiritual. as well as a corporeal feeling; and though this is not communicated to us in a fenfible manner, as outward objects affect our fenses, yet it is as real as any fensible or visible fensation, and may be as truly felt and difcerned by the foul, as any impression from without can be felt by the body. All who are born again of GOD, know that I lie not.

What think you, Sirs, did Naaman feel, when he was cured of his leprofy? Did the woman feel virtue coming out of JESUS CHRIST, when the touched the hem of his garment, and was cured of her bloody iffue? So furely mayft thou feel, O believer, when JESUS CHRIST dwelleth in thy heart. I pray God to make you all know and feel this, ere you depart hence.

O my brethren, my heart is enlarged towards you. I truft I feel fomething of that hidden, but powerful prefence of CHRIST, whilft I am preaching to you. Indeed it is fweet, it is exceedingly comfortable. All the harm I with you, who without cause are my enemies, is, that you felt the like. Believe me, though it would be hell to my foul, to return to a natural flate again, yet I would willingly change flates with you for a little while, that you might know what it is to have CHRIST dwelling in your hearts by faith. Do not turn your backs ; do not let the devil hurry you away : be not afraid of convictions; do not think worfe of the doctrine, because preached without the church walls. Our LORD, in the days of his flesh, preached on a mount, in a ship, and a field; and VOL. V. A a I am

I am perfuaded, many have felt his gracious prefence here. Indeed we speak what we know. Do not reject the kingdom of GOD against yourselves : be so wife as to receive our witnefs. I cannot, I will not let you go; ftay a little, let us reason together. However lightly you may efteem your souls, I know our LORD has fet an unspeakable value on them. He thought them worthy of his most precious blood. I befeech you, therefore, O finners, be ye reconciled to Gop. I hope you do not fear being accepted in the beloved. Behold, he calleth you; behold, he prevents and follows you with his mercy, and hath fent forth his fervants into the highways and hedges, to compel you to come in. Remember then, that at fuch an hour of fuch a day, in fuch a year, in this place, you were all told what you ought to think concerning JESUS CHRIST. If you now perifh, it will not be for lack of knowledge : I am free from the blood of you all. You cannot fay I have been preaching damnation to you; you cannot fay I have, like legal preachers, been requiring you to make brick without straw. I have not bidden you to make yourselves faints, and then come to GOD; but I have offered you falvation on as cheap terms as you can defire. I have offered you CHRIST's whole wildom, CHRIST's whole righteoufnels, CHRIST's whole fanctification and eternal redemption, if you will but believe on him. If you fay, you cannot believe, you fay right; for faith, as well as every other bleffing, is the gift of Gop: but then wait upon Gop, and who knows but he may have mercy on thee? Why do we not entertain more loving thoughts of CHRIST ? Or do you think he will have mercy on others, and not on you ? But are you not finners? And did not JESUS CHRIST come into the world to fave finners? If you fay you are the chief of finners; I answer, that will be no hindrance to your falvation, indeed it will not, if you lay hold on him by faith. Read the Evangelist, and see how kindly he behaved to his disciples who fled from and denied him : " Go tell my brethren," fays he. He did not fay, Go tell those traitors; but, "Go tell my brethren, and Peter :" as though he had faid, Go tell my brethren in general, and poor Peter in particular, " that I am rifen;" O comfort his poor drooping heart, tell him I am reconciled to him; bid him weep no more fo bitterly: for though with oaths oaths and curles he thrice denied me, yet I have died for his fins, I am rifen again for his juftification : I freely forgive him Thus flow to anger, and of great kindness, was our allall. merciful High-prieft. And do you think he has changed his nature, and forgets poor finners, now he is exalted to the right-hand of GoD? No, he is the fame yesterday, to-day, and for ever, and fitteth there only to make interceffion for us. Come then, ye harlots, come ye publicans, come ye most abandoned of finners, come and believe on JESUS CHRIST. Though the whole world defpife you and caft you out, yet he will not difdain to take you up. O amazing, O infinitely condescending love ! even you, he will not be ashamed to call his brethren. How will you escape if you neglect fuch a glorious offer of falvation ? What would the damned fpirits, now in the prifon of hell, give, if CHRIST was fo freely offered to their fouls? And why are not we lifting up our eyes in torments? Does any one out of this great multitude dare fay, he does not deferve damnation ? If not, why are we left, and others taken away by death ? What is this but an inftance of GoD's free grace, and a fign of his good will towards us ? Let GoD's goodness lead us to repentance ! O let there be joy in heaven over some of you repenting ! Though we are in a field, I am perfuaded the bleffed angels are hovering now around us, and do long, "as the hart panteth after the water-brooks," to fing an anthem at your conversion. Bleffed be GoD, I hope their joy will be fulfilled. An awful filence appears amongft us. I have good hope that the words which the LORD has enabled me to speak in your ears this day, have not altogether fallen to the ground. Your tears and deep attention, are an evidence, that the LORD GOD is amongst us of a truth. Come, ye Pharifees, come and fee, in fpite of your fatanical rage and fury, the LORD JESUS is getting himfelf the victory. And brethren, I fpeak the truth in CHRIST, I lie not, if one foul of you, by the bleffing of GOD, be brought to think favingly of JESUS CHRIST this day, I care not if my enemies were permitted to carry me to prilon, and put my feet fast in the ftocks, as foon as I have delivered this fermon. Brethren, my heart's defire and prayer to God is, that you may be fayed. For this caufe I follow my Master without the camp. I care not how much of his facred reproach I bear, fo that fome A 2 2 fome of you be converted from the errors of your ways. I rejoice, yea and I will rejoice. Ye men, ye devils, do your worst : the LORD who fent, will support me. And when CHRIST, who is our life, and whom I have now been preaching, shall appear, I also, together with his defpised little ones, shall appear with him in glory. And then, what will you think of CHRIST? I know what you will think of him. You will then think him to be the faireft among ten thousand : You will then think and feel him to be a just and fin-avenging judge. Be ye then perfuaded to kifs him left he be angry, and fo you be banished for ever from the presence of the LORD. Behold, I come to you as the angel did to Lot. Flee, flee, for your lives ; haste, linger no longer in your spiritual Sodom, for otherwise you will be eternally deftroyed. Numbers, no doubt, there are amongst you, that may regard me no more than Lot's fons-in-law regarded him. I am perfuaded I feem to fome of you as one that mocketh: but I speak the truth in CHRIST, I lie not; as fure as fire and brimftone was rained from the LORD out of heaven, to deftrov Sodom and Gomorrab, fo furely, at the great day, shall the vials of GOD's wrath be poured on you, if you do not think feriously of, and act agreeable to the gospel of the LORD'S CHRIST. Behold, I have told you before; and I pray GOD, all you that forget him may ferioufly think of what has been faid, before he pluck you away, and there be none to deliver you.

Now to GOD the Father, &c.

The wife and foolifh Virgins.

MATTHEW XXV. 13.

Watch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour in which the Son of man cometh.

THE apostle Paul, in his epistle to the Hebrews, informs us, "That it is appointed for all men once to die; after that is the judgment." And I think, if any confideration be fufficient to awaken a fleeping drowly world, it must be this, That there will be a day wherein these heavens shall be wrapt up like a fcroll, this element melt with fervent heat, the carth and all things therein be burnt up, and every foul, of every nation and language, fummoned to appear before the dreadful tribunal of the righteous Judge of quick and dead, to receive rewards and punifhments, according to the deeds done in their bodies. The great apostle just mentioned, when brought before Felix, could think of no better means to convert that finful man, than to reason of temperance, righteoufnefs, and more efpecially of a judgment to come. The first might in some measure affect, but, I am persuaded, it was the last confideration, a judgment to come, that made him to tremble: and fo bad as the world is now grown, yet there are few have their confciences fo far feared, as to deny that there will be a reckoning hereafter. The promifcuous differnations of providence in this life, wherein we fee good men afflicted, destitute, tormented, and the wicked permitted triumphantly to ride over their heads, has been always looked upon as an indifputable argument, by the generality of men, that there will be a day in which GOD will judge the world in righteousness, and administer equity unto his people. Some indeed are are so bold as to deny it, while they are engaged in the pursuit of the luft of the eye, and the pride of life. But follow them to their death-beds, afk them, when their fouls are ready to launch into eternity, what they then think of a judgment to come? and they will tell you, they dare not give their confciences the lie any longer. They feel a fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation in their hearts. Since then thefe things are fo, does it not highly concern each of us, my brethren, before we come on a bed of fickness, seriously to examine how the account flands between GOD and our fouls, and how it will fare with us in that day? As for the openly prophane, the drunkard, the whoremonger, the adulterer, and fuch-like, there is no doubt of what will become of them; without repentance they shall never enter into the kingdom of GOD and his CHRIST: no; their damnation flumbereth not; a burning fiery Tophet, kindled by the fury of God's eternal wrath, is prepared for their reception, wherein they must fuffer the vengeance of eternal fire. Nor is there the leaft doubt of the state of true believers. For though they are despiled and rejected of natural men, yet being born again of GOD, they are heirs of GOD, and joint heirs with CHRIST. They have the earnest of the promised inheritance in their hearts, and are affured, that a new and living way is made open for them, into the holy of holies, by the blood of JESUS CHRIST, into which an abundant entrance shall be adminiftered to them at the great day of account. The only queftion is, what will become of the almost Christian, one that is content to go, as he thinks, in a middle way to heaven, without being prophane on the one hand, or, as he failly imagines, righteous over-much on the other? Many there are in every congregation, and confequently fome here prefent, of this stamp. And what is worst of all, it is more easy to convince the most notorious publicans and finners of their being out of a flate of falvation, than any of thefe. Notwithflanding, if JESUS CHRIST may be our judge, they shall as certainly be rejected and difowned by him at the last day, as though they lived in open defiance of all his laws. For what fays our LORD in the parable of which the words of the text are a conclusion, and which I intend to make the subject of my present discourse. " Then," at the day of judgment, which he had been discoursing of in the foregoing, and profecutes in this chapter, " shall the kingdom of heaven, (the state of profeffors in the gospel church) be likened unto ten virgins, who took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom." In which words, is a manifest allusion to a custom prevailing in our LORD's time among the Jews, at marriage folemnities, which were generally at night, and at which it was cuftomary for the perfons of the bride-chamber to go out in procession, with many lights, to meet the bridegroom. By the bridegroom, you are here to understand JESUS CHRIST. The church, i. e. true believers, are his spoule; he is united to them by one spirit, even in this life; but the folemnizing of these facred nuptials, is referved till the day of judgment, when he shall come to take them home to himfelf, and prefent them before men and angels, as his purchase, to his Father, without spot or wrinkle, or any fuch thing. By the ten virgins we are to understand, the professors of christianity in general. All are called virgins, because all are called to be faints. Whosever names the name of CHRIST, is obliged by that very profession to depart from all iniquity. But the pure and chafte in heart. are the only perfons that will be fo bleffed as to fee Gop. As CHRIST was born of a virgin, fo he can dwell in none but virgin fouls, made pure and holy by the cohabitation of his holy Spirit. What fays the apofile? "All are not Ifraelites that are of Ifrael," all are not chriftians that are called after the name of CHRIST : No, fays our LORD, in the 2d verfe, "Five of those virgins were wife," true believers, " and five were foolifh," formal hypocrites. But why are five faid to be wife, and the other five foolish? Hear what our LORD fave in the following verfes; " They that were foolifh took their lamps, and took no oil with them: but the wife took oil in their yeffels with their lamps." They that were foolish took their lamps of an outward profession. They would go to church, fay over several manuals of prayers, come perhaps into a field to hear a fermon, give at a collection, and receive the facrament constantly, nay, oftner than once a month. But then here lay the mistake; they had no oil in their lamps, no principle of grace, no living faith in their hearts, without which, though we should give all our goods to feed the poor, and our bodies to be burnt, it would profit us nothing. In fhort, they were

were exact, nay, perhaps fuperflitious bigots as to the form, but all the while they were flrangers to, and, in effect, denied the power of godlinefs in their hearts. They would go to church, but at the fame time, think it no harm to go to a ball or an affembly, notwithftanding they promifed at their baptifm, to renounce the pomps and vanities of this wicked world. They were fo exceedingly fearful of being righteous over-much, that they would even perfecute those that were truly devout, if they attempted to go a flep farther than themfelves. In one word, they never effectually felt the power of the world to come. They thought they might be chriftians without fo much inward feeling, and therefore, notwithftanding their high pretenfions, had only a name to live.

And now, Sirs, let me paufe a while, and in the name of GOD, whom I endeavour to ferve in the gofpel of his dear. Son, give me leave to afk one queffion. Whilft I have been drawing, though in miniature, the character of thefe foolifh virgins, have not many of your conficiences made the application, and with a fmall, ftill, though articulate voice, faid, Thou man, thou woman, art one of thofe foolifh virgins, for thy fentiments and practice agree thereto? Stiffe not, but rather encourage thefe convictions; and who knows, but that LORD who is rich in mercy to all that call upon him faithfully, may fo work upon you even by this foolifhnefs of preaching, as to make you wife virgins before you return home?

What they were you shall know immediately : " But the wife took oil in their vessels with their lamps." Observe, the wife, the true believers, had their lamps as well as the foolifh. virgins; for christianity does not require us to cast off all outward forms; we may use forms, and yet not be formal: for instance, it is possible to worship GOD in a fet form of prayer, and yet worship him in spirit and in truth. And therefore, brethren, let us not judge one another. The wife virgins had their lamps; herein did not lie the difference between them and the foolifh, that one worfhipped GoD with a form, and the other did not: No: as the Pharifee and Publican went up. to the temple to pray, fo these wife and foolish virgins might. go to the fame place of worfhip, and fit under the fame ministry; but then the wife took oil in their veffels with their lamps; they kept up the form, but did not reft in it; their. words words in prayer were the language of their hearts, and they were no ftrangers to inward feelings; they were not afraid of fearching doctrines, nor affronted when minifters told them they deferved to be damned; they were not felf-righteous, but were willing that JESUS CHRIST fhould have all the glory of their falvation; they were convinced that the merits of JESUS CHRIST were to be apprehended only by faith; but yet were they as careful to maintain good works, as though they were to be juftified by them: in fhort, their obedience flowed from love and gratitude, and was chearful, conftant, uniform, univerfal, like that obedience which the holy angels pay our Father in heaven.

Here then let me exhort you to paule again; and if any of you can faithfully apply thefe characters to your hearts, give GOD the glory, and take the comfort to your own fouls; you are not false but true believers. JESUS CHRIST has been made of GOD to you wildom, even that wildom, whereby you shall . be made wife unto falvation. God fees a difference between you and foolifh virgins, if natural men will not. You need not be uneasy, though one chance and fate in this life may happen to you both. I fay, one chance and fate; for, ver. 5. " while the bridegroom tarried," in the space of time which paffed between our LORD's afcenfion and his coming again to judgment, " they all flumbered and flept." . The wife as well as foolifh died, for dust we are, and to dust we must return. It is no reflection at all upon the divine goodnefs, that believers, as well as hypocrites, muß pafs through the valley of the fhadow of death; for CHRIST has taken away the fling of death, fo that we need fear no evil. It is to them a passage to everlasting life: death is only terrible to those who have no hope, because they live without faith in the world. Whofoever there are amongst you, that have received the first-fruits of the spirit, I am perfuaded you are ready to cry out, we would not live here always, we long to be diffolved, that we may be with JESUS CHRIST; and though worms must destroy our bodies as well as others, yet we are content, being affured that our Redeemer liveth, that he will stand at the latter days upon the earth, and that in our flesh we shall see GoD.

But it is not fo with hypocrites and unbelievers beyond the grave; for what fays our LORD? "And at midnight:" observe, observe, at midnight, when all was hushed and quiet, and no one dreaming of any fuch thing, "a cry was made;" the voice of the arch-angel and the trump of GOD was heard founding this general alarm; to things in heaven, to things in earth, and to things in the waters under the earth, "BE-HOLD !" mark how this awful fummons is ufhered in with the word behold, to engage our attention? "Behold the bridegroom cometh !" even JESUS CHRIST, the defire of nations, the bridegroom of his spouse the church : Because he tarried for a while to exercise the faith of faints, and give finners space to repent, scoffers were apt to cry out, "Where is the promife of his coming ? But the LORD is not flack concerning his promife, as thefe men account flacknefs." For behold, he that was to come, now cometh, and will not tarry any longer : he cometh to be glorified in his faints, and to take vengeance on them that know not GoD, and have not obeyed his gospel : he cometh not as a poor despised Galilean ; not to be laid in a flinking manger; not to be despised and rejected of men ; not to be blindfolded, fpit upon, and buffeted; not to be nailed to an accurled tree; he cometh not as the Son of man, but as he really was, the eternal Son of the eternal God : He cometh riding on the wings of the wind, in the glory of the Father and his holy angels, and to be had in everlafting reverence of all that fhall be round about him. "Go ye forth to meet him ;" arife, ye dead, ye foolifh, as well as wife virgin, arife and come to judgment. Multitudes, no doubt, that hear this awakening cry, would rejoice if the rocks might fall on, and the hills cover them from the prefence of the Lamb : what would they give, if as they lived as beafts, they might now die like the beafts that perish ? How would they rejoice, if those fame excuses which they made on this fide eternity for not attending on holy ordinances, would ferve to keep them from appearing before the heavenly bridegroom ! But as Adam, notwithstanding his fig-leaves, and the trees of the garden, could not hide himfelf from Gon, when arrefted with an " Adam, where art thou ?" So now the decree is gone forth, and the trump of Gon has given its last found; all tongues, people, nations, and languages," boin wife and foolifh virgins, must come into his prefence, and bow beneath his footftool; even Pontius Pilate, Annas and Cuiaphas;

Caiaphas; even the proud perfecuting high-priefts and Pharifees of this generation, muft appear before him : for fays our LORD, "then, (when the cry was made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh!) in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, the graves were opened, the fea gave up its dead, and "all those virgins, both wife and foolish, arose and trimmed their lamps," or endeavoured to put themselves in a proper posture to meet the bridegroom.

But how may we imagine the foolifh virgins were furprized, when, notwithstanding their high thoughts and proud imaginations of their fecurity, they now find themfelves wholly naked. and void of that inward holine's and purity of heart, without which no man living at that day fhall comfortably meet the LORD! I doubt not, but many of these foolish virgins, whilst in this world, were cloathed in purple and fine linnen, fared fumptuoufly every day, and difdained to fet the wife virgins, fome of whom might be as poor as Lazarus, even with the dogs of their flock. These were looked upon by them as enthuliasts and madmen, as perfons that were righteous over-much, and who intended to turn the world upfide down : but now death hath opened their eyes, and convinced them, to their eternal forrow, that he is not a true christian, who is only one outwardly. Now they find (though, alas ! too late) they, and not the wife virgins, had been belide themselves. Now their proud hearts are made to floop, their lofty looks are brought low; and as Dives entreated that Lazarus might dip the tip of his finger in water, and be fent to cool his tongue, so these foolish virgins, these formal hypocrites, are obliged to turn beggars to those whom they once despiled : "Give us of your oil;" O! impart to us a little of that grace and holy spirit, for the infishing on which we fools accounted your lives madnels; for alas ! " our lamps are gone out;" we had only the form of godlinefs; we were whited fepulchres; we were heart-hypocrites; we contented ourfelves with defiring to be good; and though confident of falvation whilft we lived, yet our hope is entirely gone, now GOD has taken away our fouls : Give us therefore, O ! give us, though we once despiled you, give us of your oil, for our lamps of an outward profession, and transient convictions, are quite gone out. " Comfort ye, comfort ye, my people, faith the the LORD." My brethren in CHRIST, hear what the foolifh fay to the wife virgins, and learn in patience to poffefs your fouls. If you are true followers of the lowly JESUS, I am perfuaded you have your names caft out, and all manner of evil spoken salsly against you, for his name's sake; for no one ever did or will live godly in CHRIST JESUS, without fuffering perfecution; nay, I doubt not but your chief foes are those of your own houshold : tell me, do not your carnal relations and friends vex your tender fouls day by day, in bidding you spare yourselves, and take heed left you go too far : And as you paffed along to come and hear the word of GoD, have you not heard many a Pharifee cry out, Here comes another troop of his followers! Brethren, be not furprized, CHRIST's fervants were always the world's fools; you know. it hated him before it hated you. Rejoice and be exceeding glad. Yet a little while, and behold the bridegroom cometh. and then shall you hear these formal scoffing Pharifees faying unto you, " Give us of your oil, for our lamps are gone out." When you are reviled, revile not again: when you fuffer, threaten not; commit your fouls into the hands of him that judgeth righteoufly : for behold the day cometh, when the children of GoD shall speak for themselves.

The wife virgins, in the parable, no doubt endured the fame cruel mockings as you may do; but as the lamb before. the fhearers is dumb, fo in this life opened they not their mouths; but now we find they can give their enemies, an anfwer : ". Not fo, left there be not enough for us and you ; but go ye rather to them that fell, and buy for yourfelves.". These words are not to be understood as though they were spoken in an infulting manner; for true charity teaches us to. use the worft of finners, and our most hitter enemies, with the meeknefs and gentlenefs of CHRIST : Though Dives wasin hell, yet Abraham does not fay, Thou villain, but only; "Son, remember :" and I am perfuaded, had it been in the power of these wife virgins, they would have dealt with the foolifh virgins, as, GOD knows, I would willingly deal with' my most inveterate enemies, not only give them of their oil, but also exalt them to the right hand of GoD. It was not then for want of love, but the fear of wanting a fufficiency for themselves, that made them return this answer, "Not fo, left there be not enough for us and you :" For they that have most grace, have none to spare; none but self-righteous, foolifh virgins think they are good enough, or have already attained. Those who are truly wife are always most distrustful of themfelves, preffing forwards to the things that are before, and think it well if after they have done all, they can make their calling and election fure. " Not fo, left there be not enough for us and you; but go ye rather to them that fell, and buy for yourfelves." These words indeed feem to be spoken in a triumphant, but certainly they were uttered in the most compassionate manner; " go ye to them that fell, and buy for yourfelves;" unhappy virgins! you accounted our lives folly; whilft with you in the body, how often have you condemned us for our zeal in running to hear the word of GoD, and looked upon us as enthulialts, for talking and affirming, that we must be led by the spirit, and walk by the spirit, and feel the spirit of GOD witnessing with our spirits, that we are his children ? But now you would be glad to be partakers of this privilege, but it is not ours to give. You contented yourfelves with feeking, when you fhould have been ftriving to enter in at the ftrait gate. And now go to them that fell, if you can, and buy for yourfelves.

And what fay you to this, ye foolifh formal profeffors? For I doubt not but curiolity and novelty hath brought many fuch, even to this defpifed place, to hear a fermon. Can you hear this reply to the foolifh virgins, and yet not tremble? Why, yet a little while, and thus it fhall be done to you. Rejoice and bolfter yourfelves up in your duties and forms; endeavour to cover your nakednefs with the fig-leaves of an outward profeffion and a legal righteoufnefs, and defpife the true fervants of CHRIST as much as you pleafe, yet know, that all your hopes will fail you when GoD brings you into judgment. For not he who commendeth himfelf is juftified, but he whom the LORD commendeth.

But to return; we do not hear of any reply the foolifh virgins make: No, their conficiences condemned them; like the perfon without a wedding-garment, they are ftruck dumb, and are now filled with anxious thoughts how they fhall buy gil, that they may lift up their heads before the bridegroom. "But whilft they went to buy," ver. 10, whilft they were thinking thinking what they fhould do, the bridegroom, the LORD JEsus, the king, the hufband of his fpoufe the church, cometh, attended with thousands and twenty times ten thousands of faints and angels, publicly to count up his jewels; " and they that were ready," the wife virgins who had oil in their lamps, and were fealed by his spirit to the day of redemption, these having on the wedding garment of an imputed righteousness, and a new nature, " went in with him to the marriage."

But who can express the transports that these wife virgins felt, when they were thus admitted, in holy triumph, into the prefence and full enjoyment of him, whom their fouls hungred and thirsted after ! No doubt they had tasted of his love, and by faith had often fed on him in their hearts, when fitting down to commemorate his laft supper here on earth; but how full may we think their hearts and tongues were of his praifes, when they fee themselves seated together to eat bread in his heavenly kingdom. And what was best of all, " the door was thut," and thut them in, to enjoy the ever bleffed GoD, and the company of angels and the fpirits of just men made perfect, without interruption for evermore. I fay. without interruption; for in this life, their eyes often gushed out with water, because men kept not GoD's law; and they could never come to appear before the LORD, or to hear his word, but Satan and his emiffaries would come alfo to diffurb them; but now "the door is fhut," now there is a perfect communion of faints, which they in vain longed for in this lower world; now tares no longer grow up with the wheat; not one fingle hypocrite or unbeliever can fcreen himfelf amongft them. " Now the wicked ceafe from troubling, and now their weary fouls enjoy an everlasting reft."

Once more, O believers, let me exhort you in patience to possesse your sould be and the second possesses of the second posses to himfelf, the door shall be shut, and you shall be for ever with the LORD.

But I even tremble to tell you, O nominal chriftians, that the door will be fhut, I mean the door of mercy, never, never to be opened to give you admission, though you should continue knocking to all eternity. For thus fpeaks our LORD, v. 11. "Afterwards," after those that were ready went in, and the door was fhut; after they had, to their forrow, found that no oil was to be bought, no grace to be procured, " came also the other virgins;" and as Elau, after Faceb had gotten the bleffing, cried with an exceeding bitter cry, " Bless me, even me also, O my father;" fo they came faying, "LORD, LORD, open to us." Observe the importunity of these foolish virgins, implied in the words, " LORD. LORD." Whilft in the body, I suppose they only read, did not pray over their prayers. If you now tell them, they fhould " pray without ceasing," they should pray from their hearts. and feel the want of what they prayed for; they would anfwer, they could not tell what you mean by inward feelings : that GOD did not require us to be always on our knees, but if a man did juftly, and loved mercy, and did as the church forms required him, it was as much as the LORD required at his hands.

I fear, firs, too many among us are of this mind: nay, I fear there are many to polite, to void of the love of God, as to think it too great a piece of felf-denial, to rife early to offer up a factifice of praise and thanksgiving acceptable to Gop through JESUS CHRIST. If any fuch, by the good providence of GoD, are brought hither this morning, I befeech you to confider your ways, and remember, if you are not awakened out of your foiritual lethargy, and live a life of prayer here, you shall but in vain cry out with the foolish virgins, "LORD, LORD, open unto us," hereafter. Obferve farther, the impudence, as well as importunity of these other virgins; "LORD, LORD," fay they, as though they were intimately acquainted with the holy JESUS. Like numbers among us, who because they go to church, repeat their creeds, and receive the bleffed facrament, think they have a right to call JESUS their Saviour, and dare call GOD their Father, when they put up the LORD's prayer. But JESUS is not your Saviour. The devil, not GoD, is your father, unlefs your hearts are purified by faith, and you are born again from above. It is not merely being baptized by water, but being born again of the Holy Ghoft that must qualify you for falvation ; and it will do you no fervice at the great day. to fay unto CHRIST, LORD, my name is in the register of fuch and fuch a parish. I am perfuaded, the foolith virgins could fay this and more; but what answer did JESUS make? He answered and said, ver. 12. " Verily, I say unto you :" He puts the word VERILY, to affure them he was in earnest. " I fay unto you," I who am truth itfelf, I whom you have owned in words, but in works denied, " verily, I fay unto you, I know you not." These words must not be understood literally; for whatever Arians and Socinians may fay to the contrary, yet we affirm, that JESUS CHRIST is GOD, GOD bleffed for ever, and therefore knoweth all things. He faw Nathaniel, when under the fig-tree : he fees, and is now looking down from heaven, his dwelling-place, upon us, to fee how we behave in these fields. Brethren, I know nothing of the thoughts and intents of your hearts, in coming hither; but JESUS CHRIST knows who come like new-born babes, defirous to be fed with the fincere milk of the word ; and he knows who came to hear what the babler fays, and to run away with part of a broken fentence, that they may have whereof to accuse him. This expression then, " I know you not," must not be understood literally; no, it implies a knowledge of approbation, as though CHRIST had faid, "You call me, LORD, LORD, but you have not done the things that I have faid; you defire me to open the door, but how can you come in hither not having on a wedding garment? Alas, you are naked ! Where is my outward righteouineis imputed to you? Where is my inherent righteoufnefs wrought in you? Where is my divine image ftamped upon your fouls ? How'dare you call me LORD, LORD, when you have not received the Holy Ghoft, whereby I feal all that are truly mine? " Verily, I know you not; depart from me, ye curfed, into everlafting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels."

And now, he that hath ears to hear, let him hear what manner of perfons these were, whom JESUS CHRIST dismissed with this answer. Remember, I entreat you, remember they are

are not fent away for being fornicators, swearers. fabbathbreakers, or prodigals. No, in all probability, as I observed before, they were, touching the outward observances of the moral law, blamelefs; they were conftant as to the form of religion; and if they did no good, yet no one could fay, they did any one any harm. The only thing for which they were condemned, and eternally banished from the presence of the LORD, (for fo much is implied in "I know you not") was this, they had no oil in their lamps, no principle of a true living faith and holinefs in their hearts. And if perfons may go to church, receive the facrament, lead honeft moral lives, and yet be fent to hell at the last day, as they certainly will be if they advance no farther, Where wilt thou, O drunkard ? Where wilt thou, O fwearer ? Where wilt thou, O fabbathbreaker ? Where wilt thou that deniest divine revelation, and even the form of godliness? Where will you, and fuch-like finners appear ? I know very well. You must appear before the dreadful tribunal of JESUS CHRIST : however you may, like Felix, put off the profecution of your convictions, yet vou. as well as others, must arise after death, and appear in judgment; you will then find, to your eternal forrow, what I just hinted at in the beginning of this discourse, that your damnation flumbereth not: fin has blinded your hearts, and hardened your foreheads now, but yet a little while, and our LORD will ease him of his adversaries. Methinks, by faith, I fee the heavens opened, and the holy JESUS coming, with his face brighter than ten thousand funs, darting fury upon you from his eyes! Methinks I fee you rifing from your graves, trembling and aftonished, and crying out, who can abide this day of his coming !

And now what inference shall I draw from what has been delivered ? Our LORD, in the words of the text, has drawn one for me; "Watch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh."

"Watch;" that is, be upon your guard, and keep your graces in continual exercise : For as when we are commanded to watch unto prayer, it fignifies that we fhould continue infant in that duty; fo when we are required to watch in general, it means that we should put on the whole armour of GOD, and live every day as though it was our last. And O! Βh Vol. V. that that the LORD may now enable me to lift up my voice like a trumpet ! For had I a thousand tongues, or could I speak fo loud that the whole world might hear me, I could not found a more useful alarm than that which is contained in the text. WATCH therefore, my brethren, I befeech you by the mercies of GOD in CHRIST JESUS, watch; be upon your guard; awake, ye that fleep in the dust : for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh. Perhaps today, perhaps this midnight, the cry may be made : " for in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, the trump is to found." However, fuppoling the final day of judgment may yet be a great way off, the day of death is certainly near at hand : for what is our life ? " It is but a vapour," but a span long, soon passeth it away, and we are gone. Blessed be GOD, we are all here well; but who, out of this great multitude, dares fay, I fhall go home to my houfe in fafety? Who knows, but whilft I am fpeaking, GoD may commiffion his ministring spirits immediately to call some of you away by a fudden ftroke, to give an account with what attention you have heard this fermon. You know, my brethren, fome fuch inftances we have lately had. And what angel or spirit hath assured us, that some of you shall not be the next ? "Watch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man will come:" And it is chiefly for this reason, that GOD has hidden the day of our deaths from us. For fince I know not but I may die to morrow, why, O my foul, may each of us fay, wilt thou not watch to day ? Since I know not but I may die the next moment, why wilt thou not prepare for dying this? Many fuch reflections as these, my brethren, croud in upon my mind. At present, bleffed be the LORD, who delights to magnify his ftrength in a poor worm's weaknefs, I am at a stand, not fo much about what I shall fay, as what I shall leave unfaid. My belly, like Elibu's, is, as it were, full of new wines; " out of the abundance of my heart my mouth fpeaketh." The feeing to great a multitude standing before me; a fenfe of the infinite majefty of that GOD in whole name I preach, and before whom I as well as you must appear, to give an account; and the uncertainty there is whether I shall live another day, to fpeak to you any more: these confiderations, especially the.

* the prefence of Gon, which I now feel upon my foul, furnifhes me with fo much matter, that I fcarce know where to begin, or where to end my application. However, for method-fake, by the divine affiftance, I will branch it into three particulars.

And first, I would remind you that are notoriously ungodly, of what our LORD fays in the text: For though I have faid that your damnation flumbereth not, whilft you continue in an impenitent flate; yet that was only to fet you upon your watch, to convince you of your danger, and excite you to cry out, "What shall we do to be faved ?" I appeal to all that hear me, whether I have faid, the door of mercy fhould be shut against you, if you believe on JESUS CHRIST : No, if you are the chief of finners; if you are murderers of fathers, and murderers of mothers; if you are emphatically the dung and offscouring of all things; yet if you believe on JESUS CHRIST, and cry unto him with the fame faith as the expiring thief, " LORD, remember me, now thou art in thy kingdom ;" I will pawn my eternal falvation upon it, if he does not fhortly translate you to his heavenly paradife. Wonder not at my speaking with so much assurance : For I know " it is a faithful and true faying, and worthy of all acceptation, that JESUS CHRIST came into the world to fave (all truly affected and believing) finners : Nay, fo great is his love, that I am perfuaded, was it neceffary, he would come again into the world, and die a fecond time for them on the crofs. But. bleffed be GOD, when our LORD bowed down his head, and gave up the ghoft, our redemption was finished. It is not our fins, but our want of a lively faith in his blood, that will prove our condemnation : if you draw near to him by faith, though ye are the worst of sinners, yet he will not say unto you, "Verily I know you not." No, a door of mercy shall be opened to you. Look then, look then, by an eye of faith, to that GOD-man whom ye have pierced. Behold him bleeding, panting, dving upon the crofs, with arms ftretched out ready to embrace you all. Hark ! how he groans ! Sec how . all nature is in an agony ! The rocks rend, the graves open ; the fun withdraws its light, ashamed as it were to fee the God of nature fuffer; and all this to ufher in man's great redemption. Nay, the Holy JESUS, in the very agonies and pangs Bb 2 of

of death, prays for his very murderers ; "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." If then you have crucified the Son of GOD afresh, and put him to an open shame, yet do not despair, only believe, and even this shall be forgiven. You have read, at least you have heard, no doubt, how three thousand were converted at St. Peter's preaching one fingle fermon, after our LORD's ascension into heaven; and many of the crucifiers of the LORD of glory undoubtedly were amongst them; and why should you despair? For " Jesus CHRIST is the fame yesterday, to-day, and for ever." The Holy Ghoft shall be fent down on you, as well as on them, if you do but believe; for CHRIST ascended up on high to receive this gift even for the vileft of men. Come then, all ye that are weary and heavy laden with the fense of your fins, lay hold on CHRIST by faith, and he will give you reft; for falvation is the free gift of GoD to all them that believe. And though you may think this too good news to be true, yet I fpeak the truth in CHRIST, I lie not, this is the gospel, this is the glad tidings which we are commissioned to preach to every creature. Be not faithlefs then, but believing. Let not the devil lead you captive at his will any longer; for all the wages he gives his fervants is death, death often in this life, death everlafting in the next : But the free gift of GoD, is eternal life to all that believe in JESUS CHRIST. Pharifees are and will be offended at my coming here, and offering you falvation on fuch cheap terms; but the more they bid me hold my peace, the more will I cry out and proclaim to convicted finners, that JESUS, David's Son according to the flefh, but David's Lord as he was GOD, will have mercy upon all that by a living faith truly turn to him. If this is to be vile, I pray God, I may be more vile. If they will not let me preach CHRIST crucified, and offer falvation to poor finners in a church, I will preach him in the lanes, ftreets, highways and hedges; and nothing pleases me better, than to think I am now in one of the devils ftrongest holds. Surely, the LORD has not fent me and all you hither for nothing; no, bleffed be GOD, the fields are white ready unto harvest, and many fouls I hope will be gathered into his heavenly garner. It is true, it is the midnight of the church, especially the poor church of England; but Gon has lately fent forth his fervants to cry, "Behold the bridegroom cometh:" I befeech you, O finners, bearken unto the voice! Let me efpoufe you by faith to my dear mafter; and henceforward "watch and pray," that you may be ready to go forth to meet him.

Secondly, I would apply myfelf to those amongst you, that are not openly profane, but by depending on a formal round of duties, deceive your own fouls, and are only foolifh virgins. But I must speak to your conviction, rather than your comfort. My dear brethren, do not deceive your own fouls. You have heard how far the foolifh virgins went, and yet were answered with "Verily I know you not :" The reason is, because none but such who have a living faith in JESUS CHRIST, and are truly born again, can poffibly enter into the kingdom of heaven. You may, perhaps, live honeft and outwardly moral lives, but if you depend on that morality. or join your works with your faith, in order to juffify you before GOD, you have no lot or thare in CHRIST's redemption : For what is this but to deny the LORD that has bought you? What is this but making yourfelves your own Saviours? taking the crown from JESUS CHRIST, and putting it on your own heads? The crime of the devil, fome have supposed, confisted in this, that he would not bow to JESUS CHRIST, when the Father commanded all the angels to worthip him; and what do you lefs? You will not own and fubmit to his righteoufnefs; and though you pretend to worthip him with your lips, yet your hearts are far from him; besides you, in effect, deny the operations of his bleffed fpirit, you miltake common for effectual grace; you hope to be faved, because you have good defires, and a few fhort convictions; and what is this, but to give GOD, his word, and all his faints, the lie? A Jew, a Turk, has equally as good grounds whereon to build his hopes of falvation. Need I not then to cry out to you, ye foolifh virgins, watch. Beg of GOD to convince you of your felf-righteoulnels, and the fecret unbelief of your hearts; or otherwife, whenfoever the cry shall be made, " Behold the bridegroom cometh," you will find yourfelves utterly unprepared to go forth to meet him: You may cry " Lord, Lord;" but the answer will be, "Verily, I know you not."

`Thirdly,

Thirdly, I would speak a word or two by way of exhortation to those who are wife virgins, and are affured that they have on a wedding-garment. That there are many fuch amongft you, who by grace have renounced your own righteoufnefs, and know that the righteoufnefs of the LORD JESUS is imputed to you, I make no doubt. GOD has his fecret ones in the worst of times; and I am persuaded he has not let fo loud a gospel cry to be made amongst his people, as of late has been heard, for nothing. No, I am confident, the Holy Ghoft has been given to many at the preaching of faith, and has powerfully fallen upon many, whilft they have been hearing the word. You are now then no longer foolifh, but wife virgins; notwithstanding, I befeech you also to suffer the word of exhortation; for wife virgins are too apt, whilft the bridegroom tarries, to flumber and fleep. Watch therefore, my dear brethren, watch and pray, at this time cfpecially; for perhaps a time of fuffering is at hand. The ark of the LORD begins already to be driven into the wilderness. Be ye therefore upon your watch, and still perfevere in following your LORD, even without the camp, bearing his reproach : the cry that has been lately made, has awakened the devil and his fervants; they begin to rage horribly; and well they may; for I hope their kingdom is in danger. Watch therefore, for if we are not always upon our guard, a time of trial may overtake us unawares; and, instead of owning, like Peter we may be tempted to deny our master. Set death and eternity often before you. Look unto JESUS, the author and finisher of your faith, and confider how little a while it will be, ere he comes to judgment; and then our reproach shall be wiped away; the acculers of us and our brethren shall be cast down. and we all shall be lodged in heaven for ever, with our dear LORD JESUS.

Lafly; what I fay unto you, I fay unto all, watch: high and low, rich and poor, young and old, one with another, I befeech you, by the mercies of JESUS, to be upon your guard: fly, fly to JESUS CHRIST, that heavenly bridegroom: behold he defires to take you to himfelf, miferable, poor, blind and naked as you are; he is willing to cloath you with his everlafting righteoufnefs, and make you partakers of that glory, which he enjoyed with the Father before the world began.

began. Do not turn a deaf ear to me; do not reject the meffage on account of the meannels of the mellenger. I am a child; but the LORD has chosen me, that the glory might be all his own. Had he fent to invite you by a learned rabbi, you might have been tempted to think the man had done fomething; but now GOD has fent a child, that the excellency of the power may be feen not to be of man, but of GoD. Let the learned Pharifees then defpife my youth : I care not how vile I appear in the fight of fuch men; I glory in it. And I am perfuaded, if any of you fhould be married to CHRIST by this preaching, you will have no reason to repent. when you come to heaven, that GOD fent a child to cry. "Behold the bridegroom cometh !" O! my brethren, the thought of being inftrumental in bringing one of you to glory. fills me with fresh zeal. Once more I entreat you, "Watch, watch and pray :" For the LORD JESUS will receive all that call upon him faithfully. Let that cry, " Behold the bridegroom cometh," be continually founding in your ears; and begin now to live, as though you were affured, this night you were to "go forth to meet him." I could fay more, but the other bufiness and duties of the day oblige me to ftop. May the LORD give you all an hearing ear, and obedient heart, and fo closely unite you to himself by one spirit, that when he shall come in terrible majesty, to judge mankind, you may be found having on a wedding garment, and ready to go in with him to the marriage.

Grant this, O LORD, for thy dear Son's fake !

SERMON

SERMON XXVI.

The Eternity of Hell-Torments.

To the INHABITANTS of SAVANNAH in GEORGIA.

My dear Friends,

THOUGH the following fermon has been preached elfewhere, yet as the occafion of my preaching it among you was particular, as you feemed to give an uncommon attention to it in public, and afterwards expressed your fatisfaction in it to me, when I came to visit you in your own houses, I thought proper to offer it to you.

And here I cannot but blefs GOD for the general diflike of heretical principles that I have found among you; as alfo for your zeal and approbation of my conduct, when the glory of GOD and your welfare, have obliged me to refent and publicly declare against the antichriftian tenets of fome lately under my charge.

I need only exhort you to beg of GoD to give you a true faith, and to add to your faith virtue, that you may adorn the gofpel of our LORD JESUS CHRIST in all things.

Your conftant daily attendance upon public worfhip, the gladnefs wherewith you have received me into your houfes, the mildnefs wherewith you have fubmitted to my reproofs, more especially the great (though unmerited) concern you shewed at my departure, induce me to hope this will be your endeavour.

How long GOD of his good providence will keep me from you, I know not. However, you may affure yourfelves I will return according to my promife, as foon as I have received ceived imposition of hands, and compleated the other business that called me hither.

In the mean while, accept of this, as a pledge of the undiffembled love of

Your affectionate though unworthy paftor.

London, 1738.

GEORGE WHITEFIELD.

MATTHEW XXV. 46.

These shall go away into everlasting punishment.

THE excellency of the golpel difpenfation, is greatly evidenced by thole fanctions of rewards and punifhments, which it offers to the choice of all its hearers, in order to engage them to be obedient to its precepts. For it promifes no lefs than eternal happinefs to the good, and denounces no flighter a punifhment than everlafting milery against the wicked: On the one hand, "It is a favour of life unto life," on the other, "A favour of death unto death." And though one would imagine, the bare mentioning of the former would be fufficient to draw men to their duty, yet ministers in all ages have found it neceffary, frequently to remind their people of the latter, and to fet before them the terrors of the LORD, as fo many powerful diffuafives from fin.

But whence is it that men are fo difingenuous? The reafon feems to be this: The promife of eternal happinefs is fo agreeable to the inclinations and wifhes of mankind, that all who call themfelves chriftians, univerfally and willingly fubfcribe to the belief of it: but then there is fomething fo fhocking in the confideration of eternal torments, and feemingly fuch an infinite difproportion between an endlefs duration of pain, and a fhort life fpent in pleafure, that men (fome at leaft of them) can fcarcely be brought to confefs it as an article of their faith, that an eternity of mifery awaits the wicked in a future ftate,

I fhall

I fhall therefore at this time, beg leave to infift on the proof of this part of one of the Articles of our Creed; and endeavour to make good what our bleffed LORD has here threatened in the words of the text, " Thefe (that is, the wicked) fhall. go away into everlafting punifhment."

Accordingly, without confidering the words as they fland in relation to the context, I fhall refolve all I have to fay, into this one general proposition, " That the torments referved for the wicked hereafter, are eternal."

But before I proceed to make good this, I must inform you that I take it for granted,

All prefent do ftedfaftly believe, They have fomething within them, which we call a foul, and which is capable of furviving the diffolution of the body, and of being miferable or happy to all eternity.

I take it for granted farther, That you believe a divine revelation; that those books, emphatically called the Scriptures, were written by the inspiration of GOD, and that the things therein contained, are founded upon eternal truth.

I take it for granted, That you believe, that the Son of GOD came down to die for finners; and that there is but one Mediator between GOD and man, even the man CHRIST JESUS.

These things being granted, (and they were necessary to be premised) proceed we now to make good the one general proposition afferted in the text, That the torments referved for the wicked hereafter are eternal. " These shall go away into everlasting punishment." ' The

First argument I shall advance to prove that the torments referved for the wicked hereafter, are eternal, is, That the word of GOD himself affures us, in line upon line, that it will be fo.

To quote all the texts that might be produced in proof of this, would be endle's. Let it fuffice to inftance only in a few. In the Old Teftament, in the book of Daniel, chap. xii. ver. 2. we are told, that " fome fhall awake to everlafting life, and others to everlafting contempt." In the book of Ifaiab, it is faid, that " the worm of those that have tranfgreffed GoD's law, and die impenitently, fhall not die, nor their fire be quenched." And in another place, the holy Prophet, Prophet, ftruck, no doubt, with aftonifhment and horror at the prospect of the continuance of the torments of the damned, breaks out into this moving expostulation, "Who can dwell with everlasting burnings?"

The New Testament is still fuller as to this point, it being a revelation which brought this and fuch-like particulars to a The Apostle Jude tells us of the profane declear light. fpifers of dignities in his days, that " for them was referred the blackness of darkness for ever." And in the book of the Revelations, it is written, that " the imoke of the torments of the wicked afcendeth for ever and ever." And if we believe the witnefs of men infpired, the witnefs of the Son of GOD, who had the Spirit given him, as Mediator, without measure, is still far greater : and in St. Mark's gospel, He repeats this folemn declaration three feveral times, " It is better for thee to enter into life maimed ;" that is, it is better to forego the gratification of thy luft, or incur the difpleafure of a friend, which may be as dear to thee as a hand, or as uleful as a foot, " than having two hands and feet, (that is, for indulging the one, or difobeying GOD to oblige the other) to be caft into hell, where the worm dieth not, and the fire is ..not guenched."

And here again, in the words of the text, " These (the wicked) shall go away into everlasting punishment."

I know it has been objected by fome who have denied the eternity of hell-torments, That the words everlasting and ever and ever, are often used in the Holy Scriptures, (especially in the Old Testament) when they fignify not an endles duration, but a limited term of time.

And this we readily grant : but then we reply, That when the words are used with this limitation, they either manifestly appear to be used to from the context; or are put in opposition to occasional types which GoD gave his people on some special occasions, as when it is faid, " It shall be a perpetual or everlasting flatute," or, "a flatute for ever;" that is, a standing type, and not merely transient or occasional, as was the pillar of cloud, the manna, and such-like. Or, lastly, they have a relation to that covenant, GoD made with his spiritually Ifrael; which, if understood in a spiritual fense, will will be everlafting, though the ceremonial dispensation be abolished.

Befides, it ought to be obferved, that fome of the paffages just now referred to, have neither of these words so much as mentioned in them, and cannot possibly be interpreted, so as to denote only a limited term of years.

But let that be as it will, it is evident even to a demonstration, that the words of the text will not admit of fuch a reftrained fignification, as appears from their being directly opposed to the words immediately following, "That the righteous shall go into life eternal." From which words, all are ready to grant, that the life promised to the righteous will be eternal. And why the punishment threatened to the wicked should not be understood to be eternal likewise, when the very fame word in the original, is used to express the duration of each, no shadow of a reason can be given.

But, Secondly, There cannot be one argument urged, why GOD fhould reward his faints with everlasting happines, which will not equally prove that he ought to punish finners with eternal misery.

For, fince we know nothing (at leaft for a certainty) how he will deal with either, but by a Divine Revelation; and fince, as was proved by the foregoing argument, he hath is plofitively threatened eternally to punifh the wicked, as to reward the good; it follows, that his truth will be as much impeached and called in queftion, did he not inflict his punifhments, as it would be, if he did not confer his rewards.

To this also it has been objected, That though GoD is obliged by promife to give his rewards, yet his veracity could not be called in question, supposing he should not execute his threatenings, as he actually did not in the case of Nineveh; which GoD expressly declared by his Prophet Jonah, " should be destroyed in forty days:" notwithstanding the sequel of the flory informs us, that Nineveh was spared.

But in answer to this objection we affirm, that GoD's threatenings, as well as promises, are without repentance; and for this reason, because they are both founded on the eternal laws of right reason. Accordingly we always find, that where the conditions were not performed, on the nonperformance of which the threatenings were denounced, GoD always always executed the punifhment threatened. The driving Adam out of Eden, the deftruction of the old world by a deluge of water, and the overthrow of Sedom and Gemorrab, are, and will be always fo many ftanding monuments of GoD's executing his threatenings when denounced, though to our weak apprehentions, the punifhment may feem far to exceed the crime.

It is true, GoD did spare Nineveh, and that because the inhabitants did actually repent, and therefore performed the conditions upon which it was supposed, by the Prophet's being fent to warn them, the threatened punishment should be withheld.

And to in respect to gospel threatenings. If men will to far confult their own welfare, as to comply with the gospel, God certainly will not punish them, but on the contrary, confer upon them his rewards. But to affirm that he will not punish, and that eternally to, impenitent, obstinate finners, according as he hath threatened; what is it, in effect, but to make God like a man, that he should lie, or the fon of man, that he should repent?

But the absurdity of such an opinion will appear still more evident from

The Third argument I shall offer to prove, that the torments referved for the wicked hereafter are eternal, From the nature of the christian covenant.

And here I must again observe, that it was taken for granted at the beginning of this discourse, that you believe the Son of GOD came down to fave finners; and that there is but one Mediator between GOD and man, even the man CHRIST JESUS.

And here I take it for granted farther, (unlefs you believe the abfurd and unwarrantable doctrine of purgatory) that you are fully perfuaded, this life is the only time allotted by Almighty GOD for working out our falvation, and that after a few years are paffed over, there will remain no more facrifice for fin.

And if this be granted (and who dares deny it ?) it follows, that if a wicked man dieth in his wickedness, and under the wrath of GoD, he must continue in that state to all eternity.

For,

For, fince there is no poffibility of their being delivered out of fuch a condition, but by and through CHRIST; and fince, at the hour of death, the time of CHRIST's mediation and interceffion for him is irrecoverably gone; the fame reason that may be given, why GOD should punish a finner that dieth under the guilt of his fins for a fingle day, will equally hold good, why he should continue to punish him for a year, an age, nay to all eternity.

But I haften to the Fourth and laft argument, to prove, That the torments referved for the wicked hereafter are eternal, Becaufe the devil's punifhment is to be fo.

That there is fuch a being whom we call the devil; that be was once an angel of light, but for his pride and rebellion againft GOD, was caft down from beaven, and is now permitted, with the reft of the fpiritual wickedneffes, to walk to and fro, feeking whom they may devour; that there is a place of torment referved for them, or, to ufe the Apoftle's words, "That they are referved in everlafting chains under darknefs unto the judgment of the great day;" are truths all here prefent were fuppofed to be convinced of, at the beginning of this difcourfe, you believing the Holy Scriptures to be written by the infpiration of GoD, wherein thefe truths are delivered.

But then if we allow all this, and think it no injuffice in GOD to punish those once glorious spirits for their rebellion; how can we think it unjust in him, to punish wicked men for their impenitency to all eternity ?

You will fay, perhaps, that they have finned againft greater light, and therefore deferve a greater punifhment. And fo we grant that the punifhment of the fallen angels may be greater as to degree, than that of wicked men; but then we affirm; it will be equal as to the eternal duration of it: for in that day, as the lively oracles of GOD inform us, fhall the Son of Man fay to them on his left hand, " Depart from me, ye curfed, into everlafting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels." Where we find that impenitent finners are to be caft into the fame everlafting fire, with the devil and his angels; and that too very juftly. For though they may have finned againft greater light, yet chriftians fin againft greater mercy. Since CHRIST took not hold of, did not die for, the fallen fallen angels, but for men and for our falvation. So that if GoD fpared not those excellent beings, affure thyself, O obflinate finner, whoever thou art, he will by no means spare thee.

From what then has been faid it plainly appears, that verily the torments referved for the wicked hereafter, are eternal. And if fo, brethren, how ought we to fly to JESUS CHRIST for refuge; how holy ought we to be in all manner of conversation and godlines, that we may be accounted worthy to escape this wrath to come !

But before I proceed to a practical exhortation, permit me to draw an inference or two from what has been faid.

And Firft, If the torments referved for the wicked hereafter are eternal, what fhall we fay to thofe, who make an open profeffion in their creed to believe a life everlafting, a life of mifery as well as happinefs, and yet dare to live in the actual commiffion of thofe fins which will unavoidably, without repentance, bring them into that place of torment? Thou believeft that the punifhments of the impenitently wicked in another life, are eternal : "Thou doft well, the devils also believe and tremble." But know, O vain man, unlefs this belief doth influence thy practice, and makes thee bid adieu to thy fins, every time thou repeateft thy creed, thou doeft in effect fay, I believe I fhall be undone for ever.

But. Secondly. If the torments referved for the wicked hereafter are eternal, then let this ferve as a caution to fuch perfons, (and it is to be feared there are fome fuch) who go about to diffuade others from the belief of fuch an important truth : There being no furer way, in all probability, to encourage and promote infidelity and prophaneness, than the broaching or maintaining to unwarrantable a doctrine. For if the pofitive threats of GOD concerning the eternity of hell-torments. are already found infufficient to deter men from fin, what a higher pitch of wickedness may we imagine they will quickly arrive at, when they are taught to entertain any hopes of a future recovery out of them; or, what is still worfe, that their fouls are hereafter to be annihilated, and become like the beafts that perifh ? But wo unto fuch blind leaders of the blind. No wonder if they both fall into the dirch. And let fuch fuch corrupters of GoD's word know, that I teffify unto every man that heareth me this day, "That if any one fhall add unto, or take away from the words that are written in the book of GOD, GOD fhall take his part out of the book of life, and fhall add unto him all the plagues that are in that book."

Thirdly and Lafly, If the torments referved for the wicked hereafter are eternal, then this may ferve as a reproof for those who quarrel with GOD, and fay it is inconfistent with his justice, to punish a perfon to all eternity, only for enjoying the pleasures of fin for a season. But such persons must be told, that it is not their thinking or calling GOD unjust, will make him fo, no more than a condemned prifoner's faying the law or judge is unjust, will render either duly chargeable with fuch an imputation. But knowest thou, O worm, what blasphemy thou art guilty of, in charging GoD with injustice ? " Shall the thing formed fay to him that formed it, why haft thou made me thus?" Wilt thou prefume to arraign the Almighty at the bar of thy shallow reafoning? and call him unjust, for punishing thee eternally, only because thou wishest it may not be so? But hath GoD said it, and shall he not do it? He hath faid it : and let GoD be true, though every man be a liar. "Shall not the judge of all the earth do right ?" Affuredly he will. And if finners will not own his justice in his threatenings here, they will be compelled ere long to own and feel them, when tormented by him hereafter.

But to come to a more practical application of what has been delivered.

You have heard, brethren, the eternity of hell-torments plainly proved, from the express declarations of holy fcriptures, and confequences naturally drawn-from them. And now there feems to need no great art of rhetoric to perfuade any understanding perfon to avoid and abhor those fins, which without repentance will certainly plunge him into this eternal gulph. The disproportion between the pleasure and the pain (if there be any pleasure in fin) is fo infinitely great, that succeed would be everlastingly punished, no one that has the reason of a man, for the enjoying a little momentary pleasure, would.

would, one might imagine, run the hazard of enduring eternal pain. But fince the torments of the damned are not only poffible, but certain, (fince God himself, who cannot lie, has told us fo) for men, notwithstanding, to perfist in their disobedience, and then flatter themselves, that GoD will not make good his threatenings, is a most egregious instance of folly and prefumption.

Dives himfelf supposed, that if one rose from the dead, his brethren would amend their lives; but Chriftians, it feems; will not repent, though the Son of GoD died and role again. and told them what they must expect, if they continue obstimate in evil-doing.

Would we now and then draw off our thoughts from fenfible objects, and by faith meditate a while on the miferies of the damned, I doubt not but we fhould, as it were, hear many an unhappy foul venting his fruitless forrows; in fome Juch piteous moans as thefe.

" O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from this body of death !" O foolifh mortal that I was, thus to bring myfelf into these never-ceasing tortures, for the transitory enjoyment of a few fhort-lived pleasures, which scarcely afforded me any fatisfaction, even when I most indulged myfelf in them. Alas ! are these the wages, these the effects of fin? Are all the grand deceiver's inviting promifes come to this ? O damned apoftate ! First to delude me with pretended promifes of happinefs, and after feveral years drudgery in his fervice, thus to involve me in eternal woe. O that I had never heatkened to his beguiling infinuations ! O that I had rejected his very first suggestions with the utmost deteftation and abhorrence ! O that I had taken up my crofs and followed CHRIST ! O that I had never ridiculed ferious godlinels; and out of a falle politeness, condemned the truly pious as too fevere, enthusiaftic, or superstitious ! For I then had been happy indeed, happy beyond expression, happy to all eternity, yonder in those bleffed regions where they fit, cloathed with unspeakable glory, and chanting forth their feraphic hallelujahs to the Lamb that fitteth upon the throne for ever. But, alas ! these reflections come now too late : these wifhes now are vain and fruitlefs. I have not fuffered, and therefore must not reign with them. I have in effect denied - VOL. V. the the LORD that bought me, and therefore juffly am I now denied by him. But muft I live for ever tormented in these flames? Muft this body of mine, which not long fince lay in flate, was cloathed in purple and fine linen, and fared fumptuoufly every day, muft it be here eternally confined, and made the mockery of infulting devils? O eternity! that thought fills me with despair: I muft be milerable for ever."

Come then, all ye felf-deluding, felf-deluded finners, and imagine yourfelves for once in the place of that truly wretched man I have been here defcribing. Think, I befeech you by the mercies of GOD in CHRIST JESUS, think with yourfelves, how racking, how unfupportable the never-dying worm of a felf-condemning conficience will hereafter be to you. Think how impoffible it will be for you to dwell with everlafting burnings.

Come, all ye chriftians of a lukewarm, Laodicean fpirit, ye Gallio's in religion, who care a little, but not enough for the things of GoD; O think, think with yourfelves, how deplorable it will be to lofe the enjoyment of heaven, and run into endlefs torments, merely becaufe you will be content to be almost, and will not firive to be altogether chriftians. Confider, I befeech you confider, how you will rave and curfe that fatal flupidity which made you believe any thing lefs than true faith in JESUS, productive of a life of flrict piety, felf-denial, and mortification, can keep you from those torments, the eternity of which I have been endeavouring to prove.

But I can no more. These thoughts are too melancholy for me to dwell on, as well as for you to hear; and GOD knows, as punishing is his strange work, so denouncing his threatenings is mine. But if the bare mentioning the torments of the damned is so shocking, how terrible must the enduring of them be!

And now, are not fome of you ready to cry out, " Thefe: are hard fayings, who can bear them ?"

But let not fincere christians be in the least terrified at what has been delivered : No, for you is referved a crown, a kingdom, an eternal and exceeding weight of glory. CHRIST never faid that the righteous, the believing, the upright, the fincere, but the wicked, merciles, negatively good professions before defcribed, fhall go into everlafting punifhment. For you, who love him in fincerity, a new and living way is laid open into the Holy of Holies by the blood of JESUS CHRIST: and an abundant entrance will be adminiftered unto you, at the great day of account, into eternal life. Take heed, therefore, and beware that there be not in any of you a root of bitternefs fpringing up of unbelief: but on the contrary, fiedfaftly and heartily rely on the many precious promifes reached out to you in the gospel, knowing that he who hath promifed is faithful, and therefore will perform.

But let no obftinately wicked profeffors dare to apply any of the divine promifes to themfelves: "For it is not meet to take the childrens meat and give it unto dogs:" No, to fuch the terrors of the LORD only belong. And as certainly as CHRIST will fay to his true followers, "Come, ye bleffed children of my Father, receive the kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the world;" fo he will unalterably pronounce this dreadful fentence against all that die in their fins; "Depart from me, ye curfed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels."

From which unhappy flate, may GOD of his infinite mercy deliver us all through JESUS CHRIST; to whom, with thee O Father, and thee O Holy Ghost, three Persons and one eternal GOD, be assiss most due, all honour, power, might, majesty, and dominion, now and for evermore.

SERMON XXVII.

Blind Bartimeus.

MARK X. 52.

And JESUS faid unto bim, Go thy way, thy faith bath made thee whole. And immediately he received his fight, and followed JESUS in the way.

THEN the apoftle Peter was recommending JESUS of Nazareth, in one of his fermons to the Jews, he gave him a fhort, but withal a glorious and exalted character, " That he went about doing good." He went about, he fought occasions of doing good ; it was his meat and drink to do the works of him that fent him, whilft the day of his public administration lasted. Justly was he stiled by the prophet, the Jun of righteousness. For, as the sun in the natural firmament diffuses his quickening and reviving beams through the universe, so, wherever this sun of righteousness, the blessed JESUS arole, he arole with healing under his wings. He was indeed a prophet like unto Mofes, and proved that he was the Meffiah which was to come into the world, by the miracles which he wrought; though with this material difference, the miracles of Moles, agreeable to the Old Testament dispensation, were miracles of judgment; the miracles of JESUS, who came to bear our fickneffes and beal our infirmitics, were miracles of mercy, and were wrought, not only for the cure of people's bodies, but also for the conversion of their precious and immortal fouls. Sometimes, one and the fame perfon was the fubject of both these mercies. A glorious proof of this, we have in the miraculous cure wrought upon a poor blind beggar, named Bartimeus, who is to be the subject of the following discourse, and to whom the words of the text refer. 4 JESUS faid unto him, Go.

Go thy way, thy faith hath made thee whole. And immediately he received his fight, and followed JESUS in the way."

My defign is, Fir/t, to make fome observations on the matter of fact, as recorded by the evangelist. And then,

Secondly, To point out the improvement that may be made thereof. May JESUS fo blefs this following difcourfe, that every fpiritually blind hearer may receive his fight, and, after the example of Bartimeus, "follow JESUS in the way!"

If we would take a view of the whole ftory, we must go back to the 46th verse of this chapter. "And they (our LORD and his disciples, who, we find by the context, had been conversing together) came to Jericho," a place devoted by Joshua to the curse of GOD; and yet, even this place yields converts to JESUS; Zaccheus had been called there formerly: and Bartimeus, as we shall hear by-and-by, in all probability. was called now. For fome good may come even out of Nazareth. CHRIST himself was born there, and his fovereign grace can reach and overcome the worft of people, in the very worft of places. JESUS came to Fericho. Let not his minifters, if providence points out their way, fhun going to feemingly the most unlikely places to do good, some chosen vessels may be therein. JESUS and his disciples came to Jericho. They were itinerants; and, as I have frequently observed, feldom flayed long in a place; not that this is any argument 'against the stated settlement of particular pastors over particular parishes. But however, our LORD's practice, in this respect, gives a kind of a fanction to itinerant preaching, when perfons are properly called to, and qualified for, fuch an employ. And I believe we may venture to affirm (though we would by no means prefcribe or dictate to the Holy One of I/rael) that, whenever there shall be a general revival of religion in any country, itinerant preaching will be more in vogue. And it is to be feared, that those who condemn it now, merely on account of the meannels of its appearances, would have joined with the felf-righteous Scribes and Pharisees, in condemning even the Son of Gop himself, for such a practice, ss And

"And as he went out of Jeriche with his disciples, and a great number of people," " vyAsixavs a great number of mob. or rabble, as the High-priefts of that generation termed them : for these were the constant followers of JESUS of Nazareth; it was the poor that received his gofpel, the common people heard him gladly, and followed him from place to place. Not that all who followed him, were his true disciples. No, some followed him only for his loaves, others out of curiofity; though fome undoubtedly followed to hear, and be edified by the gracious words that proceeded out of his mouth. TESUS knew this, and was also fensible how displeasing this crowding after him was to some of the rulers of the Jewish church, who, upon every occasion, were ready to fay, " Have any of the Scribes and Pharifees believed on him ?" But, notwithfanding, I do not hear of our bleffed LORD's fending them home but once; and that was, after they had been with him three days, and had nothing left to eat, he faw they were as fheep having no fhepherd, and therefore had compaffion on them, and taught them. A fufficient warrant this for golpelministers to preach to poor fouls that follow to hear the word, whatever principle their coming may proceed from. At the fame time, they fhould caution people against thinking themfelves christians, because they follow CHRIST's ministers. This our LORD frequently did. For there are many that followed TESUS, and now follow his ministers, and hear them gladly; nay, perhaps do many things, as Herod did, who, it is to be feared, will never follow them into the kingdom of heaven, Much people followed JESUS out of Jericho, but how many of them were offended in him; and afterwards, it may be, cried out, " Crucify him, crucify him." Who would depend on popularity? It is like the morning cloud, or early dew, that paffeth away. But what a prefs, and feemingly continued hurry of business did the bleffed JESUS live in ! he could not be hid; go where he would, much people followed him. He had fcarce time to eat bread. Happy is it for fuch who are called to act in a public station in the church, and to be more abundant in labours, that their Jesus has trodden in this dangerous path before them. Popularity is a fiery furnace, and no one, but he who kept the three children amidst Nebuchadnezzar's flames, can preserve popular ministers from being hurt by it. But we can do all things through CHRIST ftrengthening us. And I have often thought, that there is one confideration fufficient to extinguish, or moderate at least, any excess of joy and felf-complacence, which the most popular preacher may feel, when followed even by the greatest multitudes; and that is this, "How many of these hearers will go " away, without receiving any faving benefit by my preach-" ing; nay, how many, it may be, will only have their dam-" nation increased by it !" As we find many will fay at the great day, " hast thou not taught in our streets;" to whom JESUS shall answer, " Verily, I know you not."

But to proceed, " As our LORD went out of Feriche with his disciples, and a great number of people, blind Bartimeus, (the fon of Timeus) fat by the highway-fide begging." It fhould feem that he was a noted, though by no means what we commonly call, a flurdy beggar; having no other way, as he had loft his fight, to get his bread; his cafe was ftill the more pitiable, if he was, as fome think the name imports, the blind fon of a blind father. It may be, he begged for his father and himfelf too; and if fo, then this may give us light into that passage of Matthew xx. 22. where we are told, that "two men spake to JESUS." It might be father and son. though only one is mentioned here, becaufe he only followed JESUS in the way. Thus that holy, judicious, and practical expositor of holy writ, Mr. Henry. But however this be, he is not blamed for begging, neither fhould we difcommend others for fo doing, when providence calls to it. It was the unjust steward that faid, " To beg I am ashamed." It is our pride that often makes us unwilling to be beholden; JESUS was not thus minded, he lived, as it were, upon alms; the women that followed him, ministred to him of their fubstance. Bartimeus, not being able to dig, begs for his living; and, in order to make a better trade of it, fat by the highway-fide, in all probability, without, or near the gate of the city, where people must necessarily pass in and out. But though he had loft his fight, he had his hearing perfect; and it fhould comfort us, if we have loft one fenfe, that we have the use of another, and that we are not deprived of the benefit of all. Happy was it for Bartimeus that he could hear, though not fee. For in all probability, upon hearing the noife and cla-C c 4 mour mour of the much people that followed after our LORD, his curiofity fet him upon enquiring into the caufe of it, and fome one or another told him, " that JESUS of Nazareth was paffing by;" JESUS of Nazareth, called fo, becaufe he was bred there, or out of contempt; Nazareth being either a very mean, or very wicked place, or both, which made guileles Nathaniel fay, " Can any good come out of Nazareth?" And what does Bartimeus do when he hears of JESUS? We are told, ver. 47; "And when he heard that it was JESUS of Nazareth, he began to cry out." This plainly denotes, that though the eyes of his body were fhut, yet the eyes of his mind were, in some degree, opened, so that he saw, perhaps, more than most of the multitude that followed after JESUS; for, as foon as he heard of him, he began to cry out; which he would not have done, had he not heard of him before, and believed alfo, that he was both able and willing to reftore fight to the blind. "He began to cry out." This implies, that he had a deep fense of his own misery, and the need which he had of a cure; his prayers did not freeze as they went out of his lips; he began to cry out, that JESUS might hear him, notwithstanding the noise of the throng; and he began to cry out, as foon as he heard he was passing by, not knowing whether he might ever enjoy fuch an opportunity any more. "He began to cry out, JESUS, thou Son of David. have mercy upon me." The people called him JESUS of Nazareth. Bartimeus stiles him, " JESUS, thou Son of David." Thereby evidencing, that he believed him to be the Meffiah who was to come into the world, unto whom the LORD GOD was to give the throne of his father David, and of whole kingdom there was to be no end. " JESUS, thou Son of David;" or, as it is in the parallel place of St. Matthew xx. 20. " O LORD, thou fon of David;" of whom it had been long foretold, Ilaiab xxxv. that when he should come. " the eyes of the blind fhould be opened." "Have mercy upon me," the natural language of a foul brought to lie down at the feet of a fovereign God. Here is no laying claim to a cure by way of merit; no proud, felf-righteous, GOD I thank thee that I am not as other men are: no bringing in a reckoning of performances, nor any doubting of JESUS's power or willingness to heal him, but out of the abundance of the heart, heart, his mouth speaketh, and, in the language of the poor, broken-hearted publican, he cries out, "JESUS, thou Son of David, have mercy on me." JESUS, thou friend of finners, thou Saviour, who, though thou be the true GoD, wast pleased to become the Son of David, and to be made man, that thou mighteft feek and fave those that were lost, have mercy upon me; let thy bowels yearn towards a poor, miserable, blind beggar !

One would have thought that fuch a moving petition as this would have melted the whole multitude, that heard his piteous cry, into compaffion, and induced fome at leaft to turn fuitors in his behalf, or help to carry him to the bleffed JESUS. But instead of that, we are told, ver. 48, that "many charged him." The word in the original feems to imply a charge, attended with threatning, and spoken in an angry manner. They charged him "to hold his peace;" and it may be, threatned to beat him if he did not. They looked upon him beneath the notice of JESUS of Nazareth, and were ready enough to ask, whether he thought JESUS CHRIST had nothing elfe to do but to wait upon him. This was, no doubt, very discouraging to blind Bartimeus. For opposition comes closeft when it proceeds from those who are effeemed followers of the Lamb. The fpouse complains as of something peculiarly afflicting, that her own mother's children were angry with her. But opposition only ferves to whet the edge of true devotion, and therefore Bartimeus, instead of being filenced by their charges and threatnings, " cried out the more a great deal, thou Son of David, have mercy on me." Still he breaks out into the fame humble language, and, if JESUS, the Son of David, will have mercy on him, he cares not much what fome of his peevifh followers faid of, or did unto him. This was not a vain repetition, but a devout reiteration of his request. We may fometimes repeat the fame words, and yet not be guilty of that BITTOLOYIA, or vain speaking, which our LORD condemns. For our LORD himself prayed in his agony, and faid twice the fame words; "Father, if it be possible, let this cup país from me." Thus Bartimeus, " JESUS, thou Son of David, have mercy upon me." And how does the Son of David treat him ? does he join iffue with the multitude, and charge him to hold his peace? or does he go on, thinking him beneath beneath his notice ? no; for, fays St. Mark, ver. 49. "And JESUS flood flill," though he was on a journey, and it may be in hafte (for it is not lofing time to ftop now and then on a journey to do a good office by the way) " and commanded him to be called :" why fo? to teach us to be condescending and kind even to poor, if real beggars, and tacitly to reprove the blind, mifguided zeal of those who had charged him to hold his peace. By this also our LORD prepares the multitude the better to take the more notice of the blind man's faith. and of his own mercy and power exerted in the healing of him. For there are times and feafons when we are called to perform acts of charity in the most public manner, and that too very confistently with the injunction of our Saviour, " not to let our right hand know what our left hand doth." For there is a great deal of difference between giving alms, and exercifing acts of charity, that are feen of men, and doing them, that they may be feen; the one is always finful, the other often becomes our duty. JESUS commanded Bartimeus to be called, " and they called him." Who called him? it may be, those who a little before charged him to hold his peace. For it often happens, that our oppofers and difcouragers, afterwards become our friends. "When a man's ways pleafe the LORD, he makes his enemies be at peace with him." And it is to be wifhed, that all who have charged poor fouls, that are crying after JESUS, to hold their peace, and to spare themfelves, and not be righteous over-much, would imitate the people here, and encourage those they once perfecuted and maligned. " They call the blind man, faying unto him, Be of good comfort, rife, he calleth thee." The words, and manner of speaking them, implies haste, and a kind of folicitude for the blind man's relief. O! that we might hereby learn to be patient, and long-fuffering, towards oppofers. For it may be, that many may oppose awakened fouls, not out of enmity, but through prejudice and mifinformation, through ignorance and unbelief, and a real, though perhaps falle, perfuafion, that their relations are going in a wrong way. By and by they may be convinced, that CHRIST is indeed calling them, and then they may become real and open friends to the caufe and work of GOD; if not, it is our duty to behave with meeknefs towards all, and not to render railing for railing, but contrarywife wife bleffing, knowing that we are thereunto called, that we may inherit a bleffing; JESUS did not break out into harfh language against these opposers, neither did Bartimeus. " Our LORD flood ftill, and commanded him to be called; and they call the blind man, faying unto him, Be of good comfort, rife, he calleth thee; and he, cafting away his garment, role and came to JESUS." Had Bartimeus not been in earneft when he cried, " JESUS, thou Son of David, have mercy upon me," he might have faid, why do you mock me? why bid ye me arife : rife indeed I can, but after I am rifen, how can I. being blind, find my way unto him? If he will come to me, it is well; if not, all your calling availeth nothing, it being impoffible for me to find my way. Thus thousands now-adays object to evangelical preachers, faying, Why do you bid us come to, and believe on JESUS CHRIST, when you tell us it is impossible of ourselves to turn to GOD, or to do good works; and that no one can come unto him, unless the Father draw him. Is not this like the people's calling upon Bartimeus, to arife and come to IESUS, when he could not possibly fee his way before him? true, it is fo; and would to GOD that all who make this objection, would imitate Bartimeus, and put forth the ftrength they have! What if we do call you to come, and to believe on the LORD JESUS CHRIST, that you may be faved? does this imply, that you have a power in yourfelves to do fo? no, in no wife, no more than JESUS faying unto Lazarus's dead and stinking carcale, "Come forth," implied, that Lazarus had a power to raife himself from the grave. We call to you, being commanded to preach the gofpel to every creature, hoping and praying, that CHRIST's power may accompany the word, and make it effectual to the quickening and raising of your dead fouls. We also call to you to believe, upon the fame account as JESUS faid unto the lawyer, " do this, and thou fhalt live;" that you feeing your utter inability to come, might thereby be convinced of your unbelief, and be led to afk for faith of him, whose gift it is, and who is therefore in scripture emphatically stiled the Author, as well as Finisher, of our faith. Add to this, that it is your duty to wait at the pool, or to make use of the strength you have, in the earnest and steady performance of all commanded duty. For though you cannot do what is fpiritually good. good, becaufe you want fpiritual principles of action, yet ye may do what is morally and materially good, inafmuch as ye are reafonable creatures; and though doing your duty as you can, no ways deferves mercy, or entitles you to it, yet it is the way in which you are required to walk, and the way in which GoD is ufually found. While you are attempting to ftretch out your withered arm, peradventure it may be reftored; and who knows but JESUS may work faith in you, by his almighty power ?

Bartimeus has fet before such objectors an example; O that they would once fubmit to be taught by a poor blind beggar ! For he, caffing away his garment, role, and blind as he was, came to JESUS; " cafting away his garment." This feems to be a large coat or cloak, that he wore to fcreen himfelf from the rain and cold; undoubtedly, it was the most necesfary and valuable vestment he had, and one would have thought, that he should have taken this along with him; but he knew very well, that if he did fo, it might hang about his heels, and thereby his reaching JESUS be retarded at leaft, if not prevented entirely. Valuable therefore as it was to him, he caft it away. The word implies, that he threw it from off his fhoulders, with great precipitancy and refolution, knowing that if he got a cure, which he now hoped for, by CHRIST's calling him, he fhould never want his garment again. And thus will all do that are in earnest about coming to JESUS here, or feeing and enjoying him in his kingdom eternally hereafter. They will cut off a right-hand, they will pluck out a right-eye, they will leave father and mother, hufband and wife, yea, and their own lives alfo, rather than not be his disciples. The apostle Paul, therefore, exhorts christians, to " lay afide every weight, and the fin that doth most eafily befet them," or hang about their heels, as the word in the original imports; alluding to the cuftom of the Romans, who wore long garments. Such a one was this, which Bartimeus had wrapped round him. But he, to fhew that he fincerely defired to recover his fight, caffing it away, arofe and came to JESUS. And what treatment did JESUS give him? did he fay, come not nigh me, thou impudent noify beggar ? No, "he answered and faid unto him, What wilt thou, that I should do unto thee ?" an odd question this, seemingly. For did did not our LORD know what he wanted ? yes, he did; but the LORD JESUS dealt with him, as he deals with us. He will make us acknowledge our wants ourfelves, that we thereby may confess our dependance upon him, and be made more fenfible of the need we ftand in, of his divine affiftance. The blind man immediately replies, " LORD, (thereby intimating his belief of CHRIST's divinity) that I might receive my fight." Methinks. I fee the poor creature liftening to the voice of our Saviour, and with looks and geftures befpeaking the inward earnestness of his soul, he cries out, " LORD, that I may receive my fight." As though he had faid, I believe thou art that Meffiah who was to come into the world. I have heard of thy fame, O Jesus! and hearing the long-wilhed-for gladtidings of thy coming this way, I cry unto thee, afking not for filver and gold, but what thou, thou alone canft give me, LORD, that I might receive my fight. No fooner does he ask, but he receives. For, verse 52, " JESUS faid unto him, Go thy way, thy faith hath made thee whole; and immediately he received his fight." With the word there went a power; and he that spake light out of darkness, faying, " Let there be light, and there was light," commanded light into this poor blind beggar's eyes, and behold there was light. The miracle was inftantaneous; immediately he received his fight. And next to a miracle it was, that by breaking into open light all at once, he was not ftruck blind again : but he that gave the fight, preferved it when given. O! happy Bartimeus! thy eyes are now opened, and the very first object thou dost behold, is the even-loving, altogether-lovely JESUS. Methinks I fee thee transported with wonder and admiration, and all the difciples, and the multitude, gazing around thee! And now, having received thy fight, why doft thou not obey the LORD's command, and go thy way ? why doft thou not hafte to fetch thy garment, that thou just now in a hurry didst cast away? No, no ! with his bodily eyes, I believe he received also a fresh addition of spiritual fight, and though others faw no form or comelinels in the bleffed JESUS, that they should defire him; yet he by an eye of faith discovered such transcendent excellencies in his royal perfon, and felt at the fame time fuch a divine attraction towards his all bountiful benefactor, that instead of going his way to fetch his garment, " he followed TESUS

JESUS in the way;" and by his actions, fays with faithful, honeft-hearted Ruth, " entreat me not to leave thee; for whither thou goeft, I will go; where thou lodgeft, I will lodge; thy people fhall be my people; and thy God, my GoD." He followed JESUS in the way; the narrow way, the way of the crofs; and I doubt not but long fince he has followed him to his crown, and is at this time fitting with him at the right hand of his Father.

And now, my dear hearers, how find you your hearts affected at the relation of this notable miracle which JESUS wrought? are you not ready to break out into the language of the fong of Mofes, and to fay, "Who is like unto thee, O LORD, glorious in holinefs, fearful in praifes, continually doing wonders!" Marvellous are thy works, O JESUS, and that our fouls know right well! But we muft not ftop here, in admiring what the LORD did for Bartimeus; this, no doubt, as well as other parts of Scripture, was written for our learning, upon whom the ends of the world are come; confequently, as was propofed in the Second place, we fhould fee what fpiritual improvement can be made of this hiftory, upon which we have already been making fome remarks.

A natural man, indeed, goes no further than the outward court of the Scripture, and reads this, and the other miracles of our blessed Saviour, just in the fame manner as he reads Homer's battles, or the exploits of Alexander. But GoD forbid, that we should rest in only hearing this matter of fact. For I tell thee, O man, I tell thee, O woman, whoever thou art, that Titteft this day under a preached gospel, that if thou art in a natural state, thou art as blind in thy foul, as Bartimeus was in his body; a blind child of a blind father, even of thy father Adam, who loft his fight when he loft his innocence, and entailed his blindnefs, justly inflicted, upon thee, and me, and his whole posterity. Some think indeed, that they fee; but alas ! fuch talk only like men in their fleep, like perfons befide themselves; the fcriptures every where reprefent fallen man, not only as spiritually blind, but dead also; and we no more know, by nature, favingly the way of falvation by JESUS CHRIST, than Bartimeus, when he was blind, knew the colours of the rainbow. This, I truft, fome of you begin begin to feel. I fee you concerned, I fee you weeping, and, was I to ask some of you, what you want to have done unto you? I know your answer would be, that we may receive our fight. And GOD forbid, that I fhould charge you to hold your peace, as though JESUS would not regard you! no, your being made fenfible of your natural blindnefs, and crying thus earnestly after JESUS, is a fign at least, that you are awakened by his holy Spirit (though it is poffible, that you may cry with an exceeding bitter cry, as E/au did, and be loft at laft); however, christian charity induces me to believe and hope the beft : I will therefore, in the language of those who afterwards encouraged Bartimeus, fay unto you, Arife, take comfort; for, I truft, JESUS is calling you; follow therefore the example of Bartimeus, cast away your garment; lay aside every weight. and the fin which doth most eafily belet you, arife, and come to JESUS. He commands me, by his written word, to call to you, and fay, " Come unto him, all ye that are weary, and heavy laden, and he will refresh you, he will give you reft." Be not afraid, ye feek JESUS of Nazareth; behold, he comes forth to meet you; ye are now on the highway fide, and JESUS, I truft, is paffing by; I feel his prefence, I hope many of you feel it too; O then, cry mightily to him, who is mighty and willing to fave you; lay yourfelves at the feet of fovereign grace, fay unto him, " JESUS, thou Son of David, have mercy on me," in the same frame as Bartimeus did, and JESUS will answer you, he will not cast out your prayer; according to your faith, fo shall it be done unto you. Blind as you are, you shall, notwithstanding, receive your fight; Satan, indeed, and unbelief, will fuggest many objections to you, your carnal relations will also join iffue with them, and charge you to hold your peace; one will tell you, that your blindness is too inveterate to be cured; another, that it is too late; a third, that though JESUS can, yet he will not have mercy upon fuch poor, blind, despicable beggars, as ye are; but, the more they charge you to hold your peace, do you cry out so much the more a great deal, " JESUS, thou Son of David, have mercy on us." JESUS, thou Saviour, thou friend of finners, thou Son of David, and therefore a Son of man! gracious words ! endearing appellations ! be encouraged by them, to draw nigh unto him. Though David's Lord, yet he

he is become David's Son, after the flefh, that ye through him may be made the fons of GoD: no matter what thou art, O woman, what thou art, O man; though thou art literally a poor beggar, think not thy condition too mean for JESUS to take notice of; he came into the highways and hedges, to call fuch poor beggars in; or, if you are rich, think not yourfelves too high to floop to JESUS; for he is the King of kings; and you never will be truly rich, until you are made rich in JESUS; fear not being despised, or losing a little worldly honour: one fight of JESUS will make amends for all : you will find fomething fo inviting, fo attracting, fo fatisfying, in the altogether-lovely Lamb of GOD, that every fublunary enjoyment will ficken, and die, and vanish before you; and you will no more defire your former vain and triffing amufements, than Bartimeus, after he had received his fight, defired to go back again and fetch his garment. O that there may be many fuch blind beggars among you this day !

Here is a great multitude of people following me, a poor worm, this day. I rejoice to fee the fields thus white, ready unto harvest, and to spread the gospel-net amidst so many ; but alas! I shall return home with a heavy heart, unless fome of you will arife and come to my JESUS; I defire to preach HIM, and not myfelf; reft not in hearing and following me. Behold, believe on, and follow the Lamb of GOD, who came to take away the fins of the world. Indeed, I do not defpair of any of you, neither am I discouraged, on account of my preaching in the highways and hedges; JESUS called Zaccheus; JESUS called Bartimeus, as he passed through Jericho; that curfed, that devoted place; and why may he not call fome of you, out of these despised fields? is his arm shortened, that he cannot fave? is he not as mighty now, and as willing to fave, even to the uttermost, all that come to the Father through him, as he was feventeen hundred years ago? affuredly he is ; he hath faid, and he also will do it, " Whofoever cometh to me, I will in no wife caft out." In no wife, or by no means. O encouraging words ! finners, believe ve this ? arife then, be of good comfort, for JESUS is indeed calling you. Some of you, I truft, have obeyed this invitation, and have had a fight of him long ago; I know then, you will blefs and love him; and if he should fay unto you, as he did unto Bartimeus, go you.

you your way; your answer would be, we love our master, and will not go from him. But suffer ye the word of exhortation:

Suffer me to flir up your pure minds by way of remembrance, shew that you have indeed seen him, and that you do indeed love him, by following him in the way; I mean, in the way of the cross, the way of his ordinances, and in the way of his holy commandments; for alas! the love of many waxeth cold, and few there are that follow JESUS rightly in the way; few there are that caft away their garments fo heartily as they fhould; fome idol or another mangs about us, and hinders us in running the race that is fet before us. Awake therefore, ye fleepy, though, it may be, wife virgins. Awake, awake, put on strength; shake yourselves from the dust; arise and follow JESUS more closely in the way, than ever you did yet. Lift up the hands that hang down, and Grengthen the feeble knees. Provide right paths for your feet, left that which is lame be turned out of the way, but rather be ye healed. For though the way be narrow, yet it is not long; " though the gate be ftraight, (to use the words of pious " bifhop Beveridge) yet it opens into everlafting life." O that ye may get a fresh fight of him again this day! That would be like oil to the wheels of your graces, and make your fouls like the chariots of Aminadab. It is only owing to your lofing fight of him, that you go fo heavily from day to day. A fight of JESUS, like the fun rifing in the morning, difpels the darknefs and gloominefs that lies upon the foul. Take therefore a fresh view of him, O believers, and never rest until you are translated to see him as he is, and to live with him for evermore, in the kingdom of heaven. Even fo, LORD JESUS, Amen and Amen !

SERMON

SERMON XXVIII.

Directions how to hear Sermons.

LUKE viii. 18.

Take heed, therefore, how ye hear.

THE occasion of our LORD's giving this caution, was this: Perceiving that much people were gathered together to hear him out of every city, and knowing (for he is GOD, and knoweth all things) that many, if not most of them, would be hearers only, and not doers of the word; he spake to them by a parable, wherein, under the similitude of a fower that went out to sow his feed, he plainly intimated, how few there were amongst them, who would receive any faving benefit from his doctrine, or bring forth fruit unto perfection.

The application one would imagine fhould have been plain and obvious; but the disciples, as yet unenlightened in any great degree by the Holy Spirit, and therefore unable to see into the hidden mysteries of the kingdom of GoD, dealt with our Saviour, as people ought to deal with their ministers; they discoursed with him privately about the meaning of what he had taught them in public; and with a fincere defire of doing their duty, asked for an interpretation of the parable.

Our blefied LORD, as he always was willing to inftruct those that were teachable, (herein fetting his ministers an example to be courteous and easy of access) freely told them the fignification. And withal, to make them more cautious and more attentive to his doctrine for the future, he tells them, that they were in an especial manner to be the light of the world, and were to proclaim on the house-top whatsoever he told them in secret: and as their improving the knowledge already already imparted, was the only condition upon which more was to be given them, it therefore highly concerned them to "take heed how they heard."

From the context then it appears, that the words were primarily spoken to the Apostles themselves. But as it is to be feared, out of those many thousands that flock to hear sermons, but few; comparatively speaking, are effectually influenced by them, I cannot but think it very necessary to remind you of the caution given by our LORD to his disciples; and to exhort you with the utmost earnestness, to ^{ci} take heed how you hear."

In profecution of which defign I shall,

First, Prove that every one ought to take all opportunities of hearing fermons. And,

Secondly, I shall lay down some cautions and directions, in order to your bearing with profit and advantage.

Firft, I am to prove, that every one ought to take all op+ portunities of hearing fermons.

That there have always been particular perfons fet apart by GoD, to inftruct and exhort his people to practife what he fhould require of them, is evident from many paffages of fcripture. St. Jude tells us, that "Enoch, the feventh from Adam, prophefied (or preached) concerning the LORD's coming with ten thousand of his faints to judgment." And Noah, who lived not long after, is failed by St. Peter; "a preacher of righteousness." And though in all the intermediate space between the flood and giving of the law, we hear but of few preachers, yet we may reasonably conclude, that GOD never left himfelf without witness, but at fundry times, and after divers manners, spoke to our fathers by the patriarchs and prophets.

But however it was before, we are affured that after the delivery of the law, God conftantly feparated to himfelf a certain order of men to preach to, as well as pray for his people; and commanded them to enquire their duty at the priefts mouths. And though the Jews were frequently led into D d 2 captivity, captivity, and for their fins fcattered abroad on the face of the earth, yet he never utterly forfook his church, but still kept up a remnant of prophets and preachers, as Ezekiel, Jeremiah, Daniel, and others, to reprove, instruct, and call them to repentance.

Thus was it under the law. Nor has the church been worfe, but infinitely better provided for under the gospel. For when JESUS CHRIST, that great High-priest, had through the eternal Spirit offered himself, as a full, perfect, sufficient facrifice and fatisfaction for the fins of the whole world, and after his refurrection had all power committed to him, both in heaven and earth, he gave commission to his Apostles, and in them to all succeeding ministers, to "go and preach his gospel to every creature;" promifing to "to be with them, to guide, affist, ftrengthen, and comfort them always, even to the end of the world."

But if it be the duty of ministers to preach, (and woe be to them if they do not preach the gospel, for a necessity is laid upon them) no doubt, the people are obliged to attend to them; for otherwise, wherefore are ministers sent?

And how can we here avoid admiring the love and tender care which our dear Redeemer has expressed for his spouse the church? Who, because he could not be always with us in person, on account it was expedient he should go away, and as our forerunner take possed possed of the start of the second chased by his precious blood, yet would not leave us comfortless, but first fettled a sufficient number of pastors and teachers; and afterwards, according to his promise, actually did and will continue to fend down the Holy Ghost, to furnish them and their successfors with proper gifts and graces " for the work of the ministry, for the perfecting of the faints," for the edifying of his body in love, till we all come in the unity of the fpirit, to the fulness of the measure of the flature of CHRIST."

O how infenfible are those perfons of this unspeakable gift, who do despite to the Spirit of grace, who crucify the Son of God astress, and put him to an open shame, by wilfully refusing to attend on so great a means of their falvation? How dreadful will the end of such men be? How aggravating, that light should come into the world, that the glad tidings tidings of falvation fhould be fo very frequently proclaimed in this populous city, and that fo many fhould loath this fpiritual manna, this angels food, and call it light bread? How much more tolerable will it be for Tyre and Sidon, for Sodom and Gomorrah, than for fuch finners? Better, that men had never heard of a Saviour being born, than after they have heard, not to give heed to the ministry of those, who are employed as his ambassiadors, to transact affairs between GOD and their fouls.

We may, though at a diftance, without a fpirit of prophefy, foretel the deplorable condition of fuch men; behold them caft into hell, lifting up their eyes, being in torment, and crying out, How often would our minifters have gathered us, as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings? But we would not. O that we had known in that our day, the things that belonged to our everlafting peace! But now they are for ever hid from our eyes.

Thus wretched, thus inconceiveably miferable, will fuch be as flight and make a mock at the public preaching of the gospel. But taking it for granted, there are but few, if any, of this unhappy stamp, who think it worth their while to tread the courts of the LORD's house, I pass on now to the Second general thing proposed, to lay down some cautions and directions, in order to your hearing sermons with profit and advantage.

And here, if we reflect on what has been already delivered, and confider that preaching is an ordinance of GOD, a means appointed by JESUS CHRIST himfelf for promoting his kingdom amongft men, you cannot reasonably be offended, if, in order that you may hear fermons with profit and advantage, I

1. Direct or entreat you to come to hear them, not out of curiofity, but from a fincere defire to know and do your duty.

Formality and hypocrify in any religious exercife, is an abomination unto the LORD. And to enter his house merely to have our ears entertained, and not our hearts reformed, must certainly be highly displeasing to the Most High Gop, as well as unprofitable to ourselves.

Hence

Hence it is, that fo many remain unconverted, yea, unaffected with the most evangelical preaching; so that like St. Paul's companions, before his conversion, they only hear the preacher's voice with their outward ears, but do not experience the power of it inwardly in their hearts: Or, like the ground near Gideon's fleece, they remain untouched; whilst others, who came to be fed with the fincere milk of the word, like the fleece itself, are watered by the dew of God's heavenly bleffing, and grow thereby.

Flee therefore, my brethren, flee curiofity, and prepare your hearts by a humble difposition, to receive with meekness the engrafted word, and then it will be a means, under GoD, to quicken, build up, purify, and fave your fouls.

2. A fecond direction I shall lay down for the same purpose, is, not only to prepare your hearts before you hear, but also to give diligent heed to the things that are spoken from the word of Gop.

If an earthly king was to iffue out a royal proclamation, on performing or not performing the conditions therein contained, the life or death of his fubjects entirely depended, how folicitous would they be to hear what those conditions were? And fhall not we pay the fame respect to the King of kings, and LORD of lords, and lend an attenrive ear to his ministers, when they are declaring, in his name, how our pardon, peace, and happiness may be fecured ?

When GOD descended on mount Sinai in terrible majefty, to give unto his people the law, how attentive were they to his fervant Moses? And if they were fo earness to hear the thunderings or threatenings of the law, shall not we be as folicitous to hear from the ministers of CHRIST, the glad tidings of the gospel?

Whilft CHRIST was himfelf on earth, it is faid, that the people hung upon him to hear the gracious words that proceeded out of his mouth. And if we looked on minifters as we ought, as the fent of JESUS CHRIST, we fhould hang upon them to hear their words alfo.

Befides, the facred truths that gofpel minifters deliver, are not dry infipid lectures on moral philosophy, intended only to amufe us for a while; but the great mysteries of godlinefs, which, therefore, we are bound fludiously to listen to, left through 423 through our negligence we should either not understand them, or by any other means let them flip.

Ι.

But how regardless are those of this direction, who, instead of hanging on the preacher to hear him, doze or fleep whilft he is speaking to them from GOD? Unhappy men! Can they not watch with our bleffed LORD one hour ? What ! have they never read how Eutychus fell down as he was fleeping, when St. Paul continued his difcourfe till midnight, and was taken up dead ?

But to return. Though you may prepare your hearts, as you may think, by a teachable disposition, and be attentive whilft discourses are delivering, yet this will profit you little, unless you observe a

2. A third direction, Not to entertain any the least prejudice against the minister.

For could a preacher speak with the tongue of men and angels, if his audience was prejudiced against him, he would be but as founding brafs, or tinkling cymbal.

That was the reason why JESUS CHRIST himself, the Eternal Word, could not do many mighty works, nor preach to any great effect among those of his own country; for they were offended at him : And was this fame JESUS, this GOD incarnate, again to bow the heavens, and to come down speaking as never man spake, yet, if we were prejudiced against him, as the Jews were, we should harden our hearts as the Fews did theirs.

Take heed therefore, my brethren, and beware of entertaining any diflike against those whom the Holy Ghost has made overfeers over you. Confider that the clergy are men of like paffions with yourfelves : and though we fhould even hear a perfon teaching others to do, what he has not learned himfelf; yet, that is no sufficient reason for rejecting his doctrine: for ministers speak not in their own, but CHRIST's name. And we know who commanded the people to do whatfoever the Scribes and Pharifees should fay unto them, though they faid but did not. But

4. Fourthly, As you ought not to be prejudiced against, fo you should be careful not to depend too much on a preacher, or think more highly of him than you ought to think. For though this be an extream that people feldom run into, yet preferring preferring one teacher in opposition to another, has often been of ill confequence to the church of GOD. It was a fault which the great Apostle of the Gentiles condemned in the Corinthians: For whereas one faid, "I am of Paul; another, I am of Apollos: are ye not carnal," fays he? "For who is Paul, and who is Apollos, but inftruments in GOD's hands by whom you believed?" And are not all ministers fent forth to be ministring ambassifadors to those who shall be heirs of falvation? And are they not all therefore greatly to be efteemed for their work's fake.

The Apoftle, it is true, commands us to pay double honour to those who labour in the word and doctrine: but then to prefer one minister at the expence of another, (perhaps, to fuch a degree, as when you have actually entered a church, to come out again because he does not preach) is earthly, fensual, devilish.

Not to mention that popularity and applause cannot but be exceedingly dangerous, even to a rightly informed mind; and must neceffarily fill any thinking man with a holy jealously, left he should take that honour to himself, which is due only to GoD, who alone qualifies him for his ministerial labours, and from whom alone every good and perfect gift cometh.

5. A Fiftb direction I would recommend is, to make a particular application of every thing that is delivered to your own hearts.

When our Saviour was difcourfing at the laft fupper with his beloved difciples, and foretold that one of them fhould betray him, each of them immediately applied it to his own heart, and faid, " LORD, is it I?" And would perfons, in like manner, when preachers are diffuading from any fin, or perfuading to any duty, inftead of crying, this was defigned againft fuch and fuch a one, turn their thoughts inwardly, and fay, LORD, is it I? how far more beneficial fhould we find difcourfes to be, than now they generally are ?

But we are apt to wander too much abroad; always looking at the mote which is in our neighbour's eye, rather than at the beam which is in our own. Hafte we now to the

6. Sixtb and laft direction: If you would receive a bleffing from the LORD, when you hear his word preached, pray to him, him, both before, in, and after every fermon, to endue the minifter with power to fpeak, and to grant you a will and ability to put in practice, what he fhall fhew from the book of GoD to be your duty.

. This would be an excellent means to render the word preached effectual to the enlightening and enflaming your hearts; and without this, all the other means before prefcribed will be in vain.

No doubt it was this confideration that made St. Paul fo earneftly entreat his beloved Ephefians to intercede with GOD for him: "Praying always, with all manner of prayer and fupplication in the fpirit, and for me alfo, that I may open my mouth with boldnefs, to make known the myfteries of the gofpel." And if fo great an Apoftle as St. Paul, needed the prayers of his people, much more do those ministers, who have only the ordinary gifts of the Holy Spirit.

Befides, this would be a good proof that you fincerely defired to do, as well as to know the will of GoD. And it must highly profit both ministers and people; because GoD, through your prayers, will give them a double portion of his Holy Spirit, whereby they will be enabled to instruct you more fully in the things which pertain to the kingdom of GOD.

And O that all who hear me this day, would ferioufly apply their hearts to practife what has now been told them ! How would minifters fee Satan, like lightning, fall from heaven, and people find the word preached fharper than a twoedged fword, and mighty, through GoD, to the pulling down of the devil's ftrong holds !

The Holy Ghoft would then fall on all them that hear the word, as when St. Peter preached; the gospel of CHRIST. would have free course, run very swiftly, and thousands again be converted by a sermon.

For "JESUS CHRIST is the fame yesterday, to-day, and for ever." He has pomifed to be with his ministers always, even unto the end of the world. And the reason why we do not receive larger effusions of the bleffed Spirit of GoD, is not because our all-powerful Redeemer's hand is shortened, but because we do not expect them, and confine them to the primitive times.

It does indeed fometimes happen, that Gon, to magnify his free grace in CHRIST JESUS, is found of them that fought him not : a notorious finner is forcibly worked upon by a public fermon, and plucked as a firebrand out of the fire. But this is not Gop's ordinary way of acting : No, for the generality, he only vifits those with the power of his word, who humbly wait to know what he would have them to do : and fends unqualified hearers not only empty, but hardened away.

Take heed, therefore, ye carelefs, curious profeffors, if any fuch be here present, how you hear. Remember, that whether we think of it or not, " we must all appear before the judgment-feat of CHRIST ;" where ministers muft give a ftrict account of the doctrine they have delivered, and you as firick a one. how you have improved under it. And, good Gop ! how will you be able to stand at the bar of an angry, finavenging judge, and see so many discourses you have despised, fo many ministers, who once longed and laboured for the falvation of your precious and immortal fouls, brought out as fo many fwift witneffes against you ? Will it be sufficient then, think you, to alledge, that you went to hear them only out of curiofity, to pafs away an idle hour, to admire the oratory, or ridicule the fimplicity of the preacher ? No: GOD will then let you know, that you ought to have come out of better principles; that every fermon has been put down to your account, and that you must then be justly punifhed for not improving by them.

But fear not, you little flock, who with meekness receive the ingrafted word, and bring forth the peaceable fruits of righteousnels; for it shall not be so with you. No, you will . be your minister's joy, and their crown of rejoicing in the day of our LORD JESUS: And they will prefent you in a holy triumph, faultlefs and unblameable, to our common Redeemer, faying, "Behold us, O LORD, and the children which thou haft given us."

But still take heed how you hear: for upon your improving the grace you have, more shall be given, and you shall have abundance. "He is faithful that has promifed, who also will do it." Nay, GoD from out of Sion, shall so bless you, that every fermon you hear fhall communicate to you a fresh 3 .

frefh fupply of spiritual knowledge. The word of GOD shall dwell in you richly; you shall go on from strength to strength, from one degree of grace unto another, till being grown up to be perfect men in CHRIST JESUS, and filled with all the fulness of GOD, you shall be translated by death to see him as he is, and to sing praises before his throne with angels and archangels, cherubim and scraphim, and the general assembly of the first-born, whose names are written in heaven, for ever and ever.

SERMON XXIX.

The Extent and Reafonableness of Self-Denial.

LUKE ix. 23.

And he faid unto them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself.

W HOEVER reads the gofpel with a fingle eye, and fincere intention, will find, that our bleffed LORD took all opportunities of reminding his difciples that his kingdom was not of this world; that his doctrine was a doctrine of the crofs; and that their profeffing themfelves to be his followers, would call them to a conftant flate of voluntary fuffering and felf-denial.

The words of the text afford us one inftance, among many, of our Saviour's behaviour in this matter : for having in the preceding verfes revealed himfelf to Peter, and the other apoftles, to be " The CHRIST of GoD ;" left they fhould be too much elated with fuch a peculiar difcovery of his deity, or think that their relation to fo great a perfonage would be attended with nothing but pomp and grandeur, he tells them, in the 22d verfe, that " the fon of man was to fuffer many things," in this world, though he was to be crowned with eternal glory and honour in the next : and that if any of them or their pofterity would fhare in the fame honour, they muft bear a part with him in his felf-denial and fufferings. For " He faid unto them all, if any man will come after me, let him deny himfelf."

From which words I shall confider these three things:

I. First, The nature of the felf-denial recommended in the text; and in how many respects we must deny ourselves, in order to come after JESUS CHRIST.

II.

- II. Secondly, I fhall endeavour to prove the universality and reasonableness of this duty of self-denial.
- III. Thirdly, I shall offer fome confiderations, which may ferve as fo many motives to reconcile us to, and quicken us in, the practice of this felf-denial.

I. Firft, I am to fhew you the nature of the felf-denial recommended in the text; or in how many respects we must deny ourselves in order to follow JESUS CHRIST.

Now as the faculties of the foul are diffinguished by the understanding, will and affections; fo in all these must each of us deny himself. We must not lean to our own understanding, being wife in our own eyes, and prudent in our own fight; but we must submit our short-fighted reason to the light of divine revelation. There are mysteries in religion, which are above, though not contrary to our natural reason: and therefore we shall never become christians unless we cast down imaginations, " and every high thing that exalteth itfelf againft the knowledge of GOD, and bring into captivity every thought to the obedience of CHRIST." It is in this respect, as well as others, that we must become fools for CHRIST's fake, and acknowledge we know nothing without revelation, as we ought to know. We must, with all humility and reverence, embrace the truths revealed to us in the holy fcriptures; for thus only can we become truly wife, even "Wife unto falvation." It was matter of our bleffed LORD's thankfgiving to his heavenly father, that he had "hidden thefe things from the wife and prudent, and had revealed them unto babes." And in this refpect also we must " be converted and become as little children," teachable, and willing to follow the Lamb into whatfoever mysteries he shall be pleafed to lead us; and believe and practife all divine truths, not becaufe we can demonstrate them, but because GoD, " who cannot lye," has revealed them to us.

Hence then we may trace infidelity to its fountain head: for it is nothing elfe, but a pride of the understanding, an unwillingness to submit to the truths of GOD, that makes so many, professing themselves wile, to become such fools as to deny the LORD, who has so dearly bought them; and dispute the divinity of that eternal Word, "in whom they live, "and move, and have their being:" Whereby it is justly to

But, as we must deny ourselves in our understandings, fo must we deny, or, as it might be more properly rendered, renounce our wills : that is, we must make our own wills no principle of action, but " whether we eat or drink, or whatfoever we do, we must do all, (not merely to please ourselves, .but) to the glory of GoD." Not that we are therefore to imagine we are to have no pleasure in any thing we do : " Wisdom's ways are ways of pleasantness;" but pleasing ourselves must not be the principal, but only the subordinate end of our actions.

And I cannot but particularly prefs this doctrine upon you, because it is the grand secret of our holy religion. It is this, my brethren, that diffinguishes the true chriftian from the mere moralist and formal professor; and without which none of our actions are acceptable in GOD's fight : For " if thine eye be fingle," fays our bleffed LORD, Matth. vi. 22. that is, if thou aimest fimply to please GOD, without any regard to thy own will, "thy whole body, (or all thy actions) will be full of light;" agreeable to the gofpel, which is called light : " But if thine eye be evil, (if thine intention be diverted any other way) thy whole body, (all thy actions) will be full of darknefs," finful and unprofitable, we must not only do the will of GoD, but do it because it is his will ; fince we pray that "God's will may be done on earth as it is in heaven." And no doubt, the bleffed angels not only do every thing that Gop willeth, but do it chearfully, out of this principle, becaufe God willeth it: And if we would live as we pray, we must go and do likewise.

But farther; as we must renounce our wills in doing, fo likewife must we renounce them in fuffering the will of GOD. Whatfoever befals us, we must fay with good old Ek, "It is the LORD, let him do what feemeth him good;" or with one that was infinitely greater than Ek, "Father, not my will, but thine be done." O JESUS, thine was an innocent will, and yet thou renouncedft it: Teach us, even us alfo, O our Saviour! to fubmit our wills to thine, in all the evils whick fhall be brought upon us; and in every thing enable us to give thanks, fince it is thy bleffed will concerning us !

Thirdhy,

Thirdly, we must deny ourselves, as in our understandings and wills, fo likewise in our affections. More particularly, we must deny ourselves the pleasurable indulgence and felfenjoyment of riches: "If any man will come after me, he must forsake all and follow me." And again (to shew the utter inconfissency of the love of the things of this world with the love of the Father) he tells us, " unless a man forfake all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple."

Far be it from me to think that these texts are to be taken in a literal fenfe; as though they obliged rich perfons to go fell all that they have and give to the poor, (for that would put it out of their power to be serviceable to the poor for the future) but however, they certainly imply thus much, that we are to fit loofe to, fell and forfake all in affection, and be willing to part with every thing, when GOD fhall require it at our hands : that is, as the apostle observes, we must " use the world as though we used it not;" and though we are in the world, we must not be of it. We must look upon ourselves as stewards, and not proprietors, of the manifold gifts of GoD; provide first what is necessary for ourselves and for our housholds, and expend the reft, not in indulgencies and fuperfluous ornaments, forbidden by the apolle, but in cloathing, feeding, and relieving the naked, hungry, diftreffed disciples of JESUS CHRIST. This is what our bleffed LORD would have us underftand by forfaking all, and in this fense muft each of us deny himself.

I am fenfible that this will feem an hard faying to many, who will be offended becaufe they are covetous, and "lovers of pleafure more than lovers of GOD:" but if I yet pleafed fuch men, I fhould not be the fervant of CHRIST. No, we muft not, like Abab's falfe prophets, have a lying fpirit in our mouths, but declare faithfully the whole will of GOD; and like honeft Micajab, out of pity and compaffion, tell men the truth, though they may falfely think we prophecy not good but evil concerning them.

But to proceed: As we must renounce our affection for riches, fo likewife our affections for relations, when they ftand in opposition to our love of, and duty to GOD: For thus faith the Saviour of the world: "If any man will come after me, and hateth not his father and mother, his his children, and brethren, and fifters, yea and his own life alfo, he cannot be my disciple." Strange doctrine this I What, hate our own flefh! What, hate the father that begat us, the mother that bare us ! How can these things be? Can GOD contradict himfelf? Has he not bid us to honour our father and mother ? and yet we are here commanded to hate them. How can these truths be reconciled ? By interpreting the word hate, not in a rigorous and abfolute fenfe, but comparatively : not as implying a total alienation, but a less degree of affection. For thus our bleffed Saviour himfelf (the best and furest expositor of his own meaning) explains it in a parallel text, Matth. x. 37. "He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me; He that loveth fon or daughter more than me, is not worthy of me." So that when the perfuasions of our friends (as for our trial they may be permitted to be) are contrary to the will of Gob, we must fay with Levi, " we have not known them ;" or, agreeably to our bleffed LORD's rebuke to Peter, "Get you behind me, my adverlaries; for you favour not the things that be of GOD, but the things that be of man."

Farther, we must deny ourselves in things indifferent: for it might easily be shewn, that as many, if not more, perish by an immoderate use of things in themselves indifferent, as by any gross fin whatever. A prudent christian therefore, will consider not only what is lawful, but what is expedient also: not so much what degrees of self-denial best fuit his inclinations here, as what will most effectually break his will, and fit him for greater degrees of glory hereafter.

Laftly, To conclude this head, we must renounce our own righteoulnefs: For, though we fhould give all our goods to feed the poor, and our bodies to be burned, yet, if we in the leaft depend on that, and do not wholly rely on the perfect all-fufficient righteoulnefs of JESUS CHRIST, it will profit us nothing. "CHRIST is the end of the law for righteoulnefs to every one that believeth." We are compleat in him, and him only. Our own righteoulneffes are but as filthy rags. We must count all things but dung and drofs, fo that we may be found in him, not having our own righteoulnefs, but the righteoulnefs which is of GOD, through JESUS CHRIST our LORD.

And

And is this the doctrine of thriffianity ? Is not the chrift tian world then affeep ? If not, whence fo much felf-righteoufnels, whence the felf-indulgence, whence the reigning love of riches which we every where meet with ? Above all. whence that predominant greedinels after fenfual pleafure, that has to over-tun this finful nation, that was a plous firanger to come amongft us, he would be tempted to think fome heathen Venus was worshipped here, and that temples were dedicated to her fervice. But we have the authority of an infoired apostle to affirm, that they who five in a round of pleafure, " are dead while they live." Wherefore, as the Holy Ghoft faith, " Awake thou that fleepeft, and arife from the dead, and CHRIST shall give thee light."" But the power of raifing the fairltually dead belongeth only unto Gob. Do thou therefore, O Holy JESU's, who by thy almighty word' commandelt Lazarus to come forth, though he had lain in the grave fome days, fpeak alfo as effectually to these spiritually dead fouls, whom Satari for many years hath to faft bound by fenfual pleafures, that they are not fo much as able to lift up their eyes or hearts to heaven? 5. 17 M 1

II. But I pais on to the fecond general thing propoled, to confider the universal obligation and reasonableness of this doctrine of felf denial.

. When bur bloffed mafter had been difcourfing publicly concerming the watchfulnefs of the faithful and will fleward." his disciples affect him, " Speakeft thou this parable to all, or only to us !!! "The fame question I am aware has been, and will be pur concerning the foregoing doctrine ! Tor too many, unwilling to take CHRIST's eafy yoke upon them, in order to evade the force of the golpel precepts; would pretend that all those commands concerning felf-denial; and renouncing ourfelves and the world, belonged to our Lond's first and immediate followers, and not to us or to our children. But fuch perfons greatle zir, not knowing the feriptures, nor the power of godliness in their hearts! Por the doctrine of Jesus CHRIST, like his bleffed felf, is, " the fame yefterday, to-day. and for ever." What he faid unto one, he faid unto all. even unto the ends of the world ; "If any man will come after me, let him deny himfelf :" and in the text 'it is parti-Vol. V. E e cularly cularly mentioned that he faid it unto them ALL. And left we fhould ftill abfurdly imagine that this word ALD was to be confined to his apofiles, with whom he was then discourting, it is faid in another place, that JESUS turned unto the multitude and faid, "If any man will some after me, and hateth not his father and mother, yea and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple." When our bleffed LORD had spoken a certain parable, it is faid, "the foribes and Pharifees were offended, for they knew the parable was spoken against them :" And if christians can now read these plain and positive texts, of foripture, and at the same time not think they are spoken of them, they are more hardened, than Jruss, and more instincere than Pharifees *.

In the former part of this difcourfe I observed, that the precepts concerning forfaking and felling all, did not oblige us in a literal fense, because the state of the church does not demand, it of us, as it did of the primitive christians; but fill the fame; deadness to the world, the fame absternious use of, and readinefs to part with our goods for CHRIST's lake, is as ablolutely necessary for, and as obligatory on us, as it was on For though the church may differ as to the outward them. hate of its in different ages, yet as to the purity of its inward fate, it mae, is, and always will be invariably the fame. And all the commands which we meet with in the epifiles, shout "mostifying our members which are upon the earth, of setting out affections on things above, and of not being conformed to this world ;" are but fo many inconteffible. proofs that the fame holiness heavenly mindedness, and deadness to the world, is as necessary for us to for our LORD's. immediate followers. · • , •, 1111

But farther, as fuch an objection argues an ignorance of the foriptures, fo it is a manifelt proof, that fuch an make it are firangers to the power of godlinels in their hearts. Forfince the fum and fubfiance of religion confifts in recovery from our fallen effate in Adam, by a new-bisth in CHRIST JESUS, there is an abfolute necessary for us to embrace and practife the felf-denial before fpoken of. If we are alive unto Gon, we fhall be dead to ourfelves and the world. If all things belonging to the fpirit live and grow in us, all things belonging to the old man much die in us. We much mourn before we are comforted, and receive the fpirit of bondage before we are bleffed with the unfpeakable privilege of the fpirit of adoption, and with a full assurance of faith can fay, "Abba, Father."

Were we indeed in a ftate of innocence, and had we, like Adam before his fall, the divine image fully ftamped upon our fouls, we then fhould have no need of felf-denial; but fince we are fallen, fickly, difordered, felf-righteous creatures, we must neceffarily deny ourfelves (and count it our privilege to do fo) ere we can follow JESUS CHRIST to glory. To reject fuch a falutary practice on account of the difficulty attending it at first, is but too like the obstinacy of a perverse fick child, who naufeates and refuses the potion reached out to it by a fkilful phyfician or a tender parent, because it is a little ungrateful to the tafte.

Had any of us feen Lazarus when he lay full of fores at the rich man's gate; or Job when he was fmitten with ulcers, from the crown of his head to the fole of his foot : And had we at the fame time prefcribed to them fome healing medicines, which, because they might put them to pain, they would not apply to their wounds, fhould we not most justly think, that they were either fond of a diftempered body, or were not fenfible of their diffempers ? But our fouls, by nature, are in an infinitely more deplorable condition than the bodies of Job or Lazarus, when full of ulcers and boils: for, alas ! " our whole head is fick, and our whole heart faint, from the crown vof the head to the fole of the foot, we are full of wounds and bruifes and putrifying fores, and there is no health in us." And if we are unwilling to deny ourfelves, and come after JESUS CHRIST in order to be cured, it is a fign we are not fensible of the wretchedness of our state, and that we are not truly made whole.

Even Naaman's fervants could fay, when he refufed (púrfuant to Elifba's orders) to wath in the river Jordan, that he might cure his leptofy, "Father, if the prophet had bid thee do fome great thing, would ft thou not have done it? How much rather then, when he faith to thee, wafh and be clean?" And may not I very properly address myfelf to you in the fame manner, my brethren? If JESUS CHRIST, our great prophet, had bid you to do fome far more difficult thing, would you not have done it? Much more then fhould you do it, when he only bids you deny yourfelves what would certainly hurt you if indulged in, and he will give you a crown of life.

But to illustrate this by another comparison : In the 12th chapter of the Acts, we read, that " St. Peter was kept in prifon, and was fleeping between two foldiers, bound with two chains : And behold an angel of the LORD came upon him, and fmote Peter on the fide, faying, arife up quickly : And his chains fell off from his hands." But had this great apoftle, inftead of rifing up quickly, and doing as the bleffed angel commanded him, hugged his chains and begged that they might not be let fail from his hands, would not any one think that he was in love with flavery, and deferved to be executed next morning? And does not the perfon who refuses to deny himself, act as inconfistently, as this apostle would have done if he had neglected the means of his deliverance ? For our fouls, by nature, are in a fpiritual dungeon, fleeping. and fast bound between the world, the flesh, and the devil. not with two but ten thousand chains of lufts and corruptions. Now JESUS CHRIST, like St. Peter's good angel, by the power of his gospel comes and opens the prison door, and bids us " deny ourfelves and follow him." But if we do not arife, gird up the loins of our mind and follow him, are we hot in love with bondage, and do we not deferve never to be delivered-from it?

Indeed, I will not affirm that this doctrine of felf-denial appears in this just light to every one. No, I am fenfible that to the natural man it is foolighness, and to the young convert an hard faying. But what fays our Saviour? " If any man will do my will, he shall know of the doctrine. whether it be of GoD, or whether I speak of myself." This, my dear friends, is the best, the only way of conviction : Let us up and be doing; let us arife quickly, and deny ourfelves, and the LORD JESUS will remove those scales from the eyes of our minds, which now, like fo many veils, hinder us from feeing clearly the reafonablenefs, neceffity, and inexpreffible advantage of the doctrine that has been delivered. Let us but once thus fhew ourfelves men, and then the fpirit of GOD will move on the face of our fouls, as he did once upon the face of the great deep ; and caule them to emerge out of 7 .1

that confused chaos, in which they are most certainly now involved, if we are strangers and enemies to felf-denial and the crofs of CHRIST.

III. Proceed we therefore now to the third and last general thing proposed, to offer some confiderations, which may ferve as fo many motives to reconcile us to, and quicken us in, the practife of this duty of felf-denial.

1. And the first means I shall recommend to you, in order to reconcile you to this doctrine, is, to meditate frequently on the life of our bleffed Lord and Mafter JESUS CHRIST. Follow him from his cradle to the crofs, and fee what a felfdenving life he led ! And fhall not we drink of the cup that he drank of, and be baptized with the baptism that he was baptized with ? Or think we, that JESUS CHRIST did and fuffered every thing in order to have us excufed and exempted from fufferings ? No, far be it from any fincere chriftian to judge after this manner : for St. Peter tells us, " He fuffered for us, leaving us an example that we should follow his Reps." Had CHRIST, indeed, like those that fat in Molas' chair, laid heavy burthens of felf-denial upon us, (supposing they were heavy, which they are not) and refused to touch them himself with one of his fingers; we might have had some pretence to complain : But fince he has enjoined us nothing, but what he first put in practise himself, thou art inexcusable. O disciple, whoever thou art, who wouldst be above thy perfecuted felf-denying mafter : And thou art no good and faithful fervant, who art unwilling to fuffer and fympathize with thy mortified, heavenly-minded LORD.

2. Next to the pattern of our bleffed mafter, think often on the lives of the glorious company of the apoftles, the goodly fellowship of the prophets, and the noble army of martyrs; who by a conftant looking to the author and finisher of our faith, have fought the good fight, and are gone before us to inherit the promifes. View again and again, how holily, how felf-denyingly, how unblameably they lived : And if felf-denial was necessary for them, why not for us also? Are we not men of like paffions with them ? Do we not live in the fame wicked world as they did ? Have we not the fame good spirit to affist, support, and purify us, as they had? Ee 2 And

and is not the fame eternal inheritance reached out to us, as was to them? And if we have the fame nature to change, the fame wicked world to withftand, the fame good fpirit to help, and the fame eternal crown at the end; why fhould not we lead the fame lives as they did? Do we think they did works of fupererogation? if not, why do not we do as they did? or why does your own church fet apart feftivals to commemorate the deaths and fufferings of the faints, but in order to excite you to follow them as they did CHRIST.

3. Thirdly, Think often on the pains of hell; confider, whether it is not better to cut off a right-hand or foot, and pull out a right-eye, if they offend us (or caufe us to fin) " rather than to be caft into hell, where the worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched." Think how many thousands there are now referved with damned spirits in chains of darkness unto the judgment of the great day. And think withal, that this, this must be our case shortly, unless we are wise in time, deny ourfelves, and follow JESUS CHRIST. Think you, they now imagine JESUS CHRIST to be an hard master; or rather think you not, they would give ten thousand times ten thousand worlds, could they but return to life again, and take CHRIST's eafy yoke upon them? And can we dwell with everlafting burnings more than they? No, if we cannot bear this precept, deny yourselves, take up your crosses; how shall we bear the irrevocable sentence, " Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlafting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels?" But I hope those, amongst whom I am now preaching the kingdom of GOD, are not fo difingenuous as to need to be driven to their duty by the terrors of the LORD, but rather defire to be drawn by the cords of love.

Lafly, Therefore, often meditate on the joys of heaven: think, think with what unspeakable glory those happy souls are now incircled, who when on earth were called to deny themselves as well as we, and were not disobedient to that call: List up your hearts frequently towards the mansions of eternal bliss, and with an eye of faith, like Stephen, see the heavens opened, and the Son of man with his glorious retinue of departed faints, fitting and folacing themselves in eternal joys. Hark! methinks I hear them chanting forth their everlasting Hallelujabs, and echoing triumphant fongs of joy. And do you not long, my brethren, to join this heavenly choir? do not your hearts burn within you? As the hart panteth after the water brooks, do not your fouls fo long after the bleffed company of these sons of GOD? Behold then a heavenly ladder reached down to you, by which you may climb to this holy hill. Let us believe on the LORD JESUS CHRIST, and deny ourselves ! By this alone, every faint that ever lived ascended into the joy of their LORD : And then, we, even we also that! ere long be lifted up into the fame most blifsful regions, there to enjoy an eternal reft with the people of GOD, and join with them in finging doxologies and fongs of praise, to the everlasting, bleffed, all-glorious, most adorable Trinity, for ever and ever.

Which God of his infinite mercy grant, for

And behold, there talked with him two men, which were Moses and Elias : who appeared in glory, and spake of bis decease, which he should accomplish at Jerusalem. But Peter and they that were with bim, were beavy with fleep : and when they were awake. they faw bis glory, and the two men that flood with bim. And it came to pass, as they departed from bim. Peter said unto JESUS, Master, it is good for us to be bere; and let us make three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias: not knowing what he faid. While be thus spake, there came a cloud and overshadowed them, and they feared as they entered into the cloud. And there came a voice out of the cloud, faying, This is my beloved Son, bear him. And when the voice was past, JESUS was found alone; and they kept it close, and told no man in those days any of those things which they had seen,

WHEN the angel was fent to the Redeemer's beloved difciple John, we are told that the angel faid unto him, "Come up hither:" He was to be exalted, to be brought nearer heaven, that his mind might be better prepared for those great manifestations, which an infinitely great and and condeficending God intended to vouchfafe him. And on reading the verfes that you have just now heard, when I alfo fee fuch a great and ferious affembly convened in the prefence of Gon, I think I must address you, as the angel addressed John, and fay unto you, " Come up hither;" leave your worldly thoughts, for a time forget the earth. And as it is the Lord's day, a time in which we ought more particularly to think of heaven, I must defire you to pray to Gon; that ye may get up on Pilgab's mount, and take a view of the promised land. It is true, indeed, eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of any man to conceive the great and good things, which GoD hath prepared for his people here; much lefs, those infinitely greater and more glorious things, that he hath laid up for them that fear him, in the eternel world : but, bleffed be Goo ! though we are not yet in heaven, unless to be in CHRIST may properly be termed heaven, and then all real christians are there already; vet, the bleffed IEsus has been, pleafed to leave upon record fome account of himfelf, of what happened to him in the days of his flefh, and of some manifestations he was pleased to grant to a few of his difciples; that from what happened to them here below, we may form fome faint, though but a faint idea of that happiness that awaits his people in his kingdom above. If any of you enquire, in what part of our Lond's life those instances are recorded, I have an answer ready: One of these instances, and that a very remarkable one, is recorded in the verfes that I have now cholen for the subject of your meditation.

The vertes give us an account of what is generally called our LORD's Transfiguration; his being wonderfully changed, and his being wonderfully owned by his Father upon the mount. Some think that this was done upon a fabbath-day; and the particular occasion of our bleffed LORD's condefcending to let his fervants have fuch a fight as this, we may gather from the 27th verfe. It feems our bleffed LORD had been promifing a great toward to those who fhould not be alhamed of him : "Whosever shall be alhamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of Man be ashamed, when he shall come in his own glory, and of his Father, and of the holy angels." In this threatening is implied, a teward to those who who fould not be afhamed of him: . But, (adds he) I tell you of a wuth, there be fome flanding here, who fhall not tafte of death, till they for the kingdom of Gon :" As much as to fay. There will be a day, when I will come in the glory of my Father and of his holy angels; but I tell you there are some of my favourites; I tell you of a truth, though you may think it too good news, there are fome of you that thall not tafte of death, till we shall fee the kingdom of Gop. Some divines think, that this promife has reference to out Lond's erecting a golpel church; and if we take it in this denfe, it means that the Apostles, who were then prefent. fome of them at leaft, fhould not die, till they faw Satan's kingdom in a great measure pulled down, and the Redeemer's gofpel-kingdom erected. Some think it has a peculiar reference to John, who it feems furvived all the other Apostles, and lived till CHRIST came; that is, till he came to defirey Ferufalem. But it is the opinion of Mr. Henry, of Bifhop Hall, of Burkit, and others, who have written upon this paffage, that our bleffed LORD has a peculiar reference to the transfiguration upon the mount: " There be fome of you here, that shall not take of death, till ye fee my transfiguration upon the mount ; till ye fee fome glovified faint come down from beaven and pay me a vifut, and confequently fee a little of that kingdom of Gon; which we shall have a full fight of, when ye some to glory." This feens to be the right interpretation. If you will look to the margin of your Bibles, you will see the parallel place in Matthew, where the account of our LORD's transfiguration is given, and there you will find it immediately follows upon this promife of our LORD.

Well, as CHRIST had toki them, that they flould not tafts of death, till they had feen the kingdom of GoD, why the Evangelist, at the 28th verse, tells us, " It came to pass about an eight days after thele fayings, he took Peter, and Fabre, and Yames, and went up, into a mountain to pray." About an eight days; that is, as Bifhop Hall thinks, upon the fabbath-day; or, according to fome, the first day of the week, which was hereafter to be the christian fabbath ; our bleffed LORD takes Peter, John, and Jumes : Why did not the LORD JESUS CHRIST take more of his difeiples ? Why three, and 0.14 and these three ? And why three only ? Our bleffed Long was pleased to take three and no more, to show us that he is a fovereign agent; to flow us, that though he loved all his disciples, yet there are some to whom he is pleased to allow peculiar vifits. He loved Peter, and all the other difciplese vet John was the disciple that he peculiarly loved. And he took three rather than one, because three were sufficient to testify the truth of his being transfigured : " Out of the mouth of two or three witneffes every word shall be effablifhed." And he took no more than three, becaufe thefe three were enough. And he took these three, Poten, John. and Fames, in particular, because these very persons that were now to fee CHRIST transfigured, were hereafter to fee bim agonizing in the garden, fweating great drops of blood falling unto the ground. And had not these three disciples feen CHRIST upon the mount, the feeing him afterwards in the garden, might have flaggered them exceedingly ; they might have doubted whether it was possible for the Son of Gop to be in fuch doleful circumstances. Well, our LORD takes these three " up into a mountain," Why for Because CHRIST JESUS was to be like Mafer, who was taken up into a mountain, when GOD intended to deliver unto him the moral law : And our bleffed LORD went up into a mountain. because a mountain befriended devotion. When he had a mind to retire to pray to his Father, he went to fuch places where he could be maft fecret, and give the greatest went to his heart. Thus we are told, that once when Peter prayed. it was upon the house-top. And if we have a mind to be near Gon, we should choose such places as are freest from oftentation, and that most befriend our communion with GOD. Aud what doth CHRIST, when he got up into a mountain? We are told, he went up into a mountain " to pray," CHRIST had no corruption to confess, and he had but few wants of his own to be relieved; yet we hear of CHRIST being much in prayer; we hear of his going up to a mountain to pray; of his rifing up a great while before it was day to pray; and of his fpending a whole night in prayer to Gon,

In the 29th verie, you have an account of the effect of our LORD's praying: " As he prayed, the falhion of his counter nance

nance was altered, and his raiment was white and gliffering." I would have you take notice, that our LORD was not changed in respect of his body, while he was going up to the mount. but when he got upon the mount, and while engaged in prayer. DIt is fufficient that way for our fouls to be transformed : the time we are more particularly to expect the in-Huences of God's Spirit, is, when we are engaged in prayer. There leems to be a very great propriety in our LORD's being transfigured or changed upon the mount. I hope I need inform none of you, that when Moles went up to the mount of Gon, Gon was pleased to speak to him face to face; and when he came down from the mount, the people of Ifrael observed that Mofes's face mone fo, that he was obliged to have a veil put upon his face. Now the thining of Moles's face, was a proof to the people, that Mofes had been conwith God. And Moles told the people, " That the LORD would raife up unto them a prophet like unto him, whom the people were to hear." God the Father, in order to give his Son (confidering him as man) a tellimony that he was a prophet, was pleafed not only to let his face glitter or thine; but to show that he was a prophet far superior to Moles, he was pleafed to let his garment be white and gliftering, and "his countenance (as we are told by another Evangeliff) did thine as the fun." What a change was here ! What a fight ! Methinks I fee Peter, James, and Jobn furprized :: and, indeed, well might the Evangelift, confidering what happened, 'ufher in the following part 'of the flory with the word Behold; " Behold, there talked with him two men, Mojes and Elias : And in the 31st verle, you have an account of their drefs, "They appeared in glory ;" and of their difcourfe, " They fpake of his decease which he fhould accompliff at Jerufalem."

"Behold, two men, which were Moles and Elias;" thele were two very proper perfors to come upon this embaffy to the Son of GOD. Moles was the great lawgiver; Elias was the great reftorer of the law? The body of Moles was hidden and never found, Elias's body was translated immediately, and carried up in a fiery chariot to heaven : And it may be that this was done particularly, because these two were hereafter to have the honour of waiting upon the Son of GOD. ""They " They appeared in glory;" that is, their bodies were now in that glorious habit, in which the bodies of believers are to. be at the morning of the refurrection. CHRIST was, as it were, now fitting in his royal robes; and as it is usual forambaffadors, when they are to be admitted into the king's. prefence, on bringing a meffage from one king to another, to appear in all their grandeur, to make the meffage more folemn : fo here, these heavenly messengers being to wait upon the LORD JESUS CHRIST, are invested as with royal dignity, they appeared in glory, and " they spake of his decease which he should accomplish at Jerufalem," they came to tell the Redeemer of his fufferings, and of the place of his fufferings, and to acquaint him, that his fufferings, however great, however. bitter, were to be accomplified; that there was to be an end put to them, as our LORD himfelf speaks, " The things concerning me are to have an end." What other particulars they spoke to our LORD, we are not told. But what effect this had upon the disciples, you may learn from the 32d verse, " Peter, and they that were with him, were heavy with fleep."

We are not to suppose, that Peter, James and John, were now afleep in a literal fenfe; no, if we compare this, with, another passage of holy writ, I mean the account given us of Daniel's being impressed and overcome, when he saw the angel of the LORD, you will find that this fleep implies what we call a fwoon. They were overcome with the fight of the glory. of CHRIST's garments, the gliftering of his body, and the glory in Moles and Elias appeared : these quite overcame them, funk them down, and, like the Queen of Sheba, when the faw Solomon's glory, they had no life in them. But they recovered themselves: " when they were awake," that is, when they had recovered their strength, when GOD had put strength into them, as the angel put strength into Daniel, " they faw his glory, and the two men that ftood with him." And how do you think they gazed upon CHRIST? how may we suppose they fixed their eyes upon Mofes and Elias? Peter, who was always the first speaker, out of the abundance of his heart, spoke upon this occasion. Verse 33. " And it came to pais as they departed from him, Peter faid unto JEsus, Master, it is. good for us to be here; and let us make three tabernacles, one for thes. and one for Mofes, and one for Elizs, not knowing what he faid." Peter, when he had drank a little of CHRIST's new wine, speaks like a perfon intoxicated; he was overpowered with the brightness of the manifestation. " Let us make three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moles, and one for Blias." It is well added, " not knowing what he faid." That the thould cry out, " Mafter, it is good for us to be here," in fuch good company, and in fo glorious a condition, is no wonder; which of us all would not have been apt to have done the fame? But to talk of building tabernacles, and one for CHRIST, and one for Moles, and one for Elias, was faving fomething for which Peter himfelf muft fand reproved. Surely, Peter, thou walt not quite awake ! thou talkeft like one in a dream: If thy LORD had taken thee at thy word, what a poor tabernacle wouldft thou have had. in comparison of that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens, in which thou haft long fince dwelt, now the earthly house of the tabernacle of thy body is diffolved? What! build tabernacles below, and have the crown, before thou haft borne the crofs ? O Peter, Peter / " Master, spare thyself," flicks too too closely to thee : And why fo felfifh, Peter ? Careft thou not for thy fellow disciples that are below, who came not up with thee to the mount ? careft thou not for the precious fouis, that are as theep having no thepherd, and muff perifh for ever, unless thy Master descends from the mount to teach, and to die for them? wouldst thou thus eat thy foiritual morfels alone ? Befides, if thou art for building tabernacles, why must there be three of them, one for CHRIST. and one for Moles, and one for Elias? are CHRIST and the prophets divided? do they not fweetly harmonize and agree in one? did they not prophely concerning the fufferings of thy LORD, as well as of the glory that fhould follow? Alas, how unlike is their conversation to thine? Mofes and Elias came down to talk of fuffering, and thou art dreaming of building I know not what tabernacles. Surely, Peter, thou art fo high upon the mount, that thy head runs giddy.

However, in the midft of these infirmities, there was fomething that bespoke the honesty and integrity of his heart. Though he knew not very well what he said, yet he was not fo flupid as his pretended successor at Rome. He does not fail down down and worth in these two departed faints, neither do I hear him fay to eithery Ora pro nobis; he had not fo learnt CHRIST; no, he applies himself directly to the head, " he faid unto JESUS, Mafter, it is good for us to be here." And though he was for building, yet he would nor build without his Maf-"Master, let us build," or, 'as St. Mark words per's leave. it, " wilt thou that we build three tabernacles, one for thee. and one for Moles, and one for Elias?" I do not hear him add. and one for James, and one for John, and one for Peter. No. he would willingly ftay out with them upon the mount, though it was in the cold and dark night, fo that CHRIST and his heavenly attendants were taken care of. The fweetnefs of fuch a heavenly vision, would more than compensate for any bodily fuffering that might be the confequence of their longer abode there: nay farther, he does not defire that either CHRIST, or Moles, or Elias, should have any trouble in building; neither does he fay, let my curates, James and John, build, whilft I fit idle and lord it over my brethren; but he fays, "let us build;" he will work as hard, if not harder than either of them, and defire to be diffinguished only by his activity, enduring hardnefs, and his zeal to promote the welfare of their common LORD and Mafter.

Doubtles, Peter had read how the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle, and the temple of old; and now JESUS is tranffigured; and Moles and Elias appear in glory, he thinks it right that new tabernacles shall be erected for them. Such a mixture of nature and grace, of short-fightedness and infirmity, is there in the most ardent and well-meant zeal of the very best of men, when nearest the throne of grace, or even upon the mount with GOD: Perfection in any grace must be looked for, or expected; only among the spirits of just men made perfect in heaven. Those who talk of any such thing on earth, like Peter, they know not what they fay.

But how came Peter to readily to diftinguish which was Moles, and which was Elias? He feems to fpeak without the leaft hefitation, "Let us build three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moles, and one for Elias," as though he was very well acquainted with them, whereas they had both been dead, long, long before Peter was been. Was there, do you imagine, any thing distinguishing in their apparel? or any thing in their convertation conversation that discovered them for rathers did he not know them here on the mounth as we may from hence infer, that departed faints do, and will know each other in heaven, even by intuition and immediate revelation? But alas I how tranfient are our views of heaven, during our fojourning here on earth : Verfe 34. " Whilft he thus fpake," whilft Beter. was talking of building tabernacles, whilft he was faying, "it is good for us to be here." whilst he was dreaming that his mountain was fo firong that it never could be moved, " there came a cloud and overfhadowed them." St. Mathew obferves, it was a bright cloud, not dark like that on mount Sinai. but bright, because the gospel opens to us a far more bright difpensation than that of the law. This overshadowed, and thereby not only filled them with an holy awe; but alfor fcreened them, in some measure, from the brightness of that glory with which they were now furrounded, and which otherwife would have been infupportable. This cloud; was like the veil thrown on the face of Moles, and prepared them for the voice which they were foon to hear coming dut of it. I am not much furprized at being informed by St. Matthew, that " they feared as they entered into the cloud, or by St. Mark, that " they were fore afraid." For fince the fall, there is fuch a confciousnels in us all of deferved wrath, that we cannot help fearing when we enter into a cloud, even though IESUS CHRIST himfelf be in the midft of it. Ah Peter, where is thy talk of building tabernacles now? is thy ftrong mountain for quickly removed ? what, come down to foon ? why do we not now hear thee faying, "It is good for us to be here?" Alas! he and his fellow difciples are quite ftruck dumb; fee how they tremble, and, like Moles upon another occasion, exceedingly quake and fear. But how quickly are those fears dispelled. how foon is the tumult of their minds hufled and calmed, with that foul-reviving voice that came from the excellent glory, verfe 35, " This is my beloved Son, hear him."

St. Mark and St. Matthew add "in whom I am well pleafed." The fame teffimony that Gop the Father gave to the bleffed JESUS at his baptifm, before he entered upon his temptations is now repeated, in order to ftrengthen and prepare him for his impending agony in the garden Probablys, it was a finall fill though articulate voice, attended neine alarman.

ther with thunder nor lightning, nor the found of a trumpet. but, agreeable to the bleffed news which it contained, ufhered in with tokens of unspeakable complacency and love. Gon the Father, hereby gives Mofes and Elias a folemn difcharge. as though they were fent from heaven on purpose to give up their commission to their rightful LORD, and like the morning frar, disappear when the Sun of Righteousness himself arifes to bring in a golpel day. " This is my beloved Son. hear Him." But the emphasis upon the word this; this Son of Man, this JESUS, whom you are fhortly to fee in a bloody fweat, blindfolded, fpit upon, buffeted, fcourged, and at length hanging upon a tree, I am not ashamed to own to be my Son, my only begotten Son, who was with me before the beavens were made, or the foundations of the earth were laid ; my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleafed, in whom my foul delighteth, and whom I do by these presents, publicly conflitute and appoint to be the king, prieft, and prophet of the church. " Hear ye Him." No longer look to Malas or Elias, no longer expect to be faved by the works of the law ; but by the preaching and application of the ever-bleffed golpel. Hear ye him, fo as to believe on, love, ferve, obey, and, if needs be, to die and lay down your very lives for him. "Hear him;" hear what he hath to fay, for he comes with a commission from above. Hear his doctrine; hear him, fo as to obey him; hear him, fo as to put in practice his precepts, and copy after his good example.

In the 36th verse, we have the close of this heavenly feast ; "When the voice was past, JESUS was found alone; and they kept it those, and told no man in those days, any of those things which they had seen." If we compare this, with the account which the other Evangelists give of our bleffed LORD's transfiguration, you will find this was done by CHRIST's order : Peter, James, and John, would otherwise have gone down and told the whole world, that they had feen the LORD CHRIST upon the mount of transfiguration; but our LORD ordered them to keep it filent. Why to ? If they had gone down from the mount, and told it to the other difciples, it might have raifed ill blood in the others; they might have faid, Why did our Master fingle out Peter, James, and John? Why might not we have had the privilege of VOL. V. Ff 🖌 going going up to the mount as well as they? Had they faid, that their LORD was transfigured, people would not have believed them; they would have thought, that Peter, James, and John were only enthuliafts; but if they kept it till after his refurrection, and he had broken the gates of death, for them then to fay, that they faw him upon the mount transfigured, would corroborate the evidence:

• I have thus paraphrafed the words for your better underftanding the account the Evangelift gives of our bleffed LORD's transfiguration; but I have not yet done; I have been fpeaking to your heads; the practical part is yet to come. O that GOD may reach your hearts ! And though, according to order, I ought to begin with the practical inferences that might be drawn from the firft part; yet, I think it beft to fhow you, who are the people of GOD, efpecially you young converts, that have honefty, but not much prudence, what inftructions our LORD would here have you to learn.

" When the voice was paft, JESUS was found alone, and they kept it close, and told no man in those days any of those things which they had seen." There is nothing more common, when GOD vouchsafes communications to a poor foul, than for the perfon that enjoys them, to go and tell all that he has feen and felt, and often at improper feafons and to improper perfons. I remember that Mr. Henry observes, " 70*leph* had more honefty than he had policy, or elfe he would never have told his brethren of his dreams." Young chriftians are too apt to blunder thus : I am fure it is a fault of which I have been exceedingly guilty, speaking of things which, perhaps, had better been concealed; which is a fault GOD's people are too apt to fall into. Though it is good for those that have seen CHRIST, and that have felt his love, to tell others what GoD hath done for their fouls ; yet, however you may think of it now, when you come down from the mount. and know yourselves a little, ye will find reason often to hold your tongue. Young christians are like children, to whom if you give a little money in their pocket, they cannot be quiet till they have spent it upon something or other : young christians, when they get a little of GoD, are ready to talk too much of it. They should therefore beware, and know when to fpeak, and when to be filent.

But

But, my dear friends, did our LORD JESUS CHRIST take Peter, James, and John into a mountain to pray? Are any of you fathers, mothers, masters and mistresses of families? Learn then from hence to take your children, your fervants, and those that belong to you, from the world, at certain times, and not only pray for them, but pray with them. If CHRIST did thus, who had few wants of his own to be fupplied, and nothing to confess and lament over; if CHRIST was fuch a lover of prayer, furely, you and I, who have fo many wants to be fupplied, fo many corruptions to mourn over; you and I should spend much time in prayer. I do not fay that you are to lock yourfelves up in your closets, and not mind your shops or farms, or worldly business; I only fay, that you should take care to husband all your time : and if you are GoD's children, you will frequently retire from the world, and feek a vifit from your GOD.

Was the LORD JESUS transformed or transfigured, while he was praying ? Learn hence, to be much in fpiritual prayer. The way to have the foul transformed, changed into, and made like unto GOD, is frequently to converfe with GOD. We fay, a man is as his company. Perfons by converfing together, frequently catch each others tempers : and if you have a mind to imbibe the divine temper, pray much. And as CHRIST'S garments became white and gliffering, fo fhall your fouls get a little of GOD's light to fhine upon them.

Did Moles and Elias appear in glory? Are there any old faints here ? I doubt not but there are a confiderable number. And are any of you afraid of death ? Do any of you carry about with you a body that weighs down your immortal foul ? I am fure a poor creature is preaching to you, that every day drags a crazy load along. But come, believers, come, ye children of GoD, come, ye aged decrepid faints, come and trample upon that monster death. As thou goeft over yonder church-yard, do as I know an old excellent christian in 'Maryland did; go, fit upon the grave, and meditate on thine own diffolution. Thou mayest, perhaps, have a natural fear of dying : the body and the foul do not care to part without a little fympathy and a groan; but O look yonder, look up to heaven, fee there thy JESUS, thy Redeemer, and learn, that thy body is to be fashioned here-Ff 2 after after like unto CHRIST's most glorious body; that poor body which is now fubject to gout and gravel, and that thou canft fcarce drag along; that poor body, which hinders thee fo much in the fpiritual life, will ere long hinder thee no more: it shall be put into the grave; but though it be fown in corruption, it shall be raifed in incorruption; though it is fown in difhonour, it shall be railed again in glory. This confideration made bleffed Paul to cry out, "O death, where is thy fting ! O grave, where is thy victory !" Thy foul and body fhall be united together again, and thou shalt be " for ever with the LORD," Those knees of thine, which perhaps are hard by kneeling in prayer; that tongne of thine, which hath, fung hymns to CHRIST; those hands of thine, which have wrought for GOD; those feet, which have ran to CHRIST's ordinances; shall all, in the twinkling of an eye, be changed; and thou shalt be able to stand under an exceeding and an eternal weight of glory. Come then, ye believers in CHRIST, look beyond the grave; come, ye dear children of GoD, and however weak and fickly ye are now, fay, Bleffed be GoD, I shall foon have a body strong, full of vigour and of glory.

But as this speaks comfort to faints, it speaks terror to finners, to all perfons that live and die out of CHRIST. It is the opinion of Archbishop Ufher, that as the bodies of the faints shall be glorified, so the bodies of the damned shall be deformed. And if this be true, alas ! what a poor figure will the fine ladies cut, who die without a CHRIST ! What a poor figure will the fine gentleman cut in the morning of the refurrection, that now dreffes up his body, and at the fame time neglects to fecure an interest in CHRIST and eternal happiness ! It is the opinion, likewife, of Archbishop Ufber, that damned fouls will lofe all the good tempers they had here; fo that though GOD gave unregenerate people a conflictutional meeknels, good nature, and courage, for the benefit of the commonwealth; yet, the use of these things being over, and they having died without CHRIST, and it being impossible there will be an appearance of good in hell, their good tempers will be for ever lost. If this be fo, it is an awful confideration; and I think perfons who love their bodies, fhould also hence take care to fecure the welfare of their fouls.

Did

Did Peter know which was Moles and which Elias? Then I think, and GOD be praifed for it, it is plain from this and other paffages of fcripture, that we shall know one another when we come to heaven. Dives knew Lazarus : " Facher Abraham, fend Lazarus :" And we are told, " he faw Lazarus fitting in Abraham's bosom." Adam knew his wife Eve: though caft into a deep fleep when GOD made her out of his rib, yet, by a kind of intuition, he fays, " This is bone of my bone, and flesh of my flesh." And it is on this account, that the Apostle, speaking to the Philippians, says, "Ye are my joy and crown of rejoicing, in the day of the LORD." What comfort will this be to a fpiritual father ! Says one, Here is the man, O LORD JESUS, that brought my foul to tafte of thy love; fays another, This is the man, that at fuch a time, and with fuch words, ftruck my heart : thou, O LORD, knowest it. Then the spiritual father will rejoice over his children. You that have met and have prayed toget ther, fighed and fympathized together, and told your temptations to one another, shall be for ever with the LORD and with each other. There we shall see Abraham, Isaac, and Facob fitting, with all the redeemed company; and we shall know the names of every one mentioned in the book of GoD. O bleffed prospect ! O bleffed time ! Who that thinks of this, of feeing the Lamb fitting upon the throne, with all Gop's people about him, but must defire to go to heaven, and be for ever, for ever with the LORD. And if there is fuch comfort for believers to know one another in heaven, with what comfort may any of you, that have loft fathers, mothers, or friends, think of them : we are parted for a little while, but we shall see them again. My father died in CHRIST, my mother died in the LORD, my hufband, my wife, was a follower of JESUS; I shall see them, though not now; I shall go to them, but they shall not return to me ! This may keep you from forrowing as perfons without hope; and keep you from being to cruel, as to with them to come down to this evil world.

But O what a dreadful confideration is this for damned fouls ! I believe, that as glorified fpirits will know one another, fo will damned fouls know one another too. And as the company of the bleffed increases the happines of heaven, fo the company of the damned will increase their torments. What made Dives to put up that petition ? " I have five brethren : fend fomebody to my father's house to testify unto them, left they also come into this place of torment." One would imagine at first reading, that hell had made Dives charitable, and that though he was ill natured on earth, yet he had acquired fome good nature in hell. No, no, there is not a spark of good nature in the place of torment. But Dives knew, if his five brethren came there, they might fav, We may thank you, next to an evil heart, for coming hither; you made us drink healths, till we were drunk; you taught us to game, to curfe, to fwear, &c. He knew very well, that his five brethren being brought to hell by his example, hell would be heated five times hotter to torment his foul. One will cry out, Curfed be the day that ever I was companion with fuch an one in fin; curfed be the day that ever we hearkened to one another's advice, and were allured by each others example to fin against GoD.

But did a cloud overshadow Peter, James, and John? were heavenly and divine vifits here but fhort? Then wonder not. ye people of GoD, if ye are upon the mount one hour, and down in the valley of the fhadow of death the next. There is nothing in the world more common, after you have been in a good frame, than for a cloud to overshadow you. We generally fay, " It is good to be here," and often make a CHRIST of our graces; and therefore the LORD fends a cloud to overshadow us. But never fear; GOD shall speak to you out of the cloud; GOD will reveal himfelf to you; this cloud shall foon be gone; ere long we shall be in heaven, and in that glory where no cloud can poffibly reach us.

I can now only mention one thing more, and that is, Did the Father fay, " This is my beloved Son, hear him ?" then let every one of our hearts echo to this testimony given of CHRIST, " This is my beloved Saviour." Did GOD fo love the world, as to fend his only begotten Son, his well beloved Son to preach to us? then, my dear friends, HEAR HIM. What God faid feventeen hundred years ago, immediately by a voice from heaven, concerning his Son upon the mount, that fame thing GOD fays to you immediately by his word, " Hear him," If ye never heard him before, hear him now. Hear Hear him to as to take him to be your prophet, prieft, and your king; hear him, fo as to take him to be your GOD and your all. Hear him to-day, ye youth, while it is called today; hear him now, left GoD should cut you off before you have another invitation to hear him; hear him while he cries, " Come unto me;" hear him while he opens his hand and his heart; hear him while he knocks at the door of your' fouls, left you fhould hear him faying, " Depart, depart, ye curfed, into everlafting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels." Hear him, ye old and grey-headed, hear him, ye that have one foot in the grave; hear him, I fay; and if ye are dull of hearing, beg of GOD to open the ears of your hearts, and your blind eyes; beg of GOD that you may have an enlarged and a believing heart, and that ye may know what the LORD GOD faith concerning you. GOD will refent it, he will avenge himfelf on his adversaries, if you do not hear a bleffed Saviour. He is GoD's fon, he is GOD's beloved fon; he came upon a great errand, even to fhed his precious blood for finners; he came to cleanle you from all fin, and to fave you with an everlafting falvation. Ye who have heard him, hear him again; still go on, believe in andobey him, and by-and-by you shall hear him faying, "Come," ye bleffed of my Father, receive the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." May GOD grant it to you all, for the LORD JESUS CHRIST's fake. Amen, and Amen.

SERMON XXXI.

LUKE X. 42.

But one thing is needful.

T was the amiable character of our bleffed Redeemer, that " he went about doing good," this great motiveid which animated all his actions, brought him to the house of his friend Lazarus, at Bethany, and directed his behaviour there. Though it was a feafon of receis from public labour, our LORD brought the fentiments and the pious cares of a preacher of righteousness into the parlour of a friend; and there his doctrine dropped as the rain, and diffilled as the dew, on the little happy circle that were then furrounding him. Mary, the fifter of Lazarus, with great delight made one amongfe them; the feated herfelf at the feet of JESUS, in the posture of an humble disciple; and we have a great deal of reason to believe, that Martha, his other fifter, would gladly have been with her there; but domestic cares pressed hard upon her, and " fhe was cumbered with much ferving," being, perhaps, too folicitous to prepare a fumptuous entertainment for her heavenly mafter and the train that attended him. Happy are they, who in a crowd of bufinefs do not lofe fomething of the fpirituality of their minds, and of the composure and fweetnefs of their tempers. This good woman comes to our LORD with too impatient a complaint; infinuating fome little reflection, not only on Mary, but on himself too. "Lord, doft thou not care that my fifter hath left me to ferve alone ? Bid her, therefore, that she help me." Our LORD, willing to take all opportunities of fuggesting useful thoughts, anfwers fwers her in these words, of which the text is a part, "Martba, Martba, thou art careful and troubled about many things, but one thing is needful; and Mary has chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her." Alas, Martba ! the concerns of the foul are of fo much greater importance than those of the body, that I cannot blame your fister on this occasion: I rather recommend her to your imitation, and caution you, and all my other friends, to be much on your guard, that in the mids of your worldly cares, you do not lose fight of what much better deferves your attention.

I shall consider these words, "One thing is needful," as a kind of aphorism, or wife and weighty sentence, which dropped from the mouth of our blessed Redeemer, and is ev." dently worthy of our most serious regard. I shall,

I, Confider what we are to underftand by "The one thing" here spoken of.

II, Shew you what is intended, when it is faid to be the one thing meedful.

- III. I will fnew how justly it may be fo reprefented, or prove that it is, indeed, the one thing needful. And then conclude with fome reflections.

My friends, the words which are now before us, are to this day, as true, as they were feventeen hundred years ago., Set your hearts to attend to them. O that you may, by divine grace, be awakened to hear them with a due regard, and be to imprefied with the plain and ferious things which are now to be fpoken, as you probably would, if I were fpeaking by your dying beds, and you had the near and lively view of eternity !

First, I am to confider, what we are to understand by the "one thing needful."

Now in a few words, it is the "Care of the foul," oppofed, as you fee in the text, to the care, the exceffive care of the body; to which Marsha was gently admonished by our LORD. This is a general answer, and it comprehends a variety of important particulars, which is the business of our ministry often to open to you at large: The care of the foul, implies a readiness readine's to hear the words of CHRIST, to feat ourfelves with Mary at his feet, and to receive both the law and the golpel from his mouth. It supposes, that we learn from this divine teacher the worth of our fouls, their danger, and their remedy; and that we become above all things folicitous about their eternal falsation. ... That, theartily repenting of all our fins, and cordially believing the everlatting golpel, we receive the LORD JESUS CHRIST for righteousness and life, refting our fauls on the value of his atonement, and the efficacy of his grace. It imports, the fincere dedication of ourfelves to the fervice of GOD, and a faithful adherence to it, notwithfanding all oppositions arising from inward corruptions, or outward temptations; and a refolute perfeverance in the way of golpel dependance, 'till we receive the end of our faith in our compleat falvation. This is the "one thing needful," represented indeed in various foriptures by various names. Sometimes it is called " Regeneration," or " the new creature," because it is the bleffed work of GOD's efficacious grace. Sometimes the "Fear of GOD," and fometimes " his love, and the keeping his commandments;" and very frequently in the new testament it is called " faith," or " receiving CHRIST, and believing on him," which therefore is represented as the " great work of GoD," John vi. 29. the great thing which GOD in his glorious gospel requires, as well as by his spirit produces in us: each of these, if rightly understood and explained, comprehends all that I have faid on this head. On the whole, we may fay, that, as the body is one, though it has many members, and the foul is one, though it has many faculties; fo in the prefent cafe, this real vital religion is " one thing," one facred principle of divine life, bringing us to attend to the care of our fouls, as of our greateft treasure. It is one thing, notwithstanding all the variety of views in which it may be confidered, and of characters under which it may be described. I proceed,

Secondly, To confider what may be intended in the reprefentation which is here made of it, as the "one thing needful."

Now I think it naturally includes these three particulars: it is a matter of universal concern; of the highest importance; and [:459] and of fo comprehensive a nature, that every thing which is truly worthy of our regard, may be confidered as included in, or subservient to it. Let me a little illustrate each of these particulars.

I. The care of the foul may be called the "one thing needful," as it is matter of universal concern.

Our LORD, you see, speaks of it as needful in the general. He fays not, for this or that particular perfon; or for those of fuch an age, station, or circumstance in life, but needful for all. And indeed, when discouring on such a subject. one might properly introduce it with those folemn words of the pfalmift, "Give ear, all ye people, hear, all ye inhabitants of the earth, both high and low, rich and poor, together," Pfalm xlix. 1, 2. For it is the concern of all, from the king that fits upon the throne, to the fervant that grindeth at the mill, or the beggar that lieth upon the dungbill. It is needful for us that are miniflers, for our own falvation is concerned : and woe, infupportable woe will be to our fouls, if we think it enough to recommend it to others, and to talk of it in a warm, or an awful manner, in public affemblies, or in our private converse, while it does not penetrate our hearts, as our own greatest care. Our cafe will then be like that of the Ifraelitish lord in Samaria, 2 Kings vii. 2. who was employed to diffribute the corn when the fiege was raifed ; though we fee it with our eyes, and difpense it with our hands, we shall ourselves die miserably, without tasting the bleffings we impart. It is needful to all you that are our hearers, without the exception of one fingle perfon. It is needful to you that are rich, though it may on some accounts be peculiarly difficult for you; even as difficult, comparatively speaking, as for a "Camel to go through the eye of a needle," Mat. xix. 24. yet if it be neglected, you are poor in the midst of all your wealth, and miserable in all your abundance; a wretch starving for hunger, in a magnificent palace and a rich drefs, would be less the object of compaffion than you. It is needful for you that are poor; though you are distreffed with fo many anxious cares, " what you shall eat, and what you shall drink, and wherewithal you fhall be cloathed," Mat. vi. 31. The nature that makes you capable of fuch anxieties as thefe, argues your much greater concern in the " bread which endures dures to eternal life," Yohn vi. 27. than in that by which this mortal body must be supported. It is needful for you that are advanced in years; though your ftrength be impaired fo that the "grafhopper is a burthen," Eccl. xii. 5. and though you have by your long continuance in fin rendered this great work fo hard, that were it lefs important, one would in pity let you alone without reminding you of it: yet, late as it is, it must be done, or your hoary heads will be brought down to the grave with wrath, and fink under a curfe aggravated by every year and by every day of your lives. It is needful to you that are young, though folicited by fo many gay vanities, to neglect it, though it may be represented as an unleasonable care at present, yet I repeat it, it is needful to you; immediately needful, unless you who walk to frequently over the dust of your brethren and companions, that died in the bloom and vigour of their days, have made fome fecret covenant with the grave for yourfelves, and found out fome wonderful method, hitherto unknown, of fecuring this precarious life, and of aniwering for days and months to come, while others cannot answer for one fingle moment.

2. The care of the foul is "a matter of the higheft importance;" beyond any thing which can be brought into compatifon with it.

As Solomon fays of wildom, that " it is more precious than subjes; and that all things which can be defired are not to be compared with her," Prov. iii. 15. So I may properly fag of this great and most important branch of wildom; whatever can be faid in the balance with it, will be found altogether lighter than vanity. This is ftrongly implied when it is faid in the text, " one thing is needful;" one thing, and one thing alone is fo. Just as the bleffed GoD is faid to be " only wife," I Tim. i. 17. and " only holy," Rev. xv. 4. becaufe the wifdom and holinefs of angels and men is as nothing, when compared with his. What feems most great and most important in life, what kings and fenates, what the wifest and greatest of this world are employing their time, their councils, their pens, their labours upon, are trifles, when compared with this one thing. A man [may fubfift, he may in some confiderable measure be happy, without learning, without riches, without titles, without health, without without liberty, without friends, nay, though "the life be more than meat, and the body than raiment," Matth. vi. 25. yet may he be happy, unspeakably happy, without the body itself. But he cannot be so, in the neglect of the one thing needful. I must therefore bespeak your regard to it in the words of Moses, "it is not a light thing, but it is your life," Deut. xxxii. 47.

3. The care of the foul is of fo comprehensive a nature, that "every thing truly worthy of our regard may be confidered as included in it, or fubservient to it.

As David observes, that "the commandment of GoD is. exceeding broad," Pfalm exix. 96. fo we may fay of this one thing needful; or as Solomon very justly and emphatically expreffes it, " to fear GoD and to keep his commandments is the whole duty of man," Eccl. xii. 13. his whole duty, and his whole intereft; and every thing which is wife and rational does in its proper place and connection make a part of it. We should judge very ill concerning the nature of this care. if we imagined, that it confifted merely in acts of devotion. or religious contemplation; it comprehends all the lovely and harmonious band of focial and humane virtues. It requires a care of fociety, a care of our bodies, and of our temporal concerns; but then all is to be regulated, directed, and animated by proper regards to GOD, CHRIST, and immortality. Our food and our reft, our trades and our labours, are to be attended to, and all the offices of humanity performed if obedience to the will of GOD, for the glory of CHRIST, and in a view to improving the mind in a growing meetnefs for a state of compleat perfection. Name any thing which has no reference at all to this, and you name a worthless trifle, however it may be gilded to allure the eye, or however it may be fweetened to gratify the tafte. Name a thing, which, instead of thus improving the foul, has a tendency to debale and pollute, to enflave and endanger it, and you name what is most unprofitable and mischievous, be the wages of iniquity ever to great; most foul and deformed, be it in the eyes of men ever so honourable, or in their customs ever so fashionable. Thus I have endeavoured to fhew you what we may fuppole implied in this expression of " one thing being needful." I am now,

Thirdly,

Thirdly, To fhew you with how much propriety the care of the foul may be reprefented under this character, as the one thing needful, or as a matter of univerfal and most ferious concern, to which every thing elfe is to be confidered as fubfervient, if at all worthy of our care and purfuit.

There let me appeal to the fentiments of those who must be allowed most capable of judging, and to the evident reason of the case itself, as it must appear to every unprejudiced mind.

1. Let me argue " from the opinions of those who must be allowed most capable of judging in such an affair," and we shall quickly see that the care of the soul appears to them, the one thing needful.

Is the judgment of the bleffed Gop " according to truth," how evidently and how folemnly is that judgment declared ? I will not fay merely in this or the other particular paffage of his word, but in the whole feries of his revelations to the children of men, and the whole tenor of his addreffes to them. Is not this the language of all, from the early days of Fob and Moles to the conclusion of the canon of scripture. Job xxviii. 21, 23, 28. " If wildom be hid from the eyes of all the living, furely GOD understandeth the way thereof, he knoweth the place thereof;" and if he does, it is plainly pointed out, for " unto man he ftill faith, behold, the fear of the LORD, that is wildom, and to depart from evil, that is understanding." By Moles he declared to the Ifraelites, that " to do the commandments of the LORD would be their wifdom and their understanding in the fight of the nations, who should hear his statutes, and fay, furely this is a wife and an understanding people," Deut. iv. 6. When he had raifed up one man on the throne of Ifrael, with the character of the wifest that ever lived upon the face of the earth, he chofe to make him eminently a teacher of this great truth. And though now all that he fpoke on the curious and lefs concerning fubjects of natural philosophy is loft, " though he spoke of trees from the cedar to the hystop, and of beasts, and of fowls, and of creeping things, and of fifnes," I Kings iv. 33. that faving is preferved in which he teftifies, that " the fear of the LORD is the beginning of wildom," Prov. i. 7, 9, 10. and those Proverbs, in almost every line of which, which, they who neglect GOD and their own fouls, are fpoken of as fools, as if that were the moff proper fignification of the word, while the religious alone are honoured with the title of wife. But in this respect, as attefting this truth in the name of GOD and in his own, " a greater than Solomon is here."

For if we inquire what it was that our LORD JESUS CHRIST judged to be the one thing needful, the words of the text contain as full an answer as can be imagined; and the fense of them is repeated in a very lively and emphatical manner, in that remarkable passage wherein our LORD not only declares his own judgment, but feems to appeal to the confciences of all, as obliged by their own fecret convictions to fubscribe to the truth of it. "What is a man profited, if he gain the whole world, and lofe his own foul; or what shall a man give in exchange for his foul ?" Matth. xvi. 26. If it were once loft, what would he not be willing to give to redeem it? But it depends not on the words of CHRIST alone. Let his actions, his sufferings, his blood, his death, speak what a value he fet on the fouls of men. Is it to be imagined, that he would have relinquished heaven, have dwelt upon earth, have laboured by night and by day, and at laft have expired on the crofs, for a matter of light importance? Or can we think that he, in whom "dwell all the treasures of wildom and knowledge, and all the fulnels of the Godhead bodily," Coloff. ii. 3, 9. was mistaken in judgment fo deliberately formed, and fo folemnly declared ?

If after this, there were room to mention human judgment and teffimonies, how eafy would it be to produce a cloud of witneffes in fuch a caufe, and to fhew that the wifeft and beft of men in all ages of the world have agreed in this point, that amidft all the diversities of opinion and profession, which fucceeding generations have produced, this has been the unanimous judgment, this the common and most folicitous care of those whose characters are most truly valuable, to fecure the falvation of their own fouls, and to promote the falvation of others.

And let me beseech you seriously to reflect, what are the characters of those who have taken the liberty, most boldly and freely to declare their judgment on the contrary fide?

The

The number of such is comparatively few; and when you compare what you have observed of their temper and conduct, I will not fay with what you read of holy men of old, but with what you have yourselves feen in the faithful, active, and zealous servants of CHRIST, in these latter ages, with whom you have conversed; do you on the whole find, that the rejecters and deriders of the gospel, are in other respects so much more prudent and judicious, so much wister for themselves, and for others, that are influenced by them, as that you can be in reason obliged to pay any great deference to the authority of a few such names as these, in opposition to those to whom they are here opposed?

But you will fay, and you will fay it too truly. Though but a few may venture in words to declare for the neglect of the foul and its eternal interest, that the greater part of mainkind do it in their actions. But are the greater part of mankind fo wife, and fo good, as implicitly to be followed in matters of the highest importance? And do not multitudes of these, declare themfelves on the other fide, in their most ferious moments? When the intoxications of worldly business and pleasures are over, and some languishing fickness forces men to folitude and retirement; what have you generally observed to be the effect of such a circumstance? Have they not then declared themselves convinced of the truth we are now labouring to effablish? Nay, do we not sometimes see, that a diftemper which feizes the mind with violence, yet does not utterly deftroy its reafoning faculties, fixes this conviction on the foul in a few hours, nay, fometimes in a few moments ? Have you never feen a gay, thoughtless creature, furprized in the giddy round of pleafures and amufements, and prefently brought not only to feriousnels, but terror and trembling, by the near views of death ? Have you never feen the man of business and care interrupted, like the rich fool in the parable, in the midft of his fchemes for the prefent world? And have you not heard one and the other of them owning the vanity of those pleasures and cares, which but a few days ago were every thing to them ? Confeffing that religion was the one thing needful, and recommending it to others with an earnestness, as if they hoped thereby to atone for their own former neglect ? We that are minifters, freauently quently are witneffes to fuch things as these, and I believe few of our hearers are intire strangers to them.

Once more, what if to the testimony of the dying, we could add that of the dead? What if GOD were to turn afide the vail between us and the invisible world, and permit the most careless finner in the affembly to converse for a few moments with the inhabitants of it? If you were to apply yourfelf to a happy Spirit, that trod the most thorny road to paradife, or paffed through the most fiery trial, and to ask him, " was it worth your while to labour fo much, and to endure fo much for what you now poffels?" Surely if the bleffed in heaven were capable of indignation, it would move them to hear that it fhould be made a queftion. And, on the other hand, if you could inquire of one tormented in that flame below, though he might once be " clothed in purple and fine linen, and fare fumptuoufly every day," Luke xvi. 19. if you could afk him, " whether his former enjoyments were an equivalent for his prefent fufferings and defpair ?" What answer do you suppose he would return? Perhaps an answer of fo much horror and rage, as you would not be able fo much as to indure. Or if the malignity of his nature fhould prevent him from returning any answer at all, furely there would be a language even in that filence, a language in the darknefs, and flames, and groans of that infernal prifon, which would fpeak to your very foul what the word of God is with equal certainty, though lefs forcible conviction, fpeaking to your ear, that " one thing is needful." You fee it is fo in the judgment of GOD the Father, and the LORD JESUS CHRIST, of the wifeft and beft of men, of many, who feemed to judge most differently of it, when they come to more deliberate and ferious thought, and not only of the dying, but of the dead too, of those who have experimentally known both worlds, and most furely know what is to be preferred. But I will not reft the whole argument here; therefore.

2. I appeal to the evident reason of the case itself; as it must appear to every unprejudiced mind; that the care of the foul is indeed the one thing needful.

I still confider myself as speaking not to atheist, or to deists, but to those who not only believe the existence and providence of GoD, and a future flate of happinefs and mifery, but likewife who credit the truth of the chriftian revelation, as many undoubtedly do, who live in a fatal neglect of GoD, and their own fouls. Now on these principles, a little reflection may be fufficient to convince you, that it is needful to the prefent repose of your own mind; needful, if ever you would fecure eternal happines, and avoid eternal misery, which will be aggravated, rather than alleviated by all your prefent enjoyments.

1. The care of the foul is the one thing needful, becaufe, "without it you cannot fecure the peace of your own mind, nor avoid the upbraidings of your confcience."

That noble faculty is indeed the vicegerent of GoD in the foul. It is fenfible of the dignity and worth of an immortal spirit, and will fometimes cry out of the violence that is offered to it, and cry fo loud, as to compel the finner to hear, whether he will or not. Do you not fometimes find it yourfelves ? when you labour most to forget the concerns of your foul, do they not fometimes force themfelves on your remembrance ? You are afraid of the reflections of your own mind, but with all your artifice and all your refolution can you intirely avoid them ? Does not confcience follow you to your beds, even if denied the opportunity of meeting you in your closets, and, though with an unwelcome voice, there warn you, " that your foul is neglected, and will quickly be loft:" Does it not follow you to your thops and your fields, when you are bufieft there? Nay, I will add, does it not fometimes follow you to the feast, to the club, to the dance, and perhaps, amidst all refistance, to the theatre too? Does, it not fometimes mingle your fweetest draughts with wormwood, and your gayeft fcenes with horror? So that you are like a tradefman, who, fuspecting his affairs to be in a bad posture, lays by his books and his papers, yet fometimes they will come accidentally in his way. He hardly dares to look abroad for fear of meeting a creditor or an arreft : and if he labours to forget his cares and his dangers, in a' course of luxury at home, the remembrance is fometimes awakened, and the alarm increased, by those very extravagancies in which he is attempting to lofe it. Such probably is the cafe of your minds, and it is a very painful flate; and while things are thus within, external circumstances can no more make you happy, happy, than a finë drefs could relieve you under a violent fit of the flone. Whereas, if this great affair were fecured, you might delight in reflection, as much as you now dread it, and confcience, of your bittereft enemy, would become a delightful friend, and the teftimony of it your greateft rejoicing.

2. The care of the foul is the one thing needful, " because " without this your eternal happiness will be lost."

A crown of everlasting glory is not furely fuch a trifle as to be thrown away on a carelefs creature, that will not in good earnest pursue it. God doth not ordinarily deal thus, even with the bounties of his common providence, which are comparatively of little value. As to thefe, the hand of the diligent generally makes rich, and he would be thought diftracted, rather than prudent, who should expect to get an effate merely by withing for it, or without fome refolute and continued application to a proper course of action for that purpose. Now, that we may not foolifhly dream of obtaining heaven, in the midft of a course of indolence and floth, we are exprelly told in the word of GoD, that " the kingdom of heaven fuffers violence, and the violent take it by force," Matth. xi. 12. and are therefore exhorted to " firive," with the greatest intenseness, and eagerness of mind, as the word properly fignifies, " to enter in at the firait gate," for this great and important reason, " because many shall another day feek to enter in, and shall not be able," Luke xiii. 24. Nay, when our LORD makes the most gracious promiles to the humble petitioner, he does it in fuch a manner as to exclude the hopes of those who are careless and indifferent. "Aik, and it shall be given you; feek, and you shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you, Matth. vii. 7. If, therefore, you do not afk, feek, and knock, the door of mercy will not be opened, and eternal happiness will be loft. Not that heaven is to be obtained by our own good works : no, no; for having done all, we must account ourselves unprofitable servants.

And furely if I could fay no more as to the fatal confequenees of your neglect, than this, that eternal happiness will be loft, I should fay enough to impress every mind, that confiders what ETERNITY means. To fall into a state of everlass forgetfulness, might indeed appear a refuge to a mind filled G g 2 with with the apprehention of future milery. But O how dreadful a refuge is it ! Surely it is fuch a refuge, as a vaft precipice. (from which a man falling would be dashed to pieces in a moment) might appear to a person, pursued by the officers of justice, that he might be brought out to a painful and lingering execution. If an extravagant youth would have reafon to look round with anguish, on some fair and ample paternal inheritance, which he had fold or forfeited merely for the tiot of a few days: how much more melancholy would it be for a rational mind to think that its eternal happiness is lost for any earthly confideration whatever? Tormenting thought! "Had I attended to that one thing which I have neglected, I might have been, through the grace of GOD in CHRIST JESUS, great and happy beyond expression, beyond conception : not merely for the little fpan of ten thousand thoufand ages, but for ever. A line reaching even to the remoteft ftar would not have been able to contain the number of ages, nor would millions of years have been fufficient to figure them down; this is eternity, but I have loft it, and am now on the verge of being. This lamp, which might have outlasted those of the firmament, will presently be extinguished, and I blotted out from amongst the works of GoD, and cut off from all the bounties of his hand." Would not this be a very milerable cafe, if this were all ? And would it not be fufficient to prove this to be the better part, which, as our LORD observes, can " never be taken away ?" But GOD forbid that we fhould be fo unfaithful to him, and to the fouls of men, as to reft in such a representation alone. I therefore add once more.

3. The care of the foul is the one thing needful, becaufe 44 without it, you cannot avoid a flate of eternal mifery, 45 which will be aggravated, rather than alleviated by all your 46 prefent enjoyments."

Nothing can be more evident from the word of the GOD of truth. It there plainly appears to be a determined cafe, which leaves no room for a more favourable conjecture or hope. "The wicked fhall be turned into hell, even all the nations that forget GoD," Pfalm ix. 17. "They fhall go away into everlafting punifhment, Matth. xxv. 46. into a flate where they fhall in vain feek death, and death fhall flee from them. Oh ! brethren, it is a certain, but an awful truth, that that your fouls will be thinking and immortal beings, even in fpite of themfelves. They may indeed torment, but they cannot deftroy themselves. They can no more suspend their power of thought and perception, than a mirror its property of reflecting rays that fall on its furface. Do you fuspect the contrary ? Make the trial immediately. Command your minds to ceate from thinking but for one quarter of an hour, or for half that time, and exclude every idea and every reflection. Can vou succeed in that attempt? Or rather. does not thought prefs in with a more fenfible violence on that refiftance; as an anxious defire to fleep, makes us fo much the more wakeful. Thus will thought follow you bevond the grave, thus will it, as an unwelcome guest, force itfelf upon you, when it can ferve only to perplex and diffrefs the mind. It will for ever upbraid you, that notwithstanding all the kind expostulations of GoD and man, notwithstanding all the keen remonstrances of conscience, and the pleadings of the blood of CHRIST, you have gone on in your folly, till heaven is loft, and damnation incurred; and all, for what? for a fhadow and a dream.

Oh think not, finners, that the remembrance of your paft pleasures, and of your success in your other cares, whilst that of the one thing needful was forgotten, think not that this will ease your minds. It will rather torment them the more. "Son, remember that thou in thy life-time received ft thy good things." Bitter remembrance! Well might the heathen poets represent the unhappy spirits in the shades below, as eagerly catching at the water of forgetfulnes, yet unable to reach it. Your prefent comforts will only ferve to give you a livelier fense of your misery, as having tasted such degrees of enjoyment; and to inflame the reckoning, as you have misimproved those talents lodged in your hands for better pur-Surely, if these things were believed, and seriously poles. confidered, the finner would have no more heart to rejoice in his prefent prosperity, than a man would have to amufe himfelf with the curiofities of a fine garden, through which he was led to be broken upon the rack.

But I will enlarge no farther on these things. Would to GOD that the unaccountable stupidity of mens minds, and their fatal attachment to the pleasures and cares of the present life, life, did not make it necessary to infift on them to frequently and fo copiously !

I now proceed to the reflections which naturally arise from hence, and shall only mention two.

1. How much reason have we to lament the folly of mankind in neglecting the one thing needful.

If religion be indeed the truest wildom, then furely we have the justeft reason to fay with Solomon, " that folly and madness is in mens hearts," Ecclef, ix. 3. Is it the one thing needful ? Look on the conduct of the generality of mankind, and you would imagine they thought it the one thing needlefs: the vaineft dream, and the idleft amufement of the mind. Gop is admonishing them by ordinances, and providences, fometimes by fuch as are most awful, to lay it to heart;" he speaks once, yea twice, (yea a multitude of times) but man regards not, Job xxxiii. 14. They profes perhaps to believe all that I have been faying, but act as if the contrary were felf-evident; they will rifk their fouls and eternity for a thing of nought, for that, for the fake of which they would not rifk fo much as a hand, or a finger, or a joint, no, nor perhaps a toy that adorns it. Surely this is the wonder of angels, and perhaps of devils too, unlefs the observation of fo many ages may have rendered it familiar to both. And can we, my christian brethren, behold fuch a scene with indifference? If some epidemical madness had seized our country, or the places where we live, fo that as we went from one place to another, we every where met with lunaticks, and faw amongst the rest, some perhaps of the finest genius, in the most eminent stations in life, amufing themselves with ftraws and bubbles, or wounding themselves and others; furely were we ever fo fecure from the danger of infection or affault, the fight would cut us to the heart. A good-natured man would hardly be able to go abroad, or even be defirous to live, if it must be amongst fo many fad spectacles. Yet these poor creatures might, notwithstanding this, be the children of GOD, and the higher their frenzy role, the nearer might their complete happiness be. But alas! the greater part of mankind are feized with a worfe kind of madnefs, in which they are ruining their fouls: and can we behold it with with indifference? The LORD awaken our compassion, our prayers, and our endeavours, in dependence on divine grace, that we may be inftrumental in bringing them to their mind. and making them wife indeed, that is, wife to falvation !

2. How neceffary is it that we fhould ferioufly enquire. how this one thing needful is regarded by us !

Let me entreat you to remember your own concern in it, and enquire-Have I thought ferioufly of it? Have I feen the importance of it? Has it lain with a due and abiding weight on my mind ? Has it brought me to CHRIST, that I might lay the ftress of these great eternal interests on him? And am I acting in the main of my life, as one that has these convictions ? Am I willing, in fact, to give up other things, my interefts, my pleafures, my paffions to this? Am I conversing with GOD and with man, as one that believes these things; as one that has deliberately chosen the better part, and is determined to abide by that choice ?

Observe the answer which conficience returns to these enquiries, and you will know your own part in that more particular application, with which I shall conclude.

1. Let me address those that are entirely unconcerned about the one thing needful.

Brethren, I have been stating the cafe at large, and now I appeal to your confciences, are thefe things fo, or are they not? GoD and your own hearts best know for what the care of your foul is neglected; but be it what it will, the difference between one grain of fand and another, is not great, when it comes to be weighed against a talent of gold. Whatever it is, you had need to examine it carefully. You had need to view that commodity on all fides, of which you do in effect fay, For this will I fell my foul; for this will I give up heaven, and venture hell, be heaven and hell whatever they may. In the name of GOD, brethren, is this the part of a man, of a rational creature ? To go on with your eyes open towards a pit of eternal ruin, because there are a few gay flowers in the way: or what if you fhut your eyes, will that prevent your fall? It fignifies little to fay, I will not think of thefe things, I will not confider them : GoD has faid, " In the last days they shall confider it perfectly," Jer. xxiii. 20. The revels of a drunken malefactor will not prevent nor respite his execution. execution. Pardon my plainnes; if it were a fable or a tale, I would endeavour to amuse you with words, but I cannot do it where your souls are at stake.

2. I would apply to those who are, in some fense, convinced of the importance of their souls, and yet are inclined to defer that care of them a little longer, which, in the general, they fee to be neceffary.

I know you that are young, are under peculiar temptations to do this; though it is ftrange that the death of fo many of your companions, fhould not be an answer to some of the most fpecious and dangerous of those temptations. Methinks, if there were the least degree of uncertainty, the importance is too weighty to put matters to the venture. But here the uncertainty is great and apparent. You must furely know, that there are critical feafons of life for managing the concerns of it, which are of fuch a nature, that if once loft, they may never return : here is a critical feason : " Now is the accepted time, now is the day of falvation," 2 Cor. vi. 2. " To-day, if ve will hear his voice, harden not your hearts," Heb. iii. 7, 8. This language may not be spoken to-morrow. Talk not of a more convenient season; none can be more convenient; and that to which you would probably refer it, is leaft of all fo, a dying time. You would not chufe then to have any important bufinefs in hand; and will you of choice refer the greateft bufinels of all to that languishing, hurrying, amazing hour ? If a friend were then to come to you with the balance of an intricate account, or a view of a title to an estate, you would thake your fainting head, and lift up your pale trembling hand, and fay, perhaps, with a feeble voice, " Alas, is this a time for these things ?" And is it a time for so much greater things than these? I wish you knew, and would confider, into what a strait, we that are ministers are sometimes brought, when we are called to the dying beds of those who have spent their lives in the neglect of the one thing needful. On the one hand, we fear, left if we palliate matters, and speak smooth things, we shall betray and ruin their souls: and on the other, that if we use a becoming plainness and feriousness, in warning them of their danger, we shall quite overwhelm them, and haften the dying moment, which is advancing by fuch swift steps. O let me entreat you for our sakes, and much much more for your own, that you do not drive us to fuch fad extremities; but if you are convinced, as I hope fome of you may now be, that the care of the foul is that needful thing we have represented, let the conviction work, let it drive you immediately to the throne of grace; from thence you may derive that wildom and ftrength, which will direct you in all the intricacies which entangle you, and animate you in the midft of difficulty and discouragement.

3. I would in the last place address myself to those happy fouls, who have in good earnest attended to the one thing needful.

I hope, that when you fee how commonly it is neglected. neglected indeed, by many, whole natural capacities, improvements, and circumstances in life, appear to you superior to your own ; you will humbly acknowledge, that it was diffinguifhing grace which brought you into this happy flate, and formed you to this most necessary care. Blefs the LORD. therefore, who hath given you that counfel, in virtue of which you can fay, " He is your portion." Rejoice in the thought, that the great concern is fecured : as it is natural for us to do, when some important affair is dispatched, which has long lain before us, and which we have been inclined to put off from one day to another, but have at length ftrenuoufly and fuccessfully attended. Remember still to endeavour to continue acting on these great principles, which at first determined your choice; and ferioufly confider, that those who defire their life may at last be given them for a prey, must continue on their guard, in all stages of their journey through a wildernes, where daily dangers are still furrounding them. Being enabled to fecure the great concern, make yourfelves eafy as to others of fmaller importance: You have chofen the kingdom of GOD, and his righteousness; other things, therefore, shall be added unto you : and if any which you defire should, not be added, comfort yourfelves with this thought, that you have the good part, which can never be taken away. And, not to enlarge on these obvious hints, which must fo often occur, be very folicitous that others may be brought to a care about the one thing needful. If it be needful for you, it is fo for your children, your friends, your fervants. Let them, therefore, fee your concern in this respect for them, as well as for yourfelves.

felves. Let parents efpecially attend to this exhortation; whole care for their offspring often exceeds in other refpects; and fails in this. Remember that your children may never live to enjoy the effects of your labour and concern to get them effates and portions: the charges of their funerals may; perhaps, be all their fhare of what you are fo anxioufly careful to lay up for them. And O think what a fword would pierce through your very heart, if you fhould fland by the corple of a beloved child with this reflection : " This poor creature has done with life, before it learnt its great bufinefs in it; and is gone to eternity, which I have feldom been warning it to prepare for; and which, perhaps, it learned of me to forget."

On the whole, may this grand care be awakened in thole by whom it has been hitherto neglected : may it be revived in each of our minds. And that you may be encouraged to purfue it with greater chearfulnels, let me conclude with this comfortable thought, that in proportion to the neceffity of the cafe, through the merits of CHRIST JESUS, is the provision which divine grace has made for our affiftance. If you are disposed to fit down at CHRIST's feet, he will teach you by his word and Spirit. If you commit this precious jewel, which is your eternal all, into his hand, he will preferve it unto that day, and will then produce it richly adorned, and glorioufly improved to his own honour, and to your everlasting joy.
